ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A widely varied but thoroughly delightful program awaits Broadway fans today, with a twin feature bill of unusual merit. The famous stage play, "Kempy," telling the familiar neighborhood tale of irascible "Pa" Bence and his marriageable daughters, his "reticing fund" of $100,000, which seems in momentary danger of disappearing, and his suddenly acquired son-in-law, the redoubtable Kempy in person, has been made into a famously funny and intensely human film comedy-drama, just suited for Lenten diversion because so thoroughly human. The stage version has been well presented in Norwich by the capable St. Mary's Players and by the "N" club of Norwich Free Academy, but the film edition with its added scope and opportunities is delightful beyond belief. J. C. Nugent is the cranky "Pa" Bence with his eternal "nervous indigestion" and repeated demands for "bakin' sody," and Elliott Nugent is the stammering, bashful Kempy, who suddenly develops a superiority complex and "rules the roost" with devastating results to the family peace and quiet. Roland Young is the millionaire rival, "Duke" Merrill, Norma Lee is Kate, the "hurry-up bride," and a little newcomer, Marion Schilling, has the chance of a lifetime as Ruth, the younger sister whose romantic dreams all come true. The companion feature swings to the other side of the world, to far-off Sourabaya, where an orchestra of American girls is playing in a second-rate tropical hotel. Nancy Carroll with her red hair and delicious curves, a member of the band, is the victim of her own beauty and attracts the unwanted attentions of a group of degenerate whites, among them the proprietor, the orchestra leader, a renegade sea captain and others, who make her life miserable. Warner Oland, ustave von Seyffertitz, Francis Macdonald, Clarence H. Wilson, a new type, and George Kotsonaros, make up the menacing group who seek first, the girl's favors, and then the store of gold reputed to be in the hands of a young white, Richard Arlen, who, disgusted with the foibles of "civilization," has established himself on a little island close by the mainland. In desperation, Nancy stows away aboard his little craft and turns up at the island, much to the young chap's surprise. He tolerates her presence, however, and peace settles down, to be invaded and destroyed by the gold-maddened renegades. Following closely on the heels of this entrancing double feature program, comes one of the events of the season in the showing Saturday of Ramon Novarro's first all-talking picture "Devil May Care," a thrilling musical drama of the Napoleonic wars, with Novarro in the role of a young officer, with wonderful chances to display not only his fine voice but his excellent swordplay and horsemanship as well.

NANCY CARROLL IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Palace Theatre

Not since "Noah's Ark" was filmed by Warner Brothers, has any film company set up an interior of such size and splendor as that of the mysterious Hindu temple which was used in making "The Green Goddess," which comes to the Palace theatre today for a three-day run, along with that smashing back-stage romance entitled "The Grand Parade." This interior was modeled closely after an ancient temple older than history, and built centuries before Solomon's time.

George Arliss is the star of "The Green Goddess," and those who remember him in "Disraeli" will admit that when he is on the bill, that it is a very good bill indeed. But consider, that in addition to this motion picture gem, the Palace management is offering also "The Grand Parade," with beautiful and vivacious Helen Twelvetrees as its star.

Briefly, the story of "The Green Goddess" concerns three British subjects, Major Crespin, his wife, and Dr. Traherne, who are forced to land their plane in the wilds of the Himalaya mountains. While being lavishly entertained by the Rajah of Rukh, they are told that their lives must pay for the execution of three of their tribe by the British. Major Crespin dies attempting to send help via the wireless, and Mrs. Crespin is faced with the alternative of death or dishonor. How the situation is finally brought to a smashing climax is too good a story to be revealed at this time.

In "The Grand Parade" one sees all the pageantry of the old-time minstrel show. This is a romance of back-stage life such as has rarely been revealed before. It is the heart-rending story of a woman, faithful, pretty and loyal, who tries to help a man who has been ensnared by a blinding passion. Intershot through the whole drama of sparkling lights, twinkling feet, and rhythmic music, is the scarlet thread of this woman's devotion and faith.

Altogether the Palace with George Arliss and Helen Twelvetrees on the same bill is clearly keeping the promise which Manager R. B. Hamilton and other representatives of Warner Brothers gave to the public of Norwich when they took the Palace over. They intend to continue to keep that faith.

Frigidaire Demonstration.

During the past week a large force of men have been busily engaged in making extensive alterations in St. Mary's T. A. B. building for Carl W. Brown, Inc., local Frigidaire dealers. Contractor George E. Boucher has installed a new glass front and a complete new floor, with other alterations. New floor coverings were laid by Carl E. Berkoff, painting and decorating was done by Alfred E. Hiscox, and shades and fittings by the Gilbert Furniture company and Plaut-Cadden company.

Use of the recently introduced Frigidaire hydrator to preserve the crisp freshness of leafy vegetables and similar foods for long periods of time has proved such a popular subject with housewives everywhere, that Mr. Brown has arranged a special ten-day demonstration at the local showroom 64 Broadway, beginning Thursday, March 13, and ending March 22.

"Since the announcement of the new hydrator, they have received scores of visitors who wanted this new development in the field of household refrigeration explained," he said. "Information that the hydrator is an important aid in the preparation of tasty fresh salads of all kinds has aroused such general interest that this special demonstration has been decided upon."

The demonstration will be held daily from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. Salads will be prepared from vegetables which have been freshened in the hydrator. Desserts, frozen with the aid of the famous Frigidaire cold control, will be served to visitors.

Many other features have been arranged for the demonstration, it was announced. Special souvenirs will be given to those who purchase refrigerators during the ten days and unusual features have been planned for persons who already are Frigidaire users.

The Frigidaire salad book, containing many methods for the preparation of a wide variety of dishes will be distributed during this period. This book is a companion piece to the Frigidaire frozen desserts booklet, more than half a million of which were requested by housewives during the first few months after the announcement of the cold control last year.

Eastern Star-Grotto Minstrels.

Fred G. Prothero is to be interlocutor of "The Minstrel Revue" to be presented at the Masonic temple on Friday, March 21st. Mr. Prothero will be remembered by the old timers as having produced and directed many minstrel and other stage productions 20 years ago. Some of the old time specialties will appear in "The Minstrel Revue" as well as many new and old song numbers and specialties. The end men who will provide fast and furious cross fire comedy are George W. Weller, William B. Mitchell, Fred Power, Chester Davey, Percy Collins and Neil Finlayson. Most of these boys need no introduction to Norwich audiences.

The second section of the show is now being assembled and will feature several high class specialties. Better save Friday, March 21 on your calendar to see "The Minstrel Revue" and "Fashion Show." You will be enthused when you see this show.

St. Patrick's Night Dance

The committee in charge of the St. Patrick's night dance given by the United Hibernians of Norwich, in the state armory, has worked unceasingly to make this year's dance bigger and better than ever. The Peerless orchestra of Willimantic has prepared a concert which lovers of Irish music will find a rare treat and the program of dances will appeal to young and old.

The same courtesy will be extended as in previous years and everything will be done to add to the enjoyment of this affair.

FAST BASKETBALL EXPECTED TONIGHT IN PLAINFIELD-SENECA INDIANS TILT

Tonight's Lineups

Indians	Plainfield
Jimerson, lf	Kasper, lf
Schindler, rf	Brusso, rf
Kennedy, c	Conway, c
Pierce, lg	Williams, lg
Kenjockety, rg	Bernot, rg

Plenty of torrid basketball is anticipated at the Plainfield Community house this evening when the Plainfield Pros and the Seneca Indians clash in the second game between these two clubs this season. In the first game the Plainfield team nosed out the redskins by a single point in one of the best games seen on the Plainfield court this season.

The Indians return to Plainfield tonight in high hopes of getting revenge for this victory. Both teams will use the same lineups as battled in the previous game and another fast game is in store for the basketball fans of Eastern Conn. The Indians boast of one of the most unique clubs in America, every member being a full-blooded American Indian from the Tuscarora and Irving reservations. Some of them appear in their native costumes and give a brief demonstration of Indian dances and rituals.

Plainfield in clashing with the Indians tonight is taking no chances on the visitors evening the count and will put their strongest club on the floor. Kasper and Brusso will be in the forward positions with Jerry Conway at center. Williams, Dissinger and Bernot will take care of the back court.

The preliminary game is attracting plenty of interest as it is between the Plainfield Buddies and the Shyma club of Taftville. These teams are in a three game series for the junior title of Eastern Conn. and tonight's game will be the second of the series, the first having been played last night at Taftville.

As usual dancing will follow the main attraction which will go on about 9 o'clock the preliminary starting at 8 o'clock.

SHYMAS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM BUDDIES

The Taftville Shymas took the first game of their series with the Plainfield Buddies Tuesday night, at Parish hall, 26 to 21. The locals led all the way and at half-time had a margin of 13 to 6. Peltier was high scorer with 12 points.

The Shyma Juniors won the preliminary from the West Sides, 49 to 28. Summary:

ACADEMY TENNIS TEAM HAS SEVEN DATES SCHEDULED

The Academy tennis schedule has been completed by Manager John Tingley and includes seven team matches. Owing to the erection of the Norton Memorial gymnasium on the site of the Academy tennis courts the local school has no home court this season. Due to this, six of the matches are to be played out of town, the only home match being the opening one on April 28th which will be played either at Taftville or at the Norwich Golf club. Capt. Irving Spiro has issued a call for candidates for next Monday, March 17th. The schedule is as follows:

April 28—Chapman Tech at Norwich.

May 3—Assumption college at Worcester.

May 13—St. Thomas seminary at Hartford.

May 16—Warren Harding at Bridgeport.

May 20—Chapman Tech at New London.

May 24—Torrington high at Torrington.

June 5—St. Thomas seminary at Hartford.

TOLLEY DISPLACED AS WALKER CUP CAPTAIN

LONDON, March 11—(AP)—Cyril Tolley's long visit in the United States has cost him the captaincy of Great Britain's Walker cup golf team.

The Royal and Ancient club announced seven of the ten men who will oppose Bobby Jones' American team on the sands of Sandwich May 15 and 16 and their leadership is in the hands of Roger Wethered, brother of the famous Joyce and himself British amateur champion in 1923.

Britain's finest amateur player of iron shots Wethered on occasion can be one of the wildest with his woods. Not so this spring, however, for early season tryouts have showed him at top form. He has won no major golf titles since his victory in the amateur.

Named with him were Rex Hartley, Sir E. W. E. Holderness, J. N. Smith, J. A. Stout, Tolley and T. A. Torrance.

Three more names will soon be drawn from the royal and ancient hat to complete the list of ten from whom Wethered's fighting line of eight and two reservists will finally be selected for the Walker cup battle.

Like the king, the Royal and Ancient can do no wrong in the realm of golf but comment on today's selection mainly centers on why Wethered has been named captain instead of Tolley who is Great Britain's amateur titleholder and is by many considered one of the very few figures of British amateur golf who threads the fairways in the grand manner of a real champion and who possesses golfing personality second to none in these links-strewn isles.

Criticism already has been levelled at the British selection committee for leaving William Sutton, laborer-golfer and native English champion, out of the first sixteen players first announced several weeks ago and from which today's seven were chosen.

The explanation in Tolley's case appears to be his absence in the United States coupled with the fact that he already has had his chance of captaining the British Walker cup team.

GETS INJUNCTION OUT AGAINST THE A. A. U.

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—An injunction restraining the Amateur Athletic union from interfering with the right of Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish middle distance star, to race in the Columbian mile at the Knights of Columbus track meet in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night was issued today by State Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley.

Announcement of this action, the first of its kind in modern track history, was made by President Thomas J. Gray of the New York chapter of the Knights of Columbus.

Petkiewicz was barred from further competition in the United States by the A. A. U. yesterday at the request of the International Amateur Athletic federation, governing body of international athletics. The I. A. A. F. has been investigating the status of Petkiewicz, who competed for Latvia in the 1928 Olympic games but later became a resident of Poland.

Latvian authorities barred the runner permanently from competition in that country and asked the international body to make the ban universal. A. A. U. officials, seeking to learn whether Petkiewicz was eligible to compete in the United States pending settlement of his case abroad, received word to the contrary from the I. A. A. F.

HARVARD-YALE HOCKEY AT BOSTON THIS EVENING

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—The Harvard and Yale teams will clash in the third and deciding game of their annual series here, tomorrow night on the Boston Garden surface. Each team has won a game but the Yale sextet, after outplaying the Crimson by an impressive margin here last Saturday, are top heavy favorites for the rubber contest.

Harvard will be without the services of Frank Stubbs, an able right winger, who became ineligible this week because of scholastic difficulties. His place in the starting lineup will be taken by Del Everett, who has been moved up from the third forward line.

The Yale team, which swept through the season undefeated until the first game with Harvard, will probably use its usual starting lineup: Luce at center; Bostwick and Palmer, wings; Hickok and Wilson, defense and Curtiss, goal.

SMITH AND DUDLEY ARE PUT OUT IN 4-BALL TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Horton Smith and his partner Ed Dudley, were eliminated today one up, in quarter final play of the $5,000 international four-ball matches at the Miami Country club.

Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, advanced with Harry Hampton, Chicago, to semi-finals by defeating Smith and Dudley.

Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, L. I., and Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., defeated Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Al Watrous, Detroit, 5 and 4.

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., and Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, took their 36-hole match 3 and 2 from Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J.

Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., won 3 and 2, from Jock Collins, Dayton, Ohio, and Eddie Williams, Cleveland.

ALLEY OWNERS TO HOLD ANNUAL TOURNEY IN MAY

WALLINGFORD, March 11—(AP)—The annual state bowling tournament of the Connecticut Bowling Alley Owners' association will be held this year at the Holland alleys, Bridgeport, during the week of May 5, it was announced by Arthur Roberge, president of the state association, here today. Entries may be made for five-man teams, doubles, singles, and there will be a girls' division. Charles Davis, Bridgeport, manager of the Holland alleys, Charles Johnson, New Haven, and Fred Teller, Meriden, comprise the association's committee to arrange the tourney.

MISS COLLETT TO DEVOTE TIME TO PRACTICE FOR N.-S.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 11—(AP)—Glenna Collett, national golf champion, announced today she has decided not to play any more tournament golf until the north and south women's meet here in which she will defend her title.

Miss Collett, who will remain here until after the north and south tournament, is not satisfied with her game, and her defeat by Miss Maureen Orcutt at St. Augustine, Fla., last week.

She has decided to do intensive practice in preparing for the north and south.

Singer Sewing Swamps Kibitzers

In a one-sided game of the pocket billiard tournament conducted at the Recreation, the Singer Sewing Machine Co. swamped the Kibitzers, by the one-sided score of 100-43.

Gromko, of the winners, played a very brilliant game, making very difficult shots, while Capt. Reynolds' shooting was a revelation to the spectators, getting runs of 13 consistently.

The winners were Capt. Reynolds, Gromko and Wallace. The losers: Capt. Swatsburg, Cowboy and W. Hotchkiss.

Army Plebes to Play Cubans

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 11—(AP)—The Army plebe eleven will meet the Cuban Military academy team in an international football game on Thanksgiving day of this year, it was announced today at the U. S. Military academy. It is understood that the game will be played at West Point.

"The Great Blizzard, or How the Story Started." Scene laid in any farmhouse anywhere in New England on March 12, 1888. Characters: the farmer, his good wife and his three years old son. Wind is howling around the house, down the chimney and a flake or two of snow is seen spattering against the window.

There is a stamping outside and the door bursts open and in stumbles the good farmer along with a swirl of snow. He slams the door and turns to his wife who is holding their three-years old son. "Gosh all hemlocks, Myra, we're in for an old rip snorter tonight. Starts in just like the big blizzard I was in out west when I was a youngster."

"Oh, Henry, don't tell that story again. Every time it starts to snow you have to go over that and I've heard it twenty times every winter since we was married. Even little Hezie here knows it by heart."

"Well, just the same, I know when there's a big storm coming. I kinda smelled it in the air this afternoon when I was up in the wood lot and the rheumatics kinda got me as I was working. Yep, Myra, it's going to be a regular old northeaster."

"Well, Henry, if we're going to have such a big storm you better fill up the wood box and get some logs for the fire-place in the front room. And be sure and water the stock and milk the cows. By that time I'll have supper for you. Now get going."

The curtain drops for a minute to denote the passing of the night. We see Henry come down the kitchen stairs and fix the kitchen fire. He goes to the window and looks out and smiling turns and says in triumphant voice, "There, didn't I tell Myra last night we was going to have some storm. Wait till she sees the snow."

He goes to the stairway and shouts up them to Myra, "Oh, Myra, come come down here and see the snow and hurry up." He goes to the window and looks, talking to himself, "Gosh amighty, ain't seen such a snow since I was a youngster out west, must be three or four feet deep and snowing all the time."

Myra is seen coming down the stairs in her flannel nightgown carrying little Hezie in one arm and her clothes on the other. "Well, Henry, what's ailing you now?" Henry beckons and Myra goes to the window and looks out. "Well, what do you think about me as a weather prophet now. Remember what I told you last night."

"I guess you was right for once Henry. Wait 'till I get Hezie dressed and you can take him and show him how deep the snow is. Remember he'll want to tell his children about the big blizzard when he grows up."

"There Hezie, now go with your father and see the pretty snow." The good man goes to the door and opens it and takes a shovel and digs a path, throwing the snow up on both sides of it. When he get it all piled up he leads Hezie out into the path."

"Now, Hezie, ain't that snow deep? See it's over your head. Reach up and try to touch the top of it. See, you can't. Remember when you grow up to say that when you went out doors the snow was over your head and you couldn't touch the top of the tunnel that was dug from the door."

"Of course Hezie you don't have to tell people you was only three years old and only two feet high. Now I'll hold you up and you can look around. Do you see any stonewalls? No, I thought not, there's a big drift down there. What's that, you say you see your wheelbarrow out in the yard. Just forget that Hezie, only remember the big drifts and the path from the door. Now go in to your mother."

The scene shifts and we see Hezie, a man of mature years with graying hair about the temples. He's gazing at the calendar and his finger points to March 12, 1930. He smiles at his wife and two children and starts "Now, on this date, in '88, we had a big snow storm, one of the worst blizzards in history. Why, I can remember that when I went out the door the snow was way over my head and we had to dig a tunnel to get to the barn. It was awful, my father had a terrible time getting to the barn."

And then he remembers the wheelbarrow. Silence and curtain.

BRUINS WIN HARD GAME FROM BLACKHAWKS

BOSTON, March 11—(AP)—The Boston Bruins had to overcome a terrific third period drive here tonight to defeat the Chicago Blackhawks, the only National league hockey club that has proved troublesome to them, by a 4 to 3 score. This game was the Stanley cup champions' eleventh straight victory and the 17th conflict without a setback.

When the teams went on for the third session, the Boston club had a 2 to 1 lead.

After less than 3 minutes, Artie Somers caged a brilliant score and later Earl Miller hooked a long forward from Tommy Cook for another. The Hawks had 10 minutes to square the game. They put on a vicious four-man attack but the Bruins, aided greatly by George Owen's timely stick checking about the net held them off.

Army Track Team

WEST POINT, March 11—(AP)—The Army track team whose personnel includes such well known football figures as Chris Cagle and Herts Murrel, will complete in five dual meets, the schedule, announced today revealed. The programme follows:

May 3, Columbia; 10, Colgate; 17, Boston college; 24, New York university; 31, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

In addition the Army plans to send a team to one of the big intercollegiate track meets, it was announced.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The Academy batterymen had their second day of practice Tuesday when another snappy session was put on by Coach Earle E. Brigham. Conditions were not so favorable as on the opening day, Monday, but the local mentor expects to have his squad along in good shape with a couple of more bright days.

Westerly's high batterymen reported Monday, 14 strong, including Capt. Celestino, pitcher. Westerly and N. F. A. are the first eastern Connecticut schools to turn to baseball.

Ed Sawyer, former Westerly high pitcher, will get a tryout with Winston-Salem in the Piedmont league, down in North Carolina.

ACADEMY RELAY TEAM WILL RUN IN K. OF C. MEET AT NEW YORK TONIGHT

The Academy track squad will continue on its schedule tonight when the mile relay team is entered in the Kacey games in Madison Square Garden, New York. They will run against such strong competition as Newark Prep, Brooklyn Evening high, etc. The Wildcats may also be entered in one or two other events. Those to enter the mile event are Agnew, Lyons, Mahoney or Lenkiewicz and Capt. Berkman.

The locals lost a tough race to New Haven Evening high in the mile event in the Hartford games Monday night, being beaten out by four yards after leading most of the way and then only dropping the event by the toughest kind of luck. Capt. Berkman fell, or was tripped, on the last lap and Flood, of New Haven was able to take the lead and hold it. It appeared Tuesday that there was some question of the ineligibility of the New Haven team and a strong possibility exists of the locals getting this event by forfeit, after a meeting of the A. A. U.

Wednesday, March 19, the Red and Whitesters are entered in the Fireman's meet at New Haven.

CONGER TO TRY FOR SIXTH VICTORY IN KACEY GAMES

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Ray Conger, slender Iowan, who has not been beat in an indoor mile race in two years, will try for his sixth straight victory of the season at the distance in the feature event of the annual New York chapter, Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden, tomorrow night.

Running against him will be Dr. Paul Martin, Swiss Olympic veteran; Joe McCluskey, Fordham freshman flier, who takes the place of Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish runner who was barred from competition yesterday by the Amateur Athletic union; Joe Sivak, of Butler university; Joe Hickey, New York university; Bob Dalrymple, Boston A. A.; and Gene Venske, Swedish-American A. C.

In another all-star event, a 600-yard gallop, Phil Edwards, who competed for Canada in the last Olympics, takes on Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross; Eddie Roll, Newark, A. C.; John Gibson, Bloomfield, N. J., Lyceum; Eddie Blake, Boston A. A.; Donald Fleet, Boston college freshman, and George Clayson, Jr., Yale.

Stella Walsh, feminine sprinting find from Cleveland, races against crack fields as well as Father Time and the record book in 40 yard and 200 yard dashes.

Other feature performers are Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross in the men's 60 yard sprint; Monty Wells, Boston A. A.; and Sol Furth, New York university, in the 60 yard high hurdles; Bert Nelson, Butler university star, in the running high jump; and Fred Sturdy, of the Los Angeles A. C., in the pole vault.

The speedy mile relay teams of Syracuse, Georgetown and N. Y. U., clash in one of the best of the college events.

YESTERDAY IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

Athletics Smother Cards

BRADENTON, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Connie Mack's world champions turned the fourth game of their series with the Cardinals into a batting practice this afternoon, bombarding Bill Hallahan and Bill Sherdel for a 14 to 3 victory. Rain halted the game after the sixth inning. Carmen Hill was ready to take the mound for the Cards when umpires called off the game.

Roy Mahaffey and Alfred Mahon pitched for the Athletics.

Philadelphia (A. L.) 304 323—14; 15; 2
St. Louis (N. L.) 020 010—3; 6; 3

Mahaffey, Mahon and Cochrane, Perkins; Hallahan, Sherdel and Mancuso.

Cubs

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., March 11—(AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy began bearing down on his pitchers, veteran and rookie alike today.

In the two-game exhibition series with Los Angeles, the pitching offerings of his youngsters were treated so roughly that the Cub manager decided the time had come for the bearing down process.

Considerable attention is being paid to his pair of southpaw hopefuls, Bud Teachout and Malcolm Moss. McCarthy insists on one port-sider at least among his hurling ranks.

Browns

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Business Manager Bill Friel and Heinie Manush, the Browns' slugging outfielder who is holding out, had a 20-minute chat today and after it was over both said "there was nothing to report." Manush, however, promised Friel to "think over" the club's latest offer.

At today's practice session, "Gen" Al Crowder cut loose for the first time and made the efforts of the batters appear rather feeble. Manager Killefer said he was pleased with the pitchers' condition.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 11—(AP)—Dick Bartell, young infielder holdout, reported at the Pittsburgh Pirate training camp here today and indications were that salary differences might soon be ironed out.

Burleigh Grimes, veteran pitcher, is another Pirate who has not come to terms with the management. He is still in the east.

Today's rehearsal again was devoted largely to the art of base running under the direction of Manager Jewell Ens and Coach Max Carey, the latter a star of the paths in his career as a player.

Reds

ORLANDO, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Sidney Weil, new owner of the Cincinnati Reds, has been nicknamed "Dynamite" Weil, by his athletes because of his activities on the training field. For the second time Weil donned a uniform today and was the first on the field, mingling with the players and enjoying the going as well as any one.

The Reds will engage in their first practice game Friday in preparation for the opening exhibition tilt with the Detroit Tigers in Tampa Sunday.

Red Sox

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 11—(AP)—With the arrival of John Winsett, former Mobile outfielder, here today, all of the Boston Red Sox players, with the exception of Jack Rothrock, center fielder, and Johnny Heving, catcher, are in the fold. Rothrock is expected any day now, but Heving has failed to notify Manager Heinie Wagner when to expect him.

Milt Gaston, pitcher, injured by the flyng bat of Bill Narlesky, was back in uniform today.

Manager Wagner announced that his club would play another exhibition game with the Pensacola naval station nine tomorrow and that Edgar Carroll, Bill Durham and Danny MacFayden would work in the box for the Sox.

Giants and White Sox Play Tie Game

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 11—(AP)—The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox battled 11 innings today without coming to a decision, the final score being 5 to 5. The game was called on account of darkness.

The Giants appeared to have the game well in hand going into the ninth, but the White Sox broke through for two runs to knot the score. Judd, Hubbell and Lucas alternated in the box for the Giants while Donie Bush selected McKain to start for the Sox and then followed with Caraway and Frazier.

Score by innings:

White Sox .... 000 003 002 00—5 14 4
Giants .... .. 001 400 000 00—5 14 3

McKain, Caraway, Frazier and Berg; Judd, Hubbell, Lucas and Hogan.

Senators

BILOXI, Miss., March 11—(AP)—With two probable exceptions, the Washington Nationals will present against the New Orleans Pelicans in Friday's opening training season game practically the identical lineup of the club during most of last season.

This was indicated by Manager Johnson after today's practice. He said Red Barnes would be in left field in place of "Goose" Goslin, who is having contract difficulties and that Jimmy McLeod, just up from Little Rock, would replace Joe Cronin, last year's regular shortstop.

Pitchers Marberry and Hadley will likely be called on for three inning tricks on the mound, with either Ad Liska or Lloyd Brown getting the odd three frames. Muddy Ruel and Bennie Tate will divide the catching department.

Yankees Beat Braves

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Sixteen well timed hits gave the New York Yankees an 8 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves in the third meeting of the spring exhibition series today.

Rain threatened to halt playing in the fourth inning but after a half hour's delay, play was resumed. Three Boston pitchers, Brown, Cantwell and Alonzo Smith, felt the fury of the Yankee war clubs, the longest hit being Ruth's triple in the ninth. Manager Bob Shawkey used Johnson, Edwards and Rhodes on the mound. The latter held the Braves hitless for the last three rounds. Score by innings:

Yankees .... 003 210 021—8 16 2
Braves .... 110 003 000—5 8 4

Jhnson, Edwards, Rhodes and Dickey; Brown, Cantwell, A. Smith and Gowdy, Spohrer.

Dodgers Trounce Tigers

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Pounding four Detroit hurlers for 17 hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers won their opening exhibition game today, defeating the Tigers 11 to 3.

Clark, Morrison, Luque and Elliott held the American leaguers to ten hits while the Robins were finding easy marks of the offerings of Whitehill, Sorrell, Nelson and Page. Bressler and Thurston hit home runs for Brooklyn, while Dale Alexander connected with a circuit clout for the Tigers. Score by innings:

Dodgers .... 201 003 32x—11 17 0

Whitehall, Sorrell, Nelson and Page, Hayworth, Rensa; Clark, Morrison, Luque and Elliott and Lopez, Picinich.

Phillies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Practice sessions of the Phillies went forward today under favorable weather and were marked by hard hitting, midseason pitching, and snappy fielding. Manager Shotton appeared in baseball flannels for the first time, and was all over the field advising and encouraging the players.

Barney Friberg doesn't permit any other players to get near second base when fielding practice is on. The Phils' "Handy Andy" prefers the keystone to any position on the diamond and Barney says that even when Captain Thompson arrives and accepts terms, he will fight to land the assignment for the opening game of the 1930 campaign.

Indians

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 11—(AP)—The year just ahead will be a better one for the Cleveland Indians than that of 1929, was the belief expressed today by Luke Sewell, Cleveland catcher, in training here at the Indians camp. Sewell believes that the tribe's catching will be about twice as good.

"If we had had any kind of catching in the early part of last season we'd have been pretty tough for the leaders," he said. "Next to bad pitching, bad catching will throw a team off balance quicker than any other thing."

A three hour session today indicated weakness in hitting but snappy fielding.

RAILROAD TEAM LEADS IN DUCKPIN TOURNEY

WATERBURY, March 11—(AP)—Ten local five-man teams of the various leagues in the city opened the third annual national duckpin bowling congress, here tonight, but the 1929 tournament record of 1812, set by the Happy Five, of Washington, D. C., was not threatened. Waterbury division of the New Haven railroad hit 1732 to lead the pack with Raymond Bakery, 39 pins behind with 1695. There were three ties in the lowest six teams to finish for the first day.

NAUGATUCK BEATS WINDHAM IN YALE TOURNEY TRIALS

HARTFORD, March 11—(AP)—Naugatuck high school defeated Windham high, of Willimantic tonight, 37 to 27, and won the right to enter the Yale interscholastic tournament at New Haven, Friday and Saturday. These two teams were tied for eighth place in the ranking of Class A and B teams, necessitating the playoff.

Windham led by 14-13 at the half, but Naugatuck's superior size began to tell in the second half. Six field goals in a row shortly after the third quarter began put Naugatuck ten points ahead and they managed to hold that advantage until the final whistle.

Boucher Injured

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Frank Boucher, star center man of the New York Rangers hockey team, suffered a broken collarbone in the second period of tonight's game with the Montreal Canadiens. Boucher was carrying the puck when he crashed into Marty Burke, big Canadien defense man.

The injury will deprive the Rangers of Boucher's services in the coming cup playoffs and is a serious blow to their hopes of success.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

Hark ye, oldtimers!

Imagine the Norwich team, back in 1890 on Saturday, June 28th, playing the Boston Blues and going into the ninth inning two runs behind, the score, 4 to 2, to be more exact. Denny Murphy reached first on a pass and was advanced on Shea's short infield hit. Stolen bases advanced the men to second and third and then "Cyclone" Ryan, who had been pitching a brilliant game, singled and scored the two runs to tie the score. The applause of the twelve hundred fans at this point was deafening, according to The Bulletin files, but was increased a moment later when Ryan scored the winning run on a safe hit by Snow and a sacrifice by W. Murphy.

"Murdie" Hackett's catching that day was the finest seen that season and Murphy also played a good game at second. [illegible]ney was the best player for the visitors. "Billy" Hill, well-known insurance agent, was at third that day for Norwich and managed to get one hit in four trips to plate besides playing without an error in the field. Ryan, Norwich hurler, had 17 assists.

MARRIED-SINGLE MEN'S GAME THURSDAY NIGHT

That the Putnam high girls will give the Norwich Girls basketeers a busy evening tomorrow night in the preliminary to the second game of the Married and Single Mens' series at the Y can be seen by the fact that within the last few days they have beaten both Williams Memorial Institute of New London and Conn. Aggie Frosh. W. M. I. had previously beaten the locals.

This will probably be the concluding game of the season for the local girls. Efforts are being made to arrange the third and final game of the series with the New London Y. W. C. A. sextet but nothing definite has come about as yet.

The main game between Norwich's best basketball players among the Benedicts and Bachelors is expected to be just as good as the first one when the Married Men won a close tilt. Plans have been made for a banner crowd.

Norwich Girls Beaten

The Norwich Girls team lost a hard-fought game to the Rockville girls at Rockville last night 23 to 17.

Carnera Kayoes Montgomery

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 11—(AP)—Primo Carnera added his ninth knockout since invading the United States when Sully Montgomery, Texas heavyweight, fell after one round, one minute and 15 seconds of fighting.

Jolly Three Wins

In a pool match last evening, the Jewett City Jolly Three defeated the Ashland club at Ashland. The winners were Arromony, Miller, Bissonette. The score was 300 to 251.

CHAPLIN

Miss Florence I. Hunt of Hartford has been spending several days at her home in the village.

A special town meeting was held in the Town hall, Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of laying a town tax on the grand list of 1929 to defray the expenses of the town this year. A tax of 24 mills was voted, which is 4 mills higher than the 1929 rate. A new iron bridge at Natchaug replacing the old wooden bridge last fall made it necessary for the increase in the tax rate this year.

Rev. Paul B. Sanger delivered Sunday the first in a series of four sermons on searching questions concerning the church, March 9, "Has the Church a Reputable History?" March 16, "Has the Modern Church Serious Faults?" March 23, "Has the Modern Church Intrinsic Values?" March 30, "Has the Church an Abiding Place in the Future?"

The meeting of the C. E. society was omitted Sunday evening. Four attended the Union Endeavor meeting at Windham in the evening.

EAST HAMPTON AWAITS REPORT OF AUDITORS

EAST HAMPTON, March 11—(AP)—A town meeting, convened to levy the annual tax, and adopt the selectmen's budget, adjourned tonight after a 15-minute session to await the report of auditors now engaged in examining the books of former Tax Collector Herbert S. Watrous, who will be tried on a charge of embezzlement.

The town hopes to collect at least a portion of the unpaid taxes represented on the tax books, and the amount of the 1930 levy depends upon this possibility.

The voters will meet again in three weeks.

WOMEN NOW PREFER OUTDOOR EXERCISE

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP)—Society's pet sports, bowling, ten pins and squash, are being adopted by club women.

Women lawyers and doctors, and those who hold government executive positions, find relaxation after business hours in building muscle by one of these methods.

GREENEVILLE

Where Next club met Monday evening with Mrs. Marie Retkovske of Boswell avenue. Pinochle and whist were played, after which a very delightful lunch was served by the hostess. In pinochle, Mrs. Retkoske won the prize, while Mrs. Rachael Peterson won at whist. The club will meet next Monday night with Mrs. Marie LaValle.

The Boswell Avenue Juniors were defeated by the Gilmore Sluggers Tuesday afternoon on the Shetucket campus diamond by the score of 28 to 4. The features of the game were four home runs, two by Stephen Chanura, and Robert Teft and Mullholland, one each. The line-up for the winning team was: Willet, c; Chanura, p; Mullholland, 1b; Zdanowski, 2b; Edward Kubiek, 3b; Demute, ss; Stanley Janick, lf; George Geer, cf; Robert Teft, rf.

Mrs. Edward Crowe and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carbery and two children, Raymond and Thomas, were week-end visitors at Hartford.

Miss Mary Quinn of Hartford is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn, of Sixth street.

When the Greeneville H club met Monday evening in their clubroom on Fourth street, regular business was transacted with President Wallace Atterbury, presiding. Cards were played and prizes were awarded to George Morris and George Woolley.

The Greeneville Dramatic club of the Greeneville Congregational church presented a radioletta in two parts, Please Stand By, at Ponemah hall Tuesday evening. The proceeds of the evening will be divided with the Taftville Dramatic club.

NORWICH TOWN

SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES AT FIRST CONG. CHURCH

Following is a list of special Lenten services to be held at the First Congregational church, with friendly gatherings in the chapel at 7.30 p. m.; The first meeting which was held last Thursday evening was in charge of the Men's department of the League of Service, James F. Connolly, chairman. Subject, Pensions. The meeting for this week Thursday evening will be in charge of the Woman's department of the league, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, chairman. The theme for discussion will be Education—The Work of the American Missionary Association in its Schools. Thursday evening, March 20, the choir will be in charge. This will be a special musical service under the direction of the choirmaster and organist, Herbert A. Yerrington. March 27th, the Young People's C. E. society will have charge, Miss Eleanor Smith, president. The following week, April 3rd, there will be a stereoptican lecture by James F. Connolly, while Thursday evening, April 10th, there will be moving picture films, in charge of Walter T. Clark. Monday evening, April 14th, at 7.30, there will be a union service, the churches of the city co-operating, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., of the Central Baptist church, to deliver the sermon.

METHODIST CHURCH OFFICERS ELECTED AT CONFERENCE

At the fourth quarterly conference at the M. E. church, the pastor's report showed the total attendance at all service during the past forty-seven weeks, 10,742. The average at the morning service is 60, the largest attendance at a single service being 132 and the smallest 35. The average for the evening service was 70, with the largest attendance at a single service was 70, with the largest attendance at a single service 226 and the smallest 30. The pastor, Rev. George W. Potter, gave 11 World Service stereopticon lectures during the past 11 months thereby promoting the missionary interests. The pastor baptized 16 young people and two babies during the past 11 months and received 23 members into the church. He conducted many services in addition to his regular services at Norwich Town and Gardner Lake churches. For eight weeks he conducted a Sunday service at the Boy Scout Council camp at Gardner Lake. Other places where he conducted services include The Sheltering Arms, The Johnson Home, the State hospital. During the past 11 months the pastor made about 500 calls; of that number 190 were hospital calls. New Year's day he made fifty telephone calls being able to reach at least 150 of the members and attendants of the church with a greeting. A men's club has been organized which had an attendance of 40 at the February meeting. The Junior choir has been fitted with vestment which they wear at all services of the temple.

The following standing committees were elected to serve for the year beginning April 1st:

Stewards—Stanton W. Brown, Oliver Tracey, Edward Howe, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, Mrs. Annie Randall, Mrs. Jean Gray, Mrs. Rose Manning, Florence M. Bennett, William Weaver, Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Albert Miner, Theodora M. Brown, Mrs. Leroy Miner, Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, LeRoy Miner, Lewis E. TAFTVILLE

Over 50 members attended the regular meeting of Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, held in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah Community building Monday evening. Several new members were initiated and plans for the future were made ready. It is hoped that the post's quota for the C. M. T. C. will be taken by the young men of the village who are eligible. The training is for 30 days with all expenses paid. Any young men between the ages of 17 and 24, who are interested, may get full particulars from any of the post members. At the close of business the meeting adjourned and a luncheon was served and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The Misses Mae, Irene and Kathryn Feeley, of Hartford, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, of Prentice street.

Miss Agnes M. Dougherty has been named chairman of a committee appointed by the members of St. Veronica's society to have charge of a card party in the near future. The other members are Miss Grace Phalen, Miss Anne Dailey, Miss Mary Murphy and Miss Julia Chappell.

NATIONAL FEDERATION OF B. AND P. WOMEN

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs of the United States, of which the local branch of Business and Professional Women is a member, and under whose auspices National Business Women's Week is now being celebrated, numbers 56,000 members, located in 47 states and the Hawaiian Islands. It has approximately 1,100 clubs and 47 state federations, and expends an annual budget of $120,000. At its recent national convention in Mackinac Island, Michigan, the sum of $25,000 was raised from the floor in approximately 40 minutes as the nucleus of a building fund to establish permanent headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Recently the federation has completed a survey which has disclosed strikingly interesting facts about business and professional women: the vocations in which there is the greatest opportunity for success; the large number of women who are handicapped by the care of dependents; the range of salaries possible to women of grade school education, of college and secondary school education, etc., and even the age at which the earning capacity of women begins to decline.

The organization is non-partisan and non-sectarian. It is made up almost entirely of self-supporting women and numbers on its roster Mrs. Hoover, wife of the president of the United States; Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the ex-president of the United States, and seven of the eight women who are now members of the congress of the United States.

NORWICH AUTO DRIVERS SUMMONED FOR HEARINGS

Seven automobile drivers have been summoned for hearings before an inspector of the motor vehicle department at the court house at New London next Monday morning at 10.45 o'clock.

Joseph M. McNerney, of the Submarine Base and Clifford E. Wilson of 111 Broad street, Norwich, have been summoned for the purpose of determining which shall furnish proof of financial responsibility. The others are as follows:

William H. Weeman of Box 38, Poquonoc Bridge, operating while under the influence of liquor.

Fred Barrett, Station 16, Waterford, reckless driving.

Clifford E. Judson, Oswegatchie Hill, Niantic, conference.

John A. Tefft, 23 Rogers street, Norwich, operating while under the influence of liquor.

Antonio Henault, No. 176 Howard street, New London, operating while under the influence of liquor.

SUPT. E. J. GRAHAM AND TEACHERS RE-ENGAGED FOR ANOTHER YEAR

The town school board at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening re-engaged Edward J. Graham as superintendent of schools for another year. The board also re-engaged the teaching staff, setting the salaries at the existing schedule.

A communication was received from the West End Community association asking permission to plant memorial trees for four West Side boys at the Elizabeth street school. A $200 bag of gold purchased by the association at a Red Arrow auction, will be used to defray the expenses, the communication stated. The board granted the request.

The four West Side boys in whose memory the trees will be planted, are Charles M. Willey, U. S. N., Leroy A. Swan, U. S. A., and Erwin A. Cohen, U. S. A., who made the supreme sacrifice during the World war, and Sigmund Siegel, who lost his life in a vain attempt to rescue a drowning boy in the summer of 1922.

The memorial trees are to be planted Memorial day, with appropriate exercises, in the space between the cement sidewalk and the curbing at the Elizabeth street school building. The four young men were graduates of the school. Routine reports were read and accepted and bills were ordered paid.

EASTERN CONN. POULTRY ASSOCIATION IS PROSPERING

The pioneer of Connecticut's poultry co-operatives recently ended its most successful year. The Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers' Association, Inc., was organized January 31, 1923, to assist the poultrymen of this section of the state to market their products to better advantage. The state department of agriculture, in a recent bulletin, points to it as a good example of the success that can be attained when Connecticut poultrymen decide to co-operate. Although the membership is comparatively small, the seventh annual meeting disclosed that this co-operative association has grown steadily until the gross receipts during the past year were well past the $200,000 mark.

Seven years have witnessed steady and progressive strides in the egg marketing industry in Connecticut. Six months of pioneer work by the eastern association convinced poultrymen in other parts of the state that co-operative egg marketing was sound, resulting in the organization of the Western Connecticut Poultry Producers' Association, Inc., July 23, 1923. This organization was later absorbed by the Connecticut Poultry Producers' Association when that organization was formed, October 3, 1924.

The Connecticut Poultry Producers' Association, Inc., is by far the largest egg marketing co-operative in Connecticut with main offices at New Haven and branch offices in Hartford and Torrington. The yearly membership has shown an almost steady increase from a charter membership of 124, in 1924, to 237 at the time of the last report. During the same period the number of birds owned by members has increased from approximately 70,000 to 126,000. The total sales show a steady increase from $214,317 during the first year to $449,254 in 1929. Five annual reports made by Manager Frank O. Miner show that the association has sold more than $1,500 worth of eggs between October, 1924, and September, 1929.

DISEASED RABBITS FOUND IN KANSAS SHIPMENT

At last tularemia has been discovered in Connecticut, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the Connecticut state department of health. The disease occurred among rabbits, not among humans. The rabbits were not native but had recently arrived from the west. The possibility of tularemia being imported into Connecticut was foreseen by Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game, and a regulation by that board under a 1929 state law requires all live game shipped into the state to be quarantined for ten days before it is released. Thus the disease was discovered while the rabbits were under quarantine and the entire shipment destroyed before the disease could spread to wild rabbits in the state.

The shipment consisted of ten crates of rabbits, which arrived in Seymour, Monday, March 3, from Kansas. The total shipment contained 119 rabbits, and 14 were dead upon arrival.

At the request of the superintendent of fisheries and game the state department of health investigated the situation on Saturday, March 8.

After determining the nature of the illness, arrangements were made for all rabbits to be destroyed. Tularemia is sometimes spread to man from animals. In the present case several persons handled the rabbits before the nature of the disease was discovered, but no one was found to be ill at the time of investigation.

DAIRY CROPS MEETING AT NORTH STONINGTON

A dairy crops meeting will be held Thursday evening at North Stonington Grange hall, by the New London County Farm Bureau, County Agent Walter T. Clark announced Tuesday. There will be an address by Professor J. S. Owens, crops specialist, on growing better roughage and silage corn. Prof. Owens has some very interesting information on the above items and dairymen can get much from hearing this talk.

County Agent Clark will discuss how to get better pastures and the reason for having them. Albert Beckwith of Avery Farms, Franklin, will tell how they are getting alfalfa and clover started and what they are doing with their pastures. This farm grew 20 acres of alfalfa and clover last year, treated 10 acres of pasture and are increasing the alfalfa each year.

HOT EXHAUST PIPE CAUSED AUTO FIRE

A Ford coupe which caught fire at the corner of West Thames street and Spring Garden avenue made a run for the fire department at 8.27 o'clock Tuesday evening. Six gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze, which is believed to have started from an overheated exhaust pipe. The wiring was quite badly damaged.

The owner, Donald A. Merriman of No. 158 West Thames street, parked the car on the street and placed a piece of burlap over the motor to protect it from the rain. The burlap evidently came in contact with the red hot exhaust and caught afire. Engine No. 6, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan responded.

$10,000 DAMAGE SUIT WITHDRAWN FROM COURT

According to papers filed Tuesday with the clerk of the superior court in this city, the $10,000 damage suit brought by Mary G. Denker of Norwich against Santo Rizzuto of Norwich, has been withdrawn from the docket.

Mrs. Denker sued for personal injuries sustained on Aug. 14, 1929, when the auto in which she was a passenger, operated by her husband, Albert Denker, was in collision with an auto owned by the defendant. The accident occurred on the Norwich-Westerly road in the town of Preston.

JOHN FITCH NOMINATED FOR HALL OF FAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DETROIT, Mich., March 11.—Unless John Fitch, great-grandson of Joseph Fitch, whose younger brother, Rev. James Fitch, was one of the founders of Norwich and Lebanon, Conn., is selected this year for the Hall of Fame, removal of Robert Fulton's name from "America's Immortals" is demanded in an open letter to the Hall of Fame electors and New York university's senate, made public today by Roscoe Conkling Fitch, a collateral descendant. Mr. Fitch, secretary and treasurer of the Fitch Family Association of America, has just nominated Lieutenant Fitch, the Revolutionary patriot, for membership in the Hall of Fame as the "Inventor of the first steamboat"—a title accorded Fulton in the official Hall of Fame handbook. Nominations close March 15. The election results are announced in October.

Thomas Fitch, Esq., of Bocking, County Essex, England, was a direct descendant of one of the earliest armorial families of England and his four sons were emigrant ancestors to Connecticut between 1638 and 1651. County Hertford adjoins County Essex.

Of the four sons of Thomas Fitch of Bocking, Thomas and Joseph appear in America in 1651 among the party of founders of Norwalk, Conn., while their younger brother, Rev. James Fitch, who with his father-in-law, Major General John Mason, founded Norwich and Lebanon, Conn., came to America in 1638 at the age of 16.

The fourth of the brothers to come to America was Samuel Fitch, who in 1650 was engaged to keep the school at Hartford, Conn.

From these four brothers, direct descendants of the ancient armorial Fitch family of Linsell, Essex, England, whose ancestry is traced back to John Fytche of Fytche castle, 1294, are descended a sturdy race of adventurous American pioneers who ever pressed against and pushed back the wilderness.

The eldest son of Rev. James Fitch was Major General James Fitch II, earliest patron of Yale university, to which he gave the glass and nails for its first edifice, and (1701) an endowment of 637 acres of land, which ensured its permanent establishment. The Fitch Gateway of the beautiful Harkness Memorial building at New Haven, Conn., is dedicated to his memory.

Descended from Rev. James Fitch were Dr. Ebenezer Fitch, first president of Williams college, Clyde Fitch, America's foremost dramatist, and U. S. Senator Graham Newell Fitch of Indiana. His grandson, Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch, led the entombed survivors of the S-4 submarine disaster and died a hero on the ocean floor.

John Fitch, inventor of the steamboat, was the great-grandson of Joseph Fitch, the emigrant ancestor of Norwalk and Windsor, Conn.

From Thomas Fitch, the emigrant ancestor of Norwalk, were descended Governor Thomas Fitch, Colonial governor of Connecticut (1754-1766), and the latter's eldest son, Col. Thomas Fitch, the original "Yankee Doodle," who commanded the four New England regiments in the French and Indian war.

Hinman, the noted historian, says, "The Fitch family did more for schools and schooling in the early settlements, than any other, except Governor Hopkins."

TAX COLLECTORS TO MEET IN NORWICH

William H. Blodgett, state tax commissioner, Tuesday mailed to all tax collectors in New London county a letter informing them that an informal conference of the tax collectors of the 43 towns, cities, boroughs, fire and other tax districts of New London county will be held in the court house building, Norwich, on Tuesday afternoon, March 18, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

This will be one of a series of county conferences being held at convenient places throughout the state. Such smaller sectional meetings, it is felt, will permit many to attend the conferences near home who would not be able to get to Hartford from all parts of the state for an entire day's session. In this manner the smaller meetings will prove of greater value and interest to the collectors.

The meetings will be conducted in the nature of round-table discussions of collectors' perplexing problems. It is particularly desired that collectors be prepared to ask questions, exchange views, etc. Set programs, with definite addresses, have been intentionally avoided.

COURT FINES AUTO DRIVER $25 AND COSTS

John A. Rice, 21, of the submarine base, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license in his possession. He was fined $25 and costs. Rice had not secured an operator's license for 1930. Officers Michael Pounch and Peter Vuono arrested Rice Monday evening.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED FROM W. W. BACKUS HOSPITAL

Patients discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital Tuesday were: Michael J. Reilly of No. 54 West Thames street; George Hawley of 198 West Thames street; Mrs. William J. Lafferty and infant son of No. 6 Whitaker avenue.

New Police Shelter

A new police shelter has been erected at the corner of Main and Shetucket streets. The first shelter, about three weeks ago, was ripped away from its position by a truck which was driven too close to the curb. The new shelter is attached to one of the white way poles.

WOMEN LEADERS TESTIFY IN SUPPORT OF DRY LAW

Before the House Committee Two Dozen Women, Claiming That They Represented 12,000,000 of Their Sex, Maintained That the Womanhood of America Stood Four Square Behind Prohibition — They All Declared That Prohibition, Even Though Not Well Enforced In Some Regions, Constituted a Vast Improvement Over Pre-Prohibition Conditions.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Two dozen women leaders who say they represent twelve million of their sex throughout the country today maintained that the womanhood of America stood four square behind prohibition.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, they succeeded in presenting all their testimony before the house judiciary committee before opposing the repeal before a single question could be asked by members of the committee.

In rapid succession, the women were rushed onto the witness stand by Mrs. Peabody, who limited their time, curbed the applause of enthusiastic drys in the crowded committee room and combatted every attempt at interference or delay. Mrs. Peabody also presented statements from other prominent women who were unable to appear.

It was the third day for the dry forces before the group which earlier had heard seven days of argument by wets for repeal. With the exception of a few, cross-examination was completed at a prolonged afternoon session to make way for a statement from Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church. It will be read through by Deets Pickett, secretary of the organization, as Dr. Wilson was obliged to leave the city this afternoon.

The hearing today was opened by Mrs. Peabody, who presented to the committee the political creed of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, the central organization linking many affiliated women's groups in the prohibition movement. This creed held the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller, advocated personal liberty for women who have "endured personal slavery through drunken husbands," and called for organization of citizens' public safety groups, recognized and approved by the government to "safeguard observance and enforcement of law through the regular channels of government."

From every angle and type of organization and from nearly every section of the country, the women's arguments were assembled by Mrs. Peabody, and they all declared that prohibition, even though not well enforced in some regions, constituted a vast improvement over pre-prohibition conditions.

Under late questioning by wet members of the committee, witnesses reiterated their contentions and avoided being drawn away from the line of their direct testimony. They frequently sought rulings on the admissibility of the questions.

Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Woman's clubs, was the first witness. She came to Washington accompanied by three men presumably to guard her. She said she had been threatened if she should appear. Her organization had 14,500 clubs, in the United States and willed that the 18th amendment be carried out.

Among the other witnesses were Mrs. Clarence Fraim, legislative chairman of the General federation; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, of New York, president of the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America; Mrs. Orrin R. Judd, of New York, president, Counsel of Women for Home Missions; Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Chevy Chase, Maryland, of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement committee, and Miss Hilda Olson of Cambridge, Mass., treasurer of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement.

The witnesses not affiliated with Mrs. Peadbody's organization were Mrs. Hnery Marshall Kendrick of Washington, D. C., representing the National Council of Federated Church Women; Mrs. William Tilton, Cambridge, Mass., legislative chairman of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; and Mrs. Clarence Marshall Busch, of Miami, Florida, president of the League of American Penwomen.

Representing the national advisory committee of the law enforcement committee were former Mayor Bertha K. Landes of Seattle, and Mrs. Clarence Macey of Rochester, New York.

Twelve state officers of the committee added their testimony in person. They were Mrs. Charles H. Greenleaf of Franconia, New Hampshire; Mrs. Lewis Jerome Johnson of Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Frank Porter of New Haven, Conn.; Miss Grace Van Braam Roberts, Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Mrs. John Osgood Blanchard, and Miss Bertha Rembaugh, all of New York; Mrs. W. H. Alexander of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Clayton D. Eulette, of Chicago; Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, of Estes Park, Colorado; Mrs. Haines Lippincott, of Camden, New Jersey, and Mrs. Maynard Thayer, of Pasadena, California. Mrs. Thayer represented both northern and southern California.

Messages supporting the witnesses' view were read from Mrs. Henry Ford, Mrs. Thomas Edison, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York; Mrs. Vic Donahey, wife of the former governor of Ohio; Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, of Austin, Texas, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs; President Mary E. Wooley of Mount Holyoke college, and Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida.

Mrs. Porter, of New Haven, wife of a professor at Yale, said under examination she had not seen any drinking on the campus or drunken students in recent years. LaGuardia asked if she thought students would drink in the presence of a professor's wife.

Asked by Chairman Graham and LaGuardia to identify the "attorneys for brewers" who she said had appeared as wet witnesses, Mrs. Nicholson said that she had gained the impression that Henry S. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, represented brewers.

LaGuardia leaped to his feet and shouted:

"Why, Curran is a newspaper man. He never tried a case or represented anybody in his life."

"If the gentleman from New York wants to make statements of his own let him take the witness stand," demanded Representative Sparks, republican, Kansas.

The New Yorker pounded the desk and said:

"The gentleman from Kansas and any one else can shout all he wants to, but when unjustified attacks are made on my friend, Mr. Curran, I am going to fight and I don't care whether the committee members like it or not."

Chairman Graham said he was surprised at the charges and asserted that he knew the wet witnesses to be "high class people" and that he did not intend to listen to such characterizations of them.

Mrs. Nicholson then produced a list of breweries she said had contributed to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. She read a dozen names before Chairman Graham halted her with the remark that the reading of the contributors did not answer the question of Representative LaGuardia to name specifically one attorney in the employ of a brewery who had appeared. She said she did not remember the attorney's name.

LaGuardia then demanded that the names of the contributors to the Anti-Saloon league, including that of Mr. Kresge of the five and ten cent store chain, be filed with the committee at the proper time.

Objections by Representatives Stobbs of Massachusetts, Michener of Michigan, republicans, and Summer, of Texas, and Hammer of North Carolina, democrats, to questions propounded several witnesses by Representative Celler, democrat, New York, a wet, were sustained time and again by Chairman Graham.

Celler sought to introduce statistics on drunkenness before and after prohibition as reported in each of the witnesses' home cities.

JURY SELECTED FOR THE DOHENY BRIBERY TRIAL

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Three women and nine men were selected today to decide the guilt or innocence of Edward L. Doheny, of bribery.

The wealthy oil operator is on trial on an indictment charging that he gave $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, for the award to his company of a lease to the Elk Hills, Cal., naval oil reserve.

Justice William Hitz, presiding over the trial in the District of Columbia supreme court, ordered the jury kept under guard and together until its verdict is handed down. As soon as it was sworn, he recessed the court until tomorrow morning, when the government will make its opening statement, and will be followed by the defense.

The jury was chosen near the end of the afternoon session after counsel for both sides had questioned 35 men and women.

The members are: Luther W. James, Negro automobile mechanic, 39; Lawrence P. McWilliams, chair store manager, 45; Clarence Cantor, street conductor, 46; Archibald Gill, chauffeur, 52; Mrs. Chrissie Vollmer, housewife, 49; Isaac Dengler, laundry worker, 43; Miss Jean Yeagle, stenographer, 26; R. Bernard Beckert, hotel clerk, 38; Emory H. English, office worker, 45; Miss Margaret Mannix, stenographer, 23; Conrad Fitts, construction company employe, 47; and Chelsey H. Ray, transportation agent, 47.

GREEN TO ADDRESS THE UNITED MINE WORKERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12—(AP)—Announcement by John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will address the union next Monday morning, was regarded as the most significant development of the third day's session of the union's 31st consecutive convention here today.

Delegates predicted that Green, in his message, will reveal the policy that the American federation will pursue regarding the alleged activities of John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, in calling the "rump" miners' convention in Springfield, Illinois, this week. The miners union two weeks ago demanded that the national federation take action in regard to Walker.

HAITIAN COMMISSION TO BACK UP ITS DEMAND

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 12—(AP)—The Hoover investigating commission returned here tonight determined to back up its demand that President Louis Borno adhere to his promise to support the commission's plan for a temporary president so that the muddled political situation of the island republic might be cleared up.

Once that subject is out of the way, the commission intends to take up its final study of Haitian conditions preparatory to its return to the United States, possibly after another week's work.

GIRL AND TWO MEN HELD FOR ROBBERY ATTEMPT

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., March 12—(AP)—A 19-year-old girl and two young men were arraigned today accused of attempting to rob William H. Wilbey of Peekskill Monday night.

Judge Samuel Pines was told that Mrs Emily Depierne, of Windsor, Conn., waited in a nearby car with extra cartridges while George and William Thompson, brothers, of Stamford, Conn., attacked and bruised Wilcey. They were arrested in Bedford, not far away.

Judge Pines granted a 24-hour adjournment.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

HONOLULU, March 12—(AP)—Sheriff Patrick Gleason, ex-officio coroner took court action to gain permission to hold a second autopsy on the body of Mrs. Marion Sevier. Her death in August, 1928, her brother Ralph Shainwald, asserts, may not have been a natural one.

NOTTINGHAM, England, March 12.—(AP)—There are still five million human beings in the world held in slavery and liable to be sold at a master's will, declared Lady Simon, wife of Sir John Simon, famous British parliamentarian and lawyer, addressing the National Council of Evangelical Free churches.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 12.—(AP)—General Horacio Vasques, former president of the Dominican republic, in his first statement since leaving his country after the recent revolution, asserted that his fall from power had been caused by "seditious opposition" developing while he was ill in a Baltimore hospital.

VIENNA, March 12.—(AP)—Dr. Wolfgang Wieser, well known physician here, said that he had discovered an x-ray treatment by which mentally defective children could be made to develop normal intelligence. He said that after a single x-ray treatment a remarkable increase in intelligence had been observed in children at an institute for imbeciles.

BISHOP C. L. SLATTERY OF MASS. EPISCOPAL DIOCESE DIED LAST NIGHT IN BOSTON

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—Bishop Charles Lewis Slattery of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts died at his home here tonight. He was 62 years old. He succeeded Bishop William Lawrence as head of the Massachusetts diocese.

Death came suddenly from an acute heart attack after a four days' illness.

After a long rectorate at Grace church, New York, Bishop Slattery was called to become bishop coadjutor of Massachusetts in 1922 to aid Bishop Lawrence. When the latter retired in May, 1927, Bishop Slattery succeeded him.

His wife was Sarah Lawrence, daughter of Bishop Lawrence. She survives him.

Bishop Slattery was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., December 9, 1867. He was graduated from Harvard university in 1891, and from the Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge, in 1894. The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by the latter institution in 1907.

From 1894 to 1896, he was master at Groton school and pastor of St. Andrew's church at Ayer. In 1896, he was elected dean of the Cathedral of Our Most Merciful Saviour, at Faribault, Minn. While there he received and accepted a call to Providence, R. I., but was released from it when his remaining in Minnesota was urged.

In 1907, he was made rector of Christ church, Springfield, where he remained until May 10, 1910. He then accepted a call to be rector at Grace church, New York where he remained for 12 years. He then returned to Massachusetts to take over the duties of coadjutor bishop.

Bishop Slattery last year refused an annual increase of $2,000 in his pay.

BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

WASHINGTON, March 12. — (AP)—With the body of William Howard Taft resting beneath fresh turned sod in Arlington cemetery, upon which the flowers of yesterday still were fresh, the affection which he bore for Mrs. Taft, his three children, and Yale university, his Alma Mater, were attested today in his will.

To "My Dear Wife, Helen H. Taft," the final testament of the former president left virtually his entire estate. Filed for probate, it disclosed no valuation.

Yale university, where Taft spent many of the happiest years of his busy life, first as an undergraduate, and then as the Kent professor of law from 1913 until 1921, when he rose to the chief justiceship, received the largest single sum mentioned in his will—$10,000. It will be added to the principal of the Alumni University fund and credited to his own class, that of 1878.

To his three children, Robert A. and Charles P. Taft and Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, the former chief justice left some of his most prized possessions — his papers, manuscripts, correspondence, addresses and copyrights. They are to be used as the recipients think best, after consultation with Mrs. Taft.

Even while plans were taking shape for a memorial over his grave on the little wooded knoll in Arlington, and while the first visitors made their way there to pay him new homage, the document testifying Taft's own remembrance of others was taken from the safe deposit box where it has lain for three years.

In even the smallest bequests the former president's affections were shown. To the All Souls' Unitarian church, from which he was buried yesterday, went $2,500. Thrice that amount was left to the Taft school at Watertown, Connecticut, which was founded by his brother, Horace D. Taft. Other bequests in the will were:—Wendell W. Mischler, his secretary, $5,000; Margaret McNamara, $1,000; Annie McNamara, $750 and Thomas Halpin, $750.

Possibility was seen today that the extent of the former president's estate might never be known, since, in naming Mrs. Taft as executrix, the request was made that she should not be required to make an inventory.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION FOR GLYNN SUCCESSOR

HARTFORD, March 12—(AP)—No special election in the Connecticut fifth district to fill the vacancy created by death last week of Congressman James P. Flynn, will be held, by final decision of Gov. John H. Trumbull, today. The governor had been undecided as to calling a special election and had asked information as to prospects of an early adjournment of congress of Congressman John Q. Tilson, of the third district, house floor leader, and the latter had given as his opinion that adjournment might come in June.

ASSAULT MAY LEAD TO THE DEPORTATION OF ASSAILANT

NEW HAVEN, March 12—(AP)—Disposition of Genaro Chicarelli 25, held under $50,000 bonds today for assault with robbery and violence on Michael Neeman, former city alderman, may be through deportation as an undesirable on trial in superior court. This man was serving a sentence when ordered deported, but the order was not carried out.

Canadian War Ace Killed In Test Flight

Col. William C. Barker Crashed to Death When Plane Stalled In An Upward Loop.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12.—(AP) — Canada's second ranking ace of the World war, Col. William G. Barker, 35, crashed to his death at the Rockliffe Park Royal, Canadian air force field, today, after the motor of a new ship he was testing stalled in an upward loop while flying at a low altitude.

The famous war ace, who had 52 German planes to his credit and once shot his way out of a German flying circus," never had a chance once his ship started plunging noseward to earth.

His broken body was pulled from the twisted wreckage by government officials who had gathered at the field to witness his test of the new Fairchild two-seater biplane. It was the first time the colonel had flown a ship of that type.

Colonel Barker was flying low, and apparently put the ship into a steep climb when, at the top of the upward loop, it suddenly remained suspended for a moment and then plunged downward.

The plane was flown here only yesterday from New York and its pilot said it had performed perfectly. D. Campbell Shaw, test pilot for the Fairchild Aviation corporation of Canada, of which Colonel Barker was president, said that the ship was in perfect condition at the take-off.

He ascribed the tragedy to "an error of judgment while flying low," giving the opinion that Colonel Barker must have miscalculated the power of the motor to drive the machine from the ground.

Officials of the civil aviation branch of the department of national defense will conduct an inquiry into the crash.

Colonel Barker's war flying record was excelled among Canadian aviators only by Col. W. C. Bishop; he received a long list of decorations, headed by the enviable Victoria cross.

Colonel Barker was decorated with the Victoria cross after a feat which is listed as one of the air epics of the war. A short time before the armistice he was attacking an enemy plane when he ran into a "flying circus" of German fighting ships. He brought down six of the German planes, and although badly wounded, brought his own machine safely to earth.

COP DIDN'T RECOGNIZE THE PRINCE OF WALES

KAMPALA, Uganda, March 12—(AP)—South African policemen are much like those in New York or elsewhere in that sometimes they do not recognize notables.

The Prince of Wales, while motoring into Entebbe today, encountered a policeman who didn't know him and refused to believe it when he was told.

When the prince starts from one place to another all traffic on the roads is stopped inord er to insure the royal party a clear run. That was done today but the prince was way ahead of schedule and ran into a uniformed constable with his arms stretched out.

Wales, who was driving, pulled up and the constable politely announced, "You can't go this way until the Prince of Wales has passed."

Provincial Commissioner Postlewaite, sitting beside the prince, explained.

"This is the Prince of Wales."

"Oh. I've heard that before" said the policeman as he drew out his notebook and took the number of the prince's car.

Just then something attracted the policeman's attention. He dashed across the road and Wales hurriedly drove off amid the shouts of the constable who saw the offender escaping.

No one enjoyed the joke more than Wales.

The prince left this afternoon for a long motor drive to Butiaba.

FIVE DEATHS FROM SHOOTING IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Five persons were killed in two separate shooting affrays in the Italian district of Brooklyn tonight.

The dead were:

Mrs. Anna Lofredo, 28; Mrs. Marie De Crescenzo, 46; Salvatore Crescenzo, 18; Vincenzoe Tradici, 39, and an unidentified man about 38.

Police said Mrs. Lofredo; her mother, Mrs. De Crescenzo, and brother, Salvatore, were shot by Arthur Lofredo, husband of the first named, "because he was tired of fighting with his wife." Their bodies were found in the apartment of Mrs. De Crescenzo.

In an apartment two blocks away the bodies of Tradici and the unidentified man were found. Police said they believed they were shot in a quarrel with five other men over division of money received for smuggling Italian aliens into the United States.

A sixth person, Natali Cardiello, 39, was found in the same neighborhood with a bullet wound in his back. He said he was shot by two bandits, but police said they did not believe his story.

ADMIRAL BYRD PLANNING ANOTHER SENSATIONAL FEAT

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 12—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who has flown over both the north and south poles and driven a plane across the Atlantic, is planning another sensational feat.

"If I were to say what I am going to do next," he said today, "my remarks would cause a sensation."

Byrd, whose hair has become gray within the 14 months just ended during which he flew over the south pole and mapped 280,000 square miles of ice, smilingly declined to say whether he contemplated a return to the Antarctic.

OBITUARY

Herbert Gardiner Lord

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Herbert Gardiner Lord, for 21 years professor of philosophy at Columbia university, died today at the age of 80. He had been in ill health for several years.

Professor Lord was a member of a family of teachers, ministers and soldiers which came to America in 1627. His Puritan forebears, Thomas and Doroth Lord, settled in Cambridge, Dorothy Lord, settled in Cambridge, Mass., but later joined in the founding of Hartford, Conn. The professor was a member of the Sons of the Revolution.

State Rests In Lalone And Moulthrope Trial

Expect Defe[illegible] Evidence Will Be Brie[illegible] May Go to the J[illegible]ay.

JAC[illegible]LE, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—[illegible] its evidence with the te[illegible] Leo Landry, escaped C[illegible] convict, against his for[illegible] Watson Moulthrope and [illegible] Lalone the state rested today in the trial of Moulthrope and Lalone whom it seeks to send to the electric chair for the slaying of a Jacksonville detective, W. D. Smith.

Tomorrow the defense will begin presentation of its case. Landry also is under indictment but has been granted severance. He named Moulthrope as the actual slayer.

Presentation of evidence against the two escaped convicts has required six days, during which they have sat in the crowded court room, apparently calm. Defense attorneys did not announce their procedure definitely, it was understood their evidence would be comparatively brief and would be climaxed by that of the principals.

Indications are that the case may go to the jury Friday.

Most of Landry's testimony today was confined to a relation of his criminal career beginning in 1913, when he was only nine years old, and denials that he heard more than one shot fired at the scene of the killing. That shot, he maintained, was fired by Moulthrope and resulted in Detective Smith's death. After he fled, he said, he heard one other shot, but did not know from whose gun it came.

Smith was killed and Detective Willie Jones seriously wounded when the two officers stopped the car occupied by the three bandits on suspicion that it had been stolen.

Landry's testimony regarding the number of shots fired was contradictory to that of two eye witnesses, George J. Jeffries and Fred Peterson, and also Detective Jones.

Landry said Moulthrope was the leader of the trio, and that both Moulthrope and Lalone had told him if officers ever attempted to arrest them they would fight until they were killed rather than go back to Connecticut to finish serving their terms. Lalone is under a life term for murder of a Connecticut state trooper, while Moulthrope is under heavy sentence for highway robbery.

$173,000,000 DEFICIENCY BILL PASSED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 12.— (AP) — Immediate appropriation of more than $173,000,000 for multiple government projects was voted today by the senate in passing the first deficiency bill.

The senate added to the measure as it passed the house the $100,000,000 requested by President Hoover for the farm board; $150,000 to continue the American delegation at the London naval limitation conference; $12,000,000 for river and harbor work, and $7,000,000 for seed loans to farmers in storm stricken states.

These increases along with countless other additional funds authorized by the senate must be approved by the house.

The $100,000,000 fund for the farm board gives this newly established government organization a total of $250,000,000 of the $500,000,000 authorized for its revolving fund by congress. The additional fund was approved without opposition but its consideration provoked some sharp words on the policies of the farm board.

ANOTHER FLOOD IS THREATENING FRANCE

BORDEAUX, France, March 12—(AP)—Relief for sufferers of the recent flood in the valleys of the Tarn and Garonne had scarcely been organized when another inundation has threatened the valleys from smaller rivers descending from the foothills of Pyrenees.

Today the river Gers overflowed its banks and flooded the town of Auch. Rapidly melting snows and heavy rains in the mountains swelled the river Pau so that some of the streets of the city of that name were under water and several smaller towns along the stream were threatened.

Farmers and villagers dwelling on the banks of both rivers were today putting their livestock and other belongings in places of safety. A dispatch from Biarritz reported some of the streets of that seaside resort were under water.

CONVICT FREED ON CHARGE OF MURDER OF KEEPER

AUBURN, N. Y., March 12—(AP)—A Cayuga county jury today acquitted Max Becker, Auburn prison inmate, of a charge of murder, first degree, thereby refusing to hold him responsible for the shooting to death of Principal Keeper George A. Durnford in the prison riot of December 11.

Becker was taken back to the penal institution to resume serving a thirty year sentence, with an indictment returned by the October grand jury, charging attempted escape from the prison, still hanging over his head. The indictment announced District Attorney James J. Hosmer, prosecutor in the trial just ended, will be pressed immediately.

Becker, elated at the verdict turned to the jury and said: "I want to thank you for the life you have given me and I hope the day will never come when you will be sorry."

ASKED TO DETERMINE ABOUT 2.75 PER CENT BEER

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—The Hoover law enforcement commission today was asked to determine whether 2.75 per cent beer was non-intoxicating and whether a change in the Volstead law to permit manufacture would aid enforcement.

Representative Dyer, republican, Missouri, a ranking member of the house judiciary committee and author of a bill to legalize 2.75 per cent beer, said after appearing before the commission that he had received a "very cordial and satisfactory reception." He declined, however, to say whether the attitude of the commission toward his proposal had been indicated.

VIEWS OF ARISTIDE BRIAND ON THE NAVAL CONFERENCE

Gloomy Over His Failure to Get a Security Pact For His Country Out of the Five-Power Conference—Gives the Parley Only Another Fortnight of Life—French Have Maintained That the Present Conference Should Be Only Preliminary to Consideration At Geneva of Disarmament On Land, Sea and Air

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, is gloomy over his failure to get a security pact for his country out of the five power naval conference. Tonight he gave the parley only another fortnight of life.

The head of the French delegation received French newspapermen but rigidly excluded reporters of all other nationalities. The French writers came out of conference convinced that M. Briand was depressed. They quoted him as saying:

"I have finished my role and tomorrow the whole thing will be handed over to the delegations."

M. Briand declared that the delay in reaching conference decisions had not been due to the French attitude in demanding security pacts as a price for reducing their program of naval building, but to the fact that Italy had not produced any tonnage figures at all but had insisted solely on their right to parity with any continental European power.

It was understood that the French leader had raised this point regarding the Italians rather sharply at a meeting today of his British, French and American delegations.

There was general impression in conference circles tonight that the day had been one of the most critical and perhaps decisive in the whole history of the negotiations. While M. Briand gave the impression of admitting failure of his plans for a political alliance in connection with naval limitations, other members of the French delegation tried to offset this appearance of discouragement. They recalled that the French had consistently maintained that the present conference should be only a prelude to general consideration at Geneva of the whole question of disarmament, covering land and air as well as sea.

The French also were quick to emphasize the importance of the technical work done here. They predicted that a five-power treaty would result and that it would include a further holiday in battleship building, humanization of submarines and such technical subjects as a combined tonnage category method of measuring navies.

British and American observers agreed that the conference might last three or four weeks. They professed to see a possible change in the situation this coming week end. The basis for this was an announcement that Andre Tardieu, French premier, would arrive in London at that time.

BRITISH LABOR GOVT. FACES VOTE OF CENSURE

LONDON, March 12.— (AP) — The labor government is having its troubles with the coal bill and unemployment and even faces a vote of censure tomorrow evening, but Prime Minister MacDonald continues his chairmanship of the naval conference, confident that he will not be thrown out of office within the next six weeks.

British and French politics have afforded puzzling situations to Americans of the naval conference in the past few weeks, sometimes a defeat meaning one thing and sometimes another. But as far as the present situation in British politics is concerned a government defeat on a major issue such as would mean resignation, is not expected by political circles.

Mr. MacDonald was defeated last night on a minor amendment to the coal bill, but does not seem disturbed. He boldly invited his conservative opponents to extend their vote of censure set for tomorrow night so that the liberals could join them and throw him out, but he is confident they will not do that.

In fact, long before the naval conference convened, Mr. MacDonald had the pledges of the conservative and liberal leaders that the disarmament negotiations were of prime importance and that the labor government, although in a minority in the house of commons, would be given a fair opportunity for carrying them out, that pledge holds as strongly today as it did two months ago.

Just what would happen to the naval conference should the party pledges be broken and the ranks get out of hand—a possible but improbable contingency—is the subject of widest speculation. Mr. MacDonald could resign, ut the king probably would tell him to carry on until the naval conference was out of the way.

The conservative motion of censure to be moved in the commons tomorrow night stands in the names of former Premier Baldwin and Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer in the following terms:

"That this house deplores the depression in trade and the increase in unemployment resulting from the policy of the present government and regrets the refusal of the government not only to extend safeguarding or imperial preference, but even to declare their intention with regard to maintenance of existing safeguarding McKenna duties and the duties on sugar, silk and the key industries, thereby increasing uncertainty and distress."

NEW DENATURANT FOR INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—A new non-poisonous denaturant for industrial alcohol, more effective than any now in use, has been discovered by the technical division of the prohibition bureau, Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, revealed today at a conference of industrial alcohol producers.

The denaturant is a product of petroleum and Commissioner Doran said it made alcohol extremely difficult of conversion ofr drinking purposes.

According to members of the industrial alcohol institute, at whose offices today's conference was held, the new denaturant causes converted alcohol to be highly unpalatable, although it is not poisonous. It was discovered by Dr. W. V. Linder, chief of the technical division of the prohibition bureau.

REPARATIONS PAYMENTS APPROVED BY REICHSTAG

BERLIN, March 12—(AP)—The Young plan and other measures connected with it as well as the German-American agreement by which Germany's reparations payments to the United States, are regulated, were given final approval by the reichstag today.

The Young plan measure itself, was given third and final reading by a vote of 265 to 192. The German-American agreement was approved by a rising vote. The Polish liquidation was approved 236 to 217.

The measures by which the final liquidation of the war debts are provided, now only requires the signature of President Von Hindenburg and publication of the ratification in the official gazette before becoming law as far as Germany is concerned.

PLANE FLIGHT DELAYED BY ADVERSE WEATHER

WATERBURY, March 12— (AP) — Grounded at Albany today by "soupy" weather and an adverse weather report by the department of commerce, Captain Herbert C. Patridge and Lieut. Commander George A. Pond, crew of the Stinson-Detroiter K. of New Haven, are expected to take off tomorrow morning for Bethany airfield. Col. Clarence E. Knox, state aviation commissioner and pilot of the state owned Vought-Corsair and Captain Harry W. Generous, deputy commissioner escaped unhurt today when their plane turned over as they landed at Bethany. They flew from Hartford to greet the crew of the ship which is to take a non-stop flight from Bethany to Buenos Aires.

BAIL OF $12,500 EACH SET FOR COMMUNIST LEADERS

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Bail of $12,500 each was set today for William Z. Foster, workers' communist candidate for president in 1928, and four other communist leaders who are held on two charges in connection with the "Red Thursday" riot in Union square last week.

Supreme Court Justice Alfred H. Townley held Foster and the others in $10,000 bail each on a felonious assault charge growing out of injuries received by a policeman in the riot, and in $2,500 bail each on a charge of inciting to riot.

SENATE RETAINS TARIFF ON WINDOW AND PLATE GLASS

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—In one of the liveliest sessions in its six months consideration of the tariff, the senate today restored to the Hawley-Smoot bill the existing rates on window and plate glass, refused again to increase the duty on pig iron, and agreed to vote at the outset tomorrow on a motion to reconsider the increase in the sugar levy.

Before going into another night session to speed up the last phases of revision, the senate heard a demand by Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, that the lobby committee summon Hebert J. Grant, president of the Mormon church, for questioning about his activities in Washington the day the senate voted to increase the sugar tariff.

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, himself a high official in the Mormon church and advocate of a higher sugar duty, protested vigorously against examining Mr. Grant. He said the church head was here to attend a Boy Scout meeting last wek when the sugar increase was approved and called at his office for a friendly visit.

No decision had been reached by the lobby committee tonight on the Blaine request.

FIRST OPINION DELIVERED BY CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Chief Justice Hughes today delivered his first opinion since resuming a seat on the bench.

It ruled upon two cases from Ohio challenging the validity of the state law creating metropolitan parking districts at Cleveland and Akron, and attacking a section of the Ohio constitution. The decision sustained both the state act and the constitutional provision which had been attacked.

The supreme court declined to interfere with Alabama statutes imposing a tax on cigars and cigarettes and cheroots, which had been attacked by the Exchange Drug company of Montgomery.

It consented to review two cases and refused to review thirty-five. Among those it declined to consider, on the merits was a protest from New York city challenging the right of the federal radio commission to require its broadcasting station, WNYC to divide time on the air with station WMCA.

STATUS OF LIQUOR BUYER LAID BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, March 12— (AP) — Whether the purchaser of illicit liquor is guilty of a crime under the prohibition law, was laid before the supreme court today for determination.

Citing the diversity of opinion expressed by various judges as to the legal culpability of the liquor buyer, the department of justice appealed to the highest tribunal against the decision of Federal Judge Morton at Boston, holding congress expressly excluded the purchaser from the penal provisions of the act.

The Boston case is the second brought before the supreme court involving the purchaser of liquor. Previously the tribunal had been asked by Attorney General Mitchell to determine whether a conspiracy charge against a buyer could be sustained under the law.

CLUB NO. 1 OF SOCIAL CORNER OBSERVES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12.—The 20th anniversary gathering of Social Corner of club No. 1 of The Norwich Bulletin was held with a luncheon at the chamber of commerce auditorium this afternoon. There was an attendance of about 160, including representatives of all of the six clubs of the Corner. Mrs. William Green of this city was general chairman and Mrs. Cora Nye of Mansfield was in charge of the novel "School-room" entertainment.

During the course of the repast greetings were extended by President Louis H. Arnold of the chamber of commerce. Remarks were also made by Executive Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the chamber and President D. D. Cavanaugh of the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association. A fresh carnation was given each member of the Corner, the gift of the Willimantic Merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce.

The old-time school proved a most delightful form of entertainment. With Mrs. Nye as the teacher with the hickory stick, the mischievous class consisted of Mrs. Lucy Champlin, Mrs. Ruth Shedd, Mrs. Cora Rice, Mrs. Charles Webster and Mrs. Charles H. Beebe of this city, Mrs. Ralph Reynolds of Babcock Hill, Ella Gager and Mrs. Fred Race of North Franklin, Mrs. Fred Warren and Mrs. Harry Wood of South Coventry and Francis Perkins, Jr., of Mansfield. Two excellent duets were sung by Mrs. Shedd and Mrs. Rice. Francis Perkins, aged six, and grandson of Chairlady Mrs. Nye, pleased with several verses of song and Dr. Charles Lamb of Norwich Town was heard in two solos. Mrs. Beebe was piano accompanist and she was later heard in one of her versatile readings. The program opened with a Corner song with words composed by Mrs. Nye, to the tune of Old Lang Syne. A greeting piece also composed by Mrs. Nye was read. The April meeting of the Corner will also be held at the chamber auditorium, it was announced today.

COMMUNITY WEEK TO OPEN ON JUNE 15TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12.—With a wealth of suggestions under consideration, the groundwork for the big Community week to be held in Windham during commencement week next June, is being laid by a live committee headed by Justice George E. Hinman. The date of the formal opening has been set back from Saturday, June 14, to the following day, Sunday, June 15, to conform with a generally approved plan for staging the Elks' Flag day exercises on that date. The opening of Community week will be linked with these Flag day exercises as planned by Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks, for a public dedication of a flag pole at the Elks' home on Pleasant street.

In many respects, however, the celebration will be along lines outlined by Allen B. Lincoln, who was responsible for the Old Home and School week held here 15 years ago when the late ex-President Taft was the main speaker. The use of the Elks' home and Elks' park has been offered by Exalted Ruler Roy W. Downer and Exalted Ruler-elect George W. Hickey. One suggestion made is that a manufacturers' exhibit be held in the booths at Elks' park.

There is also a possibility that a change of dates will be effected in the 60th anniversary of the founding of the St. Jean Baptiste society here so that the event will be listed as part of the community celebration. A similar attempt will also be made in connection with the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, through Commander James Haggerty.

Decision is to be made later as to the nature of a public participation in the form of a parade, a pageant or a libretto such as was staged under the title of The Frogs of Windham, in 1915. There appears a strong feeling in favor of a parade, however. The general committee, to which the names of five women is to be added later, consists of the following representatives of various organizations: Justice George E. Hinman, general chairman; Allen B. Lincoln, Samuel Chesbro, Egbert A. Case, Joseph M. Berard, Louis H. Arnold, George H. Gurley, John H. Wilcox, Charles W. Hill, Walter Abbe, H. Clinton Lathrop and Leslie Hartson.

A Chevrolet roadster owned and operated by Stanley Wood of South Coventry and a Buick sedan owned by David T. Hondlow of 608 Ann street, Rockville, and operated by Charles Heintz, also of Rockville, figured in a collision on the Stafford-Willimantic highway, near the spur track crossing of the Central Vermont railway leading to the Mansfield State Training school, Tuesday evening. The machines sideswiped, with the result that both plunged to their respective left and crashed into the embankment on either side of the road. Both cars were damaged but the occupants escaped injury. State Policemen Stevens and Griffin of the Stafford Springs barracks conducted an investigation.

FUNERAL

Robert S. Amidon

The funeral of Robert S. Amidon was held this afternoon with services at the Scotland Congregational church at 12:30 o'clock. Rev. Albert H. Plumb officiated, assisted by Rev. Paul B. Sanger. There were musical selections by Mrs. Fred Willoughby, assisted by Mrs. Haskins. A prayer service had previously been conducted at the home. Burial was in the North cemetery, Tolland, with the following brothers of the deceased as bearers: Charles, Gilbert, Harlan and Henry Amidon. Arrangements were in charge of The J. C. Lincoln company.

Answering a message received at police headquarters this forenoon, that an elderly woman, carrying two long sticks, was acting strangely on the corner of Pleasant and Park streets, Officer Leo Piche went to the scene and found Mrs. Hattie F. Bassett, 86, of 28 Pleasant street, suffering from the effects of a fall part way down a flight of stairs at her home. The woman was sitting on the step at her side door and was bleeding from the right wrist and face. She complained of pains in her back and wrist and at the time the officer arrived members of another family in the house were giving her attention. The ambulance was sent for and she was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where Dr. J. A. Girouard gave treatment and took an X-ray picture of the fractured right forearm.

Lack of employment is having a strong effect on the number of children between the ages of 14 and 16 years who are able to get positions, according to Arthur W. Williams of Danielson, agent for the state board of education. Agent Williams, who was at his office in the Normal school building today, said that he has had but few children calling for employment certificates during the past few months. These children must first show that they have secured a position before the required tests are given.

Another meeting of teachers of rural schools in surrounding towns will be held at the Normal school building here Thursday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Dr. Albert N. Nielson of the commercial department of New York university will deliver another of his series of talks on Social Studies.

Among the class squads in natural dancing, clog dancing, fundamentals and tumbling, chosen at Connecticut college for the indoor meet and exhibition to take place March 22, are Miss Barbara Elliott of this city, class of 1933, for the fundamental squad and Jeannette Konarski of South Coventry, class of 1931, clog squad.

MANSFIELD CENTER

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of Willimantic gave the address at the last church night service here. His subject was Neighborliness and it was a most interesting presentation. Mrs. Helena De Trinis who has been singing in New York opera and is now broadcasting from WMCA, gave a group of songs in a delightful manner. There was a violin solo by Jesse Inman accompanied by Miss Amy Hawkins and a clever sketch presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harold James. Mr. James was chairman of the program. The church clerk, George H. Wyman, will be responsible for the April program.

There was an excellent attendance at the C. E. service Sunday evening, with Mrs. R. E. Stearns, leader.

Miss Cecelia Frahm, who has been spending the past year with her aunt, Mrs. John Dreesen sailed from New York, Saturday, on S. S. Hellig Olav for her home in Denmark. Mrs. Dreesen went with her to New York.

Andrew M. Grant has sold his farm at Mount Hope and has rented the Grant Chappell house in this village. Mr. and Mrs. Grant will take possession this week.

COLCHESTER

FRANK J. FLYNN DIES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Frank Joseph Flynn, 51, well known resident of Colchester, died at his home on Elm street early Wednesday morning, following a long illness. A few days ago he suffered a paralytic shock after which pneumonia set in. Mr. Flynn was born in New Haven, April 2, 1878, and in his early youth went to New Britain where he lived for thirty years, later moving to Hartford. About ten years ago he moved with his wife to Colchester. For a number of years he was in the restaurant business in New Britain where he has a wide acquaintance. About fifteen years ago he married Jennie Johnson, of Hartford, who survives him, also two sisters, Mrs. Rose F. Brown of Mystic, and Mrs. Harold Campbell, of East Hartford. He was a member of St. Andrew's Catholic church. Burial is to be in New Britain. Mr. Flynn had a cordial, agreeable manner which had won him a large number of friends here and in surrounding towns who have extended sincere sympathy to the family.

May Succeed Justice Sanford

A number of older Colchester residents are interested in the news that Attorney Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia is one of the men being considered by President Hoover to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench caused by the death of Associate Justice Edward Sanford. Mr. Roberts is one of the most prominent lawyers in the United States and is the husband of Elsie Rogers, a former Colchester resident. Mrs. Roberts was a daughter of C. B. Rogers, a former Colchester postmaster.

Colchester Fire Co. holds its March meeting in the fire house this (Thursday) evening.

Monday afternoon the Colchester 4-H Poultry club met under the leadership of Rev. H. Herbert Tompkins at the Congregational parsonage. The meeting was conducted by the president of the club, Miss Dorothy Dean. The discussion period was given up to the problem of proper housing and the care of baby chicks. The club members now have about five hundred baby chicks which they are rearing and it is expected that during the spring this number will be more than doubled. One new member was taken into the club, Miss Olga Koptanick.

Henry Bigelow, of Bethel, Vermont, former local resident, is visiting friends in Westchester Center.

Within the next few weeks a special community survey of the economic, social, religious and educational conditions of the town is to be made by representatives of the inter-seminary commisison. This organization is directed by Dr. Malcolm C. Dana and Dean Rockwell Harmon Potter, of Hartford, and is financed by the Bureau of Social and Religious research. At a recent meeting of Colchester town school committee it was voted to cooperate with the inter-seminary commission by having the teachers make the educational survey through their contact with the children of the community. The economic, social and religious conditions will be analyzed by the representatives of the commission. This census survey has no connection with the national census to be commenced April 1.

Edward H. McCall and Bradford Jones, of Lebanon, called on friends here Wednesday.

The Golden Rule Missionary juniors held their March meeting at the parsonage Monday afternoon. This was a postponed meeting due to the illness of their councillor, Mrs. Josine N. Tompkins. A very enjoyable afternoon interspersed with games and refreshments filled the half-day recess from school because of a teachers' meeting.

HEBRON

Hebron grange, No. 111, met March 4th, in Gilead Hill, when 88 members were present, including from Andover 2, Columbia 4, Hartford 1, Manchester 2, Hebron 55, Wethersfield 4, visitors 20. The grange held a competitive night, the Blue side being in charge of Mrs. Ruby Gibson and the Gold side in charge of Mrs. Della P. Hills. Twenty-one members took part on the Blue side and 20 on the Gold side. Each side was allowed 45 minutes. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Kline and Mrs. Kretzmer of Wethersfield. Decision was given to the Gold side. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held March 18th.

The weekly Bridge club meeting was postponed Wednesday, because of Ash Wednesday.

Colchester League of Women Voters met Wednesday afternoon with the Hebron league. Mrs. Rose Granowitz, of Colchester, read some very interesting papers concerning Colchester league and other leagues, of different counties, telling about their work and stressing the one point, World Peace Movement. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Porter. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Della P. Hills and Mrs. Porter.

Mrs. Louise Blume, of Hebron, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Edward Carter of Long Island. After spending two weeks with her cousin, she will visit in New Rochelle and Scardale, N. Y., before returning home.

Janice, Fletcher and Muriel Ward, small children of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Ward, have been ill this week with pink eye.

Miss Helen Gilbert of Bridgeport was home for a few days on a short vacation.

Mrs. Sherwood A. Miner, Miss Helen Hough, Mr. Loren M. Lord, Mrs. Jared B. Tennant, Mrs. Albert W. Hilding and children, Alberta and Winthrop, Mrs. Elizabeth Ives and Miss Mary E. Cummings, were callers in Willimantic Friday.

About 100 from the town of Hebron met in Hebron town hall, Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The chairman, was the justice of peace, H. Clinton Porter and the clerk was the town clerk and town treasurer, Mrs. Della P. Hills. First the people of the meeting voted to take up the second clause in the warning; that is, closing of the highway from Amston grain store to the Gillette place, on the old road to the north pond. Herbert A. Brink, representative of the N. Y. N. H. and Hartford railroad, who was present, stated that where the road crosses the property of the railroad company, where the road is dangerous to public traffic it would be advisable to close the road. However the meeting voted to table the matter. On the second clause to lay a tax to pay the town expenses for the ensuing year a tax of 22½ mills on the dollar was voted.

Horace Porter and George Schatz moved Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spat and two children, Stella and Alex, from Springfield, Mass., to Hebron, recently. They will live in the Hunt place, next to Banks Jones's farm.

The drama, "A Noble Outcast" by Gilead Community players, was presented in North Windham, Wednesday evening and in grange hall, Newington Friday evening.

BOZRAH

The C. E. society held a very successful supper and entertainment at the church Friday evening. The supper consisted of baked beans, escalloped potatoes, rolls and cake and was served at seven to a company of over 60. Following the supper a program of old fashioned music and tableaux was given, all participating being in costume. One of the features was the minuet given by Mrs. Lloyd Abel, Mrs. Orin Banning, Mrs. Theodore Abel, Mrs. John Chapman, Louise Lathrop and Athalie Grandy. Games and an old fashioned spelling match were enjoyed. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Alfred Abel, chairman of the social committee of the society.

The Bible Study class met Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Orin Banning of Bozrah street with a good attendance.

The grange held its installation ceremony at the regular meeting Wednesday evening. The installing officer was Ida Richardson of Norwich, assisted by Miss Arlene Bennett and Mrs. Louise Woodmansee, of Preston City with Mrs. Babcock of Norwich at the piano. At the close of the installation a supper was served.

The grange has suffered a great loss in the death of Brother Charles B. Davis, who was master of the grange for fifteen years. Mr. Davis had always the best interests of the grange at heart and faithfully performed all the duties of his office when his health would permit.

Sunday morning at the Center Congregational church the pastor, Rev. G. H. Strouse, gave the second in his series of Lenten sermons on the theme, "Was Christ God's Supreme Revelation?" In the evening at the C. E. service the study of "Great Missionaries of Africa," was continued, the closing years in the life of David Livingstone being considered.

Rev. Mr. Strouse was in Waterford Sunday afternoon attending the funeral of Mrs. Geer.

The entire town of Trout, La., with several acres of land, mill, two locomotives and 65 mules, changed hands in a deal between two lumber companies.

LUCKY TIGER

Do you see what's left out of this Rice Pudding Recipe?

Beat 2 eggs and add 1½ cups hot milk, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Pour mixture over 2 cups of steamed rice. Bake in buttered dish set in a pan of water, for about 45 minutes at 325°, or until custard is set.

Of course you know what's left out! Sugar! And if you add one-half of a cup you will have perfect results and a most nourishing dessert in the bargain. Try this recipe soon.

As the palatability of a pudding depends upon sugar, so does the taste appeal of certain familiar foods depend upon a dash of sugar. For example, canned or fresh vegetables, also stewed fruits, are much more appetizing when flavored thus.

Try a dash of sugar in stewed corn, peas or carrots. And don't forget that cereal sprinkled with sugar tastes better.

The more you enjoy healthful fruits and vegetables the more you will eat of them. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing when flavored with sugar. And no doctor will restrain you from using a dash of sugar any more than he will restrain you from using a pinch of salt. The Sugar Institute.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY VOTES AGAINST A REVALUATION OF PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 12—A special town meeting tonight decisively turned down the proposal that Killingly make a general revaluation of its property and make an appropriation therefor. About 300 people attended the meeting but no more than half of them stood up to be recorded on a rising vote.

Less than a score of the voters registered in favor of the revaluation. Prior to the taking of the vote Judge Sabin S. Russell, at the request of the selectmen, explained to the meeting that the legislature of 1917 passed an act under which the property of all the towns in the state should be generally revalued every ten years, with a provision the first of these general revaluations should be completed by Feb. 1, 1920. Since that time Killingly has had no general revaluation.

Judge Russell pointed out that if the town decided at tonight's meeting against a revaluation at this time that some dissatisfied taxpayers might go to the state attorney for this county and ask under mandamus proceedings for a superior court order obligating the town to do the work. Judge Russell explained that this was merely a possibility but that the selectmen wish the electors to know of it. Judge Russell further stated that he was opposed to outside parties being employed to make the revaluation, if the town decided to have one and expressed his opinion that it should be done by the assessors, as provided by law.

Judge Russell made the statement after he had requested former Selectman Patrick Riley of Dayville to talk by way of explanation after Mr. Riley had made a motion to lay on the table the revaluation clause under consideration. After the meeting turned down the revaluation plan Mr. Riley made a motion for adjournment, which was carried.

Immediately following the special town meeting the adjourned annual town meeting was called to order. With one amendment of $1,500 to pay the town's share of curbing that will be set this year by the borough in its sidewalk-building plan the budget was adopted as submited by the selectmen, the tax rate fixed at 28 mills, the tax to be due and payable on the third Monday in April. Attorney Harry E. Back was chairman of the meeting and Frank T. Preston was the clerk.

TWO GUN SHELLS FOUND BY OFFICERS IN SHOOTING CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 12—Two discharged shot gun shells have been recovered close by the place where the automobile of William Pockoski of North Main street was riddled with buck shot Monday evening, and are presumed to have been thrown away there by the person who did the shooting. State officers continued to investigate the case today and to carefully check all possible clues that might establish the identity of the responsible party.

Mr. Pockoski said today that he had parked his car at the point where the shooting took place not more than two or three minutes before the firing began. He fixes the time as about 8:15 p. m. Neither he nor his companion had any inkling that anyone was in the immediate vicinity until the fusillade began. He said that one piece of metal lodged in the tire that was the target for some of the shot looks like a slug.

Lieut. Ira A. Warren has an appointment from the department of commerce bureau of the census at Washington to make the census of distribution for the government in the town of Killingly, and will begin his work at once. Lieut. Warren will visit every distributing organization in town in the course of obtaining the information the government's seeks, and will operate by authority of an act of congress approved June 18, 1929.

Included in the classes of business to be checked on are retail stores, wholesalers, commission merchants, country buyers of farm products, cooperative marketing associations, cooperative buying associations, filling stations, automobile repair shops, auction concerns, brokers, manufacturers' agents, supply houses and equipment dealers and restaurants.

Lieut. Warren has a questionnaire form on which questions are printed about the things the government wants to know relative to these business enterprises. The name of the business, its owner, location, where established, postoffice address, and whether a branch or one of a group of similar establishments. The distributor will be asked as to the number of his employes, total salaries and wages paid them during the past year; rent, interest and other expenses of the year. Inquiry will be made as to the value of stock on hand and for sale, amount of sales during 1929, repair and service operations, farm products bought or taken in from farms, number and kind of meat animals slaughtered during the year.

The distributor will have some checking to do, much after the manner of making out an income tax return, in satisfying the government's desire for knowledge relative to his or her business. The enumerator will begin his work at once in order that there may be no unnecessary delay in completing the distribution census for Killingly.

This census work is only one feature of the taking of the 1930 census. Other enumerators will begin taking the population census during April.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Emma J. Niles

This afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Emma J. Niles was held from the home in East Killingly, with funeral services at the United Baptist church in that place. Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church conducted the service, during which Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cook and Mrs. Elizabeth White sang At Eventide, and Nearer My God to Thee. Burial was in the Chase cemetery. The bearers were Leonard Bartlett Claude Moran, William H. Cook and Fred Coutier. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

Orpheum theatre, today and Friday, John Barrymore in General Crack. Matinees at 2:30, evenings at 8.—Adv.

There were brief snow flurries, mixed with rain, in Danielson this afternoon on the 42nd anniversary of the great blizzard of 1888.

A letter from Leslie M. Downs from Rensselaer, Ind., to his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear, tells of the recently completed trip from this town to the Hoosier state in a 1922 model Ford. He followed U. S. route 6. The first two or three days out, especially in Pennsylvania, he encountered snow, in some places a foot deep, and this gave him some difficulty, but he managed to get through and thereafter had good going. His repair bill for the car for the entire trip was but 30 cents. Mr. Downs is now with an aviation company. He already holds a limited pilot's license, and will work part time while qualifying for an unlimited license. Mr. Downs studied at Killingly high school before going to Hawaii to take a course of two years at the University of Honolulu.

L. Edwin Hill, secretary of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. has announced the selection of a score of athletes from Y teams of the county to represent it at the tournament at Storrs, as an All Windham Y. M. C. A. team, March 22. The players are: Danielson, M. Young, R. Mayhew, G. Gale, C. Withey, J. Adams; Putnam, J. Denning, C. Murphy, M. Hannifan, M. Marion, F. Murphy, W. Cody, F. Cody; Thompson, L. Auger, R. Bousquet, E. Vito; Woodstock, R. Anderson, J. Banks, J. Canty, C. Young and S. Dart.

Two girls in their 'teens, one 16, the other 17, both residents of this town, were picked up today in Albany, N. Y., by a representative of the Travelers' Aid society. They unexpectedly left town yesterday morning, took the 9:33 train out of Putnam for Boston, and then went on from that city to Albany. They were to be returned here tonight.

Mrs. Rene Buteau of North Main street was hostess to the members of the Entre Nous club. At bridge the winners were Mrs. Earl Wood, Mrs. George J. Heneault and Mrs. Frank Gorman.

Chief A. P. Woodward and Deputy Chief C. A. Hamilton of the Danielson fire department are to be in Providence Thursday evening attending a meeting of the Rhode Island Fire Chiefs' club, at which meeting a film dealing with fire prevention methods is to be shown.

Dynamite Lou Brouillard, Rene Peloquin and Al Brouillard, all of Danielson will appear in bouts with opponents that have been selected for them at a boxing show in New London Friday evening.

Because of the engagement of the town hall for another purpose that night, the annual borough caucus is to be held in the Orpheum theater, previous to the evening show, next Tuesday.

During the coming week step-overs will be under construction along that section of Blackwell's brook where fishing will be allowed this year under the state stocked arrangement, and signs are to be erected setting forth the rules under which fishermen may operate.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powdrell have been spending some time in Havana. Mrs. Powdrell is recuperating after a recent operation.

Today circulars giving no hint of their origin other than that they represented the views of "Anti-Revaluation Voters" were distributed about town, urging attendance at tonight's special town meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Church school council of the Danielson Federation of Churches is to be held Friday evening in the Baptist church.

The first of the series of special Sunday evening Lenten services at the Westfield Congregational church is scheduled for next Sunday evening.

The young people of Killingly grange are arranging an interesting program to be presented at next Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange.

NO. GROSVENORDALE BOWLING LEAGUE CLOSES TONIGHT

The "Big Four" bowling league will break up tonight on Metras' alleys when the Over-the-Top and St. John teams clash. The Artisans team is the leading team and has already won the cup. The Artisans had the lead all the way through the season. The other teams have no chance of catching up to the leaders.

Tourtellotte To Play Last Game

The Tourtellotte Memorial high school basketball teams will play their last game when they oppose the strong Woodstock academy teams Friday night, in the Tourtellotte gymnasium. The Woodstock academy boys' team has lost but one game and the girls' team has not been defeated for the past two seasons. In spite of these past records the local high school team is confident that they will be master of the situation.

DAYVILLE

Dayville Pioneers attended the first annual banquet of the Killingly Interchurch basketball league at the Danielson Methodist church Monday evening. N. Lorne Greig, in a few felicitous remarks welcomed the league, and Walter Weeks, captain of the local team, told of their achievements. Rev. William Swainson, pastor of the Congregational church, spoke briefly on "Our Boys and the Y."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmonston have been at East Glastonbury on Monday, attending a funeral.

The Tuesday Night Bridge club met with Mrs. John Parkin. The honors of the evening were won by Mrs. William Douglas and Mrs. Herman Steinbough.

PUTNAM

RHEA PLANT SOLD TO N. S. CAMPBELL FOR $60,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, March 12—The assets of the National Rhea company, defunct Rhode Island corporation were sold at three o'clock this afternoon at a public auction held at the plant of the company on Jefferson street to N. Stuart Campbell, wealthy Providence textile man who made the purchase at a price of $60,000.

Mr. Campbell's bid was the only one made for the concern as a whole. Thirty textile men from New England and the middle Atlantic states were present at the auction but none had any interest in the purchase of the property as a whole.

When it was made known that Mr. Campbell's offer exceeded the total bids of the property in lots and that he was high bidder and new owner, Mr. Campbell made the following statement: "On and after this date the plant operated by the National Rhea corporation will be conducted by the Putnam Spinners Inc. The affairs of the management of the receivership will be cleared about March 22 and the new firm will proceed at once."

Whether or not the plant will resume operations in its entirety is unknown since Mr. Campbell left town shortly after his price had been accepted. He did not comment on the new organization that is to take charge of affairs within the next few days.

The sale of the plant and the announcement that it is to resume its activities under a reorganized board of management is the most encouraging news the city has learned in many months. The announcement of the intentions of the new concern to revive the industry here on or about the 25th of the month will be a part of the programme for the revival of business in a national sense within the next sixty days, as was recently predicted by the president in Washington.

If the Putnam Spinners Inc., start in with a capacity employment list, about 160 operators will be given employment. The majority of workers at the mill have been out of work for about six weeks pending the sale of the assets of the Rhea corporation and the reorganization of the board of management.

The National Rhea company which has ceased to exist, located in Putnam in 1924. Mr. Campbell was then treasurer of the organization. The concern manufactured rayon yarn. It is completely equipped for the work and results of recent operation under the receivership of the management which has been styled as a handicap, were very encouraging. Under the leadership of the new owners the concern should come to be one of the most successful in the country. A ready market is always available for its products, according to Lewis A. Waterman, receiver of the National Rhea corporation who has been managing the affairs of the company since its resumption of operations a month ago.

After entering the bid price of the Providence mill man on record, Providence auctioneers in charge of the sale then proceeded to auction the assets in parcel lots, in an effort to secure a higher price than the initial bid of Mr. Campbell. It appeared at noon that the plant would be sold as a going concern to the former treasurer since the parcel bids in every instance were ridiculously low, in consideration of the cost price of the articles when purchased new in 1924. In one instance a lot composed of 14 carding machines valued at nearly three thousand dollars apiece, were sold at a top bid of $4,900.

At noon time when half of the property had been removed from the block, the net returns when totaled did not rival half the amount of the $60,000 purchase price offered by Mr. Campbell.

Aside from Mr. Campbell, there were but about five men who took an active part in the bidding, their interest being only in a few articles.

Since the appointment of Lewis A. Waterman of Providence as receiver of the corporation, it has been offered for sale by auction on several occasions under court decrees obliging it to be sold as a going concern at a minimum price fixed by the court. The upset price of $147,500 did not command the slightest degree of interest and it was not until further court decrees permitting sale of the assets to the highest bidder were granted, did the receiver gain an opportunity to close his trust.

CARGILL TEXTILE CO. HAS DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, March 12—While Putnam was busy interesting itself in the sale of the bankrupt National Rhea corporation today, hoping that results of the auction would result in the reorganization of the management and the resumption of manufacturing operations, the Cargill Textile company, with a plant on Truesdale street made known its intentions of liquidating. The closing down of the little rayon winding plant was received as another industrial setback to the city.

The company was organized and incorporated about three years ago. John H. Moss of Cottage street was appointed manager and successfully directed the activities of the mill. Machinery is being dismantled and is soon to be forwarded to an out-of-town concern which purchased it.

During the few years that the mill was in existence employment was given to about 25 people. A larger force was maintained during rush seasons.

No explanation for the discontinuance of operations has been offered by the ownership.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Maria S. Brown

A death at the Haven in Abington today was that of Mrs. Maria S. Brown of Florence street, this city. Mrs. Brown died early this morning, her death being the direct result of injuries sustained in a fall, several months ago. She was in her 86th year.

Mrs. Brown was born in Pomfret on November 14, 1844, the daughter of William and Lucretia (Wheeler) Tucker. She was married to Hiram Brown, a resident of Putnam who died a number of years ago. Mrs. Brown made her home on Florence street for a number of years. She had been in failing health for about a year. Shortly before Christmas, while going from one room to another in her home she slipped and sustained a fracture of the hip. Her advanced years lessened the chances for her recovery. She was removed from the Day Kimball hospital a few weeks ago to the Haven in Abington to recover.

Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn was elected to head the Putnam Lodge of Elks during the ensuing year at a meeting of the lodge held in Elks home on Main street last evening. Mr. Bedard is the first out of town resident to be elected exalted ruler of the local fraternity. Other officers whose nominations were confirmed last night were Sidney P. Marland, Danielson, esteemed leading knight, Henry N. Benoit, esteemed loyal knight, James J. Charron, esteemed lecturing knight, George Lewis Jr., secretary, Lucius P. Merriam, treasurer. Lionel H. Charron, out-going exalted ruler was named a delegate to the grand lodge convention to be held in July in Atlantic City.

This afternoon at the home in Putnam Heights, funeral services for Walter S. Carpenter were held. Rev. Henry H. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city officiated at the service. Burial was in the family plot in the Putnam Heights cemetery. Committal exercises were conducted according to ritual by the members of the Quinebaug lodge of Masons of which Mr. Carpenter was a member.

Local banks and business houses, together with practically all of the cities and towns of eastern Connecticut have been advised to keep a sharp look-out for the appearance of ten and twenty dollar Federal reserve notes alleged to have been counterfeited. The spurious bills are described by government officials as being dissimilar from the genuine bills in the photographic plates and engraved designs. They also are said to be somewhat thicker and stiffer than the valid currency.

Recently purchased supplies, consisting of new handcuffs, revolvers, night sticks and black jacks, ammunition and new office equipment were received by the police department this morning. The equipment will be issued to patrolman at once, Capt. A. J. Dubreuil said this morning.

Deputy Game Warden George H. Liard continued the work of setting out cock pheasants about the various hunting grounds in this section of the county today. The birds are beautiful specimens of animal life, Warden Liard said and nearly all are full grown. They were received from the department of fisheries and game in Hartford yesterday.

E. Leslie Beebe, manager of the local telephone exchange was in New London today on business.

The weekly meeting of the Putnam Rotary club was held at one o'clock today with a luncheon at the Putnam Inn.

During the weeks preceeding the grand jury hearing to be given Leon A. Trudeau, Webster man, charged with the murder of his wife Cecilia, which crime is alleged to have been committed in Wilsonville, Conn., police investigators of Webster are devoting their time to the gathering of additional bits of evidence to be added to the case already woven around the young Webster man. Trudeau will be given a hearing before the grand jury in Worcester in May, it was said today.

It was said today that a new state road to be constructed for some distance from a point on the Providence pike road near the intersection of Mechanics and School street, north, is included in this year's road building plans of the state highway department.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Felix Wakely is employed as a dresser tender in the Paragon mills, Providence.

Mrs. Charles Williams has been a recent Norwich visitor.

William Eaton has finished his clerical duties for the American Woolen Co. in Moosup.

Mrs. Emma Bourque is able to walk on the street with the aid of a cane, having discarded her crutches. She has been an invalid for several months and unable to walk. She was injured in an automobile accident.

Mrs. George W. Loring, Miss Ella Lawton, Mrs. Stuart Ellsworth and Mrs. L. Howard Cross were in Moosup Tuesday evening and attended the exercises at the night school. The pupils have finished the 75-night course. Their attendance was the best of any school in the state, 95 per cent. Mrs. George Loring, in behalf of the Connecticut D. A. R. and representing the local D. A. R. chapter, presented pins to twenty-six of the pupils for perfect attendance. Their able instructors were Miss Mae Healey and Miss Louisa Maggia, day teachers in the Moosup school, and Leon Rockwell, principal of Wauregan grammar school. The local D. A. R. chapter sent for the exercises a beautiful bouquet of pink carnations which was much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgerton, Mrs. James L. Gardner and Mrs. L. Howard Cross were Norwich visitors Wednesday.

NORTH STERLING

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs Delbert LaFantasie is to be called Patrick Ernest.

Word has been received here that Robert G. C. Spooner of U. S. S Camden is enroute from Balboa to Porto Rico.

Mrs. John Winther and Mrs. John Hansen were callers in South Killingly the past week.

Mrs. William Nicol, Mrs. William Fisher, Mrs. Wilfred Rioux and Mrs John Hansen were callers at the home of Mrs. Arthur Miller, Tuesday, it being Mrs. Miller's birthday.

More than 1,000,000 persons visited the Chicago art institute last year.

JEWETT CITY

LISBON TOWN MEETING OVERLOOKING LIGHTS

With interest residents of the town of Griswold and the borough of Jewett City noticed Wednesday in The Bulletin, the items mentioned in the warning for a town meeting to be held in Lisbon. The matters to be considered as printed are for the purposes of levying a tax on the last perfected grand list of said town; to meet the expenses of said town, and to provide for the appropriations made and authorized at the last annual meeting of said town. It was believed in Griswold that some action, possibly favorable, was contemplated by the town of Lisbon in reference to the proposed lighting arrangement for the new Quinebaug viaduct. There are to be 26 lighting poles with fixtures on the bridge which must be erected during construction. Twenty of these cement standards, which will extend to the middle of the river, fall to Griswold's share. At a cost of $4,000 these have been taken care of by the town which has appropriated $3,000, and by the borough, whose vote of $1,000, provisional upon favorable action by the town, now becomes available. From the center of the stream to the "bend" there are to be six standards at a cost of $1,200 which is Lisbon's share. The opinion was expressed at Monday's town meeting in Griswold that the great bridge should be lighted in a manner befitting such a fine exemplification of engineering skill. Hence the favorable vote. It is the cause of no little speculation here whether or not the Connecticut state highway department is to build a 2,550-foot viaduct at a cost of close to a half-million dollars, which is to be part lighted and part dark.

Have your eyes examined by Dr. C. A. Spear, optometrist. Hours 7 to 9 every Friday evening. Anthony Bldg.—adv.

Pachaug grange benefit whist was held at Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chesbro's Tuesday evening. The prizes went to Mrs. P. J. Melady, Mrs Thomas Brown and Mrs. Frank Morgan, John Medick, Maxime Pepin and Thomas Brown. The door award was given Clara Gerbitz. There were nine tables. The next whist will be at Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Holmes'.

Mrs. Laura Jodoin has as her guest for three weeks, Mrs. Walter M. Ellis of New Bedford, while Mr. Ellis is in St. Louis, Mo., on business for his firm.

Edward Blanchard, William McNicol and A. C. Burdick were in Providence Tuesday, attending a convention and banquet at the Biltmore hotel, given by the Aetna Insurance Co.

BIG STEEL GIRDERS REQUIRE SPECIAL DERRICK

Local people have been much interested during the last three days in the unloading of the big steel girders which will span the piers in the Quinebaug river. Weighing 23 tons each, they are 100 feet long and 8 ft. high. A special derrick and shackle were brought here from Providence to lift them from the cars. A bridge was built across the Pachaug river over which the big trusses will be moved on rollers. One car now on the Ninigret siding is loaded with big steel contact rests, fitted with great spool devices which are calculated to take care of the expansion and contraction, in the spans, caused by extremes of heat and cold. The derrick has a 115-foot square steel mast. Its height by comparison may be noted in the fact that the Congregational church spire is 110 feet high from the corner stone to the base of the cross.

The World Wide Guild girls met at Mrs. John Davis' home Tuesday evening, eight being present. The vice president, Miss Ruby Gray, presided at the business meeting. The time was spent in doing White Cross work, which was rolling bandages to be sent to India. Toys and puzzles were brought by the members to be sent to Porto Rico. The hostess served ice cream, lady fingers, maccaroons and ginger ale punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Coles are leaving town in two weeks, to live in Pt. Pleasant Beach, N. J., where Mr. Coles has come into possession of his father's property recently. Mr. Coles has been the overseer of black dyeing in Aspinook bleachery.

Eyes. See Good and see better. Finn Blk., Friday, 3-5:30, 6-9.—adv.

Dorcas circle of the King's Daughters met at Mrs. W. H. Payne's home Tuesday evening. It was voted to transfer three hundred dollars from the Christmas seal fund to the town anti-tuberculosis fund which is administered by the health officer, Dr. G. H. Jennings, and A. C. Burdick, secretary and treasurer of the committee appointed for that purpose. At the close of the business meeting a St. Patrick's day program of conundrums had been arranged by Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst, and this was much enjoyed.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Charles Miller

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Miller was held at Voluntown Methodist church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. J. W. Carter of Jewett City officiated. Burial was in Robbins cemetery; the bearers were Albert Dawley, Jr. Harold Bitgood, Lester and Arthur Dawley, Clifford Adams and Ernest Eccleston. There were beautiful flowers. Undertaker E. E. Gilbert was in charge of the arrangements.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Carter and Rev. G. F. Goodenough attended the meeting of the council of religious education held at Trinity Methodist church in Norwich Tuesday evening, to meet the new state secretary.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. John Taylor was a recent visitor in Cranston, R. I., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Swanson.

Two Plainfield high school graduates of the class of 1929 have won honors at Storrs, bringing credit to their alma mater. Miss Lola D. Selley attained first honors for the first semester and Andrew O. Laakso attained second honors.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beers of Preston, former residents of Plainfield, were recent visitors in town.

Clarence W. Kingsley has been transferred from Salt Lake City to Shreveport, La.

Mrs. William Buell is substituting in the Voluntown school.

The M. M. club was entertained by Mrs. Raymond Lathrop Tuesday evening. Bridge was played and the prizes were won by Mrs. Augusta Nolan, Mrs. John C. Kingsley and Mrs. Walter Lathrop.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dawley and family of Stonington were callers in town this week.

Mrs. Annie B. Briggs was in Norwich Tuesday and attended the anniversary meeting of The Bulletin Social Corner club No. 2 at the Buckingham memorial.

In the Island of Jersey cabbages grow taller than a man's head, and the long stalks are dried and polished and sold to tourists for walking sticks.

Costs 85 Cents A Month To Lose Pounds of Ugly Fat

Thousands of Women Know This Is True

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominnt abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful every morning in a glass of hot water and when you have finished the first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat—now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 vitalizing salts of Kruschen (Salts that your blood, nerves and glands must have to function properly)—have presented you with glorious health.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends—"One 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts—you can always get it at Lee & Osgood Co.

Talk IS CHEAP

It really costs very little to talk by telephone with out-of-town friends or relatives. You will get the lowest rate if you tell the operator that you will talk with anyone who answers. This is known as a "station-to-station" call.

Rates are very low

Out-of-town telephone rates have been reduced several times in recent years—and the quality and speed of the service has been vastly improved, too. If you haven't kept posted on out-of-town rates, you'll be surprised to learn how inexpensive they really are.

Take these for example—

Here are some station-to-station rates that will interest you. They are in effect during the day, until 7 P. M. After that time rates of forty cents or over are reduced on this class of call.

From Norwich to

Bridgeport	$ .45	Albany, N. Y.	$ .70
Derby	.45	Boston, Mass.	.50
Hartford	.30	Garden City, L. I.	.90
New Britain	.35	Newark, N. J.	.75
New Haven	.40	New York, N. Y.	.70
New London	.10	Philadelphia, Pa.	1.00
Norwalk	.50	Providence, R. I.	.35
Stamford	.55	WhitePlains,N.Y.	.60
Torrington	.45	Worcester, Mass.	.45
Waterbury	.45	Yonkers, N. Y.	.65

Charges on all calls for which the rate is 25 cents or over may be reversed without extra cost.

Give the Distant Number to your LOCAL operator

That's all you need do to place an out-of-town telephone call, when you know the number of the distant telephone and will speak with anyone who answers. The local operator will handle the call for you, no matter how far away the distant point may be.

FIGHTING THE BORER

That authorities in this state are endeavoring to get better compliance with the corn borer requirements need occasion no surprise, barring the fact that those against whom pressure is being brought to bear ought to appreciate the importance of doing their part in the elimination of the pest.

There are two ways of going about the task, that of persuasion through educational effort and that of enforcement through prosecution. How these methods will work out will be disclosed by the progress made in Connecticut and Rhode Island, for the state to the east has deemed it necessary to hold the threat of prosecution over those who fail to comply with the requirements concerning the disposal of the corn stalks and stubble.

Probably those who have done little or nothing toward destroying the material which is likely to harbor the borers or their eggs realize the detrimental effects of the pest. If they are large growers of corn they cannot certainly disregard it. If they are small growers they may think that it makes little difference to any crop they may raise, but whether big or small, every grower has reason to consider the other fellow. If he disregards requirements for checking the pest he becomes a menace to his neighbor. He may disregard his own welfare but he cannot rightfully use that same attitude toward others. It isn't the kind of treatment that he would welcome for himself from his neighbor. It is only when he does his best to reduce the pest on his own land that he can offer any advice or make complaint to the land owner adjoining.

If the passing along of the proper urging and instructions to Connecticut corn growers will meet requirements, all well and good. The way that involves the least friction, provided it is efficient in getting desired results, is the best one, but it is apparent from the efforts that are being made in both states that there are plenty who have failed to do their part, too many who are giving their aid and encouragement to the corn borer instead of to those who are trying to eliminate it. The only astonishing fact in connection with the work of eradication is that so many are lined up on the wrong side, when their interests are all the other way.

POLLING THE PEOPLE

Straw votes have for the most part been connected with elections. Up to within a short time they have been looked upon with skepticism. They have not been thorough enough to indicate without question what the outcome would be. Straw votes which have been made with a thoroughness that covered the country, included a considerable percentage of those who would vote and been conducted impartially have given such polls a better standing. They have predicted the result in advance. They have indicated the sentiment of the people and in accordance with such expression the country has later voted.

Just now there is a nationwide demand for an expression of the people of this country on prohibition. Through different mediums an effort is to be made to provide it. Certain of the states have already acted in a manner which indicates the sentiment of their people. Others are making provisions for a referendum on the subject and magazines and organizations are engaged in the same effort.

In the nationwide poll of the Literary Digest the first figures disclosed show a marked sentiment against the dry law. The majority demand is for repeal. By more than two to one the vote is against the enforcement of the present law. Thus far votes have been received from only a few of the states, wet states showing a wet preference and dry states backing their known attitude. It is in the vote by states throughout the country that the real test is to come and it is a test in which all who can should participate instead of refraining and letting the poll give a wrong impression.

This week the National Republican club of New York city wrestled with the subject. Asked to express itself in regard to the repeal of the 18th amendment it refused to table the question and voted in the affirmative by a good majority. There has been some doubt whether that represents the sentiment of New York state as well as the city and there may well be, but the poll which is being taken of New York, in the first disclosure of figures, puts it in favor of repeal by a big vote.

Early figures may be entirely upset later on, but expressions which have been made thus far in various ways tell their own story.

TOO MUCH WHEAT

A warning that should not go without attention is that which has been issued by Chairman Legge of the farm relief board. He is talking in this instance to the wheat growers, who hold the center of the stage just now in regard to farm relief, and he indulges in some plain talk when he tells them that they must do something to help themselves. Instead of getting the impression, as the result of the manner in which the board has been buying wheat, that they can undertake to increase their crops from season to season, he tells them that they must arrange to reduce their production. He advises a 20 per cent reduction, but insists that there should be at least a 10 per cent cut in order to furnish the cooperation to which the board is entitled.

Chairman Legge directs attention to the fact that it is a wrong attitude for the wheat growers to continue to make conditions worse while the board is endeavoring to make them better. Instead of contributing a handicap the growers should do what they can to relieve the situation themselves.

According to statistics which have been kept over a period of years, the annual wheat crop of the world has shown a gain in the last three years considerably in excess of the previous six years. The increase in the consumption is not keeping pace with the production. In other words, the production is steadily growing beyond requirements and it is quite evident that this country must meet keener competition in exportations of the grain while world wheat production is growing.

In other lines of production when the point is reached where production is way beyond requirements there is a curtailment. Mills reduce their output and it is in keeping with the same policy that Chairman Legge is asking the wheat growers to act. It has been persistently maintained that much of the farm relief that is sought lies in the hands of the farmers themselves. Whether Chairman Legge succeeds in getting the cooperation from the wheat growers that he seeks, it is quite evident that he is putting the proposition up to them in a manner which should get respect.

IN FIFTH DISTRICT

If a special election is called for the fifth congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Glynn, it is inevitable that there will be a hot political contest. It is a district in which the late congressman was highly esteemed and with one exception during his long career in congress he always carried the district. That he would have been able to succeed himself had he lived is probable, but the suddenness of his passing, like that of Congressman Kaynor in Massachusetts, leaves the situation open for the raising of various questions which may or may not be justified but which may be so employed as to have their influence.

Already it has been intimated that any election that is held will be made the object of special attention by the national democratic organization. The aim would be to play upon unemployment as a reason for a change in the political representation from that district. It is a district which has its industrial interests and a district where it must be quite as apparent as anywhere else that the efforts to deny Connecticut the benefits which it needs from congressional action have come from the opponents of the republican policies. To that or any other district in the state it is impossible to bring any shade of satisfaction from the position which has been taken by the democrats and insurgents. They have demonstrated what could be expected if they were in control of congress. They have shown the necessity for keeping a solid republican delegation in Washington from this state and none should realize that more than the people of the fifth district.

The republicans are not responsible for the unemployment, the stock market crash or the uncertainty resulting from delayed tariff action, and democratic spellbinders cannot make them.

DOPE PRODUCTION

Testimony which goes to show that there cannot be an international agreement for the restriction of the production of narcotics any too soon was furnished before the Wickersham committee by witnesses who declared that 90 per cent of the habit-forming drugs smuggled into this country come through the port of New York from four European countries.

This means that despite the efforts which are being made by the United States to control the drug traffic in this country, the determination on the part of those making a handsome living from the demoralization of humanity to persist in their business is beyond reach. Such enforcement as we are giving is not meeting requirements. However great the amount that is stopped there is still enough received to serve 166,000 addicts in this country and to encourage new addicts every year.

There may be a possibility of bettering the work of enforcement, and yet the ease with which dope can be gotten in makes it apparent that the problem is not an easy one. With production restricted to such narcotics as are needed for medical and scientific purposes, there would be an opportunity for the control of the supply, but as long as the supply is as great as the legal and illegal demand it is evident that there are those desperate and depraved enough to defy all regulations in their efforts to get the profit that lies in serving those who have been encouraged to get into the clutches of the habit-forming drugs and who cannot get away from the entanglement.

Every inquiry serves to emphasize the demands for better control of the production of dope as a means of overcoming the frightful drug habit.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Thursday, the 13th, but why worry?

This is the season of the year when Byrd and birds start their northward journey.

Would an offer of $80,000 to play baseball this summer entice you away from other fields of activities?

The man on the corner says: It will not be possible to keep that fishing tackle hidden much longer.

With marbles, tops, bouncing balls and jumping ropes in full swing, what's the use in denying that spring has arrived?

It isn't going to be possible to put that income tax computation off much longer and get the return in before the closing hour this week end.

Admiral Byrd says the greatest trouble on his trip was monotony. He might have discovered plenty of that without going so far from home.

THE GOAL

In her private office twenty-five stories above the sidewalk Muriel fingered the morning mail. While one hand reached for a paper knife her eyes sought the window beyond which towered great office buildings and from one point, through a chasm of stone and steel, gleamed a slender slit of lake.

Five years ago this same window had seemed like a beautiful picture to Muriel, with now and then the smoking trail of a steamer traversing the canvas, but little by little man's power and ingenuity had curtained the scene with architectural grandeur until the lake which Muriel loved so well had almost disappeared. Some day another tower would arise and the curtain would be complete.

"Queer how people allow the things they like to be crowded out of sight." She thought of her own self, how she had been building little towers of efficiency and progress. Had they not almost completely obliterated that dream and hope that she had once held about Vincent McKenzie?

What was left of it? Nothing but the memory of their last day together out on the beach, the memory of Vincent, sitting beside her on the sand, imploring her to marry him, the memory of herself, looking out across the water because she could not look at Vincent, and holding to her point that she wanted something big and substantial from life and declaring that love was only a lesser force easily displaced by demands of greater necessity.

"You don't really mean that you are turning your back on love?" asked Vincent.

"I'm steeling my heart against it," came Muriel's unfaltering reply. They had driven to her home in silence. He had said good-by to her, and she had not seen or heard from his since that day. Always in the back of her mind lingered the hope that he would return. At first it had been cheerful and refreshing like the view from the office window, but of late it had been crowded out until only a slender thread remained.

"How foolish of me," mused Muriel half aloud, "I have everything else that I want," and she turned with her customary efficiency toward the disposal of her morning mail. With astounding rapidity the size of the pile before her diminished until there remained just one more letter. As she noted the handwriting her heart gave a wild little thump. Always and anywhere would she know that writing. With eyes for nothing but the envelope in hand, she slit it feverishly and tore the contents from it.

"Dear Muriel: I will be in the city some time Wednesday and will take the liberty of calling at your office. Will you take dinner with me?

"VINCENT."

They dined on the plaza of a fashionable lakeside hotel. Muriel sipped her bouillon and appraised the features of the man across the table. She liked his dignity, the small line of gray fringing his temples, the network of small lines which solemnized the still fine eyes. Everything about him was as she had always hoped it would be. And he was talking of big things, cataloguing his experiences, his successes, his accomplishments of the last five years.

But gradually the gayness of Muriel's manner withered. She grew silent. Her eyes made wistful, searching excursions toward the eyes of her companion. Fear invaded her. Vincent's very nearness seemed remote. That intangible personal something which had once been between them—had it vanished altogether?

"Would you like to walk down on the beach?" he asked as they arose from dinner.

She was almost afraid to go for fear of what he might not say to her. The moonlight stalked like the ghost of a former happiness across the water, and the waves, brushing one another gently, sounded like the knell of some departed loveliness.

But now Vincent was speaking, and suddenly his voice retrieved the dear, familiar tones of that other night five years ago. "Muriel." There was mysterious enchantment in the sound of her name as he uttered it, the rush of everything coming back as it had been once and ought to be again. "All this that I've done, I have done for you, and I came back tonight to ask you again to marry me."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 12—Should it fall out that Jim Ham Lewis of Illinois, and other points west, manages for a third time to beat the political jinx which makes his official biography bristle with "unsuccessful candidate" notations, senate gallery-goers will be in for a double treat.

Oratorically, Jim Ham is a joy to the ear. Sartorially, he is a sight to see, despite the grayish tinge with which the anxious years have now dimmed the sometime "pink" glow of the whisker that adorns his countenance.

The Bystander unhesitatingly pronounces the oratorical effects of Candidate Lewis the most delightful noted in years of press gallery observation.

The musical quality of that singing baritone has never been approached by anyone else. Tom Heflin of Alabama has a fine speaking voice, and knows how to use it. George of Georgia is good when he gets mad. Joe Robinson of Arkansas can be a tumult of verbal sound and fury when he so desires. But none of these equals the singing quality of Jim Ham Lewis that makes every speech almost an operatic aria.

Symphonic Garb

And when it comes to dress, the cream vest or summer-wear white Stetson of noble proportions familiar as the Heflin ensemble, the invariable red carnation of senator, Dr. Copeland, pale into insignificance beside memories of the symphonies in brown, from spats to whiskers and bushy hair, with which Senator Lewis was wont to bedeck himself.

Nobody but Ray Baker of Nevada, one time director of the mint, ever gave Washington so many sartorial thrills.

It is true that Jim Ham's speeches were a problem for senate short hand reporters. They were never quite certain. Those rolling periods rambled on and on, beautiful in tone effects but lacking in punctuation. The short hand lads just did the best they could to find and pin down the ends of the sentences.

Looking back over the Lewis record, you find this native of old Virginia first entering national politics as a member of the house from Washington state in 1897 as a democrat.

Before that he tried fruitlessly for the governor of Washington and he also failed to "come back" in the 56th congress running as a "fusionist."

He tried for senate in 1899, for the democratic vice presidential nominations in 1896 and 1900—and lost. Then he gave Washington state up as a bad job politically for a democrat, and moved to Chicago in 1903. His political judgment was good.

Another Whirl

After losing out once more in a race for governor of Illinois, he finally made the senate in 1913, got licked for re-election six years later, got licked again for governor in 1920 and now he's out to take another whack at the senate.

And his republican opponent might be that feminine chip of the old Mark Hanna block, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick.

"The Integrity of the Universe"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Thy righteousness is like the mountains of God; thy judgments are a great deep" ((Psalm 36:6).

Read: Psalm 36:5-10.

MEDITATION: God's ways are often as mysterious and unfathomable as the sea, into whose dark depths we cannot peer. But His righteousness, said the Psalmist, is "like the mountains." We can see the mountains. They do not change or pass away. They stand fast in all storms. To be on living terms with the world, we must believe that there is integrity at the heart of it. That alone makes life worth living and ideals worth striving for. Our righteousness is grounded in the righteousness of God. Whittier puts it—

"But nothing can be good in Him
Which evil is in me."

We can bravely trust the judgments of God, if His righteousness is like the mountains.

PRAYER: Lord, Thou are our light and our salvation. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so Thou art round about Thy people. In Thy surrounding righteousness we find comfort and security and peace. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

It is important that the taxpayer render on or before the due date—March 15, 1930, if filed on the calendar-year basis—as complete and final return as possible. However, a request for a reasonable extension of time may be granted. Application for an extension should be addressed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer files his return, together with a full recital of the cause for the delay. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no extension may be granted for a period of more than six months. The request must be made before the return is due. An extension of time for filing a return does not extend the time for payment of the tax, or any installment thereof, unless so specified in the extension.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue at request of the taxpayer may extend the time of payment of the tax, or any installment thereof, for a period not to exceed six months from the prescribed date. An application to ex tend the time of payment should be made through the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the return is filed and should state under oath the specific reason for desiring an extension and clearly indicate what hardship, if any, would result if the extension were not granted. The amount for which the extension is desired also should be stated. The Commissioner will not consider an application for an extension unless made on or before the due date of the tax or installment thereof.

If the extension is granted, interest on the amount is collectible at the rate of 6 per cent a year from the date when payment should have been made if there had been no extension to the expiration of the period of the extension.

CHILD TRAINING

Sympathetic Understanding

Lillian Weston.

In dealing with children, one should remember that little ones, like primitive people, delight in ornamentation, and that gratifying this taste is often really essential to their happiness.

A child once saw in a store window a pair of tasselled boots that were the exact counterpart of some she had long admired in the possession of a friend. She begged her mother to buy them for her, being then in need of a pair of shoes.

The mother said she would think about it, but, finally, went off shopping alone. When she returned, she handed her expectant little daughter a parcel. The little girl's hands trembled with eagerness as she untied the package; she was so excited by the idea of seeing her feet shod like her friend's. There would be three tassels embroidered on the toe of each boot, and the tops would be finished off with real silk tassels that matched! Then, when she took them out of the box, she saw—a pair of bronzed kid shoes—WITHOUT ANY TASSELS.

"Oh! Mama," she wailed, "these shoes haven't any tassels."

"I know it," was the calm reply, "but they are much better kid than those with tassels, and cost a dollar less."

The child shed bitter tears of disappointment, but the mother prided herself on "being practical."

Two or three years later, the same child wanted a work-basket, and, with a lively recollection of the shoes without tassels, and similar experiences, asked permission to help choose it. The mother assented, and took her daughter to a store where there were work-baskets of all shapes and sizes. The little girl soon found one that suited her. It was lined with cute little pockets, and was furnished with two pairs of scissors, a thimble that fitted her exactly, cotton and silk in assorted shades, a fancy pincushion, an emery ball in the semblance of a strawberry and other sewing accessories. The mother asked the price of her daughter's choice and was told, "Ten dollars."

Now ten dollars may seem a shocking price to pay for a work-basket, but is it not because we usually fail to consider its value relatively? One seldom has more than one or two work-baskets in an entire lifetime. Perhaps the saying, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," was never more fittingly aplied. This mother was not poor; she could have spared the money easily. However, she gasped with dismay when she heard the price. She had made up her mind to spend four dollars on a work-basket, and looking around the store, found one exactly like her little girl's choice, except—it lacked the decorative fittings.

"Won't this do as well?" she asked, adding, "I will give you my small scissors, also needles and thread, and buy you a thimble. Six dollars is too much to pay for those extra fripperies. I really can't afford it."

The child said nothing, as she had been trained to economise; but the four dollars was actually wasted, as she never cared for the unfurnished basket her mother bought.

Years afterwards, this mother wondered why she had so little influence over her daughter, and envied others whose children confided in them. She did not realize that a rift of misunderstanding came between her and the child when she first refused to indulge her taste for "fripperies," and that it kept widening through the years.

Some mothers have enough imagination to wander in the child's world, hand in hand with their little ones; but those who have lost the vision of youth, and pride themselves on "being practical" would do well to remember that "fripperies" have their place in the great scheme of creation. If anyone doubts it, let him note how the bare, hard rocks are usualy softened by vines and mosses and how exquisitely tinted weeds and wild flowers, with their luminous green leaves and tendrils will run riot over a rubbish heap in a vacant lot converting the ugly surfaces of old tin cans into ripples of beauty.

YOUR HEALTH

Sun Ray Lamps

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The United States Public Health Service recently published a report on the use of light in the treatment of disease, the importance of which merits its repetition in condensed form. It says that lamps emitting ultra-violet rays have unquestionably been of great value when used under certain conditions. Light may have a beneficial effect in certain diseases, some of which respond to light treatment more readily than others. The response also depends upon the severity of the disease, the state of immunity, and personal idiosyncrasies.

Light has been used with benefit in certain forms of anemia; in the treatment if diseases due to faulty assimilation; in the deficiency diseases due to lack of vitamins; in tuberculosis of bone, joints, and glands; for the cure of local conditions such as wounds and ulcers; and for the relief of deep-seated congestion, neuritis and certain skin diseases. Light is of value in the cure and prevention of rickets; it promotes growth; and it is of value in restoring tone and function during convalescence from severe infection.

There are three different types of lamps used for the production of artificial light for therapeutic purposes; first, those that emit heat, light, and ultra-violet rays in approximately the same proportion as sunlight; second, those in which ultra-violet rays predominate; and third, those that emit light and heat, but little ultra-violet light. The report goes on to describe the three types of lamps and concludes: "It will be evident from this discussion of the different types of lamps in use that a lamp that would be useful for one purpose would not be useful for another, and indeed might have a harmful effect. It is evident that a person without medical training should not select and use a lamp at random, but before purchasing and using a lamp should consult his physician." This accords with the constant advice of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, that people who want to keep well should have sufficiently frequent examinations by the family doctor so that he can help them avoid illness and know their health history in case he needs to prescribe for them; should be under his advice and direction.

Little Talks on Thrift

Spending Money To Help Business Often, But Not Always, Advisable

"Is it not at this time the duty of all good Americans to spend freely in order to help business?"

This question and others of similar import have of late found their way many times into letters reaching the writer of these lines. It is quite natural that such questions should arise when business conditions are somewhat below normal.

It must be borne in mind that what would be considered good advice to one person would be very unsound advice to another. It is true that everything possible should be done to develop greater business activity. Certainly, this cannot be accomplished if everyone is to hold aloof from spending money. There are institutions and individuals who can do a great deal toward helping speed up the business machine and it is plainly their duty to do so. This does not mean, however, that anyone should buy wastefully or, figuratively speaking, "throw money away." Many of the railroads and industrial corporations are making great outlays at the present time which furnishes employment for labor and keeps money in circulation. State and city governments, even the Federal government, are likewise exerting the same commendable efforts. In the same way, it is conceivable that smaller business organizations and individuals can find ways of helping the business situation without violating the laws of sound economics. Manifestly, all such activities should be applauded and encouraged.

There are, nevertheless, many individuals who at this time should be particularly careful not to spend any money unnecessarily. That this course of action is being followed by quite a large percentage of our people is indicated by increased savings bank deposits. Any man with a family dependent on him and possible unemployment lying ahead of him, certainly should save every penny possible. It should be remembered that when money is saved and put in a bank or invested in some good type of security, the money itself is not withdrawn from circulation. The bank or investment house or corporation which secures it from the individual almost immediately puts it out again into circulation in some form.

It is within the meaning of good thrift, therefore, either to save or to spend, depending entirely upon the circumstances of the individual. Buying things we do not need simply to help business is false economy. Failing to buy or invest where such transactions are sound and well-advised, is equally inadvisable. Let the individual study his own situation carefully and then follow the dictates of his best judgment.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Weather Data Important Byrd Expedition Results

Among the major contributions to science Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd expects from his Antarctic expedition are those relating to meteorological observations, the explorer indicates in a radio message to the National Geographical society, in Washington, D. C.

The vast continent which is "the home of the blizzard" long has been regarded as a "weather breeder" for continental and island areas in the southern hemisphere, including southern South America, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. But it hitherto has been the world's "weather blind spot" from lack of any sustained observations of its temperatures, barometric pressures, study of its land-level and altitude air currents, and similar data which are the raw materials of weather prediction.

Rear Admiral Byrd's message, transmitted the New York Times radio station, is addressed to Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, vice-president of the National Geographical society, since it was for Dr. La Gorce that Byrd named the expedition's meteorological station. The explorer tells how the station's observations were used in determining the time of flights and also the methods by which he has collected meteorological data for permanent scientific records. The message, dated January 8, says:

"So great has been the contribution of the La Gorce meteorological station to the success of our flights of exploration that I feel it my duty as well as my pleasure to report the facts.

"We dug our airplanes from under the snow in the spring as soon as the temperatures would permit. Shortly thereafter, on November 18, our weather men, Haines and Harrison, reported to me that they thought the weather was suitable for the base-laying flight. They made this prediction without any reports from the trail party.

"We left immediately and had sunshine for the 440-miles to the mountains. The visibility is generally so bad here that without sunshine we probably could not have landed successfully to lay down our base.

"A few days later, November 28, Haines reported the weather favorable for the South Pole flight and that it was possible we would not again get another day of such suitable weather. We left at once for the flight and had sunshine for practically the whole of the 1,600 miles. On December 5 the weather man reported that conditions were favorable for the flight to the eastward. We left at once and had good visibility all the way, which enabled us to photograph more than 50,000 square miles of unknown area.

"With bad visibility flights in Antarctica are largely profitless.

"It is in my opinion remarkable that the weather predictions have been made so very accurately with so few facts available. Subsequent weather has emphasized the notability of the predictions.

"In order to make one of two additional exploration flights we have watched the weather closely since our last flight, 24 days ago, but there has not been one suitable day.

"So it is clear that the contribution of the meteorological section to the success of our flights of exploration has been very great indeed.

"Haines and Harrison have also made valuable scientific records. They have made surface observations every hour, day and night, over a period of thirteen months. In the upper air they have made 400 pilot ballon runs to obtain the velocity and direction of wind at various levels. Many of these ballons have given wind data as high as 30,000 feet. Upper air humidity, pressure and temperature have been obtained by kite or airplane on 40 days over a period of three months.

"I am glad to be able to report to you the splendid work done by your representatives."

(Signed) Richard E. Byrd.

The technical men referred to in Rear Admiral Byrd's radio message are William C. Haines, meteorologist, whose salary is being defrayed by the National Geographical society, which also allotted a $50,000 fund to the Byrd expedition, and Henry T. Harrison, jr., whose salary is being paid by the Guggenheim Fund.

The National Geographical society contributed $25,000 toward the scientific work of Byrd expedition before its departure and, on November 22 last Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of The Society, radioed Byrd that "Our trustees and research committee have voted to double The Society's original grant, therefore award an additional $25,000, available when desired."

The entire amount of the National Geographical society's contribution being used in various phases of the scientific work being carried on by the expedition.

Why People Abhor Fat

Not only because it blights beauty and vigor, but because informed people regard it as needless. They know that a chief cause is a gland weakness, easily corrected.

Modern physicians, the world over, now aim at that weakness. Their method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, now used for 22 years. The countless fat people who have grown slender now everywhere show what this method does. Perhaps your close friends can tell you.

If you are over-fat, you owe to yourself a test of Marmola. The reasons and formula are in every box. Every druggist supplies it—$1 a box. Starving is not necessary. Go start today.

Mrs. Albert H. Chase of Sachem terrace is leaving Saturday for Florida for a visit of several weeks. She will join her cousins, Mrs. Franklin Haven and the latter's brother, Francis Munroe Endicott, of Boston, who are at St. Augustine for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Briggs arrived Wednesday at their home on Broadway, following two months' travel abroad. They returned on the Majestic Tuesday.

Miss Nancy E. Lucas, Miss Mary C. Lucas and Miss Jane McG. Aiken sailed from New York Wednesday for several weeks' trip to Bermuda.

The Home Service Sewing unit met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., of Slater avenue. The hostess served tea informally.

Miss Emma J. Thompson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, will arrive home Friday from Lasell seminary for a week-end holiday at her home on Washington street.

Mrs. Benjamin W. Bacon of New Haven is visiting her sister, Miss Mary A. Aiken.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF $5,250 IN FAVOR OF WATERFORD MAN

At 4:50 o'clock Wednesday afternoon a jury in the superior court at New London returned a verdict of $5,250 in favor of Louis Dixon of Waterford, in his $10,000 damage suit against the Jordan Mills, Inc., of Waterford, the W. J. Meade Co. of Springfield, Mass., and the Bigelow Boiler Co. of Bridgeport. The case was given to the jury about 4:15 o'clock and the verdict was returned 35 minutes later. The defendants rested shortly before 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a recess was taken until 2 o'clock. Following rebuttal testimony, the arguments took place and the judge charged the jury.

The suit arose from injuries alleged to have been received by Dixon March 22, 1929, when it is claimed he suffered a broken leg as a result of being caught in some heavy ropes being used in hoisting a boiler in place at the Jordan mills.

Witnesses heard Wednesday included W. G. Meade, W. G. Meade, Jr., and J. W. Meade, officials of the W. J. Meade Co., which had the contract for the installation of the boiler; Robert M. Caldwell of Waterford, who was employed by the Meade company on the job, and Thomas R. White of Springfield, who had charge of the installation of the boiler.

THOMAS P. SHARVAN FOUND DEAD WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Thomas P. Sharvan, about 60, veteran Norwich printer, was found dead on the floor of his room at the Norwich state hospital about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He died from a perforated ulcer of the stomach, according to Dr. N. B. Lewis of Norwich, medical examiner for the town of Preston, who investigated. Mr. Sharvan had been employed at the institution for about a year. He was an attendant on the night force.

Mr. Sharvan was a native of Norwich and had lived here practically all of his life. He was employed for years as a printer in the various printing shops in and about Norwich, working for a number of years for the Norwich Evening Record, The Norwich Morning Bulletin and for Milo R. Waters, Norwich printer, and also at the printing shop of the Versailles Sanitary Fibre company.

Mr. Sharvan was united in marriage with Elizabeth Ann Haggerty in Webster about 38 years ago. His wife died here in June, 1926. Mr. Sharvan is survived by a son, William J. Sharvan of Norwich, two daughters, Miss May Sharvan of Boston and Mrs. Elizabeth Ethier of New York, and a brother, John Sharvan of Providence. All those who knew Mr. Sharvan will learn of his death with sincere regret.

REACH HALF WAY MARK IN $30,000 CAMPAIGN

The half way mark in the $30,000 drive of the Norwich Community synagogue, which is being conducted this week, has been reached, it was announced Wednesday evening by the secretary, Louis Goldblatt. This amount is to be materially increased this (Thursday) evening, when the team captains will make their reports of further contributions. The meeting will be held at the B'nai B'rith rooms, Shetucket street.

A meeting was held this week at the residence of William Israelite of the Joseph Perkins road, when the captains were given additional prospects to interview. The workers displayed considerable enthusiasm at the meeting.

Additional contributors to the fund are Dr. J. J. Donohue, John J. Bell, A. Alexander, T. H. Beckwith, H. J. Browning, J. Greenstein, Mrs. S. Rosoff and Mrs. A. Schwartz.

EVENING HOURS AT LOCAL REVENUE OFFICE

The officials at the local revenue office at the court house experienced one of their busiest days this year, Wednesday, in assisting persons in filing income taxes. The local office will be open until 8 o'clock Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. This is done to accommodate persons employed in mercantile establishments.

The revenue officials, George M. Charbonneau and James Duffy, assistant, stress the point that persons required to file income taxes should do so as early as possible and not wait until the last minute Saturday. They urge those who do not have checking accounts to make their return early, so that they may get their money orders into the mail by Saturday night. Delinquents are liable to a fine.

OBITUARY

Miss Bertha A. Metzger

The death of Miss Bertha A. Metzger, formerly of Norwich, occurred at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Garfield Memorial hospital, Washington, D. C., following an illness of three weeks. She was a native of Greeneville and was a daughter of the late Jacob F. and Caroline A. Metzger. Miss Metzger had lived in the Greeneville section of the city practically all of her life. She went to Washington last June.

Surviving Miss Metzger are a sister, Mrs. William J. Tilley, of this city, and a brother, William F. Metzger, of New York city. She also leaves an aunt, Mrs. Isabella Karoll of Ledyard; a niece, Mrs. Fred Roberts, and a nephew, Russell W. Metzger, of New York; a nephew, Frederick W. Metzger, and a grand niece, Eleanor C. Metzger of Palmyra, N. J.

Miss Metzger was a member of the Greeneville Congregational church and of Euphemian circle of King's Daughters. She had many friends in this city, who will learn of her death with sincere regret and who extend their sympathy to the bereaved members of the family. All those who knew her admired her many fine qualities.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Nathan Brewster

At 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Bliss Brewster, widow of Nathan Brewster, was held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. George S. Draper, of No. 35 River avenue. The services were conducted by Mrs. Nettie Holt Harding of Boston and were attended by a large gathering of mourners, including people from Schenectady, New York and other places. There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was read by Mrs. Harding. The bearers were William H. Oat, Harvey M. Briggs, William R. Stevens, Charles A. Dowsett, J. Otis Winchester and John H. Ferguson. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker C. A. Gager.

Sewing Circle Meeting

The West End Community association sewing circle met Monday at the home of Mrs. Sourbrier, Mt. Pleasant street, to tie a quilt. There was a good attendance. Several members were reported ill. Mrs. Sourbrier, the president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Lena Latimer was chosen chairman of the committee in charge of the play to be given later, and the Misses Nina Perry and Grace Latimer were named her assistants. One new member was welcomed at the meeting. The next meeting will be in the form of a birthday party at the home of Mrs. Alquist of Dunham street. The birthday cake will be provided by Miss Elsie Sourbrier.

One-fourth of the live stock delivered at Omaha last year was trucked in.

REAR ADMIRAL CARR BURIED IN NORWICH

A number of relatives and friends from Norwich joined the assemblage in New London Wednesday morning, when the funeral of Rear Admiral Clarence Alfred Carr, U. S. N., retired, was held from his home, 767 Montauk avenue. At 10 o'clock, in St. Joseph's church, the pastor, Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, was celebrant of the solemn mass of requiem, with Rev. Michael Reagan deacon, Rev. Julius Babst, chaplain at Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island, sub-deacon, and Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan master of ceremonies. Rev. Matthew J. Judge of Hartford was seated in the sanctuary. A delegation of officers and men from the Submarine Base, officers of the army and coast guard, were in the congregation which filled the church. The regular Gregorian mass was sung by the choir and at the offertory a quartet from St. Mary's Star of the Sea church sang "Ave Maria." Following the final absolution by Father Fitzsimons, Henry J. LaFontaine of Norwich sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." As a recessional, the chorus choir sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The body was brought to Norwich for burial in the Lanman family plot in Yantic cemetery, where the grave was consecrated and the committal prayers read by Father Fitzsimons, with responses by Chaplain Babst of Fort Wright. In this plot rest Mrs. Carr's parents, Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman and Ann Cornelia Williams, with other relatives. At the cemetery a detachment of U. S. marines, in charge of Sergeant V. E. Boyle, assisted at the services and Bugler Charles M. O'Malley sounded Taps, after the casket, draped in the American flag, was lowered into the grave. The bearers were six chief petty officers from the Submarine Base. The flowers were exceptionally beautiful.

Among the mourners were Mrs. Carr's sister, Mrs. Charles C. Richards, of Chicago; her cousin, Mrs. J. Sherman Wight, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Admiral Carr's brother, Allen Carr, and his two sisters from Pennsylvania; Mrs. Clara Collier and Miss Collier, from Cleveland; Miss Matilda Carr, of Pennsylvania.

The State Diocesan Bureau was represented by Rev. Matthew Judge and Miss Marguerite Boylan, of Hartford.

In accord with Mrs. Carr's wishes the services were simple, although so very impressive.

Since the announcement of Admiral Carr's death, Sunday, his widow has received cable messages of condolence from Panama and from points in Europe and Asia, telegrams from San Francisco and Washington, with letters from near and far.

Admiral Carr lived so simply and so modestly that the full value and extent of his service to his country was realized by few of his acquaintances. He entered the United States Naval academy at Annapolis in 1875 and was graduated in 1879 as a cadet engineer. Following graduation he was assigned to U. S. S. Kearsarge. He remained there three years and was made an assistant engineer with the rank of ensign. In 1882 he was given leave of absence and became professor of marine engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology for three years.

He was assigned to Asiatic stations in China and Japan from 1885 to 1889. Recalled from Asia, he was assigned to the bureau of steam engineering of the navy department until 1892, and was commissioned past assistant engineer with the rank of lieutenant Feb. 16, 1892, while with the bureau. From 1892 to 1894 he was inspector of machinery and building for U. S. S. Marblehead.

He served in the Spanish-American war in Cuba and in the Philippines and was given medals for participation in both West Indies and Philippine campaigns.

While in the Philippine insurrection campaign he was commissioned lieutenant commander. He was ordered from the Philippines to the United States in 1904 and was assigned as inspector of machinery in connection with the building of the battleship Nebraska at Seattle and served for two years.

He was commissioned commander in 1906, and was assigned to U. S. S. Texas as fleet engineer. After one year in that assignment he became engineer officer of the machinery division of the Mare Island, Calif., navy yard. He was there until 1911.

The promotion from commander to captain was made before he was relieved from the Mare Island assignment. He was attached to the Babcock & Wilcox Boiler company at Bayonne, N. J., from 1911 to 1917. The company had navy contracts in connection with the equipping of service vessels.

After the entrance of the United States into the World war in 1917, Captain Carr was placed in charge of the machinery division at the Philadelphia navy yards. He received his commission as rear admiral in 1919. Following the armistice he was transferred to New York as inspector of machinery for mine sweepers. He contracted pneumonia, which left him in a weakened condition and he asked for and was given retirement because of disability, in 1920.

The admiral was a member of Murphy-Rathbun post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of New London; was also a member of the New York Yacht club and the Army and Navy club at Washington, D. C.; a member of the American Society of Naval Engineers and of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

The annual report of the American Sugar Refining Co., for the year 1929, issued Wednesday in booklet form, carries among other pictures an interior view of the Brooklyn Cooperage company's new carton plant at Versailles. This plant has a daily capacity of 1,000,000 cartons for Domino and Franklin package sugars.

Three Auto Drivers Tagged

Three Norwich drivers were red tagged Wednesday night by the local police for violation of the local traffic laws. Two were tagged on Main street and the other on Willow street. All three cases will be disposed of in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Next month will mark the sixth anniversary of the birth of the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus hospital. To the ladies responsible for its inception, it must be a great gratification to realize its present day value to the community and to the hospital. Sympathy, in itself, is a very beautiful and a very natural quality of the human heart. But to foster it, to mature it and, to enable it to bring forth beneficent fruit in the form of practical help, this, is to give it its real worth. We find a concrete example of this principle in the work of the Women's auxiliary.

To the spirit of sympathy, its members have added individual steadfastness, and the co-operation known as good team-work, all of which is resulting in the increasing usefulness of the organization.

For the membership committee Mrs. Lester reports the number of four added to her list the past month. While no campaign for membership is contemplated, if any one wishes to enroll herself as a member the committee and the auxiliary will be grateful. Every person and every dollar is welcome.

The production committee of which Miss Mary Paddock is chairman, and Mrs. Fred Sayles, co-chairman, with their associates, have continued faithfully to supervise the making of surgical dressings.

On Feb 5th and 13th, women from the Mt. Calvary, the A. M. E. Zion and the Grace Memorial Baptist churches were present at the sewing room of the Central Baptist church. Their diligent labor resulted in adding 2040 dressings to the hospital store. Feb. 19th and 26th the German Lutheran church sent a large delegation who fashioned 5045 gauze pads and 740 dressings. Through the generous loan from an auxiliary member, of an electric machine the women were also enabled to hem 42 crib sheets for which there was a crying need.

The house cleaning season looms up close at hand, and we ask you most urgently to part with all the old linen and soft, white cloth that you can possibly spare, to be used for bandages and pads.

There has been a great lack of it coming in, and the need is sore. Aside from the expense of new cloth, age makes the old far preferable to the new, owing to its pliability and its softness. Mrs. John Rogers, telephone 351, or a member of her committee, will gladly call for any contribution you may wish to make.

Why not mark on your calendar that on the second and fourth Friday of each month, Miss Constance Learned, telephone 229, will willingly call for any literature you may wish to send to the hospital?

Remind yourself to save any recent magazines, picture supplements of the Sunday papers, or the "funny sheets" which amuse and entertain the children.

This effort is quite worth while, contributing as it does, to the pleasure of the "shut-ins."

Holiday Activities.

Although February is the month shortest on days, it is certainly long on holidays. So Mrs. Judd and her interested helpers thought last month. On Lincoln day, the trays each held a fancy and appropriate napkin, and a picture card of Abraham Lincoln, with quotations from his Gettysburg address.

On Feb. 14th each patient was given a pretty valentine in the nature of a heart-shaped basket, pierced, of course, by a cupid dart, and filled with red and white candies. The tray napkins were also appropriate. The children were given real valentines. On the 22nd a box of delicate candy fruit drops on the trays was a pleasant surprise and the napkins reminded the invalids of the birthday of our great National hero, George Washington. All efforts of this kind serve to bring a little variety and cheer into the daily routine of invalidism, often so monotonous, even if not painful.

Student Nurses' Dance.

The student nurses celebrated St. Valentine's day with a dance and a theatre party.

The dance was entirely arranged by the nurses. After the pleasure of seeing "Rio Rita," at the theatre, they enjoyed at the home, a luncheon of sandwiches, coffee and ice cream, which had been planned for by the recreation committee.

This committee, Mrs. J. J. Donahue, chairman, is very grateful to the management of the Broadway theatre for their kindness in sending the tickets and also in reserving the seats together. We all know what a very substantial aid to the auxiliary and to the hospital, is the finance committee, of which Mrs. Rollin C. Jones is chairman, and Mrs. Bruce Rogers, co-chairman. It has been their custom to make a concerted effort to give an entertainment to raise money for needed equipment.

Bridge Parties Planned.

This year they are varying their plan a little, by asking the women of Norwich to be hostesses at smaller bridges and teas, given in their own homes. This plan is meeting with a generous response and it is hoped that the financial success will be even greater than is anticipated. The daily papers have given notice of the time—the week of March 24th. Don't wait to be asked, just signify to Mrs. Jones, or to any of her committee, your willingness to entertain, and ask for the details. If circumstances do not admit of your being a hostess, why not mail her a check—no matter how small—payable to the Women's Auxiliary of the Backus Hospital and have the satisfaction that you have not lost an opportunity?

Donations To The Hospital.

Donations to the hospital since the last report have been made by Paul K. Smith, Canterbury, Mrs. Park, Hanover, Miss L. B. Meech, Mrs. G. W. Carroll, Mrs. L. P. Church, Mrs. R. H. Montgomery, Mrs. R. W. Perkins, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Mrs. G. L. Randall, Mrs. W. K. Tingley.

The gifts include magazines, jars, bottles, old linen and flowers, always much welcomed, and enjoyed. The Ladies' Aid society of the Franklin Congregational church sent a book of Christmas cards for the children.

The following organizations have also made donations: The Boy Scouts, magazines; the Methodist Episcopal church, old linen and surgical dressings from the Sodalitas of the United church, the Christ church Friendly society girls in Taftville under Mrs. Snow.

Music At St. James' Church

Pro Peccaris, from Strabat Mater, by Rosini, was the organ voluntary at St. James' church, Poquetanuck, Sunday morning. It was rendered in an accomplished manner by the organist, Miss Olive E. McKelvey. The choir sang, Holy Offerings, Rich and Rare, music by Tadkow, words by J. B. Monsell, at the offertory.

Friday Night Service

Friday night at 7:30 o'clock there will be a service in the English and German languages at the First Evangelical Lutheran church, Franklin street, followed by a rehearsal of the choir.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Men! Banish Those Pimples Right Now

Isn't it a pity to see a fellow with good-looking features—but his whole appearance is ruined by a pimply face?

People shun him—those ugly blemishes are so disgusting to them, girls even hate to dance with him.

How would you like to have a person say to you, "To-morrow morning when you wake up you will notice that your pimples have started to disappear—in three days they'll be gone—in a week you'll have a clear, velvety skin."

This is exactly what Peterson's Ointment offers you and if your skin isn't marvelously cleared your money will be returned.

Thursey Pentecost of Springfield, Tenn., says: "I had used several kinds of Ointment but they did not help. I used Peterson's 3 or 4 times and my face was at last cleared of pimples."

Put your faith in Peterson's Ointment and be free from pimples and blackheads in a week's time—one 35 cent box will prove it—all drugstores.

NEW LONDON TAX RATE TO BE 24 MILLS—COUNCIL GRANTS LIBRARY $2,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 12—The city council met this evening and considered the budget from every angle that it might be determined what amount the city should spend and what the tax rate to raise that sum should be. It was finally decided to take the sum of $2,000 from the street maintenance appropriation and to appropriate that sum for the public library. The library people have insisted that the city should apportion the institution $4,000, but the council declined to do that. The sum of $1,000 was taken from the appropriation for the public welfare department—Hillside Home—and that amount was apportioned to Bulkeley school. The school asked for $2,000.

There was an insistent demand for a deep cut in the appropriation for street lighting, for it was claimed that New London paid more for that service than any city of anywhere near its population. The city expends in excess of $60,000 for the lighting of its streets, exclusive of what it pays for lighting the park, the school buildings and the fire houses. Figures were given to show that Norwich pays only $30,000, Meriden, $30,000, Bristol, $22,761, Middletown, $35,000 and Thompsonville $19,452.

The tax rate was fixed at 24 mills on the dollar of assessment. That sum will take care of the city's expenses provided all the taxes are collected.

AMBROSE VILLANO HAD HOOCH FOR FAVORED FRIENDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 12—Ambrose Villano, 46 Division street, was arrested this afternoon charged on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell, of violation of the liquor law. He was held in bail of $1,000 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. The police obtained information a few days ago that Villano was selling liquor to a favored number of customers. A search warrant was issued this afternoon by Judge Daniel M. Cronin and Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Cornelius Moriarty were assigned to raid the house. The officers found about three barrels of wine, a quantity of alcohol and three cases of beer, besides several bottles of coloring. A gallon of the wine was seized as were a dozen bottles of beer, the alcohol and coloring.

Warrant Defective

The raiding force also intended to stage a second raid, but because of the defectiveness of the search warrant, it could not be served. The police had information that Giovanni Marino, 621 Bank street, was selling liquor contrary to law and when the warrant was issued it bore the address of 621. At that address is a store conducted by A. Bachese, so the warrant could not be served on Marino, who occupied a tenement above the store and with entrance on the side of the building.

Divorced—To Remarry

Intentions to be married have been filed at the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, the filing having been made today. The applicants for the marriage license are Theodore DeCarrico, 27 Waller court, a pharmaceutical clerk and Marian F. DeCarrico, Norfolk, Va. The couple has been married and then divorced, so now they intend to resume their marriage relationship.

Cook Fractures Leg

Harry Daugherty, United States Coast Guard, a cook aboard the patrol boat Marian, suffered a fractured leg this afternoon and is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Daugherty sustained his injury while aboard the patrol boat, which was at work on a wrecked boat in Block Island sound. The Marian proceeded to port and the injured man was transferred to an ambulance at the state pier and conveyed to the hospital.

PROVIDENCE VETERAN IN CUSTODY HAS $550

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 12—Dennis Keegan, 55, of Providence, was taken into custody here tonight for safe keeping, for the man, who was being taken to the Soldiers' home at Noroton, left the train while he was unguarded at the union station. Keegan, who is suffering from tuberculosis, was being taken to Noroton and when his keeper entered the station upon the arrival of the train in New London, Keegan alighted. The disappearance of Keegan was telephoned to the Providence police and Detective Armstrong, of that city, requested the New London police to be on the lookout for the afflicted man. He was observed on North Bank street by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell and was arrested. When searched Keegan had $550 on his person. An officer from Providence will come to New London and continue with Keegan to Noroton.

TILLIE ALLORD TO EXPLAIN POSSESSION OF ALCOHOL

Tillie Allord, 53, and married, was arrested late today at her home, 73 Belden street, charged with violation of the liquor law and will be in the police court tomorrow. The woman was not required to post a bond to assure her court attendance for she was given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Information had been obtained by the police that Mrs. Allord was selling liquor and a search warrant was issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin, Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty going to the house, instituted a thorough search. The only evidence of liquor found was a pint of alcohol, which was seized as evidence against the woman.

The S-4 Back at Base

Submarine S-4, which has been engaged in submarine safety tests in Florida waters several weeks, arrived in port today in tow of the navy tug, Bagaduce. Arriving in the lower harbor, the tug dropped the submarine and the latter boat was taken in tow by the salvage boat Chewink and taken to the submarine base. It is believed that the S-4 will continue to engage in tests in local waters.

Adyolph E. Sylvia, 3 Roosevelt street and Irja Mary Mayala, 715 Ocean avenue, were married yesterday by Justice of the Peace, J. James Floyd.

Assistant Postmaster Edward T. Corcoran is confined to his home, Gorton street, by a severe attack of grip.

Miss Lena Denison is in New York attending the convention of International Hairdressers at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Robert McTaggert and George Hendry, Massachusetts boys, who were sentenced to five days in jail yesterday in the Groton town court on a charge of vagrancy, were released last night when parents of the youths came to New London. The boys were arrested early Tuesday morning by Officer Fay Chapman, Groton department, when they were found roaming about the borough.

Fire caused slight damage to the stock of Jack's Tire shop, 380 Bank street, yesterday afternoon. Maurice Grubner, proprietor of the store and a clerk were engaged cleaning tires when a receptacle containing gasoline became ignited. They attempted to carry the container to the street, but were forced to drop it, permitting the burning liquid to be spattered about. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. Nameaug Engine company responded and the fire was extinguished with chemicals.

Edward G. Swanson, Broad street, today complained to the police because of boys doing damage to property owned by him on Wassamer street. Mr. Swanson said that he already had made complaint to City Manager William A. Holt because of the conduct of the youths.

The New London police were notified tonight by the police of Waterbury that counterfeit bills of $10 denomination were put in circulation in that city today. The spurious paper, so far as could be determined, was circulated by a pedlar.

Mrs. Harry Hollander of 239 Huntington street; Sherwood Swan, Old Lyme; Mrs. Harry Myers, 35 Georgiana street, and Mrs. James Sheldon, 337 Vauxhall street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

RESCUE SLEEPING CHILDREN IN GORTON STREET FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 12.—Fire in the two-family residence of George Bishara, 81-83 Gorton street, caused damage estimated at $800 this forenoon and probably originated from a defective flue. A woman occupant of the tenement occupied by Bishara detected the odor of smoke and investigation revealed that the fire was in a partition, close to the chimney. A telephone operator was requested to send in an alarm, but instead of doing so, notified the police of the fire. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran went to the house and realizing the seriousness of the fire, sent in a still alarm. Chief Thomas Shipman and Ockford Hose company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. In order to reach the fire with chemicals, much of the wall of the kitchen was chopped away and it required much of the liquid to quench the blaze. During the progress of the fire, Sergeant Murphy and Officer Corcoran went to the second floor, which is occupied by Fred Williams and family, and aroused four children who were asleep, as clouds of smoke were rapidly entering the apartment. The house is owned by Bishara.

Hot Ashes Cause Blaze

Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon a lively fire was discovered in the resid... 116-118 Williams street, owned by Nemer J. and Nicholas Gorra. An alarm was sent in from Box 28, corner of Connecticut and Lincoln avenues, which was responded to by Chief Thomas Shipman and four pieces of apparatus. The fire was in the cellar and was burning rapidly, the woodwork having been attacked by the flames. A quantity of chemicals sufficed to extinguish the blaze before damage of consequence resulted. The fire originated from hot ashes put in a wooden barrel.

SENT UP TO NORWICH FOR TERM OF OBSERVATION

A young man residing on Hempstead street was in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace and resisting an officer. The case was continued for a month and the young man was committed to Norwich State hospital for observation, for the examining physician declared that the youth's brain was affected. The young man went to his home last night and created a disturbance, abusing his mother and damaging furnishings. The mother made complaint to the police and Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell were sent to the house. When the officers arrived the young man was ugly and was continuing his demonstration of temper. When the officers sought to arrest him the youth attacked them, but he was quickly subdued.

WM. J. TRYON DOG WARDEN—WAS SWORN IN WEDNESDAY

William J. Tryon, 32 Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach, today was appointed dog warden to succeed Percy F. Martin, who resigned a week ago. The appointment became effective today and will be in effect a year. Tryon, who was sworn into office by Assistant City Clerk Elizabeth Roath, was also appointed a constable for a year. Tryon has been employed as a watchman for some time at Ocean Beach. Martin resigned because of being dissatisfied with the compensation he received for his work. The office does not carry with it a salary, the warden being paid solely by fees.

Accused of Embezzlement

William Allen, formerly of New London, residing at 109 Golden street and at that time employed as bellman at the Crocker House, is being sought by the New Haven police on a charge of embezzlement. When Allen concluded work in New London he went to New Haven and was employed in a restaurant. While there he stole from his employer. Allen, who left New London about Feb. 1, left some of his clothing at the Golden street rooming house.

ALEX GRANT'S SILVER WATCH RUNNING AFTER 62 YEARS

Alex Grant claims he has a silver watch as heavy as a fisherman's anchor. A picture of an iron horse is on the face. This watch has never lost a minute in 62 years, never has stopped and it has made many watches turn their hands back for the right time. One man was always right, he claims, with his white gold watch, but when the silver watch came out of the pocket of Mr. Grant his friend's timepiece was two minutes out of the way and he almost had a fit.

When I was fishing off Georges Banks, Mr. Grant says, and it was rough, I was on watch as the mast was all ready to blow out. A wave caught me and carried me into the water. I thought I was not coming up, for that watch held me down, heavy as a head of cabbage. But I got on top of the water, trying to swim. I called for help and my own Capt. Pat. Scott heard me, threw a line right around my body and pulled me on board. It was in the winter time and I was in the water 25 minutes. Oh boy! It sure was cold. I went down into the cabin, got thawed out and had some dry clothes on. But the old watch was still going with the salt water in it. I had to put the Howard watch near the fire to get it warm and dried out as the boat Golden Rod headed toward the fishing village. The watch was given to me by my Uncle Sam Bass, before he died, 25 years ago. He told me to take good care of it for it has been a good watch and you could set the sun by it. That timepiece, made from the best silver, only cost me $8, but weighs 3 lbs. and 12 ounces. It takes a small boy to carry it around. "Don't forget to take it with you all the time and to bed with you, Alex!" Those were the last words he said and passed on to another world.

Grant was working in a coal mine in Pennsylvania under the ground, getting out black diamonds that cost only a few dollars at that time. "There was a cave-in," he said "and we were buried in the dark, while several were killed. I was working away in the corner when the darkness shut in on us; was knocked cold for several minutes and when I came to, I did not know where I was. No one was in sight. A lump of coal hit my watch and I thought it was all done for I could not see how bad it was until I got out. I crawled for a couple of hours and came to a place where there was light and made the top of the mine—black as an end man in a minstrel show. A crowd was taking out the dead and the ones injured. I put in a bowl of coffee that warmed me up for I was weak, then I had to look at my watch, that has nine lives, like a cat, to see if it was done for. Gee! the glass was not even broken and it was still running like a sewing machine! I gave up that job, for it was too dangerous, came to Noank to live, and got a job as a steeple-jack, high in the air with the birds. I was painting a ball on a church in Westerly, got up about 60 feet when the rope broke. Down I came, hit on my side and broke three ribs. The silver watch broke my fall, kept me from getting my hip broken. What made that watch go? It was not damaged at all.

The wonder watch is still going, has a handful of wheels in it, and this made three times that it was unhurt, during the years it has been with Careful Grant.

One night, as Grant went to bed, he forgot he had the watch in his pocket and dropped his trousers down hard on the floor—such a noise! He thought the watch was ready to be put away for keeps and would find only the wheels. The glass was broken, but the watch kept on running; 35 cents got a new glass. That was another time that the watch had a close call.

Standing on the north dock one day, watching the fishermen ship fish to Fulton market, one old salt asked me what time it was, Grant said, so I told him and the watch fell out of my hand into the salt water to the bottom of Davey Jones' locker! Well, I said to myself, that ends the watch of nine lives! But I could see it on the bottom, about 12 feet down. Getting a bathing suit and trying my luck as a deep sea diver, I made a jackknife dive for the old silver watch. It seemed a long way down, but I got my hands on it and the watch was still going. The hands read 3:20 o'clock in the afternoon. What a life this 62-year-old watch has been through with Owner Grant! His girl was afraid the old watch with the iron horse on the face would cost the life of her sweetheart, saving it from getting damaged; so she gave him a white-gold watch for a Christmas present. But Grant did not like to put the way away. Married now, he winds the old watch every day and still it is going strong. It has been a mystery to all who have seen the watch what makes it go and never stop, or lose a minute. It must be the oldest watch in the village. It still ticks away as the sun gets up and until it goes down in the west.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Glazier Manufacturing Company, South Glastonbury, Conn.

The Glazier Manufacturing company manufacturers of women's fine dress goods and cloakings, and men's wear, worsted and woolen.

This company owns and operates the Hopewell mills and the history of its plant shows the following development.

In 1837 a company was incorporated under the name of the Nayaug Manufacturing company, South Glastonbury, "for the purpose of engaging in and prosecuting the business of the manufacture of cotton and wool into yarn, twine and cloth."

The founders of this industry were Horatio Hollister, Martin Hollister, Norman Hollister, Amos Dean and Sprowel Dean.

The Nayaug Manufacturing company sold its entire interest in 1860 to Martin Hollister and Franklin Glazier who had for some years conducted the affairs of the company, and who became equal partners of a new company known as Hollister and Glazier. This partnership was terminated in 1870 by the retirement of Martin Hollister who sold his interests to Franklin Glazier who continued the business in his name until his death in November 1889.

Franklin Glazier was succeeded by his son, Frank D. Glazier, who for a number of years had been the manager of his father's business and who continued it under the name of Franklin Glazier & Son until 1909. It was during this perior that the greater part of the present business with its necessary equipment was developed.

Franklin Glazier & Son were succeeded in 1909 by The Glazier Manufacturing company. The present officers are: Philip A. Glazier, general manager; Henry K. Welch, president; George H. Pinney, treasurer; A. H. Pratt, secretary.

GALES FERRY

The closing missionary program for the conference year in the church school will be held at the opening of the school Sunday next. The granges of Norwich, Groton and Ledyard have been invited to worship at the local church Sunday evening at 7.30, and the following week, March 23, Belshazzar, a sacred choral cantata for solo, chorus and organ, will be given by an augmented choir under direction of Mrs. Eugene La Fontaine. A play, Sophronia's Wedding, is in preparation by the Epworth league chapter under direction of Mrs. J. Edmund Norman.

Miss Ida Erickson, who has been a patient at Lawrence and Memorial hospital, New London, following a surgical operation, is improving.

Mrs. Carl B. Lawson, who was also a surgical patient at the New London hospital the past week returned home Sunday morning.

The young man was prematurely gray, and proud of it.

"Looks quite poetic, don't you think?" he asked the girl he had met at the beach.

"It does remind me of a certain poem," she said.

"And what is that?"

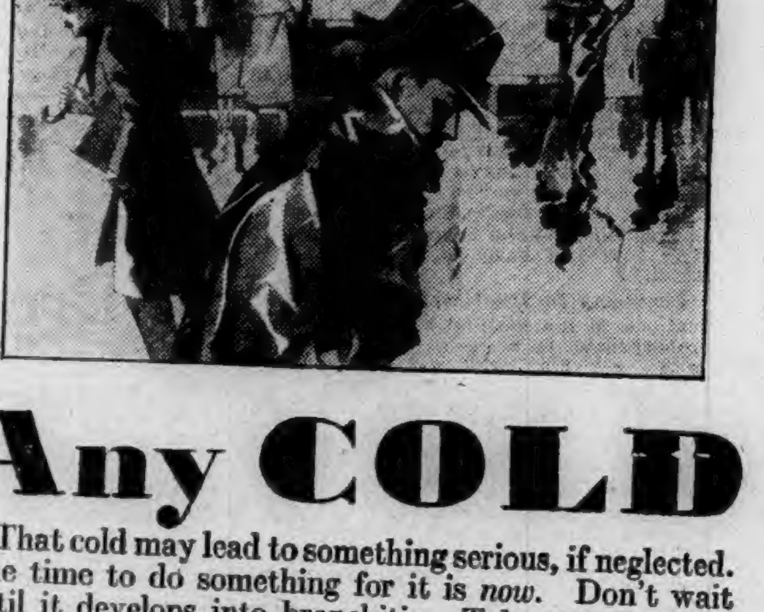
End Bunion Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full-strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time, and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note. People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. By applying night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.



Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

THINK OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE IN TERMS OF TOMORROW

Ultimate cost is as important as first cost in the purchase of an automobile

When you purchase an automobile you are making an investment of a considerable amount of money. It is essential, therefore, that you give careful thought to the best selection and know what you are getting for your automobile dollars.

The first cost is important because it may mean an immediate, satisfactory saving. Of equal importance is the ultimate cost after thousands of miles of service. This ultimate cost is the true measure of automobile value.

The first cost of the new Ford is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were sacrificed later through high charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, does business on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company. His discount or commission is twenty-five to fifty per cent lower than that of any other automobile dealer. You gain because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

The difference in selling cost, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, amounts to at least $50 to $75 on each car. This is as important as economies in production in keeping down the price you pay for the new Ford.

The low ultimate cost of the new Ford is the result of sound design, quality of material and unusual care in manufacturing. Friction and wear are reduced by the accuracy with which each part is made and assembled.

These factors combine to decrease the cost of operation and add months and years to the useful life of the car. The good performance and low yearly depreciation of the new Ford are indicative of the enduring quality built into it at the factory.

Service charges are on the same fair, economical basis as the making and selling of the car and replacement parts are always available at low prices through all Ford dealers. In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost.

Think in terms of tomorrow, therefore, when you purchase an automobile. For tomorrow will reveal its true worth.

Table 16—Dr. Youngs and Fisher of New London, 1563; Wilhelm and W. Chapman of Mystic, 2705. Margin, 1142.

L. G. McLaren and Edmund Hyde of Westerly and Stonington, respectively, won by the highest margin, and were given the prize, which they were to select Wednesday evening. The smallest margin was 151, being made by L. D. Fairbrother, Jr., and Irving Maxson of Stonington, playing against Fred Godfrey and Harry Meyers, of Mystic.

Take Pepsin this New Way and End Indigestion

Delightful Elixir With Real Pepsin, Menthol and Other Supremely Good Stomach Aids.

If you have a weak, bad acting, rebellious stomach it won't take but a couple of weeks to turn it into a strong, healthy one, capable of digesting the heartiest meal without after distress.

Your stomach needs pepsin—needs it three times a day at every meal and the stomach remedy that you need is Dare's Mentha Pepsin. It will do you more good in two weeks than all the old time relievers will do in a lifetime.

That's just the reason that its sales in good drug stores all over America are enormous—that's why All druggists are selling dozens of bottles every week.

Stop that acute indigestion in a few minutes with just one tablespoonful of this grand stomach regulator.

Take it regularly for two weeks and you'll learn the secret of how to always have and keep a strong healthy stomach.

STONINGTON

The Stonington High Dramatic club presented a play at the assembly of the school Wednesday morning. Mrs. Lucy, instructor in the English department, was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Marion Hobart and son, Harold, have returned, after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Merton P. Clark in Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. Elden Wells and Miss Geneva Wells of West Mystic have been callers here during the week.

Mrs. L. B. Ledward and family, George Bliss and Mrs. Jay Bliss, were in Norwich Wednesday, attending the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Nathan Brewster.

The body of Arnold Clemens, who was found dead in bed Monday morning, was taken to Fresh Pond, Long Island, Wednesday morning for cremation. Services will be held in that city.

Miss Gladys Dewey of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of her sister at their home on Quiambaug road.

The meeting of Stonington grange, No. 168, P. of H., is to be held Friday evening at the Road church.

The C. E. society of the Baptist church held the March business meeting and social in the church parlors on Tuesday evening.

Thomas McGowan of Fishers Island has been spending a few days here as the guest of relatives.

Native smelts in large quantities have been brought into the Stonington market. More than 400 pounds were caught in the Pawcatuck river on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Grant of the Stonington high school faculty have been called to Fitchburg, Mass., by the death of Mr. Grant's mother.

George H. Drysdale of Providence was a business caller here Tuesday.

George B. Richards and Russell Barridge of Cambridge, Mass., were visitors here Wednesday.

MONTVILLE

Maple camp, Royal Neighbors of America, held a meeting Wednesday night at their rooms in the Palmer Memorial school, Palmertown.

The condition of Mrs. Patrick Monahan, of Pequot, who was seriously ill last week, is improving.

The Eastern Star Sewing society held a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Uncasville Community house.

Daniel O'Connell, formerly a bookkeeper for the Inland Paper Box Co., has resigned and is now employed as a bookkeeper in Hartford.

Frank Pachiodo has resigned with the Palmer Bros. Mfg. Co., at New London.

Basketball Game Called Off

The game between the New London Bankers and the Montville Aces was called off late Tuesday night, the Bankers' team giving the Montville Aces no chance to have another team appear in its place. However, a scrub game was played with Montville Old Stars. The Aces defeated the Old Stars 64 to 42. Martt Gearry starred for the Old Stars and Moraskey starred for the Montville Aces.

Mrs. Lydia Palmer of Cosey Corners who has been ill for some time is reported as improving.

Mrs. John F. Palmer is said to be gaining, after her recent illness.

LEDYARD

Connecticut Night was observed at the meeting of Ledyard grange at Grange hall, Ledyard Center, Friday evening. There was a good attendance and the interesting program, given under the direction of Mrs. Billings T. Avery, lecturer, was enjoyed. Three papers were given: Newgate Prison, by Richard Burton; The Regicides in Connecticut, by Mrs. Carl Holdridge, and The Hills of Old New England, by Mrs. Samuel E. Holdridge. A poem, Popping the Question, was read by Mrs. George Garrapie. Mrs. Elmer E. Tubbs gave an article on The Frogs of Windham. The fourth chapter of the original story, Silly Sally, being written by members of the grange, was presented by Carl Holdridge. The songs selected for this program were New England and Old Connecticut Forever. Prof. Wilkinson of the Connecticut Agricultural college, will speak on Beautifying the Home Grounds, at the next meeting. It was voted to accept the invitation of the Gales Ferry church to attend service there next Sunday evening.

OBITUARY

Rev. William F. White

As noted in Wednesday's Bulletin, Rev. William F. White, a former pastor of the Ledyard Congregational church, passed from this life at his home in Saybrook, Conn., Monday. Rev. Mr. White was the beloved pastor of the Ledyard church for nearly six years, coming to Ledyard from Hinsdale, N. H., in 1908. In 1914 he and his family moved to Saybrook. He leaves his widow, a son, Eunners, who is a missionary in India, a son, Harold, and a daughter, Mrs. Bushnell, who live near Saybrook. Mr. White was a trustee of the Bill Library association of Ledyard. No other pastor of the Ledyard church was ever held in more reverence than was Rev. Mr. White. The church will be represented at his funeral today (Thursday) at his home in Saybrook. Burial is to be in Ware, Mass.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. F30 Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him today.—Adv.

STOCKS LOST 2 TO 10 POINTS IN WORST SETBACK IN MARKET IN THREE WEEKS

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Further curtailment of steel mill operations and fresh weakness in the wheat market unsettled speculative confidence today and prompted the bear crowd to attack the stock market along a broad front. Scores of important stocks lost 2 to 10 points—the worst setback experienced in three weeks. Selling poured into the market in such volume that the ticker was delayed about half an hour. Total sales reached 4,470,080 shares, the largest turnover since Dec. 20.

From the oil industry, however, came the most encouraging news in several weeks, and about a dozen oil stocks advanced moderately against the downward trend, reaching new high levels for the year. With few exceptions, utilities, industrials and merchandising shares were under pressure. The rails, however, held fairly steady, as they have not participated notably in the recent advances. The price index of 90 leading shares receded about 2 points.

The weekly steel trade reviews present a rather disheartening picture of the situation. While steel mill operations continue at a high rate at Chicago and Birmingham, a decided slump has occurred in other centers. Iron Age stated that the cautious policy of motor car makers has caused a less confident attitude in the steel trade, pointing out that automobile output is only about half what it was in March of 1929. Iron Age's composite prices for finished steel and pig iron were unchanged, but it was stated that the price situation is poorly defined. It was notable that U. S. Steel's mills were reported to have cut down production about 2 per cent, the first reduction by the largest manufacturer since steel mill activity began to pick up in January.

The weekly report of total loading of revenue freight, covering the week ended March 1, failed to make an impressive showing in comparison with the past two years. A large gain over the previous week was insignificant, owing to the holiday on Feb. 22. Copper statistics for February showed further accumulation of stocks, despite curtailment of production, and caused renewed uneasiness over maintenance of current metal prices. In sharp contrast, however, the developments in the petroleum industry were distinctly cheerful, including indications of success in cutting California production down to refinery requirements. Standard of California increased crude prices, probably as a boon to independent producers who have cooperated in the curtailment program. Gasoline prices were increased at Chicago.

Simmons and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were again singled out as weak spots by the bear crowd. Simmons was driven down more than 5 points to 52 1-4, the lowest in about three years, and contrasting with last year's peak of 188. U. S. Industrial Alcohol has been unfavorably influenced marketwise by sporadic price cutting by smaller manufacturers. The stock dropped about 7 points to a new 1929 low. American and Foreign Power was another vulnerable spot. The stock was sent down more than six points to a new 1929 low at 82 5-8, which, however, contrasts with a bottom level of 50 during the November break. Auburn Auto, a recent buoyant feature, dropped 10 points.

U. S. Steel lost 3 points, and such shares as Westinghouse Electric, Western Union, American Telephone, American Water Works, American Tobacco B, American Can, Allis Chalmers, Air Reduction, Byers, Eastman, General Electric, Johns Manville, Loews, Macy, Radio, Underwood Elliott and Union Carbide were among shares closing about 2 to 5 points off.

Standard Oil of California rose about 3 points to a new peak for the year at 63 3-4, but lost some of its gain later.

The lower priced issues were prominent in the advance, American Republics, Atlantic Refining, Phillips, Pure Oil, Richfield, Rio Grande, Sinclair and others selling up a point or so to new 1930 highs. In the utilities, Federal Light rose nearly 3 points to a new high high for the year on announcement of acquisition by Cities Service.

Call money was easier, renewing at 4 per cent but soon sagging to 3 1-2. The prospects of a lower federal reserve rediscount rate, disappointed last week, feel that the chances for a reduction are better than ever when the directors meet again tomorrow. Foreign exchanges were somewhat irregular, but changes were slight, the Canadian dollar was a little firmer, reaching 99 5-8 cents for the first time this year.

The wheat market was influenced by continuance of an unfavorable export situation. The Liverpool and Argentine markets were decidedly weak. Futures prices at Chicago dropped about 4 cents, then regained more than half the losses in short covering and buying attributed to allies of the farm board. Corn futures followed the movement. Cotton, on the other hand, rallied substantially. Closing prices were about $1.50 a bale higher. The upturn was helped by private estimates showing from 7 1-2 to 9 per cent reductions in acreage.

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Details concerning the reported merger of the natural gas properties of the Electric Power & Light Corp. and the United Gas Co. will be made public shortly, it was reported today. Such a combination, rumors of which have been current for some time, would create one of the largest natural gas systems in the country, with properties centering in the immense gas fields of the southwest.

Prices of cocoa futures on the New York Cocoa exchange reached the lowest prices in history today. Cocoa for March delivery sold at 8.06 cents a pound, off 6-10 of a cent from yesterday's closing quotations.

Directors of the Associated Telephone Utilities have voted stock subscription rights, entitling stockholders of record March 22, to subscribe to additional shares of no par common stock at $24 a share, equal to 25 per cent of their recorded holdings. The rights will expire April 15.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—The New York Curb exchange presented a series of confused price movements today with the strength of the oils and the weakness of the public utilities as the contrasting features. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, but was largely professional in character. The drive against the utilities and some of the speculative industrials was based on a series of unfavorable news developments, including a further falling off in steel production, an increase in stocks of surplus copper and reports that freight car loadings were running at the lowest levels since 1922 for this season of the year.

Oils responded to the drop of nearly 90,000 barrels in the daily average of crude production last week, and an increase of 25 cents a barrel in California crude. Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania was marked up 4 points, Humble 2 3-4, and Indian Territorial, Pacific Western, Standard Oils of Kansas and Ohio and Vacuum a point or two.

American & Foreign Power warrants broke nearly 5 points to a new low for the year at 60 1-2, and rallied fractionally from that level. Electric Bond & Share closed 5 1-2 points lower at 96 1-2. Duke Power dropped 7 3-4 points. American Light & Traction common 4, and the preferred 2 1-2 in odd lot trading. Several of the more active issues yielded a point or two.

Independent strength was shown by a sprinkling of industrials. American Cigar ran up 4 points to a new top at 80. Polymet Manufacturing moved up a point on a heavy turnover, with buying stimulated by the declaration of the regular dividend. Babcock Wilcox moved up 2 points to a new top at 124. Henry Klein, manufacturers of office furniture and partitions, preferred, crossed 20 to a new high on reports of expanding operations and earnings. Pacific Coast Biscuit issues sold at new peak prices on merger rumors. Columbia Pictures, National Rubber Machinery, Starrett Corporation preferred and U. S. Lines preferred also eclipsed their previous 1930 highs.

Newmont Mining broke 6 points on the publication of unfavorable copper statistics. Automatic Voting Machine issues, Empire Steel, and a sprinkling of others fell to new low ground, while Glen Alden coal duplicated the year's low.

Lehman corporation moved into new high ground above 82, on reports that application had been made to list the stock on the big board, but lost all its gain. Goldman Sachs dropped more than two points. Blue Ridge convertible preferred advanced two points to a new high at 43 5-8 but lost half its gain.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Renewed ease in money rates prompted vigorous buying in the bond market today, with the rail liens attracting special favor. The combined index of 30 leading issues moved up 1-5 of a point to another new high for the year, and the day's business, aggregating $13,671,000 par value was one of the largest of the year.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, but the rate was cut to 3 1-2 by mid-day. This quieted the uneasiness of the previous day, when money held at 4 per cent. Furthermore, it was felt in banking circles that a chance of a reduction in the New York Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate tomorrow were better than even.

Some two score rail issues reached new high ground, with the mortgages of lines in which early merger developments are expected trading in wholesale fashion. Frisco 4 1-2s rose 3-4 of a point to 92 1-2, and the 4s A mounted 1-2 point, in an aggregate turnover of approximately $400,000 par value. A plan to combine this road with the Rock Island is now being developed. Dillon, Read & Co., who hold a large interest in Frisco, was said today to have acquired a considerable holding in Rock Island as well.

The Van Sweringen rail issues were uniformly firm. This group was rumored about Wall street to have acquired working control of the Missouri Pacific. Their interest is known to be substantial. If they have control, and the Missouri Pacific consolidation plan is approved, it may put the Van Sweringens in control of the first transcontinental system. Missouri Pacific General 4s rose 3-4 of a point, and Chesapeake and Ohio refunding 4 1-2s and Erie 5s were turned over in large volume.

Rail issues gaining 1 to 2 points included Boston and Maine 5s, Central Pacific 1st 4s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5s, Erie 4s, Hocking Valley 4 1-2s, Lehigh Valley-Pennsylvania 4s and 5s, Lehigh Valley Hudson Terminal 5s, Katy 4s B, Pennsylvania 4s, and Southern Railway 6s while convertible issues were generally depressed by the heavy stock market. The New Haven 6s closed a fraction higher, as New Haven stock was an isolated firm spot.

With the exception of the convertibles, the telephone issues, along with a wide assortment of public utility liens, were in strong demand. The American Telephone debenture 5s rose 1-4 point to 103, a new high. The convertible 4 1-2s of 1939 however, lost 1 1-2 points in heavy selling, and the 4 1-2s of 1933 dropped more than 4 points in a small transaction. The International Telephone debentures sold up a fraction, while the convertibles sagged a fraction.

In the industrials, Lorillard debenture 7s were a firm spot, rising nearly 2 points to a new peak. Liggett and Myers 5s, however, eased. Armour 5 1-2s, Chile Copper 5s, and Sinclair Pipe Line 5s were firm. Western Electric 5s gained more than a point. Youngstown Sheet 5s reflected merger developments with a gain of 1-2 point. In the amusements, Loews 6s with warrants dropped a couple of points in sympathy with the stock, and Keith Corp. 6s sagged on publication of a rather unsatisfactory earnings statement for Keith-Albee.

Easing credit sent several foreign issues with high yields soaring. Antioquia 7s, Brazil 6 1-2s, Peru 7s, and Rio Grande Do Sul 7s mounted 2 to 3 1-2 points. Several European governments, notably German, Belgian and French, were in good demand but prices were practically unchanged. U. S. Governments crept higher in moderate trading, all issues reaching new 1930 highs save the Liberty 4 1-4s.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 12—(AP)—World-wide turmoil in grain markets today left each Chicago delivery of every cereal but May wheat tonight at the lowest closing prices reached this season. The sole exception as to May wheat was due to big buying ascribed to agencies that are sponsored by the United States government farm board. Complete demoralization of the wheat trade at Liverpool was reported, with prices there down 6 1-8 cents a bushel, while maximum breaks in wheat prices at Chicago today, 4 3-8 cents a bushel, carried values here down to 11 5-8 cents under quotations current last week.

Reduction of world's estimated import needs of wheat to nearly 300,000,000 bushels less than was actually shipped last year, whereas the United States and Canada both have a huge surplus, formed an outstanding feature today, and despite late rallies the wheat market here closed feverish, 1 to 2 3-8 cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 5-8 to 2 1-4c down; oats 5-8 to 1 5-8c off, and provisions showing 7 to 22 cents drop.

Bottom-most prices reached in the Chicago wheat market today came after announcement of Liverpool closing quotations showing that confusion among traders overseas was unchecked and giving special point to advices saying that a British government buying monopoly was under consideration. The purpose of the proposed monopoly was represented in advices circulated here as being to offset measures adopted by the American farm board and the Canadian Growers' pool. With possibilities of such a struggle impending, heavy general selling of wheat futures took place here from the start. Under such circumstances the bearish effect of reduced estimates of world import needs of wheat was increased by official announcement that for at least 60 days yet there is no likelihood of relief from congestion at domestic grain terminals.

Curtailments in estimates of world import needs of wheat were made by the foremost British authority, and were ascribed by him to abnormal cheapness of competing foodstuffs and to poverty of European continental consumers. Immense purchases of the May delivery of wheat here, however, served largely to counter-balance the influence of such disturbing factors, and although the market fluctuated nervously throughout the day, upturns were predominating in the late dealings. Reports of high winds and of lack of moisture in domestic winter crop territory southwest tended to stimulate considerable speculative buying, and so likewise did indications that a cold wave might further adversely change the crop outlook.

Corn, oats and rye collapsed owing mainly to the severe breaks in wheat.

Despite upturns in hog values, provisions were affected by the downfall of grain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 1.06 5-8, 1.11 7-8 to 1.12; July 1.01 to 1-8, 1.06 3-8 to 1-2; Sept. 1.02 3-4 to 7-8, 1.07 5-8 to 3-4. Corn, May 78 1-2 to 5-8, 81 1-4 to 3-8. July 79 3-4, 83 1-8 to 1-4, Sept. 79 3-4, 83 1-4.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Chatterer Changes His Mind

'Tis strange how much you'll often find
Dependent on a change of mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel thinks himself very smart. He wants other people to think him very smart. It upset him a whole lot to be unable to find out where Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was living. He wouldn't admit that Whitefoot was smart enough to keep his home a secret from him. So he spent more time hunting for Whitefoot's home than any one knew of.

One day he happened to be poking around in the bushes on the edge of the Green Forest, in the hope that he might find a hazel nut or two hidden under the dead leaves. Finally, he looked up and there over his head was a big wasps' nest—a great, gray globe. Chatterer knew what it was at once. He has seen wasps' nests before. He knew all about the hot-tempered little people that built them. He knew that in winter there was nothing to fear from them.

"I believe I'll climb up there and have a look at that nest"

"I believe I'll climb up there and have a look at that nest," said Chatterer to himself. "I'd like to see what it is like inside. There is nothing to be afraid of now. If any wasps stayed in that nest all winter they are either dead by this time or asleep, and I had just as soon have two or three to eat."

So Chatterer stated to climb up to the nest. But he had hardly left the ground when another thought came to him and he stopped to consider it. "It is pretty warm today," thought he, "and some insects get to stirring around on a warm day like this. I wouldn't like to find a wasp that had come to life. They certainly can sting. Yes, sir, they certainly can sting. One stung me once and I don't want to be stung again. Of course, there may not be any wasps in there. I don't suppose there are. It is better to play safe than to be sorry, however. We shall have some more cold days yet and a cold day is the kind of day to poke around in a wasps' nest. I'll wait for a cold day."

So Chatterer jumped down to the ground and once more began poking around under the leaves, searching for hazel nuts. He didn't give that nest another thought. He didn't even look up at it. All the time a pair of black, bright eyes were watching Chatterer. They were the eyes of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. Inside, Whitefoot was chuckling. For a few minutes, while Chatterer had started to climb up in that bush, Whitefoot had thought that his secret surely would be discovered. But now that Chatterer was no longer even looking at the nest, Whitefoot felt that his secret was still safe.

"Wouldn't he be surprised," thought Whitefoot, "to find out that I am here? He hasn't the least idea that I am watching him. That reminds me that be as careful as we may, we are never absolutely sure that we are unseen."

POETRY

A Plea For The "Friendless Present"

Make this a day. There is no gain
In brooding over days to come.
The message of today is plain,
The future's lips are ever dumb.
The work of yesterday is gone
For good or ill, let come what may;
But now we face another dawn,
Make this a day.

Though yesterday we failed to see
The urging hand and earnest face
That men call opportunity;
We failed to know the time or place
For some great deed,—what need to fret?
The dawn comes up a silver gray,
And golden moments must be met.
Make this a day.

This day is yours; your work is yours,
The odds are not who pays your hire.
The thing accomplished—that endures
If it be what the days require.
He who takes up his daily round
As one new armored for the fray,
Tomorrow steps on solid ground,
Make this a day.

The day is this; the time is now;
No better hour was ever here—
Who waits upon the when and how
Remains forever in the rear.
Though yesterday were wasted stuff,
Our feet may still seek out the way;
Tomorrow is not soon enough—
Make this a day.

—By W. D. Nesbit.

The Good Listener

The man who listens while you talk
Shows he is not so dumb,
You cannot help respecting him,
And you admire him some.
You feel that while he's listening
To all your eloquence
He's learning something all the time,
And showing common sense.

The man who listens while you talk
May be a man of wiles,
Who is with malice flattering you
And scheming as he smiles.
But oh, you can't help loving him!
You're sure he is O. K.,
He listens so respectfully
To everything you say!

—Somerville Journal.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Motorist—Are you hurt, my boy?

Butcher Boy (excitedly)—No, but I can't find my liver!—Boston Transcript.

"We meet at 8 o'clock as usual, Hans, and if one of us is late—"

"I will wait, darling."—Der Wahre Jakob.

"There's a lot of lame verse in this book."

"Well, what do you expect in limp leather?"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Husband (excitedly)—Where is my hat?

Wifey—Hanging on that lamp!

Husband—Lamp! Huh! What crazy place will I find it next, I wonder?

Wifey (snappily)—On your head, I suppose!—Detroit News.

Police Commissioner (questioning applicant)—And now, how would you disperse a mob?

Applicant—I would pass around the hat.

Commissioner—You'll do. See about your uniform.—The Pathfinder.

"Willie," said the Sunday school teacher severely, "you shouldn't talk like that to your playmate. Had you ever thought of heaping coals of fire on his head?"

"Gee! No, ma'am, I hadn't, but it's a peach of an idea."—Santa Fe Magazine.

"Do you know why I am going to whip you, Artie?"

"No, dad; why?"

"Because you hit a boy smaller than yourself."

"Oh, I thought it was p'r'aps 'cos I'm smaller than you."—Exchange.

"Deacon White," asked Parson Jackson softly, "will you lead us in prayer?" There was no answer.

"Deacon White" (this time a little louder), "will you lead?"

Still no response. Evidently the deacon was slumbering. Parson Jackson made a third appeal and raised his voice to a high pitch that succeeded in arousing the drowsy man. "Deacon White, will you lead?"

The deacon in bewilderment rubbed his heavy eyes and announced: "Lead yourself—I just dealt."—R. R. Paper.

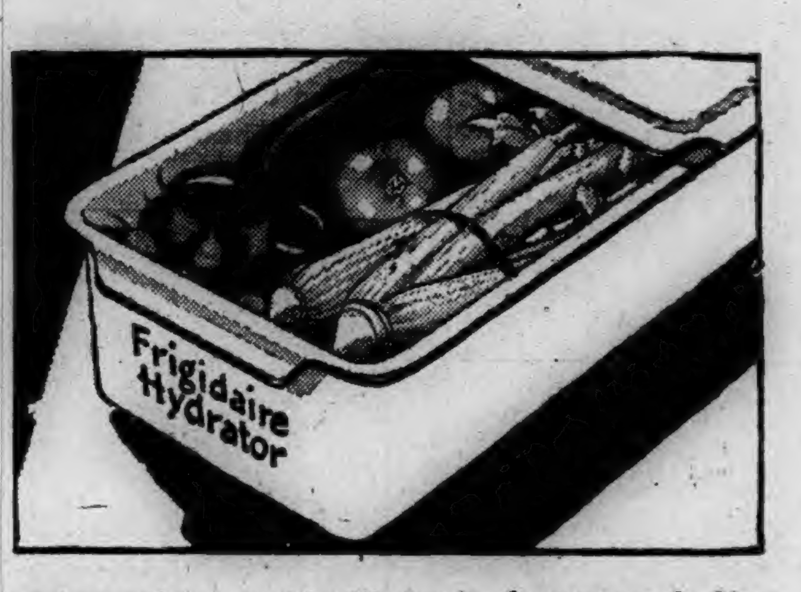
Thursday, March 13th, we start a special 9-day demonstration of the new Frigidaire HYDRATOR

Desserts and salads will be served. New recipe books will be given away. Be sure to attend



HERE'S your opportunity to find out all about the marvelous new Frigidaire Hydrator.

On Thursday, March 13th, we start a special 9-day demonstration—one of the most interesting ever held in our showroom.

We will show the Hydrator in actual use—just as you would use it in your home. You will see how lettuce is made tender and brittle by the Hydrator's moist reviving cold. You will see how celery and radishes take on added crispness—how tomatoes are improved in texture and flavor.

And that is not all you will see.

The latest household cabinets in Porcelain-on-steel will be on display.

The famous "Frigidaire Cold Control" will also be demonstrated. You will be shown how this device freezes ice cubes faster—how it permits you to make scores of unusual desserts that require extreme cold.

Will you be our guest?

SPECIAL OFFER
Until Saturday, March 22nd
We are prepared to make a liberal special offer to all who buy Frigidaire during our 9-day demonstration. Let us tell you about this offer. Let us tell you about our easy payment plan. Come in at your first opportunity. We will be open evenings until ten o'clock every day of the demonstration.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

George Jessel, starring in "Love, Live & Laugh," Fox Movietone all talking drama, makes his bow at the Breed theatre today.

The popular stage star of "Jazz Singer" and "The War Song," has the role of an Italian immigrant who leaves his American sweetheart to return to Italy when his father is near death. He is caught up by the war, and lands in a hospital, badly injured and blinded.

His sweetheart reads that his entire company has been killed, and later marries a doctor in a hospital where she is a nurse. When Jessel returns to New York, he becomes a hurdy gurdy man and goes about seeking his lost love.

Through chance he discovers her, only to learn of her happy marriage. Her husband takes an interest in the young Italian, operates and restores his sight. Jessel, seeing his former sweetheart is happy, sings a gay farewell although his heart is broken at the blow fate has dealt him.

Jessel sings two songs during the course of the production, "A Song of Marghuerita" and "Two Little Baby Arms." Both were written by L. Wolfe Gilbert and Abel Baer, especially for this production.

"Love, Live & Laugh" is an inspiring picture, one that will appeal to all classes.

William K. Howard, who has "Christina" "The Valiant," "White Gold" and many other successes to his credit, directed. Lila Lee, Kenneth MacKenna, David Rollins, Henry Kolker and John Reinhart are in the cast.

St. Mary's Players.

It is gratifying to note the interest this play is causing. And why not? A good play, an excellent cast, a capable director—Mr. J. E. Murphy: all this makes for a fine production. One of the best plays St. Mary's has had is soon to be shown. See it. Reservations for seats must be called for at theatre box office.

Horace Colson is working for Calvin McCall at the Willows garage.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The whole town is talking about the splendid double feature program which the Palace is now presenting. Rich and not so rich, high and not so high—everybody has a word of enthusiasm for this great program, including as it does the superlative George Arliss in "The Green Goddess," and Helen Twelvetrees in the backstage romance, "The Grand Parade."

"The Green Goddess," an eerie, malevolent phrase, is it not? Well, the picture is as full of creeps as the title suggests. In addition to Mr. Arliss, the cast includes Alice Joyce, Ralph Forbes, H. B. Warner and other stars, and the whole piece is splendidly directed.

The story opens when Major Crespin and his wife, and their companion Dr. Traherne, three British subjects, are forced down while flying across a wild part of the Himalaya mountains. Reaching the ground they find themselves in a forbidding, mountainous region, a grim spot, which is made grimmer when they discover its ruler to be the terrible and ruthless Rajah of Rukh. The Rajah entertains them but suddenly chills their blood by telling them that they must pay with their lives for the execution by the British of three of the Rajah's subjects. Then follows a wild scramble for life, vain attempts on the part of the prisoners to get away, to get word to the outside world, to do anything to escape from their sinister predicament.

"The Grand Parade" is a different sort of story. Here we have tragedy too, but it is of a subdued sort, and it is intermingled with song and dance and rhythmic music and the swing of old time minstrel entertainment. Both in its cast and subject matter, "The Grand Parade" deserves a place near the top of its type of show, for besides Miss Twelvetrees, other members of the cast include Fred Scott, Richard Carle, Marie Astaire, Russel Powell, and that inimitable "drunk" Jimmy Aubrey.

Starting Saturday the Palace changes its bill to present that magnificent new all-color, talking, singing and dancing vitaphone special, "Song of the West," with John Boles, Vivienne Segal and Joe E. Brown.

Broadway Theatre

Deep down in the hearts of everyone of us is the germ of the wanderlust, the "itching foot," that urge which makes us crave stories of adventure, danger and romance in far-off places. That craving is fully satisfied in the filming of Joseph Conrad's famous novel "Victory," now filmed as "Dangerous Paradise" and heading the Broadway program of twin features. A well nigh perfect cast portrays the exciting story of a little American cafe musician, whose beauty besets her with danger on all sides from the degenerate whites of the islands, and who finds refuge in the arms of a—womanhater, of all persons! Nancy Carroll is the harassed lassie. Real tropical settings, with all the lure of the island shores bathed in moonlight, provide a delightful background for the fast-moving drama. In the companion picture none other than "Kempy" of stage fame lives his hectic life on the magic screen, in "Wise Girls," a thoroughly enjoyable version of one of the greatest stage successes of all time. Great because it's intensely human—because every character might live on your own street. J. C. Nugent, who created the stage role, is "Pa" Bence, and a thoroughly hateful but lovable old cuss he is; Elliott Nugent, also in his original stage role, is side-splitting as the ambitious plumber, with "only a dollar and a half," who is married so quickly that he's still dizzy the next day. Norma Lee is the aggressive Kate, who "gets her man," and a charming newcomer, Marion Schilling is the younger sister, Ruth who will captivate everyone with her big eyes and carefully submerged love for the stuttering plumber. Altogether a most pleasing Lenten program with something for everyone to enjoy, and in keeping with the Broadway's policy of "always a show fit for the family."

SOMERS

The subject of Rev. E. T. Jones' sermon Sunday morning was "A Christian Gentleman." Mrs. Willard Pinney of Somersville sang a solo.

The Village Players of Somersville gave a play in Piedmont hall Tuesday evening, entitled "The Laughing Cure."

Mrs. Ralph E. Thayer, Mrs. S. Dwight Percival, Mrs. W. O. Ody and Miss Emma Davis will entertain the Woman's club at the home of Mrs. Thayer this (Thursday) afternoon. The program will consist of music and an address by Mrs. F. P. Latimer of Hartford, on "Ellis Island."

Mrs. Walter B. Whitlock is recovering from grip, with which she has been ill ever since her return from Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Charles S. Williams of Buffalo is with her sister, Mrs. Whitlock.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Root have returned home, having spent the winter in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Avery are at Southern Pines, N. C., for two weeks' stay. During their absence their daughter Virginia is staying with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Devers, of West Stafford.

Local people went to Rockville Sunday evening to hear Joseph B. Palmer, secretary of the Bowery branch of the Y. M. C. A. in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hurlburt's small son is ill with scarlet fever, the older sister has just recovered from the fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bliss of Hartford spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bliss.

PLAINFIELD BEATS SENECA INDIANS FOR SECOND TIME; SHYMAS BEAT BUDDIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, March 12—The Plainfield Pros hung defeat on the Seneca Indians from the Tuscarora and Irving reservations tonight at the Community house, 29 to 23 in one of the closest games of the year. In the preliminary the Shymas club of Taftville beat the Plainfield Buddies for the third time this season and manager Sullivan laid claim to the eastern Connecticut championship on the strength of these victories.

The Senecas made a strong start tonight and were leading 14 to 8 at half time only to be tied by Plainfield soon after the second half opened and then was the Pros go ahead in the last few minutes and hold the margin for the remainder of the distance. Disinger and Kasper were Plainfield's best while Keyjockety and Jimerson did the starring act for the Indians.

The Shymas also had to overcome a low half margin to defeat the Buddies. Every player on the Taftville team contributed to the scoring with Phaneuf in the lead with eight points. The score at half time favored the Buddies by 14 to 7. This was the second game of a scheduled three game series, and, in addition, the Shymas had taken a single game early in the season.

JOYCE WETHERED DECLINES CAPTAINCY OF WOMEN'S TEAM

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—The retirement of Joyce Wethered has robbed the golfing world of the unique combination of a brother and sister as captains of the British men's and women's international teams which will attempt to check two American invasions this year.

Roger Wethered was chosen yesterday to lead the British Walker cup team against Bobby Jones' team and today it was announced that Joyce had been invited to captain the women's team against Glenna Collett's eight American women at Sunningdale May first. But the English girl decided she had had enough of the hurly burly of championships and declined the post. Cecil Leitch also declined an invitation to play on the British team as did Mabel Wragg, who beat Miss Collett at Hunstanton two years ago.

Molly Gourlay, who has played an important part in organizing the women's international team matches, was chosen as captain and will take the field against Miss Collett. She is one of the outstanding woman players of Great Britain and has won the French and Belgian titles two times.

Eight of the pick of England's girl golfers were chosen to complete the team. They are Miss Doris Chambers, Miss E. Corlett, Mrs. Latham Hall, Miss Elsie Lobbett, Miss Jean McCulloch, Miss D. Pearson, Mrs. J. D. Watson and Miss Enid Wilson. One of the eight will be held in reserve in the contest, which is to be decided by singles and foursomes.

The British women's competitive season started today with the women's interclub foursome tournament at Beaconsfield. Forty pairs entered the tournament and none of those which have been picked to oppose the Americans was eliminated when the field was reduced to 16 at the end of the day's play. From now on the members of Miss Gourlay's team will engage in numerous matches and competitions preparatory to meeting the Americans.

YALE CREWS ESTABLISHED IN QUARTERS ON HOUSATONIC

NEW HAVEN, March 12—(AP)—Three Yale varsity crews today established themselves in their permanent headquarters on the Housatonic river in Derby. During the past two weeks workouts have been held in the New Haven harbor when the weather permitted.

The freshman and 150 pound crews are expected to follow the varsity crews to Derby within the near future.

The varsity crews will remain at Derby until about June 1, when they will move to Gales Ferry on the Thames river to prepare for the Harvard regatta.

AGGIES HAVE 20-GAME SCHEDULE, FIVE AT HOME

STORRS, March 12—(AP)—Coach Dole tonight announced a 20 game schedule for the Connecticut Aggies 1930 baseball season. The team will begin its activities on April 12 with the Army at West Point and on April 16 will start a four day trip to Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. Originally, it was announced that the season would start on April 16 with a trip calling for three games.

The schedule follows: April 12, West Point at West Point; 16, East Stroudsburg normal at East Stroudsburg, Pa.; 17, Albright at Reading, Pa.; 18, Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J.; 19, Pratt Institute at New York; 26, Clark at Worcester, Mass.; May 2, Springfield at Springfield; 3, University of Vermont; 7, Wesleyan; 10, Trinity; 14, Rhode Island State at Kingston, R. I.; 17, University of New Hampshire at Durham, N. H.; 21, Colby at Waterville, Me.; 22, University of Maine at Orono; 24, Bates at Lewiston, Me.; 30, Trinity at Hartford (morning), and Wesleyan at Middletown (afternoon); 31, Rhode Island state; June 7, Springfield; 14, Williams at Williamstown, Mass.

HARVARD AND YALE TIE IN OVERTIME GAME

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—A fighting Harvard hockey team held a great Yale sextet to a 2-2 tie after 90 minutes of play here tonight in the third game of the annual series. Each team has a victory and this deadlock forced the series, which runs back to 1900, into a fourth game for the first time.

The fourth game will be played on March 19 and the rival athletic officials will decide tomorrow on the playing surface. Harvard wants the game played in Boston and Yale plans to move it to New York.

The Crimson team started the conflict the underdog, but Joe Stubbs' puck chasers had power enough to cage the first score, during the first five minutes. Charley Cunningham, Crimson defense player, slashed the rubber into the Yale net when the Eli goalie delayed clearing a shot fired from a hectic scrimmage. Ding Palmer, speedy Yale winger, tied the score before the period ended by slashing Frank Luce's assist into the Harvard net.

There was no scoring during the second period, a furious 20 minutes filled with thrilling hockey. Both teams made many sensational drives but the rival goalies refused to give way.

Harvard appeared to have the game won early in the third period after Bobby Giddens, Canadian born forward, caged Sam Batchelder's assist. With less than five minutes to play Dan Hickok forced the game into overtime by hooking the rubber from a wild scrimmage in front of the Harvard cage and slashing it past Goalie Hardy Ellis.

Both teams ran through the 30 minutes of overtime without penalty though the play was fast and furious during every minute of the three ten minute overtime sessions. The goal tenders turned in extraordinary performances, Ellis making 58 stops in the Harvard net and Colman Curtis turning 51 shots aside for the Elis.

Giants Beaten by White Sox

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12.—(AP)—The New York Giants dropped another game to the Chicago White Sox today, 10 to 6.

The Giants were out-hit, 18 blows raining off the bats of the Sox batters, while Ted Blankenship and Grady Atkins scattered the ten safeties made by the National leaguers. The pitching for the Giants was contributed by Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Heving and Roy Parmalee. Dave Harris and Bill Cissell connected with circuit clouts for the Sox and Travis Jackson and Bill Terry for the Giants.

Score by innings:

N. Y. Giants	021 010 020—	6	9	1
Chi. White Sox	010 017 10x—	10	18	0

Fitzsimmons, Heving, Parmalee and O'Farrell and Veltman; Blankenship, Adkins and Riddle and Autrey.

Black Bill and Wolgast Matched

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Black Bill of Cuba and Midget Wolgast, finalists in the long drawn out flyweight tournament that was started months ago in Madison Square Garden, will meet March 21, here for New York state recognition as the 110 pound ruler. They signed today to box 15 rounds on the Kid Chocolate-Al Ridgeway card at the Garden.

R. I. Reds Beat Indians

PROVIDENCE, March 12—(AP)—The Rhode Island Reds defeated the Springfield Indians, 4 to 3, here tonight in the last game of the season between the two clubs, on the local ice.

Gizzy Hart's second goal of the night, scored with two seconds to go in the third period, won the game for the Reds.

Columbia Clinches Title

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(AP)—Columbia university clinched the eastern intercollegiate basketball title tonight by defeating Pennsylvania, 29 to 23 in a thrilling battle.

Did you ever sit at the ringside and wonder what the boxer in the corner was thinking about between rounds?

I asked one of our local pugilists what he thought about while he was taking his minute rest between rounds. He replied, "Oh, about a lotta things."

Well, that's as good an answer as any, all things considered. From our seat at the ringside we'll do a little imagining and here's what we think he might think if he did think.

"Well, I'm glad that round is over. He's sure a tough baby, but I'll get him yet, he can't keep that pace up. I wonder if the referee give me that round and if the reporters saw that left I landed?"

"Guess I wasn't pretty clever when I took that right hook of his on the ear instead of the chin. It hurt a little but it didn't do no damage. I hope the reporters saw that I slipped instead of going down from the blow. Those guys are sure dumb some times."

"I'll get this sucker in the next round, he's just another push-over for me. These seconds of mine telling me to keep away from him. How the devil do they suppose I'm going to fight if I keep away. That's all seconds know, anyway."

"Well, I better take a drink outta the bottle now or folks won't think I ever been in a ring before. I ain't thirsty, but it looks good to the cash customers. Now, that other second's telling me to use my left more. What does he think I been doing with it, waving at my girl."

"That reminds me, I wonder if Lizzie saw me shoot over that hook in that last round. She says she's so afraid I'll get hurt some day when I miss. Says she's afraid I'll throw my arm outta joint. Girls is dumb like seconds and newspaper guys."

"Well, can you imagine that? That guy down there just made the crack that I'd be lucky if I lasted another round. I'll bet he's a reporter. I wish these seconds wouldn't keep putting that smelling salts under my nose, they must think I'm goofy."

Here's Jake telling me to keep my chin covered and to use my left and hit from the shoulder with both hands. Must think I'm a contortionist. It's all right for them to talk, they ain't in there taking it on the chin. There ain't a second living who can go into the ring and do as good as the fighter, yet they insist on telling him how to fight."

"There's the whistle, only ten seconds and we'll be at it again. I wish I hadn't eaten that onion for lunch today, I can still taste it. There's the bell. Well, here goes, this is going to be the last round for one of us. I gotta date."

And he goes back to the wars.

SARAGEN-FARRELL TEAM FALLS IN FOUR-BALL TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Clarence Gamber dropped a three-inch putt into a 39th hole cup as darkness descended over Miami Country club course tonight to eliminate Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, L. I., and Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., favorites, from tomorrow's final play in the international four-ball matches.

Gamber, swarthy young professional from the exclusive Boca Raton club, and his partner, Cyril Walker, veteran from Saddle River, N. J., provided the most decided upset of the annual $5,000 tournament as they stroked their way through a 1-up victory in 39 holes.

Gamber and Walker will play a scheduled 36-hole final match tomorrow with Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis. Hampton and McIntyre struggled to a 38th hole finish before the former holed a short putt for a four to eliminate Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, and Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., 1 up.

Neither final team was reckoned as potential victors as the tournament opened. Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Delaware, were scored highly as possible victors along with Sarazen and Farrell, but were eliminated in yesterday's quarter final play.

TITLEHOLDER IS BEATEN IN BILLIARD TOURNEY

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—(AP)—Ray V. Fessenden, the Madison, Wis. contractor who holds the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard title, today was defeated in tournament play to decide the holder of the 1930 crown. He fell before the accurate cue work of Percy Collins, of Chicago, who has held the championship four times, 300 to 200 in 30 innings, requiring two hours and 20 minutes.

In the other afternoon match, Arie Schaap, St. Louis, won his first match in four starts, defeating James J. Peabody of Chicago 300 to 283 in 51 innings, requiring 3 hours and 45 minutes.

Collins' victory placed him in a triple tie for the tourney lead with M. C. Wallgren of Seattle, and Edgar Appleby of New York, each of whom have won two tilts. Wallgren and Appleby, however, meet in the only night contest scheduled.

It was Fessenden's first defeat of the tourney and he was behind all the way.

FOUR NORWICH BOYS ON DANIELSON BOXING CARD

Norwich pugilistic circles will be represented at the Danielson boxing show next Tuesday night when four of the local boys furnish the competition in four of the six rounds. Al Koziol meets Ero Pejerson in a six rounder, Sheik Leonard battles Artie O'Day of Holyoke in another six round feature, Vic Darr takes on Alex Touraine of New Haven for six rounds and Curley Reta clashes with Benny Novak in a six round return match. Each of these bouts looks like a top liner on most any card.

Youngsters Make Fast Time

Two local youngsters, Elwood Fowler and Stuart Parmalee, are very proud of the fact that they made fast time on their bicycles from Norwich to the State Hospital yesterday afternoon. The boys say they left Norwich at 4:20 and arrived at the State Hospital at 4:30, just ten minutes. Pretty good time at that.

Accept Jolly Three Challenge

Cody's All-Stars wish to play the Jewett City Jolly Three for a match game at Jewett City bowling alleys this (Thursday) evening at 7 o'clock. Players will meet at the alleys at 7 sharp.

CONGER WINS COLUMBIAN MILE RACE IN FASTEST TIME OF THE SEASON

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Ray Conger, won the Columbian mile, feature event of the Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden tonight beating out Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland, by a yard.

Conger turned in the fastest time of the indoor season, 4 minutes, 13 1-5 seconds—to retain the honors he won in the same event last year. It was the sixth straight victory at the mile route indoors this season for the Illinois A. C. flier, who was pressed to the limit by the Swiss Olympic veteran in a finish that brought 12,000 fans to their feet in a wild cheer.

Eight yards back of the flying Conger and Martin, Gene Venzke, Swedish-American A. C. runner from Philadelphia, took third place, while Joe Hivak, burly Butler university miler who set most of the early pace was fourth. Bringing up the rear, were Joe Hickey, New York university; Joe McCluskey, Fordham; and Bob Dalrymple, Boston A. A., in that order.

Dallas Creamer, of Toronto, was second tonight; Catherine Capp, New York, third, and Mrs. Post, the former record holder, fourth.

Although upheld by a supreme court injunction forbidding the A. A. U. from banning him, Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish runner chose not to run in the classic Columbian mile because of fear of being suspended in his own country. The A. A. U. had acted in accordance with action taken by the International A. A. federation.

Clipping more than two seconds off the old record, the amazing Cleveland sprinter, Miss Stella Walsh, set a new American women's indoor mark of 26 1-10 seconds to win the 220 yard international girls' sprints. She outclassed a crack field of feminine rivals to win her second victory of the night. Earlier in the evening she had cleaned up at 40 yards after equalling record figures in a heat.

Winning by 50 feet Miss Walsh's great performance not only shattered the recognized standard of 28 4-5 seconds held jointly by Catherine Donovan and Mrs. Ellen Brough Post, but also sliced three-tenths of a second off the time Miss Walsh herself made earlier in the season in Philadelphia. Tonight's race also was seven tenths of a second faster than the present outdoor record held by Mrs. Post.

Bridgton, Mass., Academy won a one mile relay for high and preparatory schools, beating out two New York high schools, Morris and James Madison. The time was 3:36 1-10.

MISS QUIER ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINALS AT BELLEAIR

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa. winner of the qualifying medal, today advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Belleair women's golf championship, defeating Miss Fritzie Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., one up in 19 holes.

In the other quarter final matches, Mrs. Helen B. Stetson of Philadelphia, former national champion and defending titleholder, eliminated Mrs. J. H. Indig, of Chicago, 3 and 2; Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., defeated Mrs. John Arends, Chicago, one up, and Ruth Perry of Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. Sidney Small of Detroit, 3 and 2.

SINGER SEWING TEAM TAKES OVER THE ALL-STARS

In the closest game of the local pocket billiard tournament being conducted at the Recreation, the Singer Sewing team took over the All-Stars by the close score of 100 to 90.

Gromko, the B. man of the Singer's, was undoubtedly the star of the game, getting at least 60 of the 100. Capt. Reynolds was undoubtedly the most spectacular player of the tournament, making almost impossible shots. His generalship was faultless.

Griffith, of the Stars, was the steadiest player of the evening, getting 4 runs of 11 and one run of 12. Donovan, a C. player, got a run of 7. The game was very exciting as the score was very close all the way through. It was the first game of the third round putting the Singer's in the prize money even if they lose their remaining game.

Thursday night the H. D. H.'s oppose the Butchers in what promises to be a very exciting game.

YESTERDAY IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

Braves Blank Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The Boston Braves defeated the St. Louis Cards, 1 to 0, in an exhibition game here today behind the mid-season pitching of Harry Seibold and Percy Jones.

Score by innings:

St. Louis Cards	000 000 000—	0;5;2.
Boston Braves	000 100 00x—	1;7;0.

Lindsey, Messenger, Brown and Smith; Seibold, Jones and Collins.

Cubs Lose To Angels

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., March 12—(AP)—Hammering three Chicago Cub pitchers for eleven hits, Los Angeles club today defeated the National league champions here 10 to 2. The Los Angeles hurlers allowed only seven hits. The victory gave the Pacific Coast league club two victories out of three games with the Cubs.

The score by innings:

Los Angeles	000 242 101—	10;11;0
Chicago	000 000 200—	2; 7;4

Ballou, Delaney, Barfoot and Hannah, Warren; Nelson, Grampp, Teachout and Hartnett, Taylor, Schulte.

Indians

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 12.—(AP) — Recruits and regulars went through long sessions of infield practice at the Cleveland Indians training camp today, some of them hitting the ball across the field as if they had been at it all winter.

Three of the infield rookies showed good defensive work. They are Alex Hooks, at first base; Cecil Stewart, at second, and Jonah Goldman at short.

Robins To Lose Four

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins are due to lose four members of their present squad, Manager Wilbert Robinson said today. The Brooklyn club will carry only 34 men when it moves to Miami Friday for an exhibition tour, according to the portly Robin manager.

Glenn Wright caused a few worries in today's single workout when he developed a charley horse, but the trainers reported that all he needs is a couple of days rest. He gave way to Jack Warner for today's practice game in which the regulars gave the irregulars Dazzy Vance then beat them 10 to 7. Vance was the losing pitcher, being in and out of trouble all through his three innings.

Yankees

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The New York Yankees did a lot of nothing much in a light practice session today. After several busy days of exhibition games with the Boston Braves, they went back to the fundamentals of the game and the rookies came in for most of the hard work. Considerable time was put in teaching the young pitchers the art of covering first base. The rest busied themselves with batting practice with Lou Gehrig and Dusty Cooke featuring long hits.

Phillies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies expressed confidence today that the controversy that has kept Fresco Thompson, Phils' captain and second baseman out of uniform, would be ironed out soon. [illegible] in St. Louis and that the salary difference was not so much of an obstacle in the case as a grievance of a private nature. A telegram which he sent, Shotton said, should pave the way for Thompson's uniting with the team at the training camp here.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 12.—(AP)—The regulars outhit the Yanigans 7 to 6 in a practice encounter at the Pittsburgh Pirates training camp today but the "Yans" won the game 6 to 5. Four straight hits by Brickell, Comorosky, Paul Waner and Traynor of the veterans brought three runs in the eighth. Comorosky's effort was a double.

Kremer, Brame, Erickson and Finney were on the hill for the Yanigans and Bednar and Lang pitched for the regulars.

Athletics Nose Out Tampa

TAMPA, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Connie Mack's Athletics nosed out the Tampa baseball team of the Southeastern league, 6 to 5, in an interesting contest here today.

Relief pitching of Alfred Jones, former Gettysburg college athlete, carried the world's champions to victory after young George Snider faltered in the fifth.

Score:

Athletics	400 110 000—	6;10;1.
Tampa	001 220 000—	5; 8;2.

Batteries—Liebhardt, Snider, Jones and Perkins; Alvarez, Lee, McCall, Sackett and Sanchet and McAdams.

Senators

BILOXI, Miss., March 12—(AP)—An infield that will sparkle like that of the days of "Peck to Harris to Judge" is being counted upon by Manager Johnson of the Washington Nationals for the 1930 American league race.

Joe Judge, veteran first sacker, is demonstrating his usual ability. Buddy Myers, who has been converted from a third baseman into a capable keystone bag guardian, has shown proficiency in pivoting on double plays.

Joe Cronin and Jimmy McLeod, both first class shortstops are running a neck and neck race for that job. An exceptional utility infield performer is Jack Hayes, whom Johnson feels can handle nearly all the infield jobs in a pinch. Ossie Bluege, whose trick knee seems to have let up some, will be whipping them over from third.

Reds

ORLANDO, Fla., March 12—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' veteran pitchers who have done little pitching during the early spring training stages, today were sent to the mound by Manager Dan Howley for a long workout. Howley believes his pitchers now are in good physical condition and has instructed them to begin bearing down.

Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, was a visitor during the Reds' workout.

Browns

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12—(AP)—While Business Manager Bill Friel and Outfielder Heinie Manush continued their argument today over what salary the slugger should receive, the rest of the St. Louis Browns went through the usual training grind.

Edie Grimes, infielder, who has been holding out, wired today he was on his way to the training camp with his signed contract.

In addition to Manush, Shortstop Red Kress and Pitcher George Blaeholder still are unsigned.

Wins Field Trials

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 12.—(AP)—Reagin's Mohawk Pal, setter, owned by E. M. Tutwiler of Birmingham, Ala., won the national bird dog field trials here today by out hunting Mary Blue, champion pointer owned by W. C. Teagle, New York.

The victory was Pal's third in the national event.

Princeton Beats Brown

PRINCETON, N. J., March 12—(AP)—Princeton won its last home basketball game of the season tonight, defeating Brown 39 to 30. Brown led only at one time, early in the first half. At half time the score was 20 to 15 in Princeton's favor. Carter Goodpasture, Tiger forward, was high scorer with 13 points. Caulkins of Brown came in second with nine.

St. Mary's 6th Grade Wins

Wednesday afternoon, the sixth grade of St. Mary's school beat the fifth grade by a score of 14-0. O. Ryan pitched a good game, while Burke caught. The line-up for the winners was: Burke, c; Ryan, p; Gleason, 1b; Dunion, 2b; Salvedio, 3b; Nealon ss; Sullivan rf; Duff, cf; Peady, lf.

College Women's Basketball

FALL IN HOME FATAL TO BRIDGEPORT MAN

BRIDGEPORT, March 12.— (AP) — Richard B. Halsey, president of the R. B. Halsey Shirt company and a resident of this city for about 80 years, was seized with a dizzy spell at his home today, and fell, striking his head against the edge of a bureau. He died from a fractured skull shortly before noon.

Dr. Joseph I. Weisard, 45, former health officer of Bristol, died at St. Francis hospital, Hartford, after an illness of two months.

YANTIC

TAFT-SANFORD DEATHS OF SPECIAL LOCAL INTEREST

The death of ex-President William H. Taft has recalled to many here the time when he was the guest of Winslow Tracy Williams, at Rock-Clyffe, during the 250th anniversary of the founding of Norwich, in July, 1909. It has recalled the sylvan setting Mr. Williams had arranged on his estate, having his flocks of sheep grazing along the hillside and about the fish pond. The president admired the mansion and its beautiful environment and was one of the merriest at the dinner given in his honor. Only a few weeks ago Winslow T. Williams passed away in his home on Madison avenue, New York, and was buried in Yantic cemetery.

The death of Justice Edward Terry Sanford of Washington recalled memories of nearly fifty years ago by some of the parishoners of Grace Episcopal church who remember him when as a youth he spent his summers here, the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Kelly and wife of Rev. Mr. Kelly, then rector of Grace church. Mr. Sanford's sister was Mrs. Kelly and every summer during the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Kelly Mr. and Mrs. Sanford and their four children would come here from Knoxville, Tenn., for a vacation. They mingled with the villagers and endeared themselves to all who met them.

Chief Justice Hughes and Justices McReynolds, Butler and Stone accompanied Mrs. Sanford and Rep. and Mrs. Fisher of Tennessee to Knoxville with the body. Mrs. Fisher is a sister of the late justice and spent some time in Yantic years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Molter have moved to Pittsfield, Mass. Mr. Molter is connected with a large woolen mill there. Their home, owned by the American Woolen company, was recently sold by the company to Isadore Berkman of Berkman Brothers here, who are planning to use it as a residence.

PIGS BASK IN VIOLET RAYS, TAKE COD LIVER OIL, TOO

Baton Rouge, La.—(AP)—Now comes the suntanned pork chop.

Louisiana state university is experimenting with the ultra-violet ray on brood sows to prevent rickets in spring pigs. The porkers also are taking cod liver oil.

The sows bask under violet ray treatment 15 minutes a day three times a week.

Increase Corn Yield.

PRINCETON, Ind. —(AP)— Reducing hazards that cut yeilds, Gibson county farmers have developed a corn system that produces 100 bushels or more to an acre. Close spacing, proper fertilization, good seed, cultivation and rotation are features of the system.

BENEDICTS VS. BACHELORS TONIGHT

The Benedicts and the Bachelors will be rivals again tonight at the Y. M. C. A. court when the second game of the much discussed series will be played. The Norwich Girls team will probably close its 1929-1930 basketball season in the preliminary game against the fast Putnam high school quintet. This game will attract as much interest as the main game.

The Benedicts and the Bachelors are anticipating a keen battle tonight and both teams are on edge. The last game resulted in a decisive victory for the married men much to the humiliation of those who look upon life through rose-colored glasses. But at the same time the singlites are doing plenty of worrying on their own part. Manager Leffingwell of the Bachelors has taken his charges to task and early to bed has been the watchword in the camp of the single men all this week.

The Married Men are not in the least worried. They feel that what is done once can be done again and they have gone into no intensive training for the game. They have simply followed the routine of their well regulated home life and fear no dangers. They are confident, in fact, they are just bubbling over with confidence, a fact which does not in the least afford any joy to the Bachelors.

These two games at the Y. M. C. A. court tonight should prove to be well worth seeing and a large crowd is anticipated.

GREENEVILLE

HARTFORD PRIEST SPEAKER AT LENTEN DEVOTIONS

The Lenten devotions were held Wednesday evening at St. Mary's Memorial church at 7:30 o'clock with a large attendance present. Rev. Arthur Sullivan recited the rosary and offered benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The speaker during the Lenten period is Rev. Eugene Moriarty of Hartford and the topic last night was Remember, Man, Thou Art Dust and Unto Dust Thou Shalt Return. Father Moriarty explained why the church has set apart the Lenten period as a time devoted to prayer and sacrifice. The musical program was in charge of the organist, Mrs. Michael J. Farrell.

Mrs. John Wright has returned to her home at New Bedford, after spending a few days with relatives on Thirteenth street.

NORWICH TOWN

SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF DR. J. H. EVANS' DEATH

Norwich Town relatives recall that today (Thursday) is the second anniversary of the death of John H. Evans, M. D., a skilled physician and surgeon of Norwich, twenty-five years ago. Dr. Evans, who was given a military burial in Arlington cemetery, Virginia, was a hero of the World war, also was decorated by the Russian government for his wonderful work in stamping out disease, while engaged in Near East Relief work for four years. Following the World war, when engaged in different army hospitals, Dr. Evans had a record of performing more than one thousand major surgical operations.

At the Sacred Heart church Friday evening, at 7:30, there will be Lenten devotions, with stations of the cross and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are Ember days in the church calendar, days of abstinence.

Mrs. William Weaver, of Norwich Town was hostess to Club No. 2, of the Social Corner, when it held its anniversary meeting with a bountiful dinner Tuesday at Buckingham Memorial, assisting Mrs. Porter Rogers, who was in general charge. In the more than 100 members present, all Corner clubs were represented, many being present from suburban towns. Included in this gathering were sixteen from Norwich Town. Rev. George W. Potter, one of the guests said grace and during the entertainment hour that followed, Dr. Charles H. Lamb contributed two tenor solos, Mrs. George W. Borden of Leffingwell accompanying at the piano. Mrs. Borden also played for Mrs. John Libby, of Waterford, when she sang two soprano solos and by request Mrs. Libby and Mrs. Borden sang "Juanita." The program which included several humorous readings, opened with the singing of America and the salute to the flag. Later, with Mrs. Crary at the piano, and another Corner member playing the violin, two sets of Virginia reel were formed, to the enjoyment of those participating.

At the twentieth anniversary dinner of S. C. club, No. 1, in Chamber of Commerce hall, Willimantic, Wednesday, when Mrs. William Green was general hostess, there was an attendance of over 100, including several Corner members from Norwich Town. A most elaborate dinner was served, consisting of salads, baked beans, pickles, relishes, chop suey, rolls, cheese, doughnuts, delicious pies and cakes, coffee and fruit. Dr. Lamb led in the singing of the Doxology, after which two of the special guests were heard. A former Norwich resident, at one time secretary of the chamber of commerce, John J. O'Rourke, now secretary of Willimantic chamber of commerce, led in singing America, when at the close, the president, Louis H. Arnold, gave a brief, inspiring speech, congratulating the club on its 20th anniversary and extending a cordial welcome to all, especially out-of-town people, to the commerce rooms at all times. A pleasant feature which came as a surprise, was a box of pink, red and white carnations, presented from Willimantic chamber of commerce, there being one for everyone present. In the afternoon, A Country School was presented, with Mrs. Henry Nye as teacher. This excited much laughter. At the close Dr. Lamb sang two tenor solos with Mrs. Beebe, of Willimantic, accompanist. Mrs. Beebe gave a recitation which closed the entertaining program.

TAFTVILLE

Before a large and appreciative audience, and under the auspices of the Dramatic club of the Taftville Congregational church, the Greeneville Congregational church Dramatic club presented "Please Stand By," a radioletta in two parts, at Ponemah hall, Tuesday evening. All the song, musical and joke numbers were greatly enjoyed by those who "listened in." Those taking part were Howard A. Spaulding, Mrs. John C. Atterbury, Mrs. Earle H. Christman, Mrs. George E. Turner, Tyler Gilbert, Miss Charlotte Fowler, Miss Helena F. Crandall, Fred B. Power, Neil Finlayson, Miss Natalie P. Service, Miss Margaret C. West, Miss J. Barbara Dytko, Jabez F. West, Jr., Lloyd Thompson, William Fleming, Earle D. Kramer, Mrs. Raymond C. Brittin, Jabez F. West, Miss Maude Smiley, Miss Josephine Gibson and Russell Wilson. The accompanist was Mrs. William H. Stebbins, and the directress was Mrs. Leonard C. Prentice.

Lost letters advertised at the local postoffice this week include Emma Thibeault, August Bresette, Mrs. Annie Geary, Mr. Arsene Fellier, and Francis J. Spellacy.

There was a large attendance at the weekly meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society at their rooms on Providence street Wednesday evening.

The meeting of the members of the Thimble club, which was to have been held Tuesday evening with Mrs. George Helmboldt of Blissville, was postponed.

SOLD MILLION AND HALF DOZEN EGGS PAST YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 12.—Approximately 1,500,000 dozen eggs were sold during the past business year by the two Connecticut cooperative egg marketing associations, according to Dr. E. A. Perregaux, marketing specialist at the state college in a radio talk delivered over station WCAC. The total volume of business was about $670,000 and represents the product of 300 members.

The associations increased their sales about 20 per cent during the year, and report a growing demand for New England Maid eggs, the trade mark used to identify their product. These organizations have made steady progress during the six years they have been operating, Dr. Perregaux stated, and there appears to be no reason why they should not continue to expand as long as they continue to emphasize quality in selling their eggs. It has been estimated that the two associations sell approximately 20 per cent of the eggs produced on commercial poultry farms in the state.

One of the associations has recently undertaken a radio advertising campaign to popularize their trade marked product, while the other association is also considering some form of publicity to increase the use of its product. Some form of consumer education on eggs is desirable, the economist said, since studies made to date show that there is little relation between quality and price in the sale of eggs. If the associations are to succeed in the policy of selling only a high quality identified product, the consumer must be taught to recognize that quality.

An indication of the consumer's attitude is indicated in a recent study made in Providence by Dr. R. B. Corbett, of the Rhode Island Experiment station, in which 30 per cent of the consumers bought eggs from farmers or men whom they thought to be farmers. This has been the means by which the consumer has tried to protect himself from the old store practices of mixing eggs. Confidence must be established in the mind of the buyer that in the sealed carton bearing the New England Maid trademark which he obtains from his local grocer he is getting a strictly fresh egg not long off the farm.

Increasing competition and lower prices predicted for the coming year should enable the associations to be of further service to their members by assuring them a year round outlet, and payment for eggs according to size and quality, Dr. Perregaux said.

The low prices of butter appear to have stimulated consumption so that the trade is in a more optimistic mood, the economist pointed out. Price has improved about one and one-half cents during the past week. Chain stores and other buyers are now purchasing ahead. Receipts appear to be diminishing so that if it were not for the large stocks of butter in storage, about twice the amount on hand last year, the butter situation would be fairly good.

Potato prices have not moved to any great extent as predicted earlier in the season. Maine apparently has as many cars still to be shipped as in 1927 when the U. S. crop was practically the same as in the past season. Prices in Boston at the end of last week were about $1.50 per bushel, practically the same as in 1927 on the same date. The price to growers at Presque Isle, Me., is approximately 10 cents a bushel below that in 1927.

The price of eggs in New York improved slightly during the past week, Dr. Perregaux said, but remains below the level for the last few years. Receipts are greater than during last year, and indications are that they will continue so. Pacific coast top grades were in demand for storage prices ranging about 35 1-2 cents per dozen. The top quotation for nearbys was 32 cents. Prices of fowl were good in New York during the past week, but the price of nearby broilers dropped at the close, Reds bringing only 40 cents.

SHERIFF BRADFORD HAS FURNISHED $10,000 BOND

George H. Bradford of Montville, who was Monday appointed high sheriff of New London county by Gov. John H. Trumbull has furnished a $10,000 bond, which has been approved by the attorney general and filed with the secretary of the state.

Divorce Suit Withdrawn

A divorce petition brought by Leslie May Garrison of Bridgeport against Edward J. Garrison, formerly of New London, has been withdrawn from the superior court.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN TO ERECT MEMORIAL TO CHIEF OCCUM

Eight Boy Scout men from Putnam and East Woodstock were guests of Norwich at a meeting held in the Community house Wednesday evening. The Norwich scout men assembled at 6:15 and following the invocation by Scout Commissioner A. L. Peale, they sat down to a bountiful supper prepared by Scoutmasters Howard Ludlow and John Hill, assisted by Scouts Herbert Chapman, Eddie Mack, Frances Aubrey, Raymond Hotchkis, and Bogue Zowisimski. Following the supper Jean Keiffer led the group in scout songs. A letter from Alexander Ruelke, former member of the scoutmasters' school and assistant scoutmaster of Troop No. 8, was read before the meeting and greetings extended to him by the men. Mr. Ruelke is now in Brooklyn where he is engaged in scout work.

Charles Coit, national council delegate, gave a very interesting description of his visit to national headquarters and his impressions of Sir Robert Baden Powell and other notables at the scout dinner held in New York city last Saturday.

Scout Executive John L. Sellman gave a report on council objectives of Stamford and New Haven, Conn. Scoutmaster Walter Weidman gave a report on standardizing the scout tests. Scout Commissioner Peale told of a plan for the scouts of Connecticut to erect a memorial to the famous Indian chief, Occum, and the group empowered the scout executive to write to Boston asking that the Connecticut scout executives be asked to hold a meeting in Springfield, April 10, during the regional conference, that Mr. Peale may present his plan to the scout officials of the state.

A thorough discussion of an all council rally, circus or jamboree resulted in the appointment of a jamboree committee composed of Howard Ludlow William Wyman, Cecil Wetherbee, Frank Gleason, and Howard Donovan which is to meet in Putnam next Thursday evening and discuss the whole matter and draw up plans.

The group approved a patrol leaders' training course and a committee composed of Will Collins, H. Downer Johnson, and Walter Weidman was appointed to sponsor the project. A camp savings plan was approved and William Wyman with the executive are to see what the local banks will do to foster the plan. The date of the next court of honor was set for Wednesday, March 19.

Announcements were made of the joint meeting of the scoutmasters and the executive board to be held the second Monday in April. Circulars were distributed describing the coming regional conference in Springfield, Mass., where Mortimer Shiff and Dr. George Fisher will speak. Following the discussion Scoutmaster Carl Brend showed some interesting moving picture films on scout work which were highly entertaining.

A vote of thanks was extended to Charles Gilbert, chairman of training, and to the committee responsible for the meeting, Howard Ludlow, William Wyman, and Cecil Wetherbee and to John Hill and the scouts for the splendid supper.

Following the moving pictures hot chocolate and cake were served. The Putnam men visited the local scout office and expressed their hearty appreciation of the round table. They requested that the next round table be held in Putnam.

Those in attendance at the meeting were: Arthur L. Peale, Charles Gilbert, Charles Coit, Tom Burdick, A. W. Silverberg, Mervin B. Leffingwell, John P. Boldrighine, H. Lloyd Rathbun, Cecil Wetherbee, Carl W. Brend, William Collins, W. P. Weideman, Jean Keiffer, John Hill, H. Downer Johnson, Robert Burke, Franklin Robinson, F. H. Wyant, Howard Ludlow, Nick Tarrant, Frank Gleason, Edward Donovan, Harry Trask, Lawrence Lucier, Fred Racine, Dibat Charron, Arthur Bominville, Albert Robitaille, John L. Sellman, and five scouts from Troop No. 18.

GOV. JONATHAN TRUMBULL CHAPTER HAS MEETING

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Bliss in Franklin Monday. Owing to illness, the regent was not present. In the absence of the regent and vice regent the meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. R. Manning, past regent.

The meeting opened with the salute to the flag, the Lord's prayer and the singing of America.

Delegates were appointed to the state conference to be held in Bridgeport, March 20 and 21. The registrar reported that the papers of Miss Clara Gillett had been accepted and that she was a member of the National D A. R.

Letters from Miss Nettleton and Miss Mary Hubbard, Mrs. E. M. Monat and Mrs. E. K. Hammer were read. A part of the Monroe doctrine was read by Mrs. David Pitcher. It was voted to pay for a picture of Brother Jonathan to be in the historical state guide. Eight members were present.

The meeting closed with the D. A. R. pledge. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

FRANK DODGE WINS PLACE ON HONOR ROLL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., March 12.—Frank Fairfield Dodge, of Norwich, was one of many Connecticut students to win places on the scholastic honor roll for the first semester at the Worcester Polytechnic institute, according to an announcement from the office of the registrar.

Dodge, a member of the freshman class, held averages of 80 to 85 per cent in all subjects. He is a member of Theta Chi fraternity and the glee club.

Victor Noyes Colby, of North Grosvenordale, was one of the few junior class men to receive an honor rating.

The sophomore list included Edgar Charles Ansaldi of South Manchester

In the freshman honor list were: Waldo E. Bass, of Willimantic, and Allen E. Brownlee, of South Willington.

LUTHERAN CHURCH TO BURN MORTGAGE SUNDAY

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Evangelical Lutheran church met in monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of 42. Reports were read of the last payment of the mortgage on the church property. The church is now free of debt. This event will be celebrated with a social evening next Sunday night at which a luncheon will be served between 6 and 7 o'clock. There will be a musical program following which the mortgage note will be burned. New altar linens are ordered by the society for Easter. The coverings are to be sewed by the sewing circle and friends. Mrs. Raymond Bourne was received into membership. Coffee and cake was served after the business was finished. A new refreshment committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. Margaret Puchta, Mrs. H. Retkowske, Mrs. Fred Radtke and Mrs. Gustav Rossoll.

Montville Girl Bitten

Norma E. Allen, daughter of Norman C. Allen of Montville, was severely bitten by a dog in Broad street, New London, March 7. The girl was on her way to the Chapman Technical school, according to her father, when the dog suddenly leaped at her and buried his teeth in her left leg below the knee, and she has been under medical care ever since.

JOHN R. BOWMAN, JR., IS NAMED DEPUTY SHERIFF

John R. Bowman, Jr., of No. 23 Greene avenue, this city, superintendent of the water department of the city of Norwich, has been appointed a deputy sheriff for New London county, by Sheriff George H. Bradford to fill the vacancy caused through the death of George H. Stanton, late of Norwich. Mr. Bowman's appointment became known Wednesday and was later confirmed by High Sheriff Bradford, who took office Tuesday.

Mr. Bowman will not resign at present as superintendent of the water department, as he is desirous of serving his term of office, which expires in June. He was elected superintendent about a year ago. While superintendent of the water department Mr. Bowman will discharge only those duties that require his immediate attention as a deputy sheriff. There is no salary connected with the office of deputy sheriff, the only remuneration being received in fees.

The new deputy sheriff was born in Norwich, April 14, 1893, the son of John R. Bowman and the late Sarah E. Palmer Seamons Bowman and was graduated from Norwich Free Academy, after which he attended the University of Maryland. Mr. Bowman was united in marriage with Imogene Hodkins of Bar Harbor, Me., at New London on May 17, 1923. He served in the navy during the World war.

The present deputy sheriffs, who were appointed by the late Sheriff Sidney A. Brown are Oscar H. Main of this city; J. H. Tubbs of East Lyme; William J. Casey of Stonington; John J. McGuire of Sprague; Manuel J. Martin of New London; George H. Hoxie, 2nd, of Lebanon; Thomas C. O'Connell of Stonington and Nelson C. L. Brown of Groton.

PATIENTS DISCHARGED WED. AT W. W. BACKUS HOSPITAL

Patients discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital Wednesday were Delma Miner of No. 18 Town street, Norwich Town; Mrs. John Daly, 25 Providence street, Taftville; Mrs. Floyd Barber and infant son, Slater avenue, Jewett City; Leo Labby, North B street, Taftville; Mrs. Arthur Dupois and infant daughter, 104 Norwich avenue, Taftville, and Michael Vajunckowski of 101 Summit street.

HELD REGULAR MEETING AT NURSES' RESIDENCE

The regular meeting of the W. W. Backus hospital Alumnae association was held at the nurses' residence, Wednesday afternoon. Routine business was transacted. It was voted to change the hour of meeting from 2:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. Reports were read from the Bridgeport convention by the delegates attending. An excellent programme was furnished by the programme committee.

Why Simple Stomach Troubles so Often End on Operating Table

"BECAUSE it could have been so easily avoided, no case is more pitiful, than that of the man or woman who is forced to undergo the surgeon's knife as the result of neglecting simple stomach ailments," said a New York physician recently.

You, for instance, may look on an acid stomach as nothing to fear. Yet in reality, it is a most alarming condition on account of its great tendency to develop stomach ulcers.

Face facts. If you suffer gas and bloating after meals, loss of appetite, constipation, headaches, if your breath is bad, your tongue coated, the best thing you can do is to go to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Tanlac. Besides getting quick relief, weak, disordered stomachs which seemed utterly to have stopped working the way they should, have shown almost a miraculous return to normal activity through the remarkable stimulating effect of Tanlac. One woman, Mrs. May Ogle, says: "Tanlac saved my life. I had stomach troubles for 10 years. Gas nearly killed me and I was in bed for weeks at a time. Doctors said it was gall stones and gall bladder. Spent lots of money but suffering increased and all hope was lost. Certainly a harder task for Tanlac could not be found yet it succeeded. Now in the best health in 10 years and eat everything." Tanlac is not a "patent medicine"—it's a real medicine so do not accept a cheap substitute. Fully guaranteed to give satisfaction or money back. At all druggists.

RECEPTION FRIDAY FOR MISS NANCY TOMLINSON

A reception for Miss Nancy Tomlinson, new social worker of the mental hygiene clinic of the United Workers, will be given at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon by Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, vice president of the United Workers, in the form of a tea party. The tea will be held at Mrs. Gilbert's residence, No. 52 Williams street, to which members of the committee and officers of the United Workers have been invited.

Mrs. Albert H. Chase, president of the United Workers, and Mrs. E. V. Ross, chairman of the mental hygiene clinic, will assist Mrs. Gilbert in receiving. Assisting Miss Alexandrine Trumbull in pouring will be Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Ronald Nelson and Mrs. Lester Greeman.

Miss Tomlinson, who has taken charge of the work, succeeds Miss Betsy Mitchell as head of the clinic.

DAMAGE SUITS AGAINST MADGE KENNEDY SETTLED

Two automobile negligence damage suits against Mrs. Madge Boister, also known as Madge Kennedy, of Southampton, N. Y., described as an actress, in which $13,000 was claimed for personal injuries, have been withdrawn from the superior court.

The plaintiffs were Elizabeth E. Schindler and Mrs. Schindler of Oaklyn, N. J., who were hurt when their car was involved in a collision with the car driven by Mrs. Boister on July 14, last. The crash was on the Boston Post road in Groton.

The sheriff's return of the papers noted that Mrs. Boister now lives in Riverside Park, N. Y.

TWO AUTO LAW VIOLATORS ARE FINED

Two violators of motor vehicle laws were presented in the city court Wednesday morning. Samuel Spangler, 34, of Hartford, charged with failure to have either a driver's license or registration with him, paid a fine of $6.

Raymond Corderre, 24, of No. 188 Boswell avenue, had his case continued for a month. He is charged with driving a machine without having secured an operator's license. The continuance was granted to allow him time to raise money to pay a fine. The two men were arrested by Motor Patrol Officer Clifford Crary.

Edward Seeley of Providence paid a fine of $2 for illegal parking. He was tagged Tuesday night by Officer Luke Riley.

Eastern Conn. Health

The following cases of communicable diseases have been reported in this section of the state, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health for the week ending March 8: Diphtheria, Putnam (C) 1; scarlet fever, Groton, (T) 3; New London, 6; Stonington, 1; Stafford Springs, 1; measles, Windham, 5; whooping cough, Norwich (T), 4; Putnam (C) 5.

J. W. Curtis Resting Comfortably

The many friends of Joseph W. Curtis, general manager of the Richmond Radiator company, will be pleased to learn that on Wednesday he was resting comfortably at the Lawrence Memorial hospital in New London, where he is a patient. Mr. Curtis recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

TESTIMONY IN OPPOSITION TO CHANGING THE DRY LAW

Testimony By Alonzo Stagg, Veteran Athletic Coach, Was Declared By Representative Laguardia, a Wet, to Be the "Most Sincere, Most Telling Statement" He Had Ever Heard From a Dry—Women Witnesses Who Were to Have Been Cross-Examined Yesterday Morning Failed to Appear.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—Five men including Alonzo Stagg, veteran athletic director of the University of Chicago, stood today before the house judiciary committee to add another mass of testimony in opposition to any modification or repeal of the nation's prohibition laws.

Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, a wet, told the veteran coach that his was the "most sincere, most telling statement" he had ever heard from a dry.

The hearings today were in sharp contrast to the smooth-clicking machine-like performance of yesterday, when Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., led two dozen women witnesses before the committee without having any subjected to a single question from the members until all were through.

Mrs. Peabody and two of her witnesses who were to have been cross-examined this morning failed to appear. She alone came in later in the day and precipitated an argument among the members which ended in a sudden adjournment.

A statement from Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale, which the drys hoped to have read, was ruled out by Chairman Graham, who held that Fisher as an outstanding dry should give his views in person and subject himself to questioning.

Cross-examination of two other witnesses, Carlton M. Sherwood, executive secretary of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand of New York, and Charles M. Hay, St. Louis attorney, was halted several times by committee arguments.

Tomorrow a short morning session is to be held, but at the conclusion of today's hearing the dry generals were uncertain who would be presented. Their program was disarranged by the ruling out of the Fisher statement.

Another prepared statement, by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, was withdrawn before any effort was made to present it.

Besides Stagg, who testified out of the wealth of 38 years' experience in the direction of youthful athletes, and Sherwood and Hay, the committee heard Arthur H. Hood, Philadelphia insurance man, representing his city's Federation of Men's Bible Classes, and John A. McSperran of Furness, Penn., former master of the Pennsylvania State grange.

Stagg told the committee that the youth of today were fortunate in growing up in a country where sale of intoxicants is prohibited.

"The great mass of people in the United States, in my judgment," he observed, "are strong for the law and will continue to be despite the massed attack which is being made upon it.

"As I see it, the prohibition law is not observed, first, by 'the idle rich,' second, by 'the ne'er-do-wells,' as Westbrook Pegler calls them, third by the class who demand social privileges for themselves, and fourth, by the follow-tails, that is, the weak ones who just go along."

Sherwood denied that American business men were habitual violators of prohibition laws. He charged the wets with having become fanatics. A long list of messages written by leading business men from all over the country supporting his views and denouncing testimony presented to the committee by Grayson M. P. Murphy of New York, was read to the committee. Sherwood termed the present investigation as "primarily a publicity hearing."

Hay, who was a democratic candidate for the United States senate in 1928, said that in 12,000 miles of travel during that campaign he never saw a place that could be identified as a saloon or speakeasy in any small town or city of Missouri.

"It's doubtless true that if I had been hunting for liquor I could have found it, but in the old days I would not have had to hunt for it. In the rural sections of my state liquor plays a very minor part in the lives of the people."

Questioning of Hay by LaGuardia on his connection with the Heber Nations trial for prohibition law violation in St. Louis brought protests from committee members. The witness said he had entered the case out of sympathy for Gus O. Nations, brother of the defendant, whom he termed "a most fearless, incorruptible public official."

Mrs. Mabie Walker Willebrandt's name was brought up by LaGuardia, who recalled her articles on the Nations matter. Hay retorted that a libel suit was now pending against the former assistant attorney general as a result of her statements in those articles.

Mrs. Peabody presented herself at the afternoon session only to be faced by a charge that she had "coached" the witnesses of yesterday and had prevented the committee from learning the true views of several of the women. Representative Celler, democrat, New York, made the accusation and demanded permission to read from the transcript of yesterday's proceedings to prove it.

Chairman Graham ruled against him. In the heated discussion that ensued, several committee members expressed resentment of what they termed the "insult" to the witness.

Representative Sumners, democrat, Texas, declared that in all the time he had been in the house he had never heard of such treatment of a witness.

Representative Stobbs, republican, Massachusetts, called for "fair treatment" and demanded that Mrs. Peabody be given an opportunity to inspect the record and later be allowed to withdraw any remarks she might care to. The chairman granted the request, as Representative Hammer, democrat, North Carolina, interrupted to demand that Celler's charges of "coaching" be stricken from the record. He made it a motion but the chairman banged his gavel and declared the hearing adjourned.

Hay said that during 1903-04, when he attended law school in St. Louis, he saw more drunkenness in public places than in all the years since prohibition.

"We have wounded and killed enough, I know", he said, "but who can tell us what we would have done during the last ten years if liquor had flowed as in dramshop days?

"You talk about the crime wave and damn prohibition for it. Have you stopped to think what a wave it would have been with more liquor instead of less. Add to your moral let down, your automobile, your deadly weapons, your good roads—more liquor and then contemplate the possibilities."

The witness said that if state control were adopted as a substitute, "a half dozen wet states would make a whole nation wet."

SEEKING FEDERAL AID IN FIGHTING CANCER

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—Doctors high in their profession after lifelong efforts to stem the ravages of cancer today pooled their judgment on the disease and man's chance for ultimately conquering it, in testimony before senators who hoped to line up the federal government with the combatants.

They expressed divergent views on causes and possible cures, but they urged unanimously that the government take steps immeditely to assist in fighting the disease that yearly takes the lives of more than 100,000 Americans.

Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber of California, told of relieving pain and of breaking down cancerous tissue in more than 1,500 sufferers previously considered hopeless. They said those afflicted with cancer had been chosen from hundreds who came "grasping at a straw" to their hospital in San Francisco; but they emphasized that they are working on a "theory" and that they claim "neither treatment nor cure."

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, who initiated a movement for federal participation in search for a cure, said afterward that he would continue inquiry into the matter, hearing other scientists within a few days. He is chairman of a sub-committee of the senate commerce committee, which today heard the scientists.

CLAIMS TO BE WIDOW OF ABRAHAM L. ERLANGER

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—Although Abraham L. Erlanger, theatre magnate, stated specifically in his will he was unmarried, a former actress who declares she is his widow, filed through her attorney today an objection to probate of his estate, variously valued at from $10,000,000 to $75,000,000.

Objection is based on the contention that Erlanger was of unsound mind and incapable of making a will on the day the document purports to have been executed, October 18, 1917, and that he was subjected to undue influence from Saul J. Baron, his attorney, and from his brother, Mitchell L. Erlanger, and his sisters, Miss Ray Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman, named as heirs and executors.

The document filed today by Max D. Steuer, who announced the day after Erlanger's death that he had been retained to protect the interests of "the widow," refers to his client all the way through as "Charlotte F. Erlanger," and states that "at the time of the death of the deceased Abraham L. Erlanger the contestant herein was his wife and is now the widow of the deceased."

FORMER MANICURIST SAYS SHE RECEIVED $20,000 FROM KECK

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Adele Boby Keck, former manicurist, testified in supreme court today that she received $20,000 for signing a general release of claims against Thomas A. Keck, millionaire whom she is suing for $3,000 a month alimony on the claim that she is his common-law wife.

Mrs. Keck said, however, she signed the release unwittingly, at Palm Beach, in August 1928, where she had gone with George Wolff, her attorney. She was then contemplating a suit against Keck and had gone there to see him when she signed the paper she said. She did not have her glasses and could not read the release, she said, and her attorney told her that it was merely a paper for which she would receive $20,000 from Keck to settle some past debts.

"I didn't want the money," she said, on the witness stand, after declaring, she learned too late that she had signed a general release. "I fell for Mr. Wolff's story. I believed also that Mr. Keck would come back to me. I wanted to have him."

LOWEST REDISCOUNT RATE SINCE EARLY PART OF 1928

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank today administered what Wall street regarded as a tonic to business with a reduction in its rediscount rate from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent.

This is the lowest rate since the latter part of 1927 and early 1928, when the federal reserve put its shoulder to the wheel in like manner to speed up business activity, at a time when it was lagging as it is at present.

The 3 1-2 per cent rate completes a two year cycle in which the rediscount rate rose from that level to 6 per cent.

TREES SAVED FOR MAIN STREET OF GREENWICH

GREENWICH, March 13.—(AP)—The trees, some of them more than a hundred years old, on Greenwich avenue, the town's main street, have been saved. Prominent women successfully conducted a campaign against a plan of widening the street which would have resulted in destruction of them all.

BUCHAREST, March 13.—(AP)—A destructive fire swept an estate 25 miles from here owned by Prince Carol, exiled scion of the royal house. Fifty cottages were destroyed and hundreds of peasants made homeless.

BELGRADE, March 13.—(AP)—A dispatch from Suareka in southern Serbia said that four young shepherds lighted a campfire too close to a grenade. The relic of the World war exploded, killing two of the youths and fatally wounding the others.

LONDON, March 13.—(AP)—The futility of asking the United States government to interfere in settling the accounts of eight southern states which owe £78,000,000 (about $79,000,000) to British bondholders was pointed out in the house of lords by Lord Ponsonby.

KHARKOV, U. S. S. R., March 13.—(AP)—The central executive committee of the Ukrainian republic today instructed the state prosecutor to investigate all cases in which local officials had closed churches, mosques, and synagogues without the consent of the people.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, March 13.—(AP)—Five American officials of the United States occupation in Haiti today gave the Hoover commission reports of their work and refuted charges made against them in hearings last week. With their testimony the hearings are virtually ended.

FOUR U. S. SAILORS BEAT UP PASSENGERS ON TRAIN

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 13—(AP)—A riot call tonight brought a squad of police to the Exchange Place station of the Hudson and Manhattan railroad where they arrested four sailors who had methodically and with enthusiasm started through a train during its run from Hoboken beating up every male passenger.

One of the sailors, who were from the U. S. Gilmer, had to be sent to City hospital after they encountered the riot squad. The other three were lodged in jail and will be arraigned in second criminal court tomorrow morning.

The seamen were Gilbert Craft, 23; John Lincz, 29; Harry Clarke, 19, and Edward Graham, 17. Craft was removed to the hospital.

Joseph Mayhew of Orange, a former United States marshal who was one of the passengers, said the one car the sailors had just finished when the train drew into Exchange Place, was a "shambles."

Every man in it was badly beaten, he said, and blood spattered the entire car. Mayhew said he would appear against the sailors.

BYRD NOT TO CLAIM NEW ANTARCTIC LANDS FOR U. S.

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 13—(AP)—In an interview today, Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, resting here after returning from his exploration of the Antarctic regions and his epoch making flight over the South Pole, said he had no intention of claiming for the United States the new Antarctic lands he had discovered.

He declared that when he found new land in the Antarctic he had found it for the world as much as for his own country, just as his predecessors had worked and struggled for the world at large.

PLANE "K OF NEW HAVEN" NOW AT BRAINARD FIELD

HARTFORD, March 13.—(AP)—The "K of New Haven," Wasp-powered Stinson-Detroiter, scheduled for a non-stop refueling flight from Bethany airport to Buenos Aires in the near future, landed at Brainard field this afternoon after a flight in from Albany, N. Y.

The plane was expected to land at Bethany, but according to Captain Herbert C. Partridge, who will be in command of the proposed long distance flight, the field here was in bad condition and he did not wish to risk an accident to the new plane in attempting to land.

RUSSIA TO HOLD HUGE ANTI-RELIGIOUS CARNIVALS

MOSCOW, March 13.—(AP).—Huge anti-religious carnivals and demonstrations will be held in Moscow and other big Russian cities on April 19, the first day of Easter in Russia, under the joint direction of the soviet trade unions and the Militant Atheist society, the League of the Godless.

Throughout the Easter holidays excursions of workers, students and children in great numbers, will be held for visits to anti-religious museums and the new collective farms.

WEALTHY NEW YORK REALTOR WAS SLUGGED AND KIDNAPED

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 13.—(AP)—Samuel Barron, wealthy New York real estate operator, was slugged and kidnaped almost in front of his home in Interlaken last night, police revealed tonight.

Persons living in Edgemere drive heard Barron shouting for help and ran out to see him being beaten by three unmasked men and then pushed into a car driven by a fourth.

MAN SAID TO HAVE $20,000 DIED OF UNDER-NOURISHMENT

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 13.—(AP)—Thomas Reynolds, 85-year-old Civil war veteran and pioneer mining man, died early today from what physicians said was under-nourishment. After his death $20,000 in currency was found secreted in his one room cottage.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending March 12 were announced by the federal reserve board today a $3,720,000,000 representing an increase of $137,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Discovery Of New Planet Announced

May Be Bigger Than Jupiter, Which Is 1,200 Times Larger Than the Earth.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 13.—(AP)—In that little cluster of orbs which scampers across the siderial abyss under the name of the polar system there are, be it known, nine instead of a mere eight worlds.

The presence of a ninth marcher in the retinue of the sun, long suspected, was definitely announced here today by the Lowell observatory, heading a group of eminent astronomers whose gropings in the milky way with telescopes and cameras located the new sphere.

Way out beyond Neptune, tagging bashfully behind his brothers, the new planet's exact whereabouts, size and age are still unknown and it hasn't even got a name. Its presence was mathematically predicted years ago by the late Dr. Percival Lowell, noted scientist who founded the observatory here, partly for the very purpose of identifying it. Other noted astronomers, notably Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of Lick observatory verified Lowell's calculations.

Today the faith in those calculations was rewarded by an announcement that the new planet had been "sighted" last January 21 by an extremely delicate photographic lens, developed for the search. Announcement was withheld, it was said "until we were absolutely sure."

The discovery revealed that the planet is forty-five times as far from the earth as the earth is from the sun. Although its size has not been definitely determined, it is believed it may be bigger than Jupiter, largest member of the solar family, which is 1,200 times larger than the earth.

And said the announcement, it is at least no smaller than the earth. Astronomically, the discovery is regarded as the greatest since the location of Neptune, eighth member of the solar system in 1846. The astronomers who participated with Dr. Slipher in the discovery are: C. O. Lampland, E. C. Slipher, J. C. Duncan, K. P. Williams, E. A. Edwards and T. B. Gill.

Until someone entitled to do so gives the sphere a name, it is to be known as "The Trans-Neptunean planet." First notice of the body was made by C. W. Tombaugh, photographer at the observatory, who saw a tiny spot on one of his plates. Astronomers soon declared it to be the long sought planet.

OTHER PLANETS MAY BE ADDED TO OUR SOLAR SYSTEM

NEW HAVEN, March 13.—(AP)—Declaring that the discovery of a ninth major planet constituted "one of the greatest discoveries in the history of science," Dr. Frank Schlessinger, director of the Yale observatory, today said "it is easy to predict that other major planets will be added to our solar system."

"This strengthens the belief," he said, "that other planets exist that are fainter, but it will be increasingly difficult to discover them as the outer ones must be very faint as seen from the earth."

NEW AIR SPEED RECORD WRESTED FROM GERMANY

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—Splitting the air over Long Island sound at a speed of 143.8 miles an hour Captain Boris Sergievsky, naturalized Russian flier, today wrested from Germany the speed mark for seaplanes over a 100 kilometer course burdened with a useful load of 2,000 kilograms (4,409.24 pounds).

Timed by an official of the National Aeronautical association, Captain Sergievsky's mark will be certified to the International Aeronautical body as a new world mark. The old mark was 130.1 miles an hour, held by Richard Wagner.

The plane with which Captain Sergievsky set the new record is a ten place cabin Sikorsky amphibian with the wheels removed to meet contest specifications and powered with two 575 horsepower Hornet motors. It is a silver winged biplane.

The course over which today's speed test was run is over Long Island sound from Fairfield, Conn., to Execution Point, near Hell Gate channel. Major Luke Christopher, secretary of the contest board of N. A. A. was in charge of the test.

CONTINUE INVESTIGATION OF SCHOOL FOR BOYS

MERIDEN, March 13.—(AP)—The special commission appointed by Gov. Trumbull to investigate conditions at the Connecticut state school for boys held another session at the school today, continuing its examination of inmates and officials. The investigation not being completed, the commission will have another meeting tomorrow.

In the meantime, the separate investigation of the board of trustees of the school is being continued, and the trustees will also be in session at the school tomorrow. No report of findings will be made by either board until the investigations have been completed.

Convict Kills Guard, And Commits Suicide

Break For Liberty of Life Term Prisoner At New Jersey State Prison.

TRENTON, N. J., March 13—(AP)—Charles F. Evans, a young prisoner who had rounded out the eleventh year of a double life term, late today made a break for liberty from state prison which ended in his suicide, the fatal wounding of a guard and injury to two other guards.

Evans was a clerk in the prison office and had been a trustee since 1923. A deserter from the United States navy and escaped federal prisoner at the age of 18, he had a reputation as a desperate gunman. In addition to the two killings of which he had been convicted, he had bragged of several others.

"After order had been restored at the prison, Colonel Edward B. Stone, principal keeper, announced that the outbreak in which this trusty was involved occurred just two days before inauguration of a plan by which the trusty system will be abolished in the institution.

Cornered in a cell by three keepers, Evans shot it out until one slug remained in his weapon. This he sent through his brain. The slain guard was Frank Butcher, who received a number of bullet wounds in the exchange of shots. Ernest Gordon received a superficial shoulder wound, and Thomas Foren was struck over the head with an improvised blackjack.

Evans' single handed revolt came at sundown, at the end of a spring day of sunshine and breezes from across the Delaware river that filtered through the bars.

T. P. Lydon, a guard on duty in the ring wing of the institution, at 5:35 p. m., heard a call for help and the sound of a falling body. In a second, in the words of Lydon, Evans had the gun of the man he slugged. The victim was Foren.

Lydon climbed up two tiers to the sounds of the scuffle, but being unarmed, he returned to the first floor, locked up two cook house prisoners and obtained a revolver from another officer.

Meanwhile, Butcher had appeared with another guard. Evans had slipped into the vacan cell of another prisoner and the firing began, with the guards shielding themselves behind a locker. The guards are unarmed except at night, and those going off day duty found it necessary to go to the prison arsenal before joining the fray.

"The first thing we knew," Lydon told, "we smelled gas and heard a bomb drop. Foren grabbed my hat and hastily wrote a note and then threw it out the window. What was on that note I don't know yet, we were so excited. The three of us stayed back out of range for a while and we saw several guards in the center coming on, armed. We came out in time to see them pull Evans' body from the cell."

When the disturbance was heard throughout the prison, considerable shouting and excitement resulted among the prisoners, who not long before had been locked in their cells for the night. Lydon believed the gas bomb quieted the inmates.

How Butcher met his death was unknown.

"As I came climbing up to the third tier," Lydon said, "Evans yelled "Get down there" and I got down, being unarmed. I saw Officer Butcher at the head of the steps on the third tier. He and Evans must have met there. I heard three shots."

The cordon of Trenton officers surrounded the prison, and for the next half hour what was known to the world outside the prison walls was conveyed by the shouts of the prisoners. It was this noise which warned officers in the prison yards and caused them to hurl in the tear bomb through a window.

SENATE VOTES TO REDUCE TARIFF ON RAYON YARNS

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—By a vote of 34 to 32 the senate tonight reduced the minimum duty carried in the tariff bill on rayon yarns from 45 to 40 cents a pound. This, however, still provides an increase over the existing minimum of 45 per cent ad valorem.

The 40-cent rate was a compromise between 45 and 38 cents. The latter was proposed by Senator George, democrat, Georgia, but was rejected, 38 to 30.

Extensive debate preceded the final roll calls on this duty, one of the most important textile tariffs in the bill.

PRESIDENT OF HAITI MORE CONCILIATORY

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 13.—(AP)—After a conference with President Louis Borno late this afternoon, the Hover investigating commission announced that the president had become more conciliatory in his attitude toward their plan for a provisional government and legislative elections in Haiti.

The commissioners believe the political crisis threatened by his sudden opposition to the plan last week end has been averted. He is still holding out, however, against the holding of legislative elections this spring.

MOULTHROPE AND LALONE CLAIM SELF DEFENSE IN SLAYING OF DETECTIVE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Roland Lalone and Watson Moulthrope took the stand today in their trial for murder of a city detective. They said they acted in self-defense, both told the jury they did not know the two men they fired on in a gun battle here last January were officers.

William D. Smith, detective, was killed and his companion, plain clothes Officer Willie Jones, was seriously wounded. The officers had stopped the men for questioning about a series of robberies. This was soon after Moulthrope and Lalone, with Leo Landry, escaped from Wethersfield prison in Connecticut.

Landry is also charged with Smith's murder but was granted a severance and will be tried later. He appeared as a state's witness and testified the trio knew the men were officers when they were halted as they rode along the street in a stolen car.

Moulthrope and Lalone will be the only witnesses for the defense. Lalone spent virtually the whole day on the stand, Moulthrope being reached late in the day.

Lalone said Moulthrope first thought the officers were men to whom they were going to sell the stolen car. After they had stopped and the officers came alongside, Lalone said he believed them to be "boys like us or perhaps prohibition officers." He stuck to that story.

Under lengthy cross examination, Lalone insisted he did not draw his gun until Detective Jones "went for his gun." Lalone said Jones fired the first shot. He said Jones shot at him three times while he was standing by the car and twice more as he (Lalone) fled into an alley.

This contradicted the testimony of Landry, who said one shot was fired by the officer.

Moulthrope's story was similar to Lalone's.

BRITISH LABOR GOVT. WINS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Defeated a Motion For Censure Brought By Premier Baldwin, Conservative Leader, By Vote of 308 to 235—About a Score of Liberals Voted With Laborites—Many From Both Opposition Parties Abstained From Voting.

LONDON, March 13.—(AP)—The labor government tonight beat off a conservative attack in the house of commons, defeating a motion of censure brought by former Premier Baldwin, conservative leader, with a margin of more than 70 votes to spare. The figures were 308 to 235 in the division.

After six hours of debate in which Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, led the Tory attack, about a score of liberals filed into the government lobbies and voted with labor. The labor strength of 287 votes, however, would have been sufficient alone to defeat the Tories. The figures indicated many abstentions among both opposition parties.

Mr. Baldwin's motion to censure the government for its refusal to extend safeguarding duties as a means for reducing unemployment and protecting British industries had from the beginning little chance of success. It was not drawn up in such a way as to attract support from the liberals, who are as much at odds with the conservatives on the question of protection as are the laborites.

Mr. Baldwin himself admitted the government probably would win. The victory became certain when Sir Herbert Samuel, a liberal leader and chairman of the party organization since 1927, rose and pledged "the unhesitating support of the liberals to the government today in resisting the motion of censure." The active liberal support was not quite so "unhesitating" as Sir Herbert predicted, but it was enough, and, taken with the absences among the conservatives, it was overwhelming.

The government's victory had been expected in all quarters of the house and naval conference circles.

In concluding the Tory attack, Mr. Churchill went for his old opponent and successor as chancellor, Philip Snowden. He declared Mr. Snowden's "persistent refusal" to divulge the labor party's policy on safeguarding duties had "created uncertainty which had been harmfull to trade and to employment."

He also asserted that Mr. Snowden had "wantonly and callously" aggravated domestic evils that had arisen from world conditions.

In replying for the government Wedgwood Benn, secretary for India, struck back at Mr. Churchill, ascribing his violence against Mr. Snowden to "love of sensation and desire to be in the limelight."

Premier Minister MacDonald's government has thus stood firm against two opposition onslaughts within a week. Though beaten on a minor amendment to its coal-mines bill, which has been violently fought over at every stage of its parliamentary progress, it did not resign under the pressure of the combined liberal and tory victory. In the absence of determined liberal opposition today on the unemployment issue, a weak spot in the government's armor, the laborites were never threatened.

The real test on unemployment, however, is yet to come in the house, and if either conservatives or libels draw up a motion of censure whose wording is acceptable to both, Prime Minister MacDonald will have a fight to the finish on his hands.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—Facing the senate lobby committee for the second day, Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the republican national committee, testified today that the Tennessee River Improvement association could be described as a "lobby" organization.

He is former president of the association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cynamid company to lease Muscle Shoals. He said it was not a political organization.

"I think the world 'lobby' is broad enough to take in this organization," Huston said, in reply to a question from Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana.

The witness, whose activities on Muscle Shoals legislation are being investigated by the committee, also testified that two men had called to see him since he became republican chairman to discuss the Alabama power and nitrate project.

Huston asserted that he had never had any interest in Muscle Shoals except that of a "public spirited citizen."

TARIFF COALITIONISTS DEFEATED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—The rejuvenated republican protectionists dealt a double blow to the senate tariff coalition of democrats and republican independents today by retaining in the Hawley-Smoot bill an increased sugar duty, and an impost on cement, leaving only two major rate proposals to be disposed of—oil and lumber.

Preceding a heated controversy within democrats ranks over the propriety of changing votes, the senate voted 47 to 38 against a motion to reconsider the sugar increase and by a similar vote, kept in the bill the duty of six cents a hundreds pounds on cement, now on the free list.

The duty on Cuban raw sugar thus was fixed definitely in the senate measure at two cents a pound as against 1.76 cents now in effect. The house bill provides 2.40 cents, so the rate finally to be enacted is certain to be an increase.

5,000 MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE IN MANILA

MANILA, March 14—(AP)—(Friday)—Flames roared over the Singalong district of Manila last night and early today, destroying the flimsy homes of 5,000 Filipino and Chinese laborers. One person is known to have been killed and scores were injured. Several children were missing hours after the flames had died to embers.

One thousand Nipa houses of woven grass blazed like paper, only sheet iron roofs remaining to mark their location.

The Philippine constabulary and Manila police, helpless to halt the flames, searched the smoking ruins for the missing children and casualties.

On the edge of the burned area the Red Cross erected a tent city and ministered to sufferers.

FIRE ON THE ROOF OF BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

BOSTON, March 13—(AP)—The quiet of the Boston public library was disturbed by fire gongs and sirens tonight and 1600 readers and employes filed quietly out to join an already large crowd watch flames shoot up through the roof of the famous structure. The fire was more spectacular than dangerous for it was confined to a store room on the top floor and was quickly extinguished with slight damage. Only a few dog-eared books of the millions of dollars worth of volumes were damaged by fire and water.

ANOTHER BOOTLEGGER AND HI-JACKER SLAIN

BAYONNE, N. J., March 13—(AP)—Henry Engel, who police said was a bootlegger and hi-jacker and had been connected with Frankie Dunn, slain Hoboken beer king, was himself "put on the spot" tonight.

Engel died in Bayonne hospital forty minutes after being sprayed by machine gun fire by four men who ambushed him within a few feet of his speakeasy at Avenue C and 24th street. His slayers escaped in a sedan automobile.

NAVAL CONFERENCE ENTERS CRITICAL STAGE HOPEFULLY

LONDON, March 13—(AP)—The London naval conference is fighting for its life, and apparently with hope of success.

Tonight Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain authorized a statement that he was encouraged by the day's events.

And Aristide Briand, foreign minister and head of the French delegation, received the world journalists just to show them that he is not so gloomy as he is supposed to be. He is confident that the conference can achieve definite results in the general interests of peace.

The events of the day to which Mr. Maconald referred were a series of conversations held at number 10 Downing street. He began this morning with Reijiro Wakatsuki of the Japanese delegation. Dino Grandi of the Italian group followed, Then came M. Briand.

It is understood that intensive conversations today were largely directed to obtaining some modification of the Italian delegation's rigid attitude for parity with France.

The French have insisted emphatically that with their navy facing three fronts—the English channel, the Atlantic ocean, and the Mediterranean sea—parity cannot be accepted with Italy, whose fleet is concentrated in the Mediterranean.

While Signor Grandi today did not yield an iota on the parity claim, there is reason to believe that a new approach is being made to the problem.

TESTIMONY IN BRIBERY TRIAL OF EDWARD L. DOHENY

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP)—The oft told conflicting versions of that $100,000 transaction between Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall in 1921, were begun anew today in the District of Columbia supreme court, with the government seeking to convict the oil operator of bribery.

Defense counsel insisted again that Doheny advanced the money as a loan and was moved by friendship for the then interior secretary, instead of considering it a bribe for the lease to the Elk Hills, California, naval oil reserve which went to his company.

After opening statements by counsel, three witnesses testified. From these government attorneys established that Doheny's son, now dead, had withdrawn the $100,000 from the private bank of Blair and Company of New York, on November 30, 1921. Later they read to the jury Doheny's testimony before the senate oil committee that he had loaned Fall the $100,000 in cash, on that date.

Graham Youngs, New York investment broker who as treasurer of Blair and Company nine years ago delivered the cash to Edward L. Doheny, Jr., briefly described that transaction.

MAGISTRATE VITALE REMOVED FROM BENCH

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—By unanimous vote of the five justices of the appellate court, from whose decision there is no appeal, Magistrate Albert H. Vitale was ordered removed from the bench today.

The judges found him guilty of one of two charges preferred against him by the New York City Bar association, after an investigation that grew out of a dinner party given in his honor in a Bronx Italian restaurant last December.

The five justices convicted Vitale on the charge involving the Rothstein loan and ordered his removal from the bench. They acquitted him of the other charge, but said they found him "guilty of gross carelessness, inattention, ignorance, and incompetence."

VON HINDENBURG SIGNS YOUNG REPARATIONS PLAN

BERLIN, March 13.—(AP)—President Paul Von Hindenburg, Germany's venerable president and great wartime general, today signed the bills approving the Young reparations plan, already passed by the reichstag and the reichsrat. A few hours later he signed the separate German-American reparations agreement.

Thus in one day's work he took the final steps necessary for Germany to set in motion the machinery for her payments to the Allies on her indebtedness arising out of the World war

OVER 19 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

Stafford Springs

This week the store of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company on East Main street was the object of a burglar's attack. When John Hancock, superintendent of the local division, arrived at the store Tuesday morning he found that someone had entered by way of the cellar window in front of the store, but had reached only into the stock room. The intruder was unable to make further entrance as the door was locked from the inside. Early Wednesday morning, Robert Hancock, also in the employ of the company and who lives with his mother in the tenement over the store, was awakened by the barking of a dog. Upon going to the porch he saw the would-be thief beating a retreat from the store. He had gained entrance and was attempting to break through the stock room when frightened by the dog. A few years ago the local night police officer made regular and frequent trips between Willington avenue and Church street, and local merchants believe that it might be helpful if this rule were again adopted and enforced.

William J. Labreche, adjutant of [illegible] post, is prepared to accept applications of young men who wish to take advantage of the opportunity of enrolling for the Citizens' Military Training camp during the summer. Only 14 places are allotted Tolland county. The camp offers an unusual opportunity for the training of young men and the entire expense is borne by the government.

As a sequel to recent disturbances at the night school, Henry Grundy, Aldo Armelin and Thomas Hubert were before the borough court Wednesday afternoon. Each of the young men admitted that he had done wrong and promised that the offense would not be repeated. After giving the offenders a timely bit of advice, Judge Heald placed them in the guardianship of Probation Officer John R. Parkhurst for a period of 60 days.

At the same session of court, George Butler, who had been sleeping in the barn of Edward Jacobsen without permission, was fined $5 and costs. In default of payment he was committed to Tolland jail.

Had Big Overload

Napoleon Lafleur of Fitchburg, Mass., was arrested by State Policeman Murphy Thursday morning, for operating an overloaded truck. He pleaded guilty and Deputy Judge Ernest K. Taft imposed a fine of $30 with costs of $11.35. He had an overload in proportion to the carrying capacity of his truck of about 1,800 pounds and approximately 2,000 pounds over the Connecticut limit, which is 26,000 pounds.

DANIELSON

POSITIVE CASE OF RABIES IN STERLING; MAY QUARANTINE

DANIELSON, March 13.—Dogs of the town of Sterling, almost certainly, and of the town of Plainfield, probably, will be quarantined within a few days for an indefinite period. This prospect results from a small dark brown male collie, blind in one eye, running wild through Sterling and into a part of Plainfield the first part of this week. This dog bit several other dogs before he was finally captured by Dog Warden Frank W. Hazard of Oneco and killed. A test for rabies made by the state showed the animal rabid beyond all question of doubt. It is expected that the quarantine order for Sterling, and possibly Plainfield, will issue next Monday morning, to be effective at a date as yet unannounced.

The rabid dog was first noted near the United Protestant church in Sterling, evidently en route from the direction of Moosup. The dog bit a dog owned by the pastor of this church. The rabid dog is understood to have bitten three other dogs in Sterling Village or vicinity before continuing his course to Oneco, another community of the town of Sterling. At Oneco two other dogs are known to have been bitten and another pair of dogs at Sterling Hill. The rabid animal is said to have chased through groups of school children at Oneco and Sterling Hill, but there is no evidence of his having bitten any of them.

The dog had gone over into an eastern section of the town of Plainfield before Dog Warden Hazard came upon him lying in brush beside the highway, Special Deputy Chauncey Ganung of Hartford said this afternoon. Warden Hazard roped the dog, throwing a noose about his neck, then picked him up by the back, put him in a car and took him home, to shoot him later.

FUNERAL

Mrs. James Kent

At 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home in Elmville, and with a large number of relatives and friends in attendance to pay tribute of respect, funeral services for Mrs. Mahala Ives Kent, wife of James Kent, were conducted by Rev. J. Rees Jones of St. Alban's church. Mrs. Kenneth Michie sang, I'm Going Home, and Rock of Ages. Among the relatives who came for the funeral were Mrs. Kent's only brother, Charles S. Ives, of Providence, and a nephew, Albert Ives, of Syracuse. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. There were beautiful floral pieces. Bearers were Howard Wood, William Nettleton, James W. Dawson, Arthur L. Kerouack, Andrew Hill and Telesphore Brisbois. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

From the South street section of the West Side came a tale today of someone making their way into a residence over there, during the night season, and slashing a parlor suite and a silk lamp shade with a knife or some other sharp instrument. The intruder is said to have made his getaway without awakening any of the members of the household. The motive for the reported vandalism remains obscure.

OBITUARY

Owen S. Clark

A death shortly before 1 o'clock this morning at his home on Westfield avenue was that of Owen S. Clark, 68. Mr. Clark had been in failing health for some time past, but seriously ill only a short time. He had been a resident of Danielson about a decade.

Mr. Clark was born in the town of Griswold, Aug. 12, 1861, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Clark, and lived for many years in that section of eastern Connecticut. At one time he was proprietor of a hotel in Jewett City. He had been retired from active business during his residence in Danielson. Mr. Clark, who never married, leaves one sister, Sister Mary Lawrence, of the convent at Baltic.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, State Officers Royal V. Scranton and James Carmody and County Investigator Rowe Wheeler were in Providence today on official business.

With the appropriations definitely fixed for the year and more favorable weather for such operations at hand, selectmen will start in the immediate future on road repair work. A total of $23,500 is made available for repair work done on the highways of the town since Aug. 1, last, and to be done during the remainder of the fiscal year, which closes July 31. An early bit of work will be in smoothing up dirt highways that have become rutted during the late winter season. It is anticipated that these dirt roads will not only have received the particular attention mentioned, but also otherwise been much improved within the next few weeks.

Frank M. Bedard of the West Side was, on Tuesday evening, elected exalted ruler of Putnam lodge of Elks, which organization has many members in this town, and has the honor of being the first person from this section to be elected to the office, after having filled various other posts in the lodge. The esteemed leading knight is also from Danielson—Sidney P. Marland—and is in line to be exalted ruler in 1931. W. W. Wheatley of Broad street also is an officer of the lodge, being tyler for 1930, a post in which he has served for a number of years.

E. Fitch Johnson of the town of Plainfield was presented before Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis in the town court this morning to face a charge of obtaining a horse under false pretenses. Mr. Johnson was not represented by counsel, and the case was adjourned until next Monday. The state will allege that Johnson purchased a horse from John Flood of the Mashentuck district of this town for a sum said to be $125, and that in part payment therefor gave Mr. Flood a note for $112.50, which note, it will be claimed, had been given to Mr. Johnson by some other person and, at the time of the horse transaction, would not come to maturity for two months. The state also will allege that Johnson collected the amount due him on the note, and that Mr. Flood has not in turn received the money due him to the amount of the note.

With the coming of another season likely to be marked by heavier automobile traffic than ever before, the suggestion was heard today that the word DANGER be painted across Broad street at each side of its intersection with Reynolds street and the same done on Reynolds street. A particularly dangerous cross-over exists at this point, the scene of numbers of accidents.

County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield, while here this afternoon, told of the release in Killingly, Brooklyn and Plainfield of 40 cock pheasants, the contribution of the state fish and game commission to the breeding stock in the areas mentioned. Warden Daniels said the pheasants were all splendid birds. Releases were made in sections likely to harbor wild pheasants. Warden Daniels will have made releases of 120 pheasants in Windham county when his work is completed for the season. Some cock pheasants recently imported from England are to be released hereabouts in the near future.

Recurring grass and brush fires are causing fire prevention officials to request everyone to use particular care against causing such fires, often so destructive to wood and sprout land. Several such fires, none of them serious, already have occurred in surrounding territory this season, and the period of greatest danger from them is just ahead.

Agitation for the extension of the boundary lines of the borough is being revived. Within the last decade Danielson has grown materially outside the present boundary lines, which have not been changed in a generation. One suggestion is that the lines should be extended half a mile on all sides of the borough. If this were done it would increase the borough grand list by a sum running well into six figures, just how much would be hazardous to assert. Arguments for the extension of the borough lines are many, by proponents of the idea, a chief one being that properties just over the borough lines benefit in numbers of ways from things that cost borough property owners considerable money. On the other hand, numbers outside the borough desire to so remain, and undoubtedly will strongly oppose the suggested extension.

Friday evening at the meeting of Highland grange at South Killingly are to be County Agent Raymond Wing of Putnam and former County Agent B. F. Ellis, now of Storrs.

Miss Rose Heneault, student at Mt. St. Vincent academy on the Hudson, will spend the week end with her father, Armand Heneault, of Dayville.

Miss Helen Cronin, member of the faculty of Plainfield high school, and resident here, is to spend the week end visiting with friends in New York.

Several thousand day-old chicks have been handled this season through the Danielson postoffice, and thousands more are expected to arrive here during the next few weeks.

The rush to complete income tax returns continued here today. Saturday is the last day for filing such returns if the penalty fixed by the government is to be avoided.

Miss Anita Berthiaume, student nurse at St. Joseph's hospital in Providence, has returned to the institution, damaged by fire a fortnight ago, after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Berthiaume, Sr., of Furnace street.

Mid-week Lenten services were attended by many residents of Danielson this evening.

Mrs. Frank J. Gorman of Cottage street entertained yesterday at a St. Patrick's bridge party. Decorations and favors were in keeping with the event observed. Winners at bridge were Mrs. William D. Brennan, Mrs. William McLaughlin, Mrs. Bernard F. Healey. Refreshments were served.

Albert Redman has returned from New York, where he has been in attendance at a hair dressers' convention, with attendance from many states and Canada.

PLAINFIELD

Sunday at the morning service at the First Congregational church, the sermon theme of the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss will be "Courage for Today." Sunday evening the C. E. will hold its meeting as usual with John Lees, leader. For the motion picture service in the church the picture will be "Tricked," a drama of the Canadian Northwest Royal Mounted Police. There is to be a talk by Miss Adelaide Prentiss Dean of Darion Junior college, Newton, Mass.

Mrs. Bates is very ill.

PUTNAM

MICKEY FLYNN PAYS VISIT TO PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 13—This city was host to the now nationally known personality C. J. Mickey "World Tour" Flynn, World war veteran of Circle C. Ranch, Arizona, who stopped off here Wednesday on his tour of the world which he is making on the "foot express" and with the kindness of automobilists.

Leaving Woonsocket Wednesday morning before dawn Mickey hit town early Wednesday evening plodding the pavement with his 98 pound pack, which consists of a suitcase bearing the scar bags of every capital city of the United States and Canada and other cities of the two North American nations, where the globe trotter has been received. He also carried a kit bag, containing a few utensils and foodstuffs which often times have tied him over.

Besides being foot-sore after his 33 mile hike from the Rhode Island city, Mickey's bank roll, which he claims has stood a raft of punishment in the past two weeks, contained but one copper coin. "I'm bent but not broke," Mickey told Charles A. Ryan, chairman of the American Legion relief committee of the Anslem Mayotte post, who fixed the ex-doughboy up for the night and started him on his way to Norwich this morning.

While Mickey is handicapped with the loss of his sense of hearing and a partial loss of his power of speech he possesses a delightful personality and a winning Irish smile, two qualities largely responsible for his success.

Returning from France in 1913, bereft of his powers of speech and hearing, the result of being gassed in the Argonne offensive, Flynn was said by doctors to be of no earthly consequence. A year in a government school for the deaf and dumb endowed Mickey with the grace of lip reading. This art he cultivated to such a high degree that one in conversation with him finds it difficult to detect the serious handicap under which he is laboring.

It was in July 1923 when Mickey decided to set out on his tour of the world. Since then he has travelled 65,000 miles, visited the capital cities of every state in the Union and the capital cities of every province in the Dominion of Canada. His travels have also taken him into every state in the republics of Mexico and Central America and the countries of South America, besides the territories of Alaska and the Hawiian Islands.

Authentic proof of his visits to the various countries is given in his giant book of autographs which makes up for 60 of the 98 pounds of his pack. The treasure book which Mickey would not part with for anything in the world contains among its priceless signatures inscribed by Colonel Chas. A. Lindbergh, Queen Marie of Roumania, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Governor John H. Trumbull, Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, Marion Talley, "One Eyed" Connolly and Jimmy Walker, mayor of New York. The most highly prized possession of Mickey's is a Croix de Guierre, awarded him by the French government after the war.

"I've only got three more years to go," said Mickey. "I'm gonna finish the job by June 3, 1933 and then retire to the old ranch in Arizona and write a book of my experiences which to date have been many. Europe is the next and final round." He expects to return to the wartime scenes in France. "I'm headed for Norwich today where I'm going to renew an acquaintanceship with a friend by the name of LeRoy Robbins. I think he's the mayor of that city," concluded the trotter before he departed from Putnam this morning. Following his Norwich visit the distinguished westerner will go to New London where he will go to New York, thereby completing his American itinerary. The next will be the voyage to Southampton, England and the beginning of the European tour.

Flynn appeared to be in perfect health. He has developed a walking stride that enables him to go many miles without strain. His wardrobe consists of a pair of riding breeches, two heavy woolen shirts and auxiliary pair of shoes and an overcoat, all of which are contained in his suit case, which is equipped with two reflectors, front and rear, in order that automobilists will not run him down while walking at night. Mickey said that he never solicits a ride, and in this way he finds more motorists who are generous and gladly extend him invitations to ride. Mickey left bright and early this morning, Norwich bound, taking with him the best wishes of several local Legionnaires for a successful climax of his unusual feat which should end officially, according to Mickey on June 3, 1933.

Principal Edwin L. Robinson of Putnam high school has announced the honor roll for the last semester. The scroll has reached a mark of 45 pupils, a record which has not been established in some time. The following pupils have received no mark below 90 per cent in any subject for the past marking period and have received first honors: Seniors: Dorothy Kelly and Helen Varbedian; Juniors: Beatrice Greene; Sophomores: Genevieve Sherlock; Freshman: Carolyn Morse; Grade 8; Searls Bradford and Richard Joy.

The following pupils have received no mark below 85 per cent in any subject and have been awarded second honors: Post Graduate Arthur Bove; Seniors: Marino Diani, John Elliott, Ellis Haines, Walter Jankot, John Greene, Agnes Johnson, Edna Kent, Arthur Kaminsky, Stella Kubaska, Winnifred Lepire, Grace Vegiard, Dorothy Whitehouse, Donald MacLearn, Ellie Pahikainen, Anna Shippee, Rita Stone, Carolus Tourtellotte, Harry Thayer and Albin Vaida; Juniors: Ulysses Laboissiere, Beatrice Socher, Theresa St. George, Lucian Lajeunesse, Willam Moss, Viola Ouimette and Newart Varbedian; Sophomores: Ruth Amidon, Ellen Corbin, Elsa Deberadinis, Leonard Guertin, Muriel Johnson, Eleanor Mann, Russell Ryan, Lillian Vaida and Stratis Strombelis; Freshmen: James Alvord, Lorio Labonte, Gladys Varbedian, Isabella Ukleja, Phillis Wheaton, Lorra Carpenter, Elise Horowitz, Clayton Shaw, Nilo Pahikainen; Grade 8: Arthur Mulrain, Myrtle Hermanson.

It was learned unofficially today that plans of the state highway department for the construction of a new stretch of highway on the Providence pike road beginning at the intersection of Mechanics and School street continuing for some distance in a northerly direction, scheduled to have been carried out this spring have been cancelled from the 1930 construction list. The project is to be a major one and will involve the expenditure of a large sum of money, which amount, it is understood, is not available this year because of the numerous problems of vital importance now confronting the department. John A. Macdonald, son of Postmaster A. Macdonald, Sr., of this city, is the head of the highway department.

Returning from Worcester late this afternoon where he testified against two boys being held for grand jury hearing on charges of breaking and entering railroad property, Captain A. J. Dubreuil said that the youths, Daniel Labrid and Justin Rushford denied having taken any part in the theft committed in the local freight yards last Thursday night. Both boys are from Worcester. They claim to have entered the freight cars by breaking seals on the doors in the yards at Worcester and riding through to New London aboard the freight train.

State Officer H. Theodore Strand of the Danielson barracks escaped injury this afternoon when a motorcycle which he was riding collided with an automobile operated by Roy E. Shippee of Church street. The mishap occurred on School street in front of the Shippee Filling station. Neither the driver nor the officer were hurt and no damage was caused to the vehicles involved.

Harris L. Sanger, 68, a lifelong resident of Woodstock died at his home in that town late last evening following a prolonged illness. He was born in Woodstock, the son of Edwin W. and Martha (Paine) Sanger, and spent the greater part of his life on the Sanger homestead. Until late years Mr. Sanger was active in community affairs.

Superintendent Leonard H. Mellor of the Putnam Spinners Inc., mill and Mrs. Mellor left this morning for Atlantic City. They are expected to continue their trip, visiting cities in the south. Mr. Mellor began his new duties as head of the new concern this morning, following the sale of the bankrupt National Rhea company yesterday.

William E. Sault, Jr., of New Haven is visiting a few days with his father William E. Sault, assistant superintendent of the New Haven division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad.

Sub-Patrolman John Durand was assigned to duty today in the absence of Capt. Dubreuil who was in Worcester on a criminal matter.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system Clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

GRINDS TEETH? MAYBE IT'S WORMS

IF your child grinds teeth—beware of worms. They are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Telltale Tail

There are no trifles you will find
Unless to truth you're wholly blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse knew how persistently Peter Rabbit, Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Sammy Jay were looking for his home. It was like a game. He was hiding and they were trying to find him. He enjoyed it. He enjoyed matching his wits against their wits. It tickled him to peep out of the little round doorway of his home and see these other little people close at hand with no suspicion at all that he was anywhere near.

I doubt if any one ever lived who was not careless at some time or other. The most careful people will sometimes forget and be careless. It always has been so and it always will be so. Carlessness has cost the lives of very many little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, just as it has cost the lives of many human folks. It was carelessness that finally gave away Whitefoot's secret.

Sammy Jay sometimes is a very noisy fellow. Sometimes he is a very quiet fellow. He has a way of being around when you do not know he is around. It happened that late one afternoon Sammy alighted in a tree on the edge of the Green Forest, right near where Whitefoot the Wood Mouse had his home. Sammy had made no sound. He had kept that tongue of his still. Now he sat, just using those sharp eyes of his. He wasn't looking for any one or anything in particular.

He was just looking for anything that might be of interest. A little below him in a bush on the edge of the Green Forest was a big, gray globe. Sammy knew it for just what it was. He didn't give it any particular attention. He could think of nothing about a wasps' nest that would be interesting to him. So he looked at it without thinking about it at all.

Suddenly Sammy leaned forward and those bright eyes of his became fixed on that nest. There was something hanging down from the lower part of it and he was sure that that something had moved, although at the time there was no wind. Sammy himself didn't move. He waited and waited. Presently that thing moved again.

"It's a tail!" said Sammy to himself—"May I never raise my topknot again if that isn't a tail! Now what is a tail doing there? And whose tail is it?"

Now, of course, you know whose tail it was. It was Whitefoot's tail. Whitefoot has a long, slim tail. For once he had become careless. In moving about inside that nest his tail had slipped out the little round doorway. There it was hanging down. Whitefoot didn't think anything about it. He wasn't aware that it was hanging down outside. After a bit he moved and drew his tail in.

But the telltale tail had told Sammy Jay what Sammy wanted to know. It had told him that there was some one in that big wasps' nest that was supposed to be deserted.

Easy Gardening

Sing hey for the great agricultural call
That comes at this season to one and to all!
Sing ho for the urge and the best of good luck
That sets a man raising his own garden truck.
I don't need a rake and I don't need a hoe.
I'm snapping my fingers at hail, frost or snow,
For this life is the cat's and I'm putting on dog
As blithely I'm farming the seed catalogue.

I love my preceptor. One readily sees
That bird knows his onions, his carrots, his peas.
He just mentions planting and when, where and how—
And on the first page they are blooming right now!
I don't need a hoe and I don't need a rake;
I don't need a sprinkler; my ease I may take.
I just sit on my chair like a bump on a log
And raise a fine crop in my seed catalogue.

Ah, sweet is the prospect and gorgeous the scene!
With lovely flowers blooming on page seventeen,
And in the appendix in comfort there lies
A wonderful pumpkin that's dreaming of pies!
No weeds can oppress me, for weeds there are none.
The battle with bugs has been fought and been won.
Since thoughts of past labors my memory jog
I'll raise all my crops in a seed catalogue.

CONNECTICUT'S RURAL ROADS

Over in the town of Southington there has been organized a Rural Highway Improvement association. The purpose of the organization is set forth in its name and it is prompted by the fact that, while there is recognized need for better rural highways, there is need for organization in order to obtain them.

What has been started in Southington seems likely to be the inspiration for other towns in the state. Bad as the roads may be in Southington, it seems improbable that they are any worse than they are in plenty of other towns in the state.

Efforts to get the state interested in the rural roads have not gotten a great way. There has been plenty of discussion, plenty of evidence of the need of such improvement, but there has been a failure to make the necessary appropriation. How long this can continue is a question, but while it is going on sentiment is growing stronger and stronger throughout the rural sections for favorable action.

It isn't supposed that the only ones interested in such improvement are those who happen to be residents of the country roads. They are, of course, vitally concerned. They pay taxes for road improvement and are entitled to some benefit. But the rank and file of auto owners find occasion for using the country roads in all seasons of the year and they also know from experience that there is justice back of the demands of the country residents. In the building of our highway systems and enlarging them we are catering to the advantage of auto owners in nearby and distant states. In doing that, however, and doing nothing for the rural residents we are neglecting a large part of the people of Connecticut whose claim for attention ought to be heard.

When such a proposition as taking care of the rural roads is raised there is always talk about increasing the gasoline tax in order to meet it. That is one way of throwing cold water. That is intended as a discouragement. As a matter of fact, there is no need for an increase in the gasoline tax. Connecticut is collecting enough already for highway improvement but the time has come when there should be a different distribution of it. Let the good enough roads take care of the through state traffic for a while and turn a part of the construction funds to the betterment of the much-used rural roads. It is time that Connecticut did more for its neglected taxpayers.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION

After a careful consideration of the situation in the fifth congressional district, Governor Trumbull has reached the decision not to call a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Glynn.

A special election would fill the vacancy only for the remainder of the present term. It would require some time to go through the necessary requirements before an election could be held and by the time the congressman-elect was ready to take his seat in the house of representatives there would be so little time for him to serve that it is considered inadvisable to go to the expense of filling the vacancy temporarily.

As a matter of fact, it might be that after all the machinery for a special election had been set up and operated, that the person elected would have no more than a couple of weeks in which to serve before congress adjourns, as is expected, some time in June. It might be so that there would be occasions when such an election would be advisable in order to have the district and the state properly represented, but such an emergency does not exist, and it will be appreciated by the state, it is believed, that the governor has shown good judgment in not going to the expense of a special election at this time.

This will mean that Congressman Glynn's seat will remain vacant for the remainder of this term and that his successor will be chosen at the time of the November election when he would have undoubtedly been a candidate to succeed himself had he lived. This will save money for the state and eliminate a political campaign and contest that circumstances do not make necessary at this time.

BYRD'S NEXT QUEST

It is an old story that one of the best ways of keeping your audience interested is to keep them guessing. That would seem to be the plan of Admiral Byrd in his announcement to the effect that if he should tell what he has in mind for his next undertaking it would create a sensation.

Admiral Byrd has been keeping in pretty close touch with the rest of the world since going into the Antarctic. He has had the advantage of the radio as a means of getting information about what others were doing and he has been able to tell through the air what he and those with him were accomplishing. This doesn't mean that there have been no hazards, or that the customary dangers have been eliminated, but there was a reduction in the monotony and the uncertainty which has surrounded so many of the polar exploring parties.

Much has been learned about what this expedition has done, but there is much that hasn't been told. The complete story remains to come from the lips of the intrepid leader, and yet before he gets home, before he is in a position to give out all the details, he is getting the world interested in the fact that he has something else up his sleeve. This leaves the public to do its own guessing. It can figure it out that while he has accomplished what he set out for on his trip to the South pole he has also discovered opportunities for further inquiries in that region.

If his plans have to do with this planet, it seems probable that they concern some further study of sections near one of the poles, about which little or nothing is known. Whether he intends to undertake such a trip by airplane or by submarine, isn't disclosed. It seems probable that he will take his time in revealing his intentions, keeping the public interest at fever heat in the meantime and when he does get ready to put forth his plan he will find plenty of support for it. Going into the far north or the far south isn't what it was at one time. It isn't what most people would regard as a vacation or a desirable undertaking, but it has its appeals for many and Admiral Byrd has certainly demonstrated that he has all the requirements for such leadership.

YOUNG PLAN ACCEPTED

It is some months since the Young plan was negotiated but thus far action by the nations interested has been favorable. Germany is the latest to indicate its attitude and even though it encountered plenty of opposition it is apparent that Germany recognizes its advantages and knows that it is for its best interests to abide by it.

The Young plan, which replaces the Dawes plan, is the direct outcome of the efforts made by Germany for a change. Having made it clear to the representatives of the other nations that it was entitled to relief, it would have been a most unfortunate situation had it failed to give endorsement to the aid given, or refused to abide by easier terms.

It seems probable that the revision which has taken place in the payments Germany is to make and the method of making them will put an end to the clamor for modifications. It has been based upon present-day conditions and there are reasons for believing that conditions in Germany are going to continue to improve. Just how long the plan will remain in force no one can tell. Germany hasn't refrained from asking for revisions when it has believed it could present a strong case and it may be that it will discover new reasons in the future. But in going from the Dawes to the Young plan Germany has obtained the withdrawal of occupational forces, which means much to that country, and there have thus been eliminated certain of the causes for friction which have prevailed since the treaty of peace.

Germany takes the logical view in accepting the benefits provided and looking to the future with a feeling that a good bargain has been made. If there are any causes for new negotiations in the future the future must be allowed to take care of itself. It is well for the present that all the nations have been able to come to a settlement by agreeing to certain cuts in reparations and by arranging to have their settlements made in the future through the international bank set up in Switzerland. With the passing of time a new attitude is being displayed by the nations which were at war. They are coming to understand each other better, having more confidence, and in the end it should operate for more peaceful relations.

WHOLESALE DELINQUENCY

Just how the District of Columbia deals with its auto drivers who fail to renew their licenses is not known, but when it is declared that there are 10,000 motorists in the district who have not complied with requirements in that respect it would appear that the authorities there were in a position to put into operation the practice that is resorted to in many other states of conducting inspections that will disclose who and where these motorists are, and deal with them accordingly.

Licenses are required of motor vehicle drivers for the purpose of increasing the safety of the highways and maintaining a check upon operators. Occasionally it is found that there are those drivers who defy the law in not taking out a license and in driving after their right to do so has been revoked. Usually the number is not large, but when it is claimed that such a small area as the District of Columbia has 10,000 delinquents it would appear that the methods employed by the motor vehicle department are not all they should be.

The closing of February was the deadline for operators' licenses in Connecticut and those who failed to renew knew that they faced the necessity of taking another examination if they made application later. It is to be expected that there will always be a certain number in any state who will drop out as applicants from year to year, but when there is a wholesale disregard for the requirements it is indicated that there is a laxity about the method of enforcing the licensing that encourages the delinquency. The practice of driving on dead permits may not indicate any less care is being observed in the handling of the wheel by the operator, but it is a case of dodging requirements in a manner grossly unjust to others.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Speaking of March, there's not much of which to complain.

Rear Admiral Byrd says he has plans that would create a sensation if he disclosed them. Can he be going to start a land development scheme in Little America?

What satisfaction out of life did that New York man get who sponged his rent for years and then got a free burial, only to have it disclosed that he left a $28,000 estate?

Electrocution is to be asked for those charged with kidnaping and torture in Chicago. They may not be convicted but there is apparently a feeling that it is time to turn the scales on the threats to burn.

CHECK

"Men," smiled Letty Coe to herself, "are funny creatures. Especially yacht brokers."

It was the little engagement diary on Mr. Hoster's desk that evoked Letty's smile. Anything but methodical in most of his ways, Letty's employer jotted down on his calendar pad, as unfailingly as a billiard marker, his day's engagements and tasks. Before leaving the office he just as unfailingly checked off the engagements kept and the tasks accomplished.

" 'Mt. Jm. Kly. 12.30' tick," read Letty. "Meet Jim Kelly at 12.30," she translated. "Don't see any need for noting that. Jim Kelly wouldn't let Bill—I mean Mr. Hoster—forget. I bet Bill lent him more money—for a business man he's the softest in some ways—oh, well," she sighed. " 'Tiphn Herbt Jns 3.15' tick. That wasn't bad, selling old man Herbert Jones a houseboat on the telephone.

" 'Dnr with Smith of Bdl Brs'—tick. I hope Mr. Smith of Beadle Brothers enjoyed his dinner with Bill. Well, that's the lot. I wonder," concluded Letty, "what he'd do if he had to leave something unticked. Throw a fit, I expect."

Mr. Hoster the following day left the office without throwing a fit, which showed that Letty's expectations were more or less off, for there on his pad, after "Com mtg 10.30" shorthand for committee meeting at 10.30—and similar carefully ticked notations, appeared "Inv L Lnch." And there was no virtuous check mark affixed.

"Now what does 'nv' stand for?" mused Letty. "Invalidate, invent, maybe that's it. 'Lnch,' that's sure to be launch, and 'L' light? Invent light launch? Must be, I guess. But," she exclaimed, "I never knew inventors did things that way. Wonder if Edison made a note one morning, 'Invent electric light this p. m.' "

Next day the same notation was on the pad, unchecked, and next day and the next. In fact, it appeared every day, and while Mr. Hoster threw no fits, his manner certainly grew strange.

"Miss Coe," he might say about 12.30, "will you, I mean would you—"

"Yes, Mr. Hoster, what is it?"

"Er—would you—that is, I'm going out to lunch—"

And, "of course, I'll stay till you come back; I always do," Letty would answer.

So daily "Inv. L Lnch," appeared on the engagement pad, until one afternoon Mr. Hoster telephoned that he couldn't get back to the office and would Miss Coe look out for the things of which she would find a memo on his calendar. Letty read, "Tiphn Smth Crpn," and duly telephoned the Smith corporation. Tick. She read, "Wrt Jn Brn ok," and wrote Mr. John Brown that the deal was on. Tick. She read 'Inv. L Lnch,' and threw up her hands.

"I did everything," she reported the following morning, "but invent a light launch."

"What?" exclaimed Mr. Hoster.

"On your pad," explained Letty; "I-n-v. L Ln-ch."

"Launch!" cried Mr. Hoster, taken by surprise; "that has nothing to do with boats. Thats 'Invite Letty to lunch.' "

"Oh," said Letty. And then, in a small voice, "Why didn't you?"

"Er—I thought—being your employer, I thought you might think—er—if you knew how I—"

"I think," said Letty, "we've missed an awful lot of lunches."

"And I think," said Mr. Hoster, "we're going to have an awful lot of them after this. Beginning now," he said firmly.

On the way to the elevator Mr. Hoster stopped suddenly.

"Wait here a moment, Letty," he said. "I must run back to the office."

"Why—Bill," protested Letty, "whatever for?"

"That memo," answered Bill. "I must check it off."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 13—Amid Arlington Cemetery's hallowed hillsides, a great company of Americans who lived and died in service to the flag that waves above them keeps eternal watch.

Below marches the Potomac, sweeping softly seaward on its endless journey.

They are soldier and sailor folk, for the most part, those who are gathered in that last encampment; warriors on land or sea whose names are linked with great deeds of all the wars since the starry flag that shelters them in death was born amid the clash of arms.

Democracy In Death

Among them now also sleep two other warn-worn veterans whose life stories had little of the pomp and circumstance of military place on pageantry about them.

Yet their names are cut more deeply into the stuff of American history perhaps than any other of those who lie close about them in that sacred ground.

William Howard Taft of Ohio; William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska!

What memories of pitched battles of politics will wake to life in the mind of any American of their generation who strolls hereafter among the hills of peace where they rest.

They tell in themselves the story of an epoch in national life. And the two graves, here almost side by side in the nation's greatest last sanctuary for those who loved and served the flag in life, speak wordlessly of the utter democracy that is death.

Strange it is that thus have come together in death these two men from far interior plains whose life histories were at once so alike and so dissimilar.

They had no precept or philosophy of life alike, save this: Both cherished greatly, each in his own way, the flag under which they sleep together. Both were great Americans for the place they held or the influence they wielded over their fellow Americans.

Knew Defeat's Sting

And both knew the bitterness of political defeat; Taft but once when he was swept from the presidency with hardly a handful of electoral votes to approve his four years of highest preferment; Bryan time and again.

For Bryan, that special place in Arlington, oddly enough, was won by his prompt response to the call to arms for the war with Spain. History has already written him down as Bryan the impassioned orator, Bryan the peace advocate, Bryan the president-maker who could not win for himself; anything but Bryan the soldier.

For Taft, who never saw service in the uniform of his country although he headed as had no other American both executive and judicial arms of government, no honor in death was too great. He is the only commander-in-chief of army and navy alike to lie among the soldier and sailor dead.

And the quiet Virginia hills give eternal peace to all alike.

The St. Louis zoo spent more than $48,000 for 413 new species of animals in 1929.

"Joy Through Service"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35).

Read: Acts 20:32-35.

MEDITATION: To the immature this is nonsense. They have not yet discovered the mechanics of joy. We make much use of the phrase "getting a kick" out of life. Those who use a gun know that a "kick" is the rebound that comes from the release of pent-up energy. "A kick out of life" comes as a part of a similar process. The child jumps up and down and laughs. The student bends to a problem and finds joy in it. The loving heart pours itself out joyfully. No man is happy for long in merely receiving things. It is nature's protest that he is not the center. Happy people are those who put the center of life outside themselves. In spending, not, in getting, in realizing their noblest hidden energies, they find life's greatest and most enduring happiness.

PRAYER: O God, we pray Thee that we may exercise this day the noblest capacities that Thou hast implanted within us. Give us wisdom and courage to put into daily practice our best thoughts and dispositions, and the things we most sincerely believe. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Passing Strange

Mr. Editor: We note in Tuesday's issue of The Bulletin that another "juicy plum" has been shaken from the political tree, into Mr. Bradford's outstretched hands.

Is it not more than passing strange that faithful deputy sheriffs who have served the county long and honorably should not have a chance for this promotion, for instance, Deputy Sheriff Manuel Martin of New London, who through years of honest faithful service and uniform courtesy has won the respect of all classes of citizens of the county regardless of political faith.

Or if it is not possible for one of the deputy sheriffs to be rewarded, why is it not possible to consider such men for the office as Major General Morris Paine, or Colonel Henry Dorsey, of New London, Lt. Col. Percy Morgan of Mystic, or Major John or Charles Hagberg of Norwich and other officers in different parts of the county, who have given years of their time to the military service of the state, and in time of national peril have volunteered for federal service and have given splendid accounts of themselves in whatever duty assigned them? Any one of these officers mentioned are well suited from their military training and other qualifications to fill this position and in case of an emergency, if rioting or disorder should arise, to organize and handle a large number of deputies, or troops and quickly put it down. Let us hope that the voters of New London county at next fall's election will consider and recognize faithful service to the state and national government in selecting a county sheriff, and not alone to some professional politician whose principal qualification is faithful service to some political party.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Under the "information at source" provision of the revenue act, persons making payments to another of "fixed and determinable income" of $1,500 or more during any calendar year must make a return thereof, if the recipient of such payment is single. If the recipient is married, report need not be made if the payments aggregate less than $3,500. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return.

Fixed and determinable income includes interest rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, and emoluments. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments but a single payment must be reported. A separate return of information for each employee is required of employers.

Information returns are required on Form 1099 and must be accompanied by a letter of transmittal on Form 1096. The filing date is on or before February 15. The returns are filed with the collector of internal revenue for the payor's district.

Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns of taxpayers to whom the payments are made. Many delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars have been secured as the result of the examination of information returns.

YOUR HEALTH

About Pimples

By George H. Heald, M. D., Takoma Park, Maryland.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Acne is the medical name for pimples. It has been attributed to puberty, to chlorosis, or anemia, to digestive and pelvic disturbances, to malnutrition, to rapid growth, to the use of sweets, tea, and coffee, and to other dietary errors, to emotional states, and to certain local conditions, such as uncleanliness, the use of too little soap, the use of caustics.

And the measures suggested for treatment have been about as varied, including daily cold sponge bath, keeping the feet warm, observing regular hours, avoidance of indigestible and fermentable foods, pastry, condiments, sugar, cheese, etc. It is admitted by those who advocate these various measures that the treatment of acne is tedious, and sometimes it seems as if advancing age is the only cure.

Recently the tendency has been to attribute the disorder to germ action. We are told that it is due to the presence of a germ known as the acne bacillus, which thrives in an oily skin. That is, acne is a contagious skin infection, and any young person with an oily skin is susceptible, and on exposure to another who has acne, may acquire it. An elderly person, with parchmentlike skin, is not eligible for memebreship in the acne club; so the presence of acne is rather a compliment to the patient's young skin. There is another comfort; the disease is self-limiting, and even if not cured by treatment, it will eventually leave, as the skin loses its oil.

On the face, acne shows first in the form of "blackheads," each blackhead consisting of a colony of acne bacilli, which have been surrounded by dried skin cells. If there is further infection by pus germs, the blackheads become pimples. The scarring which occurs in connection with acne is caused by the patient's picking or squeezing the pustules.

Modern research leads to the belief that without the exposure of an oily skin to the acne bacilli there will be no acne. That does not mean that some of the supposed cases already mentioned do not have an influence. Puberty contributes by furnishing the right skin conditions and possibly certain dietary errors help to increase susceptibility. Having in mind the fact that the acne bacillus thrives best in an oily skin, it is not hard to understand why treatment that removes fat from the skin will be useful as a curative measure.

One of the most efficient treatments for acne is the X-ray. But it should be done by a responsible physician, and not at a so-called "beauty parlor," for too often those who run these establishments attempt treatments which they know nothing about, and not infrequently the results are disastrous. The X-ray can do great damage when it is not properly given.

Stories That Recall Others

Tastes Smart

A little animated Question Mark was curious as to the contents of a bottle that his mother was using to cure a headache. He wished to smell it, too. He persisted until he got one whiff from the smelling salts bottle. After recovering enough to talk, he said:

"Whew, that tastes pretty smart in my nose; how does it taste in your nose, mother?"

Examination

Little Kathleen, age four, had just returned from her first day at kindergarten. Her mother said: "What did they do this first day?"

"Well," answered the little miss proudly, "we had examination."

"What did they examine?" inquired the mother.

"The nurse looked down my froat and felt my puzzle," she replied with importance.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a little Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy to use preparation that all reliable druggists can supply in either powder or tablet form. Its use promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia should quickly convince you that 99 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia and give it a good trial.

15 FILIPINOS BEING HELD IN CONNECTION WITH STABBING

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13.—(AP)—Fifteen Filipinos were held for investigation by police here today in connection with an attack last night upon K. Nakino, 52, Japanese, who was stabbed to death at a bath house. Witnesses said Nankino received the wounds while trying to aid Mrs. M. Takbugi, wife of the bath house proprietor who was threatened by two Filipinos. More than 70 Filipinos were arrested but all but 15 were released.

Joe Arson and Raymond Fes, picked up together, were questioned in regard to the attack. Police said Arson carried a knife and that Fes had blood on his coat.

Two Filipinos entered the bath house and asked to be shown a room, detectives learned. Then one drew a revolver and told the woman to give them her money. She fled and Nankino intervened. One of the intruders drew a knife and slashed the Japanese fatally.

HIGHWAYMEN GET $200 IN CASH AT NORWICH TOWN GASOLINE STATION

After forcing Joseph Izbicki, an employe, into a backroom, at the point of a revolver, a masked highwayman robbed the cash register of $200 at the Ideal Service station, West Town street, shortly before 10 o'clock Thursday night, while an accomplice remained on watch in front of the building. A Chevrolet roadster, Reg. N-946, Conn., which is owned by Mr. Izbicki, and which was parked alongside of the gasoline station, was discovered missing after the robbery. It is believed that the two men escaped in the machine.

A motorist in a Packard machine, who passed by shortly after the robbery, put chase after the two men, following them down West Town street, and up over the Gallows Hill road, which leads into the Taftville section. He had to give up the chase because of a flat tire.

After the highwaymen made their escape Mr. Izbicki rushed to the telephone and notified Capt. Thomas P. Murphy at police headquarters, giving him a description of one of the two highwaymen and the registration number of the stolen machine.

Capt. Murphy immediately called the Groton barracks and Willimantic police headquarters from which city the robbery was broadcast by telo-type throughout the state. The captain also notified State Police Officers Kathe and Wininger of the Groton barracks, who were at their homes in Preston, and the two officers immediately started a search for the highwaymen. The police and sheriffs in nearby towns were also acquainted with the holdup.

All roads leading out of the city were being watched by the local and the state police, shortly after the robbery.

The bandit who ordered Mr. Izbicki into the backroom of the gasoline station, which is conducted by George Gilman and Anthony J. Bernard, was described as being about 25 or 30 years old, of stocky build, and about 5 feet, 5 or 6 inches in height. He was wearing new union-alls, a dark cap and a black mask over his face.

MEN'S BIBLE STUDY CLASS AT Y. M. C. A.

The Men's Bible study class met Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The scripture was Mark 12:28-34 and James 2:14-17. The topic was Our Debts to Others.

Among the points brought out in the discussion were the following: When we hear of a man owing debts we think only of money. Men seldom think of the many other debts outside of money debts they owe, and this thoughtlessness is akin to selfishness. There is absolutely no evidence that Jesus ever thought of Himself first; He always thought of others. It is strange that so many who profess to follow the teachings and example of Jesus so often think of themselves first.

Selfishness is a sort of childishness. Bishop Phillips Brooks once said "all God wants is a full-orbed man." The specialist says "some grown ups have infantile hang-overs;" they are selfish; self centered." One is not a mature man unless he helps others.

It is pathetic to see a child cease growing, but what about a man who has failed to develop the thought of his relationship and duty to others. We could not exist very long without other folks; we are very inter-dependent, and the best way to show my appreciation for what others have done for me is to continually be helping others.

There can be no such thing as a selfish Christian. When we respect the rights of others, we feel better and others feel better toward us. It actually pays in business. It is well to have faith, but it is absolutely true that unless a man demonstrates his interest in others his faith is of little value.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB ROUND TABLE MEETING

Those members of the Woman's City club who attended the "Literary Norwich" round table meeting in the Wauregan hotel parlors on Thursday afternoon enjoyed a real treat. Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer presided and notified those present that on account of the wealth of literary material available, the literature committee thought it advisable to have an extra meeting on April 3, at 4 o'clock, when there will be not only a literary program, but also an exhibit of books by Norwich authors.

The afternoon's program was given by three Norwich writers who were introduced by Mrs. Brewer as being "Each pre-eminent in her chosen line."

Mrs. Winifred Welles Shearer, the first speaker, was presented as "A poet upon whom the Poetry society has conferred one of its highest honors in the form of a prize of $150 offered by the Friends of American Writers for the most distinguished group of poems published during the year."

Mrs. Shearer read several selections from her recently published book, "This Delicate Love." The January number of Poetry Magazine thus comments on it: "A book of finely imaginative poems, perfectly wrought. And the typography is a perfect setting." Hunting Dogs, and Boy, were among the poems read, the latter being "a searching and loving picture of adolescent innocence." Mrs. Shearer's second group consisted of poems for children and young folks.

A highly appreciative audience listened as Miss Margaret Fuller read extracts from her latest book, a novel not yet published.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, noted feminist, distinguished journalist and poet, of whom Norwich is justly proud, then gave, in her own inimitable style a varied program of readings which she described as "rondos, quatrains, triolets, descriptive stuff, personal poems, and real poetry," closing the program with a fitting poem entitled My Creed.

That Literary Norwich round table meetings have been among the most enjoyable ones of the year was evidenced by the large attendance which filled the parlors of the hotel.

GLOBE TROTTER GUEST OF NORWICH FIREMEN

The firemen at the Central station, Chestnut street, have as their guest, Mickey Flynn, 30 year old World war veteran, ex-fighter, and world traveler, who dropped into the station early Thursday evening from Putnam. The globe trotter, who lost his speech and hearing in the Battle of the Argonne, has covered a distance of 65,000 miles on this continent. He is on his way to New York, where he plans to sail for England the latter part of next month as the guest of the Cunard line, and visit England, France and other European countries.

Mr Flynn started his globe trotting on June 6, 1923, leaving his home on the Circle C ranch, Arizona, to see the world. He expects to have accomplished his purpose in ten years. Mr. Flynn will then return to his home and write a book on his experiences. He has visited every capital in the United States and has toured South America, the Hawiian Islands, Central America, Canada and Alaska.

The globe trotter is not traveling by means of selling post cards or soliciting charity from anyone, but through the generosity of the firemen in every community. He has letters of introduction from chiefs from many cities in this continent. Firemen, he says, are his real friends. They have always received him cordially and played host to him everywhere.

Before the World war Mr. Flynn made quite a name for himself as a boxer, battling with Kid Williams, Peter Hermsh, Artie O'Leary, William Burke, Joe Golindo and Carl Tremaine. After his visit here with the local firemen he intends to hike toward New Haven with his 93 pound pack and two smaller packs.

Otis Hill, injured some weeks ago when his horses bolted, throwing him from a loaded wagon, has been discharged from Manchester hospital and was able to attend a meeting of Coventry grange and preside as master.

PROF. WHEELER RETIRES AFTER 33 YEARS SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 13. — Charles A. Wheeler, professor of mathematics and college engineer at the Connecticut Agricultural college has retired after 33 years of service at the state college, according to an announcement made here today by President George A. Works. Professor Wheeler is the first member of the staff to retire under the state pension plan. In addition to his duties at the college, the retired professor has been for many years closely affiliated with the State grange, and is widely known throughout the state as a very successful Grange lecturer.

A graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college, class of 1888, Professor Wheeler has been actively connected with the Alumni association and has been treasurer of that organization for many years. Mr. Wheeler has also been a member of the faculty of the Yale and Columbia summer schools. He is widely known in engineering circles, and is an authority on many phases of agricultural engineering.

After his graduation from the Storrs institution, Professor Wheeler took his A. B. degree at Yale university in 1895, and his M. A. there in 1903. He also attended summer schools at Columbia university, University of Wisconsin and Cornell university. In 1895-96 he served on the faculty of the Brooklyn Latin school, and came to the Connecticut Agricultural college in 1897 as instructor in agricultural engineering. In 1901 he was appointed professor of mathematics at the state college. He was then instructor in surveying at Columbia and Yale summer schools. From 1909 to 1912 he served as lecturer in the Quinebaug Pomona grange, of which he was master from 1915 to 1918. Professor Wheeler is a member of Gamma Delta Psi; Zeta Psi; Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers; American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

WALLINGFORD RECTOR PREACHES LENTEN SERMON

An able and instructive sermon was preached by Rev. Donald W. Greene, rector of St. Paul's church, Wallingford, in the second of the series of union Lenten meetings held Thursday evening at Trinity Episcopal church. The series of meetings is being held by Trinity and Christ Episcopal churches. Rev. Thomas Richey, rector of Christ church, and Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown rector of Trinity church, participated in the service, which was attended by a large congregation.

"What are the affairs of the church?" asked the preacher. "Are they not concerned with the religious life of the people, meaning the spiritual condition of you as individuals? But we have so many things that demand our attention that we have not developed our spiritual life. We think we have, but we are still far short of the standard set for us by our Lord.

"What does this great haste of ours do for us? One of the things it takes away from us is the sense of security and stability. We have not taken time to develop our religious life. We have not given our souls opportunity or room for growth. We have developed our social life at the expense of our religious life. We have not only developed our social life, but overdeveloped it, and in doing so, left our religious life undeveloped.

"This hustling and bustling has almost completely wiped out the religious background of the family in the home. There are certain problems in the religious functions of the family as a whole. Religion is not a thing to be confined to the women and children alone, but also to the men of the church. A father who sends his boy to the church school or forces him to attend, while he goes out and plays golf, with a clear conscience, has not done his full duty.

"The children must see their father and mother function normally, not only in the affairs of the day, but morally and religiously as well. Moral and religious teaching must be given by the parents. If they do not cooperate the church can do very little. The home is the place where we ought to learn the most of the love of God."

Rev. Lyman C. Bleeker, curate at Trinity church, Hartford, will be the preacher at the next in the series of Lenten services, which will be held Thursday evening at Christ Episcopal church.

SCHOOL BOARD RECOMMENDS TWO JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

The erection of two junior high school buildings will be recommended to the town by the town school board, it became known Thursday. The school board decided to recommend the two new buildings after a study of the crowded conditions in the town's schools and at the Norwich Free Academy and a discussion of a recommendation made to them some months ago by the board of trustees of the Academy that the junior high school system be put into effect in Norwich.

The town school board, according to a statement issued Thursday by Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, voted unanimously to recommend as a solution of this problem the 6-3-3 plan of organization. The 6-3-3 plan means six years of elementary education in the grammar grades, three years in the junior high school, and three years in the senior high school.

Since there are over 1,200 pupils of junior high school age in the seventh and eighth grades and the first year of the Academy, it is proposed to erect two buildings, one located in Greeneville and the other some place in the central part of the city, to accommodate these pupils. Such an organization would relieve the crowded conditions in the Broadway and Greeneville schools by taking out the seventh and eighth grades, thereby making the needed accommodations for the elementary grades. By taking out the first year pupils of the Academy and placing them in the junior high school, would relieve conditions there.

This change is in keeping with what progressive school systems in this state as well as the other states of the union are doing, and is an important step in the educational campaign to acquaint the citizens of the town with the advantages of the junior high school plan.

Group meetings will be held in different sections of the town to discuss the problem. The school committee and the superintendent of schools will be glad to meet with any club or organization who wish to know more about the details of this plan of school organization.

It is understood that the cost of the buildings will be approximately $350,000 each, exclusive of the cost of the land.

NEARLY 3,000 REGISTERED NURSES IN ACTIVE WORK

Public health endeavor is beginning to be profitable to the taxpayer, according to the annual report of Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of health. Surveying the reduction in the number of cases of preventable diseases in the state, and the decrease in the number of deaths resulting from these diseases, Dr. Osborn draws the attention of the taxpayer to the results already achieved with the appropriations provided, but warns that public health work must be constant to achieve and retain these results.

"A brief study of diseases in Connecticut will show that where much knowledge has been found in certain diseases a tremendous reduction in their prevalence follows the application to health work of such new knowledge," says the report. "This statement may be applied to diphtheria, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, infant mortality and pneumonia.

"Other diseases about which knowledge is still lacking, such as cancer, diseases of the circulatory system which includes heart disease, are showing increase in the number of deaths due to lack of research. It has been difficult to find specific reasons for the increase in circulatory disease and cancer. A little progress is being made here, but it does not show in the death rate particularly. A study of the death rate tables brings out particularly the need of continued public health work not only in conditions and diseases in which results have been obtained, but also in those diseases which have been difficult to control up to the present time.

"Connecticut's general death rate and the rates for most specific diseases are comparable with those of other states and give credit to the work of doctors, health officers, nurses, private agencies and the many officials who are working along public health lines. In general the accomplishments of full-time departments of health are greater than where towns and cities have not organized a department of health.

"For several years since 1923 there has been a steady decrease in marriages, and the birth rate has shown a corresponding decline since 1924. In 1924 there were 12,910 marriages in the state, establishing a rate of 8.8 a 100,000 population, and in 1928 it had fallen to 11,684, a rate of 7.2. Births in 1924 totaled 31,807, or 21.2 a 100,000 population, while in 1928 the total had dropped to 27,909, a rate of 17.3.

"Possibly the most astonishing result in the modern program of promotion of public health and the prevention of diseases has been the steady decline in the deaths of children under one year of age. If any person had predicted in 1900 that the infant mortality would be halved in 25 years, he would have been looked upon as an extreme propagandist, yet this is the case. It is indeed difficult to understand that sanitation and personal hygiene were so little understood that thousands of infants died unnecessarily. The average mortality a 1,000 living births decreased from 142.8 in 1900-1904 to 65.6 in the four-year period ending in 1928."

Further reductions in the same period for other diseases were recorded as follows: Typhoid fever, from 24.8 a 100,000 in the five-year period of 1900 to 1904, inclusive, to 1.5 in the period of 1925 to 1928, inclusive; diphtheria from 28.5 to 6.1 of 100,000 in the same period; tuberculosis from 170.9 to 73.0; scarlet fever from 11.7 to 2.0.

A total of 2,839 of the 3,552 registered nurses in the state were in active work in Connecticut in 1929, the report states. In January, 1928, an exceptionally careful registration of nurses was completed, and hundreds of nurses who were living in the state and whose whereabouts were not recorded were discovered.

Of the 3,552 nurses registered, 1,178 were in private practice, 728 were engaged in institutional work, public health nurses 355, school nurses 142, industrial nurses 119, social service 13, inactive 340, special service 2, unclassified 69. Figures in every case with the exceptions of special service and social service were increases from the previous year.

Lovely hair!

Modern hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. But it is just as important to keep your hair soft, silky, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair.

Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy to manage; holds it in place.

The consistent use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year!

DAKOTA "GHOST TOWN" REVIVED BY SAWMILL

ODELL, South Dakota—(AP)—A sawmill has brought Odell almost forgotten "ghost town" of the Black Hills, back to life.

"Dead" for 20 years after the passing of its white sandstone pits, Odell now resounds to the hum of industry and the echo of children's laughter.

The following minute appears on the weekly calendar of the Central Baptist church: Our sincere sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagberg and family in the death of Mr. Hagberg's father, and to LeRoy Peckham in the death of his father.

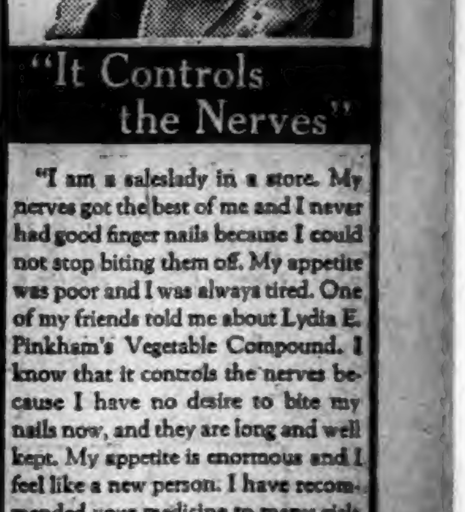
WAY TO GET AT A COLD IS THROUGH THE BOWELS

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?



"It Controls the Nerves"

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I could not stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I know it is a good medicine because I have no desire to bite my nails now, and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your medicine to many girls with the same good results."—Ethel Fleetwood, 3023 Bandis Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

C. ROYCE BOSS INTERESTED IN TWO NEW CORPORATIONS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 13—Two certificates of incorporation were filed for record at the office of the city clerk today. One is that of the Lee Engineering company, with an authorized capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100 per share. The company starts business with a capital of $2,500. The incorporators are Henry B. Lee, A. J. Pfannenstiel and C. Royce Boss, the last named recently of Norwich. The company will buy and sell boiler equipment. The other certificate is filed by the Multi-Valve corporation. Capital stock of $50,000 is authorized, this being divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100 per share. The company will start business with capital of $2,500. The incorporators are Messrs. Lee, Pfannenstiel and Boss. The company will deal in all kinds of steam and water valves.

BOOTLEGGERS DEALT WITH IN THE CITY COURT THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 13—Ambrose Villano, 46 Division street, was in the police court this morning charged on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell, and was fined $200 and costs on each count. Execution of judgment was suspended on the second count. Villano was arrested yesterday afternoon when a raiding squad went to the Division street residence after information had been obtained that Villano was doing a thriving business. The search revealed three barrels of wine, a small quantity of alcohol and several bottles of coloring, together with a few bottles of beer. Some of the beer and all of the alcohol and coloring and a gallon of wine was seized. The remainder of the wine was not confiscated.

Dressmaker—Sold on the Side

Tillie Allord, married and residing at 73 Belden street, was charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell. The case was continued to Saturday next and the woman was given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Mrs. Allord, who is a dressmaker, has had the reputation of selling liquor and last night a search warrant was issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty went to the house, but their search resulted in only a pint of alcohol being found.

Nick Stamatin, proprietor of a pool room at 324 Bank street, was charged with violation of the liquor law, possession and keeping with intent to sell. His case was continued to Saturday next and he furnished a surety on his bond of $400. He has been previously arrested on the same charge. Stamatin, it was claimed through information supplied the police, was continuing his practice of dispensing strong drink at the pool room. Sergeant John Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officers Clarence Martin and George Cockell and Patrolmen Michael Dorsey and Frank Philopena went to the pool room, but their search revealed a container with but a wine glass of whiskey in it and a half dozen bottles of home brew beer.

Struck Two Dry Places

Continuing their drive on proprietors of drinking resorts, the police this afternoon conducted three raids, but in only one were the officers successful. In two of the stores visited, the raiders did not find a semblance of liquor. These business places were the Garibaldi cafe, 694-696 Bank street, of which Andrew Trioni is proprietor and the grocery store and market of Scialabba Brothers, 700 Bank street. Search warrants were issued after information had been supplied the police that liquor would be found in both the restaurant and the market, but although the raiding force scoured the stores thoroughly not even a bottle of beer was found.

Whiskey Under the Floor

The officers, however, met with success when they raided the residence, 621 Bank street, which was intended to be raided yesterday, but could not because of the defectiveness of the search warrant, which called for the premises at 619, which is a store and not a private home. A new warrant was issued today by Judge Daniel M. Cronin and when the bluecoats entered the house, they were unable to find any evidence of liquor being sold there. The officers were positive that the booze was in a hiding place and they started to wreck the house in order to find it. When several sections of flooring were ripped away, one of the openings revealed nine pints of whiskey. This was seized as evidence and Genaro Gambardella was arrested on two counts of violation of the liquor law, possession and keeping with intent to sell. He was released upon providing a surety on his bond of $1,000. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

Mrs. Carl Beltzel, Groton, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

NEW YORK PHYSICIAN ILL WITH APPENDICITIS

Dr. Lawrence Burton, a New York physician, was stricken with appendicitis yesterday while a guest at a local hotel. He was taken to Lawrence Memorial hospital and operated upon without delay. Dr. Burton, accompanied by M. A. Williamson, of New York, were here for the purpose of obtaining data on frozen fish, obtaining the information at the plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries, Groton. This will be used in a publication on Food Industries.

Joseph T. Kane, of Bridgeport, was arrested in Groton last evening by State Police Officer Frederick Johnson, charged with reckless driving. Kane is a driver of an automobile truck, which is provided with a trailer. It is claimed that yesterday the truck and trailer was driven on Fishtown hill in a manner that forced other automobiles to leave the highway.

Graham Hall, of 173 Ocean avenue; Carl Cousens, United States Coast Guard, and Mrs. Margaret Gifford, 10 Orchard street, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

George H. Thomas

The funeral of George H. Thomas, former merchant, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 15 Friendship street, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Brainard lodge of Masons acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Rev. Philip A. Nordell

Funeral services for Rev. Philip A. Nordell, for many years pastor of the First Baptist church here, who died this week at his home in Brookline, Mass., were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church where Rev. Mr. Nordell, 80, long had preached the gospel. The services which were attended by many mourners, among them a number of the clergyman's former parishioners, were conducted by Rev. Samuel Lindsay, of Brookline. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Verona Moreash, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moreash, of 24 Hamilton avenue, Groton, died last night following a brief illness of diphtheria, the child being one of several children who were stricken recently with the malady. Besides her parents she leaves several brothers and sisters.

Edward H. and Elmer A. Bullent have sold a house and lot on Pacific street, to Henry W. and Josephine K. Sacknus.

Archery Hazardous

Mrs. J. B. Peckham, 48 West street, made complaint to the police because of the dangerous amusement being practiced by boys in the neighborhood. The boys have taken to archery and in firing an arrow the dart penetrated a window of the residence of Mrs. Peckham, who came close to being struck on the head.

HARTFORD POLICE FIND AND ARREST J. J. FEEHAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 13.—John J. Feehan, Hartford, who robbed his benefactor, Leonard Bruce, of Howard street a month ago and who has since been sought on a charge of theft was arrested early this morning at Hartford where Feehan has a police record. He was found in a Negro resort when officers went there in a hope of finding a Negro wanted as a suspect in a murder case. Feehan was locked up and this afternoon was returned to New London by Detective Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh. He will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Feehan, who was well acquainted with Bruce, went to the home of the latter about four weeks ago and late at night stated that his finances were low. Feehan, who had stopped at a hotel the previous night, was offered sleeping accommodation, which he accepted. After Bruce had retired, he was awakened by someone at the rear door and found Feehan fully attired and pretending to read. Feehan explained his reading because he could not sleep. Bruce returned to bed and while he slumbered, Feehan rifled his pockets, relieved the Howard street man of $300, and disappeared. Bruce made complaint to the police and the Hartford police were requested to arrest Feehan should he return to that city. Not until the police instituted their search in the Negro district for the murder suspect was Feehan's return to Hartford discovered.

On the trip to New London this afternoon, Feehan admitted to Detective Cavanaugh that he stole the money and said that after the robbery he hired a taxicab and went to Hartford, paying the driver $17. He then went to Springfield and Providence and when he had spent most of the money, principally in the purchase of liquor, he went to New York. He said he returned to Hartford a day or two ago.

A trade name certificate was filed for record at the office of the city clerk today by the New London Boys' club, which has established quarters in the rear of 8 Waller street. The subscribers are Cornelius P. Hayes, 7 Coit street; John J. Callahan, 53 Waller street; Frank Briggs, 37 Waller street, and Donald Casey, 45 Tilley street.

The Beacon Oil Co. has leased a portion of its property, corner of Hamilton and Smith streets, to Adams & Hillyer Co., together with water front privilege and use of a wharf. The lease is for 10 years, dating from April 1, 1930, with a privilege of renewal for five years. The rent for the first year will be $1800; for the second and third years, $2000; for the fourth and fifth years, $2100; for the sixth, seventh and eighth years, $2500, and for the last two years, $2750.

Patrolman Braxten Hill who has been confined to his home by illness several days, resumed duty tonight, covering the beat on State and Main streets.

Prowler Accosts Woman

The police this evening received a complaint from a young woman residing at 454 Montauk avenue that she was accosted and pursued on that avenue. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin made an investigation, but no trace of the alleged offender was found. Women have been molested at various times within the past few weeks, but no clues have been obtained.

Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, of 67 Franklin street, is in Philadelphia, where she will spend several days with her daughter, Mrs. William Graham.

Are Going Abroad

Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, wife of Dr. Sullivan, of Huntington street and Mrs. Cronin, widow of Dr. William D. Cronin, will tour Europe during the early summer. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Cronin have made reservations on a liner sailing from New York, June 20 and upon their arrival on the continent will spend the greater part of their time abroad in Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

Girl Scouts of New London entertained their mothers and other guests at an enjoyable Mother and Daughter banquet at Chapman Technical high school last night. There was an attendance of about 300.

Bandmaster H. O. Jenks and the Coast Guard band gave a fine concert at the academy last evening. The entire cadet corps was in attendance, as well as the officers of the academy and state pier. There were also many guests. The concert was held in the new gymnasium.

One hundred dollars was cleared from a bridge for the benefit of the Alumnae association of Lawrence Memorial hospitals, held in the recreation room of the Pond house Wednesday afternoon. Forty-seven tables were in play.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Tomorrow brings to the Palace Vitaphone's new 100 per cent color, talking, singing and dancing romance, "Song of the West," with the great John Boles, Vivienne Segal and Joe E. Brown starred at the head of a splendid cast. This is the kind of picture that fans have been awaiting eagerly since that earlier singing triumph, "The Desert Song," which poured out the golden voice of Boles to hundreds of thousands of moviegoers.

Drama and comedy are intermingled in this tale of pioneer days. The story starts at old Fort Independence, and moves along the westward march of the pioneers of the California mining towns, San Francisco and the Golden Gate. The dramatic love story which rungs through the film concerns a young deserter who faces court martial and disgrace. "Song of the West" is a story of covered wagon days, from the beginning of the trek of a wagon train across the plains accompanied by a troop of soldiers from Fort Independence, across the Sierras, with their snow-capped peaks and through the vast wilderness into the California of that day.

One marches along in spirit with these dauntless pioneers, listening to their songs as the wagon wheels creaked away the miles of prairie dust. One becomes a part of that great movement, lulled by the magic background of song that Vincent Youmans has woven for this masterpiece. The melodies written for this new and wonderful film, "Song of the West," are as beautiful as the women who take part, or as the scenery through which the action moves. Today for the last times the Palace presents its superlative double feature bill including George Arliss in "The Green Goddess" and "The Grand Parade," with Helen Twelvetrees.

Connecticut College Concert.

"Seidel and Stradavarius! What a combination! The soul of the Cretona master made the living voice of Slavonic genius" was the opening paragraph of a recent criticism of Toscha Seidel, whose appearance in New London, March 20, is anticipated with great pleasure both by those who have heard Mr. Seidel in the past or who merely know him by reputation.

Still under thirty, small, compact with broad shoulders and a head which suggests genius, striking brown eyes under a brow of extraordinary intelligence, and an entrancing smile, Toscha Seidel immediately captures his audience by sheer force of prsonality and holds it by the wonder of his genius.

The program which Mr. Seidel offers locally is an unusually fine one. Hear it and add something to your store of joyous remembrances. Miss it and you will have much to regret.

When a man is in trouble he believes a good many things that he would doubt at any other time.

FRAIL WOMEN GAIN HEALTH, ENERGY QUICK

This new, modern way—no drugs

Just a little nervous — gets tired easily—nothing really the matter with her, but how much better and cheerful and energetic she would feel if she took a supply of Vitamins daily.

The new and improved McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are brimful of Vitamins A and D extracted from pure, Norwegian Vitamin tested Cod Liver Oil and two of these sugar-coated tablets are equal to one teaspoonful of high grade Cod Liver Oil.

WESTERLY

CYCLE CLUB PRESENTS GIFT TO GEO. E. LEONARD

Some 100 members of the Westerly Cycle club, Benjamin Peabody, Jr., president, held their 35th annual banquet and entertainment Thursday evening in the rooms of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion. Following the dinner an entertainment program by vaudeville artists was enjoyed. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a smoking set to George Elmer Leonard, of Pawcatuck, who has just retired after serving ten years as the club's president. When President Leonard declined to have his name presented again this year he was placed on the board of directors.

Westerly friends have received word from Councilman Joseph Fraser and wife, from New Brunswick, N. J., on their honeymoon motor trip south that they had proceeded the first 225 miles of their trip.

Previous to their entry into the Southern Rhode Island Baseball league, the Hope Valley Athletic association is to present a comedy, "That's That," this month, under direction of the Rogers Co., with William Kay managing director.

Elks' Annual Election

Westerly lodge, No. 678, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, met Wednesday evening in Elks' home, Potter-Hammond block, when the slate of officers named a month ago to serve for the ensuing year was elected. There was but one contest, that for the office of Esteemed Leading Knight, when Richard J. Butler was opposed by William F. Donovan. Officers electe dwere: Exalted ruler, M. Walter Flynn; esteemed loyal knight, Dr. A. Howard Gold; esteemed leading knight, Richard J. Butler; esteemed lecturing knight, Thomas H. Shea; tyler, Thomas E. Donovan; delegate to national convention at Atlantic City, N. J., George P. Chapman; alternate, Harold J. Doyle; treasurer, William S. Larkin; secretary, John L. Twomey. Appointive officers will be announced later. Following the business session there was a smoker and refreshments were served. The newly elected and appointive officers will be installed at the meeting Wednesday, April 9th.

A meeting of the Mothers' club of Grace M. E. church, Mrs. Thomas P. Nichols, president, is to be held this (Friday) evening in the church school rooms.

The Young Men's club of the Broad street Christian church, William Thurston, president, will have a stereopticon lecture in the church tonight (Friday), the subject being "Abraham and His Times."

COURSE IN NAVIGATION IS OFFERED YACHT CLUB

The March meeting of Westerly Yacht club, Commodore Sydney B. Alling presiding, was held at the clubhouse, Thompson's Cove, on the Pawcatuck river Wednesday evening. Five of the seven Alden type boats secured by the club were drawn for and will be given new names by their owners to whom they were assigned. The owners are: Former Commodore Geoffrey L. Moore, Russell Hemphill, Robert F. Burnet, Joseph T. Grills and Carroll E. Blackler. It is expected that the two remaining boats will be assigned and then more boats will be purchased by the club.

Commodore Alling read a paper from the United States Power Squadron, Inc., of New London, in which a course in navigation covering especially the operation, management and navigating laws for small boats, is offered at the Coast Guard academy at New London, provided fifteen members can be secured to take the course. It is expected this year that the boating season will be in full swing by the first of May at which time the club will begin its official year instead of January 1st as in seasons past.

The appointment of the following committees was announced: Finance, Fred S. Opie, Robert F. Burnet, Edwin P. Faulk; house, Cleveland H. Clarke, Raymond F. Taber, Jeoffrey L. Moore, Everett Babcock, Harry W. Gavitt; publicity, Rev. G. Edgar Tobig; entertainment, George R. Jackson and George Dennison; membership, Archibald M. Alonso—Baldi

Wednesday evening at West Mystic, Miss Theresa Baldi and Fred V. Alonso, both of Westerly, were united in marriage at 7 o'clock by Rev. B. U. Hatfield at his residence at Cedar Crest. They left for a trip to New York and Washington and upon their return will reside at 31 Grove avenue, Westerly.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Walker H. Davis

Private funeral services for Mrs. Lavinia Davis, wife of Capt. Walter H. Davis were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Hogg, 33 Summer street, Rev. George Stanley of Olneyville, and Rev. Henry C. Suter, Ph. D., pastor of Grace M. E. church, Westerly, officiated jointly at both the house service and the committal service. Rev. Mr. Stanley is a former pastor of the local church, of which Mrs. Davis was a member. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Joseph, Richard and Alfred Bishop of Quincy, Mass., and Nicholas Dower, Joseph Mayne and Charles Mason of Westerly.

Mrs. James Casey

From her home, 53 Railroad avenue Wednesday morning, the funeral was held of Mrs. Ann Theresa Casey, 84, widow of James Casey. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. J. P. Cassagne, S. M. Burial was in St. Michael's new cemetery, where the committal services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M. The bearers were Charles McGarrigle, John Kenna, Charles Murray, Charles Clark, Arthur Fraser and Andrew J. Martin.

Passers-by on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, were surprised late Wednesday afternoon to observe a wall of water shoot high in the air when a 15-foot geyser suddenly shot up from in front of the Wilcox Coal Co. office. Workmen in the trench accidentally put a pick through the water main. The water was soon shut off, but not before the trench, which is being dug for the electric light wire, was filled.

Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon, of Pawcatuck, this week end begins a two weeks' tour of night duty while Officer George L. Seidel will take up day duty on the Stonington police force.

Calls For Brush Fires

At about 5:30 p. m. Thursday, the Pawcatuck Fire Co. No. 1 responded to a telephone call for fire alarm No. 33, when it was thought that the Blanchard filling station on the North Stonington road was in danger from a brush fire. The apparatus and force of men visited the place, only to return to their station. They had but a ten-minute respite when a second alarm was sounded from Box No. 63, Liberty and Smith streets, where a brush and grass fire which sent up large clouds was thought to menace buildings in the neighborhood.

MYSTIC

BOTH WOMEN'S TEAMS OUT OF BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

In Wednesday night's play at the fourth annual elimination bridge tournament, in the Mystic Hook and Ladder rooms, the two women's teams were eliminated. As was announced at the beginning, the woman's team remaining in the longest was to receive a prize. Mrs. H. W. Rathbun and Mrs. L. L. Hiscox, of Westerly, were given the prize, having the higher score of the two teams. They were presented cake plates. The highest margin was won by Roscoe K. Burrows and William McGregor against G. Larsen and Samuel Counsell of Bradford and the lowest margin was won by Elmer Jayne and Luke Phillips of New London, against Charles Lamb and Theodore Samuels of Westerly. The players and their scores were:

Table 2—Burrows and McGregor of Mystic, 2805, Larsen and Counsell of Bradford, 1312. Margin, 1493.

Edward Rousseau spent Wednesday at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, attending the annual banquet and sales meeting of the electric refrigerator department of the General Electric company.

The property owners of the town of Griswold awaited with much interest to learn what the action of the meeting of the town of Killingly would be, in reference to its property revaluation, the requirements of which are set forth by Connecticut law. The account of that session in Thursday's Bulletin has been carefully noted here, especially the legal opinion which follows:

Judge Russell pointed out that if the town decided at Wednesday night's meeting against a revaluation at this time, some dissatisfied taxpayers might go to the state attorney for the county and ask under mandamus proceedings for a superior court order obligating the town to do the work. Judge Russell explained that this was merely a possibility but that the selectmen wish the electors to know of it. Judge Russell further stated that he was opposed to outside parties being employed to make the revaluation, if the town decided to have one, and expressed his opinion that it should be done by the assessors.

Locally, there are those who favor a revaluation in Griswold, with a view looking toward an equalization in the assessment of the property of the town. Others have expressed themselves as against such expense and certain dissatisfaction, if such action is not absolutely mandatory. At a meeting to be held at an early date this matter is to be settled, with the town standing as a unit against the job being put in the hands of outside parties, acquainted with neither the town nor its values in real estate. First Selectman Daniel F. Finn said today that, prior to the date of the adjourned town meeting, he would receive from State Attorney Arthur M. Brown, Griswold's legal advisor, an opinion setting forth Griswold's position in this matter.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church met at Mrs. Abraham Zegeer's Thursday afternoon. The president, Miss S. K. Adams, presided. Items of interest in both home and foreign missionary work were read by Mrs. G. H. Jennings, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. G. F. Goodenough and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. Miss Adams read a letter from Miss Susan Armstrong, a teacher in Foo-chow, China. Letters of acknowledgment for bedding sent to Tougaloo, also for money sent for library books, were read. Easter offering envelopes and mite boxes were distributed. Mrs. Zegeer served ice cream, cookies, cake and candied grape fruit.

RIVERSIDE'S FAMOUS INN AMAZES ROSS TOURISTS

From the Hotel Constance, Pasadena, Cal., under date of Feb. 28, Mr. Ross writes:

We went over to Riverside yesterday to visit the Mission inn. The fact is there is no mission in Riverside and never has been. This inn was built by Frank Miller who has lived in Riverside since 1894 which entitles him to be called an Old Californian. Miller's father came from Wisconsin, in 1873 and in 1875 built the first adobe house, the only solid-walled house in the town at that time.

This house is in existence on its original site in the Outer Patio, or court of the birds, and the inn is built around it on all four sides.

The inn has accommodations for 500 guests. It occupies an entire city block and is four stories high with a number of interesting towers. It is built about great open courts (patios) filled with flowers and tropical plants. As you enter the inn you will discover the following cut in stone: "Enter friend, this is your house." This is true, frank hospitality and you feel instantly as if you were welcome.

In the lobby, hung in a conspicuous place is this old homely Scotch sentiment: "Ye canna expect to be baith grand and comfortable."

I saw no one trying to be grand except three ladies (?) in the dining room, smoking cigarettes, trying to attract attention. They did not look comfortable.

The lobby of the inn is furnished in mission style—Indian baskets used as decorations and the pottery ollas hanging from the beamed ceiling are reminders of mission days.

The hat rack in the lobby is made of French bayonets of the Franco-Prussian war, 1870. Over the registration desk is very fine painting of the Mission San Juan Capistrano. Guarding this painting is a quaint image of St. John of Capistrano, made by an Indian artist and presented by Father O'Sullivan of Capistrano.

At the foot of the stairs, under the clock, is an arm chair of generous proportions, made for President Taft and used by him at a banquet here in 1909.

Going out of the lobby at the right, one discovers the big gong on its lacquer stand which is one of the most interesting historical objects in the bell collection.

It is inscribed and dated: "Given to the Temple at Zenko by Honda Yoshimitso, in the year 646, A. D." This date is the oldest date found on any Japanese bell or gong.

Another bell of great interest (to me) is the Town Crier's bell of Bedford, Mass., that aroused the people of that town on the night of Paul Revere's ride. This bell, you will remember, gave the alarm that led to the first battles of the Revolutionary war, Lexington and Concord.

The patio represents the inner court of a Spanish castle. Many of the features are historical and some are directly patterned after houses in Spain.

The wooden brackets supporting the balconies on the south wall are from the Alhambra and have quaintly carved gargoyle terminals. These were secured by Mr. Miller at the Alhambra in 1911 and are undoubtedly of Moorish workmanship of the 15th century and were once part of the original old palace.

In the cloister, which is not a cloister but a music room, and represents the old baronial or knighthood hall of a Spanish castle, the banners that hang from the walls and balcony are from ancient buildings in Spain and France and I think some are from Italy.

A few of these banners are altar-cloths and are beautifully embroidered, especially the centerpieces. These were carried through the streets of Spanish cities on the great feast days of the church when all were on foot (all the faithful) and king and beggar walked to the cathedral. We do not all understand the meaning of the armor on the walls in connection with the banners of the church, yet in Spanish history the sword and the cross have gone together, the priest and the soldier have marched side by side and the most military of all the saints is St. James, the patron saint of Spain.

The war cry of Spain for centuries has beeen "Santiago y e ellos" (St. James and at them.)

Many of these swords on the walls are old Toledo blades and are dated and inscribed in Latin and Spanish. Most of them are of the cross-hilted variety, and served as a means of grace as well as a means of offense and defense.

Many an oath has been made on the sword hilt-cross, and many a dying Spanish soldier has been shriven as he turned his closing eyes on the cross of his rapier.

On one of these blades is a quota-tion in Latin from a verse from the Psalms: "In Thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; Thou wilt never suffer me to be confounded."

To me, the most interesting pieces hanging on the walls of the music rooms are cuirass, plumed helmet, and sword used by the French curivassiers of the guard, in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. In that brief war the cuirassiers played an important part. These pieces were given to the Mission inn by Major E. F. C. Klokk, whose father captured them from the French on the field of battle.

From the patio can be seen the bell tower (Spanish) from which the Angelus chimes ring at noon and sunset.

Another tower is the clock tower, with its artistically carved and gilt face, dated 1709, from Nuremburg. Beneath the clock tower may be seen the inscription: "Where there is no vision the people perish."

I would like to tell you of the garden of the bells. "The most valuable collection historically, in the United States, if not in the world."

These bells have been collected by Mr. Miller from many lands and represent many peoples, ages, uses and forms of belief. Gongs and bells of stone, wood, iron, brass and bronze have been in use in India and China for 3,000 years, or more. I think they were used in the Christian church about the seventh century.

Bells have names like Big Ben in London and our own Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Nearly all of the church bells in this collection are dated and inscribed with the following: "I praise the true God, I call the people, I assemble the clergy, I lament the dead, I drive away the pestilence, I honor the festivals."

A few of these bells are really won-derful to be in a collection in the United States. One belonged to Pope Paul III. His name and title in Latin, "Paulus III, Pont. Opt. Max."

Paul was pope from 1534 to 1549 and he was the pope that ex-communicated Henry the 8th of England, for marrying Anne Boleyn.

I don't know how many bells are here, I saw one No. 251 and there seemed to be hundreds farther along. It would be impossible to tell of all the things we saw here.

To give you an idea of what is here in this great collection I will name some of the rooms: The presidential suite, Presidents Taft, Roosevelt, Harrison and McKinley have occupied this suite.

The Saint Cecelia room and window. The Refectorio, ceiling of stone, arched, here are great dishes of earthenware; they are from Talavera, Spain, where have been made for a thousand years dishes like these.

The cloister walk and El Canino Real, at the end of the walk is an image (life size) Junipero Serra in official robes.

The Art gallery, mostly paintings of the old missions of California.

The baptisonal chapel, containing a sixteenth century carving, in wood, of the annunciation of the Virgin.

The Santa Clara chapel, commemorating the most famous woman member of the Franciscan Order, a carved wood figure shows her in an attitude of prayer.

The kitchen.—We were getting hungry. Here a quotation:

"We may live without music, art, pictures or books,
But the civilized man cannot live with cooks."

We went to dinner!

All vat dyes used in this country before the European war came from Germany and Switzerland.

WAUREGAN

Hermon Girach Stanley Stones, Walter Benoit and Uldige Pellerin have been playing on the Putnam soccer team for the last four weeks.

Francis Harrower is in Boston, undergoing treatment to an injured leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson spent Saturday in Providence. Walter Robinson has been entertaining Cuthbert Collorbon, of Greenwich, Conn.

W. T. Burns has been called to Mil-ton, Ontario, by the death of Mrs. Annie F. Lawson. Mrs. Lawson was beloved by all who met her during the year spent at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Burns. In her 83rd year, she was ever happy and a benediction to all. The community is extending sympathy to the sorrowing ones.

Among the shut-ins this week are F. T. Johnson and William Moffitt, both suffering from infected throats.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams attended the Windham County Ministers' retreat at Willimantic Tuesday, when Rev. Charles A. Dinsmore, D.D., of Yale Divinity school, was the speaker.

The Wauregan Men's class met Thursday evening with Rev. Henry Coolidge, South Killingly, as the speaker. The speaking followed a turkey supper, served by a committee, Mrs. Williams, chairman; Mrs. Edward Leonard, Mrs. Arthur Mott, Mrs. Elmer Johnson. Earl Mott was a guest at the supper.

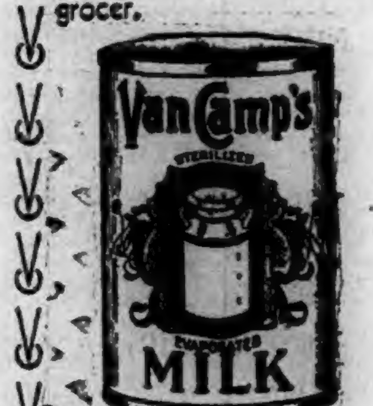
Buried Treasure of the Woods

In the "bean hole" of the big North Woods was buried the golden goodness of the forest's great-est treasure. In the big bean pot lumber cooks made the best beans the world ever knew, with layers of beans and sugar-cured pork, cups of brown sugar and molasses. Now—Van Camp's brings you not only this treasured recipe but even the elusive flavor of the "outdoor" cooking. And how appetites sated with home cooking do respond to that "woods" flavor. It's so easy to use them often. Just ask your grocer.



Rich, Creamy, Goodness!

With all the taste, color and consistency of rich cream—here is added goodness in cooking and more. You can use this Evaporated Milk in your coffee or pour it over breakfast food—because it's so rich and pure and good. In asking your grocer for the best of all evaporated milks—just say—"Van Camp's—of course!"

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Harry Maynard was taken to the Day Kimball hospital Sunday. He went through with a very serious operation Monday. He was resting as comfortably as could be expected Tuesday.

Your correspondent was sorry to hear that Samantha Miller was dead. They have known her since she was a little girl. She leaves two children, two sisters and one brother, a mother and father to mourn her loss. They all have the sympathy of your correspondent. She will be missed by all her friends. Gone but not forgotten.

Georgie Remington, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood, has bought him a radio. He lives in Oneco.

George Green has come back from Florida. He is in Plainfield at present with his sister. He spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood in Eastern Voluntown. He was looking fine. While at Mr. Bitgoods he went up on his farm to see how things were. He said he would like to get some one to come and stay with him so he could come back on the farm. He said he would rent the place if he could get some one to come there. It is a nice little place. He doesn't like to be there as he is an old man.

Mrs. Lee Remington of Oneco had for callers Tuesday Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Exsco Bellevance, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips and baby of Moosup.

Thomas Lewis of Beach pond was a caller at the Pie Grove farm Sunday. He is staying the Lewis boys. They are working on the roads filling up the muddy places.

Jefferson Barber's hired man is doing Mr. Dawley's chores as he can't get back and forth from his store in Voluntown with his machine while it is so muddy.

Lee Remington of Oneco visited Wednesday at Storrs college in Willimantic.

Frank Stone has moved his household goods from Bailey's pond at Plain Meeting house on a place that Mr. Ginks owns.

NORWICH SPEAKERS AT K. OF C. BREAKFAST

The Knights of Columbus, All Hallows' council, No. 270, numbering 150 members, led by Grand Knight Ernest L. DeForge, and District Deputy Edward G. McKay, Grank Knight James P. Sheridan, of White Cross council, No. 13, of Norwich, received holy communion in a body Sunday, March 9th, at All Hallows' church. After mass at 7:30, a communion breakfast was served at the K. of C. rooms by members of the American Legion auxiliary, of Ernest Godreau post, No. 91, Moosup. The menu was fruit salad, creamed potatoes, sliced ham, baked beans, coleslaw, hot muffins, celery, pickles, cheese, doughnuts and coffee. The toastmaster was past G. K. of All Hallows' council, Clarence V. Reid. The members of the council felt greatly indebted to the speakers from White Cross council, Norwich, for the eloquent addresses given. D. D. Edward McKay on Labor Conditions, and Patriotism, emphasizing the necessity of supporting our government in its dealings with the communists. Matthew J. Sheridan a teacher at Norwich Free Academy spoke on the Attitude of the Church on Education. John P. Murphy, also a teacher at the Academy, and a radio actor at stations WRNY and WNYC gave recitations from well known men—Mia Carlotta, by Thomas A. Daley; Parson's Son, by Robert W. Service, and Boots, by Rudyard Kipling. Other speakers were J. P. Smith, James P. Sheridan and James J. Moore. The committee chairman this year was Francis Gallagher; Treasurer Philip Vallencourt, William Migneault and Alexis Bissonnette.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. A. Elwyn Tingley, Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. A. E. Garcia rode out Monday and Tuesday afternoons from the Day-Kimball hospital, Putnam. Mrs. Garcia is better and both will be home soon.

LISBON

At the meeting of Lisbon grange Friday evening the lecturer's program opened with several selections by the Lisbon orchestra after which County 4-H Club Leader Randolph W. Whaples of Norwich gave a very interesting talk on 4-H club work for boys and girls and answered questions in regard to the work. He then showed two reels of a health picture entitled Apples and a one reel picture on Carelessness and its results. F. L. Kanahan then gave an instructive talk on the preparation of a brooder house for baby chicks after having been used for broilers. The grange closed with singing of the Anniversary song as this meeting was the first anniversary of organization of the grange. There was another selection by the orchestra. Fruit salad, rolls, cookies and coffee were served. The next meeting of the grange will be neighbors' night with Lisbon and Franklin granges as guests.

The Community club had for its program Wednesday evening an address by Rev. A. H. Abbott of Norwich and several musical numbers.

Miss Sadie Goldberg is visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Fein, in New York.

The Ladies' Aid society is to meet at the community hall, Tuesday afternoon, March 18, instead of the usual time, the last Wednesday of the month.

Mrs. Fannie C. Corbett

Mrs. Fannie C. Corbett who passed away Friday, March 7, at Rest Home, West Concord, Mass., had resided in Newent about thirty years before the death of her husband, in November, 1928. She will be remembered by many friends as a faithful attendant of Newent church and was especially interested in the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society until the latter was discontinued, and as a member of the Ladies' Aid society held several offices. She was also a member of Pachaug grange. She was a great reader, fond of nature studies and possessing a good memory, was quite an authority on birds and wild flowers. Though having been in frail health for several years Mrs. Corbett had made so much improvement since a surgical operation last fall that she was planning to return to her home in Newent for the summer. Death resulted from a sudden cold followed by less than two days illness with pneumonia.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

BETTER RATHER THAN BIGGER FARMING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

One day last month a big western city was visited by an "old fashioned" snow-storm. Fully 12 inches fell and, as it didn't drift, it made what used to be called "good sleighing."

Only a little while ago, 15 or 20 years, such an opportunity would have been eagerly seized by hundreds of elated joyridesr. The streets would have been filled with gay cutters, drawn by high-stepping blooded steeds, to say nothing of bob-sleds loaded with shouting or singing parties of merry-makers.

Nothing of the sort happened, last month. No cutters showed up. No "straw-rides" developed. A hurried census of the city showed that there were left within its borders only three real sleighs. They were all privately owned, kept as family heirlooms or quaint curiosities, and not for rent or sale.

Which is just one more evidence of the way in which the times are changing and we are changing with them.

Some of us may not like all the changes which the last two or three decades have brought. We may sigh a little plaintively or protest a bit angrily against them. We may question whether they are all changes for the better.

But our doubts will make do difference with the facts. The high tide may ruin some of our sand castles, or even sweep away some of our carefully cherished dikes, but we are no more able to stay it than was King Canute to halt the inrush of the North sea on the Kentish shore.

"The old order changeth, giving place to new." It is so in industry, it is so in society, it is so in business and law and finance and even theology. It is no longer possible to stand in the old ways, for the old ways are abandoned of travel, and he who essays to follow them will find himself journeying alone on a "No-Thoroughfare" to no desirable destination.

Such being the situation in practically all other matters, is there any convincing reason why farmers shouldn't also accept it and seek to turn it to their profit?

The stout ship, sailing the seas from one port to another, does not expect to arrive at her destination without touching a halliard or altering sail. The skipper may set out with a fair following breeze. When it changes he trims sail to meet the draft. He doesn't insist upon sailing across a sou'sou'east gale with the same canvas with which he scuds before one from the nor'nor'west.

More than that; If the wind won't permit him to hold a direct course for his port, he doesn't sit down in despair or come to and anchor. He makes the best use he can of such wind as there is and, since he can't aim straight to his haven, steers as near it as the breeze will allow him. The wind may not be wholly to his liking, but he takes it as he finds its and makes the best course he can with it.

When the writer of this was young, there were no such things as canned meats or fruits or vegetables in any retail store. We bought all our supplies "in the rough" and were glad to get them that way. Now, the average grocery store is chiefly a depot for stuff in cans or cartons or packages. Various causes have contributed to this, but the one which would sufficiently explain it, if there were no other, is that popular demand calls for canned goods, and buyers go where they can get them. The dealer simply supplies what his customers call for.

It doesn't matter in what department of human activity you look, the same holds true. What were once staples are now actually curiosities; what were once accepted methods are now discarded: what were once time-hallowed formulas have given place to new practices.

We of the farms have got to meet changed conditions, as certainly as those in other vocations. We can't keep right on doing the same old things in the same old way. Take, as one outstanding illustration, the matter of hay. Twenty years ago, in this rural town where my latter days are passing, the hay crop was easily the most important of all. It was not only essential for the animals on the farm, but there was a steady and fairly paying demand for it from the livery stables, trucking companies, etc., of the cities. For the last three or four years however not half the former meadows in my neighborhood have been mown. With the prevalence of the motor and the practical disappearance of the horse from industry, the demand for hay has fallen almost to zero.

What is going to be done with the one-time profitable hay lands? It isn't a question to be answered offhand and with finality. It calls for an entirely new sort of planning and working.

Long ago, the competition of the west put an end to profitable wheat and corn growing on our hillsides and along our valleys.

So one might continue to mention many other forms of agricultural activity, once necessary and profitable, now neither profitable or even desirable.

We can't keep on farming as our grandfathers or even our fathers did. The world doesn't want that sort of farming and won't pay wages for it. What, then, are we to do?

Well, the first thing for every farmer to do is to change the form of that question. Instead of asking what are "we" going to do, he will have to ask himself, "What am I going to do?" It isn't a question of what he is used to doing, nor of what he likes to do, nor of what somebody else is doing. It's a question of what he can do, under his particular circumstances. Since the old roads have been given up and become impassible, he must make a new one.

And he must do it himself. The sooner he gets at it, the better it will be for all concerned, too.

While it is thus a sternly individual question, depending mainly upon individual conditions and circumstances, there are, nevertheless, certain general principles which apply, more or less effectively, to individual cases.

In the first place, the old idea of many farmers that they must have big farms is no longer tenable in New England. The lay of our lands, the composition of our soils, the character of our climate all conjoin to make competition with the wide spreading ranches and grain fields of the west unprofitable. One thought which dominates me is that we've all got to do better than bigger farming. We've fewer fertile acres; we must tend up to them closer. Our aim will have to be intensive rather than extensive farming. Instead of trying to spread ourselves out over many acres, we will do better to lay ourselves out on a few—and get more from them.

Another thing; we ought to forget the old superstition that our soils are "worn out." We may, indeed, have robbed them by unwise cropping and inadequate fertilization, but there's no soil in the state, between Greenwich and Grosvenordale, which is hopelessly exhausted.

Esten's wonderful work on that thin-soiled, scrub-infested hilltop at Storrs land long abandoned as too worthless even for fencing, simply showed what intelligence and sound reasoning and economic fertilization and boundless pluck could do with land which, under the old methods, wasn't considered capable of growing good moss.

The fields of Germany have been cultivated and cropped for at least 2,000 years, since Caesar's time, and perhaps for much longer. Yet today, after all that double millennium of plowing and tilling and cropping, German potato fields produce bigger and better crops than this new country averages. Nor is it done by any extravagant expenditure for fertilizer. The farmers of Germany as well as those of France and Denmark might well be taken as instructors in the art of conserving home-produced manures by our less careful New England farmers. But Esten's demonstrations at Storrs proved that a barren old pasture could be rejuvenated into a marvellous garden spot by the appropriate use of the very cheapest commercial fertilizers, working with its own untapped resources, and drawing assistance from the absolutely free ocean of the air.

There is undoubtedly call for dairying and the supply of dairy products. This form of farming demands ample pasturage and rather wholesale growing of fodder crops. But outside of that, it seems to me that the chief hope for Connecticut farming lies in the production of garden and orchard crops, on comparatively small acreages, intensively tilled.

Another general idea which every one must keep well in mind in all his farm planning is that of marketing. The farmer who finds out what his neighboring markets want most and are willing to pay best for, will take in dollars while the one who doesn't will be pinching pennies. It isn't what you and I are used to raising, or what we like to raise that brings in the cash, but what the buyers call for. The market won't take stuff which customers don't want and won't pay for. If you're farming to please yourself, that's one thing; if you're farming to sell crops, that's another and a very different thing. People don't buy your things to please you; they buy to please themselves. And the surest way to get their money is to offer them something that suits them, whether their tastes agree with yours or not.

It is more than likely that this idea of raising berries and apples and garden truck, etc., isn't attractive to many farmers. It strikes them as "puttering" rather than farming.

Well, all I can say that if any one who feels that way will try growing ten acres of strawberries or ten aces of garden truck for a couple of years, he will discover that it calls for more gumption and more hard work than growing 100 acres of hay or 50 acres of potatoes.

Incidentally, if he has any sort of luck, it will pay better.

Y MARRIED MEN WIN SERIES FROM SINGLE MEN; GIRLS PLAY TIE

Once again the Benedicts demonstrated their superiority over the Single Men of the Y. M. C. A. last night when they clinched the series by taking the second game 55 to 54. However the superiority was of such a small margin that they were forced into an overtime period to do it and then only by a single point. The game was marked by it's free scoring and spectacular basket-shooting with Howie Demarest with 12 field baskets featuring the evening's play. Roland Harris also starred for the Benedicts while the shining lights for the Single Men were Tommy Lynch, Les Pingree and Aubrey Brown, with 15, 13 and 11 points respectively.

The game started at a fast pace with the Single Men having a slight edge in the first half which ended 28 to 23 in their favor. At the opening of the second half the Married Men rallied and cut down the lead and at the final whistle the count was knotted at 47-47. In the overtime period the Benedicts caged 4 baskets for 8 points while the Single Men could get but two baskets and three fouls.

The Norwich Girls played to a tie game with the Putnam high school girls 37 to 37 in a close and hard-fought contest. This game was as interesting as the main attraction. The summaries:

KOZIOL-PETERSON BOUT LOOKS LIKE A FAST GO

Topping Danielson's card next Tuesday night is the six round bout between Al Koziol of Norwich and Ero Peterson of Worcester. This bout heads a card of five six rounders and a four rounder. There is much speculation about the Koziol-Peterson go with opinions differing widely. Peterson is a clever boxer something that cannot be claimed for Koziol. On the other hand Koziol is a fighter pure and simple. With Koziol it is the punches that he throws that count and not those he blocks.

Some fans claim that Peterson with his boxing can keep Koziol off and outpoint the local boy in six rounds much easier than over a longer route. Others claim that Peterson's boxing ability will stand him nothing and that Koziol will batter through it to a knockout. Peterson is no mean puncher himself and has a kick in both his right and left hands. Also he has a tendency to mix it with boys who like to slug. If he does this with the local cyclone there is a strong probability that he will take the count. Very few boys can stand toe to toe with Koziol and slug with him for long. Those that have won decisions over the local boy have done it by boxing and long range fighting. Either way the fight goes it's bound to be a hummer.

YALE TICKET ARRANGEMENTS ANNOUNCED BY WOODCOCK

NEW HAVEN, March 13—(AP)—Football rose above the sports horizon of Yale university tonight when H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the athletic association made known the arrangements for ticket distribution to next fall's games in Yale bowl.

Experience of the last two years, Mr. Woodcock explained, has indicated that very little change is required in the number of tickets allowed under the various groups excepting a slight reduction in the Army game quotas. It is recalled that last fall it was necessary to cut in half the pre-arranged allotments owing to the demand which had placed Army in the same category as Harvard in the matter of ticket demands.

Mr. Woodcock called attention to three changes for next fall: First, ex-members of the university will be classed as graduates; second, freshmen are to be allotted with other undergrates instead of being assigned seats after the alumni; third, pinned applications will be accepted from members of any classification and all pinned applications will be allotted in one group.

In the first instance the football committee did not think it wholly fair that an ex-member whose name was in the alumni directory should be separated from the class ticket assignment when he meets other members on equal footing on various other occasions. In the third instance a graduate in one department will be enabled to sit with a graduate in another department if he wishes by having the applications pinned and filed together.

In the price schedule the Maine and Alfred games will have a 50 cent admission, Maryland and Georgia $1, Brown $2, Army and Dartmouth $4 and Princeton and Harvard $5.

In the ticket allotments seniors, faculty members and underclass men will have four for the Army, two for Princeton and three for Harvard as against six, four and two last fall. The changes in the other groups are minor ones.

The regulations governing applications and issuance of tickets are about as heretofore. Attention is called to personal responsibility for tickets, with the warning that speculation or violation of personal use conditions will subject the applicant to blacklisting.

H. D. H.'S DEFEAT BUTCHERS IN THIRD ROUND MATCH

In one of the best games of the tournament at the Recreation billiard academy last night the H. D. H.'s, by a last minute rally, overcame a 20-ball lead and won by a final score of 100 to 85. Harris of the H. D. H.'s played a consistent and brilliant game, coming through with runs of 13, 12 and 11. By careful playing he was able to get three runs in succession to overcome the Butchers' lead of 20 balls. Higgins and Donovan then played safely and held Captain Bush, the losers' star, to no shots in the last 50 balls.

Capt. A. Bush, not being left with a shot, was unable to get runs of 14, 14 and 15, that put his team out in front in the first part of the game. W. Buchka of the losers proved that he was one of the best "B" players by his combination shots. He stunned the spectators with a four-ball combination that started him off on a run of 10. Godek was not in form and marred his playing by several scratches. Much credit must be given to Higgins and Donovan, as they executed their safes faultlessly and stopped the losers from getting big runs.

Tonight the Colonial club meets the Chumps in the final game of the third round. This is to be a grudge game and much rivalry will be shown by the spectators as well as the players.

CANZONERI MEETS LOAYZA IN GARDEN FEATURE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—The turn in the road looms ahead of Tony Canzoneri, brilliant Italian lightweight, in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

For years one of the most spectacular and pleasing of the present crop of gladiators, every inch a warrior, Tony suddenly discovered he had lost something, in his battle with Jackie Kid Berg here several weeks ago. Berg gave Canzoneri, former featherweight champion and constant challenger of Sammy Mandell, the lightweight king, the worst licking of a career that has included few defeats.

Tomorrow night Tony boxes ten rounds with Stanislas Loayza, rugged Chilean veteran, in the main go at the Garden. The aggressive, stiff punching South American has everything needed to tell definitely whether Canzoneri has slipped from the top or is just the victim of an occasional "off" night. Tony is a 2 to 1 favorite.

New York youngsters form the supporting card, Sammy Dorfman and Irish Jackie Pilkington, lightweights, mingle in the ten round semi-final while Charlie Rosen and Vincent Sireci, welterweights, meet in the first ten.

COLLEGE WRESTLING TOURNEY STARTS AT ITHACA TODAY

ITHACA, N. Y., March 13—(AP)—With Penn State and Cornell joint favorites for team honors, the outstanding wrestlers of eastern colleges began assembling here today for the twenty-sixth annual intercollegiate championships tomorrow and Saturday.

In addition to Penn State and Cornell which have scored almost an equal number of points in dual meet competition, entries have been received from all the other teams of the league, namely, Lehigh, Yale, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Syracuse. Lehigh, which held undisputed sway for the last three years, is not considered a serious contender this time.

Individual favorites in the various classes based upon recent performances are: Colmore, Princeton, 115-lb. class; Trousdell, Cornell, 125-lb.; Hubler, Penn State, 135-lb.; Sargent, Yale, 145-lb.; Campbell, Penn State, 155-lb.; Johnson, Cornell, 165-lb.; Pearce, Penn State, 175-lb.; and Barfield, Princeton, unlimited.

ACADEMY TEAM FINISHES FIFTH IN RELAY RACE

The Academy's mile relay team returned home from New York Thursday evening a tired but happy lot, after one of the largest evenings of their career Wednesday evening when they competed in the Kacey games at Madison Square Garden. The Wildcats finished fifth in a field of ten in the high school mile relay event, being headed by Bridgeton prep, James Monroe high, De Witt Clinton high and James Madison high, and beating out Brooklyn Poly prep, Evander Childs, Mt. St. Michael's, George Washington and St. John's college high.

Special praise was given by all members of the team for their captain, who by a brilliant exhibition as anchor man, pulled the team up several places. The next and concluding indoor event for the local runners comes next Wednesday at the New Haven firemen's meet.

Y SENIORS CLOSE SEASON ON SATURDAY

The Torrington Y five that will close the league season for the Y Seniors Saturday night at the local gym has won its last seven league starts and has scored a victory over every club in the circuit, something no other team can boast of.

The Seniors were beaten in a tight battle at Torrington in February and, of course, are very anxious to reverse matters tomorrow night. Torrington, however, since being reorganized about Feb. 1, has been unstoppable, having bolstered their lineup with several former Torrington high stars.

There will be a fast preliminary, which will start at 7:30, with the main game about an hour later. One of the best crowds of the year is expected.

Saturday night the Norwich Girls will play a return game with the Connecticut Aggie freshman girls at Storrs.

MUSH MORIARTY ISSUES CHALLENGE TO GUOIN

Mush Moriarity, local battler, issues a sweeping challenge to Young Guoin of Taftville for a bout of four or six rounds anytime or anywhere. Mush is on the comeback trail and has joined Joe Besade's stable of boxers. The blonde Irishman is getting into shape and for several weeks has been doing plenty of hard work. He is down to 145 pounds and his condition is better than it has been in a year or more. With another week's training he will be down to 141 or 142, his best fighting weight.

Rhiel Reports to Braves

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Infielder Billy Rhiel, purchased from the Brooklyn Robins, arrived here today at the Boston Braves training camp. Manager Bill McKechnie planned to use him on third base in today's exhibition game with the Athletics, which was called off because of wet grounds.

National Hockey League Final

At Chicago: Boston Bruins, 2; Chicago Blackhawks, 3 (overtime).

Susie Says

Spring is here. How do I know it? Well, friend husband dug out the old golf clubs yesterday afternoon and played fifteen holes.

Now if that isn't a sure sign of spring what is. When he gets restless and starts putting on the living room rug and dragging out the old golf sox to be mended I know spring is in the offing.

A dyed-in-the-wool golfer is like the bear, he knows when it's time to come out of his hibernating quarters. Last week I saw the boy friend sniffing the air and trying the ground to see if it was hard and I knew that my golfing husband would soon be missing.

Yesterday afternoon he comes bouncing in with "Where's my golf clubs? Where's my golf socks? Where's my knickers and cap?" He rushes from one room to the other and out again almost before I can catch up with him.

He's off like a kid let out of school. But, oh, you should see him when he comes back. He sits here nodding in his chair and even Amos and Andy don't get a tumble from him tonight. He must have taken his first golf in a big dose.

Every time he moves he groans and when he walks you'd think he was nearly as old as Methuselah. He complains of pains in his shoulders and aches in his feet, but he'll do it again tomorrow. They're all like that, you can't change 'em.

When I ask him how the game went he peps up and tells me that he was going fine and that he'll show 'em something this year. He tells me how he's hitting the iron shots off his right foot and when I says "that's probably what makes your feet sore" he looks like I had slapped him.

He tries to read but he falls asleep and pretty soon he is asking for the liniment and if it isn't time to go to bed, I can hear him groaning and grunting in the bathroom as he gives himself a rub down with the liniment. But he gets a kick out of it with all the torture so I should worry. He could do lots worse things.

But just the same if I asked him to lug up the porch chairs from down cellar or beat a coupla rugs he'd put up an awful wail. And if he got as lame working as he did yesterday playing golf he'd swear up and down that he was going to quit the job.

But that's golf. And I'm going to take up the game myself this year so I suppose I'll be as bad as he before long.

But who cares?

KELLY OUTPOINTS UBALDO IN WATERBURY FEATURE

WATERBURY, March 13.—(AP)—Jack Kelly, Waterbury light-heavyweight, outpointed Primo Ubaldo, Italian fighter, of Bridgeport in their return eight-round bout, feature of the Waterbury A. C. card here tonight. Kelly weighed 174; Ubaldo 176 1-2.

In the eight-round semi-final, Clicky Clark, Holyoke, 147, won the decision over Mule Brown, New York, 149.

Alex Tourain, New Haven, 139, scored a technical knockout over Billy Coe, New Haven, 140 1-2, in the third round.

Harry Ryder, Waterbury, 143, scored a technical knockout over Jack Paoli, Waterbury, 143, in the fourth round.

Ray Dolan, Waterbury, 162, outpointed Al Mariano, Waterbury, 164 1-2, in the opening four-round battle.

PIQUETTE WINS VERDICT OVER WALTER BURNS

DANBURY, March 13.—(AP)—Lou Piuette of Bridgeport won a decision over Walter Burns of Jersey City, N. J., tonight in the star ten-round bout on the Veterans of Foreign Wars card. Both weighed 120 pounds.

Frankie Larangira, Danbury, 148, won on a foul in the third round over Paul Gulotta, New York, 147, in a scheduled six-round bout.

Joe Kramer, Ridgefield, 170, was given the decision over Harry Larkin, New York, 175, in a four rounder.

Eddie Conley, Danbury, 134, knocked out Frankie Walker, Holyoke, Mass., 136, in the second round of a scheduled six-round fight.

Steve Micko, Danbury, 131, won on a technical knockout in the third round of a scheduled four-round fight over Dobby Hicks, Bridgeport, 131.

A. A. U. TO APPEAL THE COURT INJUNCTION ORDER

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—In an effort to prevent the setting of a precedent, the American Amateur Athletic union today announced it would appeal the court decision that granted Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish runner, permission to run in the Knights of Columbus track carnival at Madison Square Garden last night.

Petkiewicz, although legally qualified to run in the Columbian mile at the Garden, withdrew at the last minute for fear he would be suspended on his return to Poland.

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., said today the case was being carried to the higher courts.

HAMPTON'S EAGLE TIES MATCH IN 4-BALL TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Harry Hampton, Chicago, sank an eagle three on the 36th green in the final round of the international four-ball matches late today to square the match between himself and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, with Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla.

Walker dropped an eagle two on the 35th and McIntyre rolled in his putt for an eagle three on the 34th.

The two teams will meet at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to play off the match over the 18-hole route.

CLASS A. A. LEAGUES TO HOLD MEETING IN JUNE

CHICAGO, March 13—(AP)—A joint meeting of the American association, International and Pacific Coast Baseball leagues has been called for June 16 at Chicago to discuss problems of Class A. A. baseball and to decide for or against renewal of the National association of minor leagues agreement.

The International league took the iniative in calling the meeting. The National association of minor leagues agreement, which runs for 10 years, expires next December.

King Tut and Tenorio Sign

MILWAUKEE, March 13—(AP)—King Tut, Milwaukee lightweight, and Lope Tenorio, Filipino boxer, have been signed to meet in a ten round bout at the Auditorium March 26.

NORWICH BOWLERS WILL COMPETE IN NATIONAL DUCKPIN TOURNEY TODAY

Norwich will be represented in the National Duckpin Bowling tourney at Waterbury today by the Aetna team of this city. The Aetna management is taking over six of the leading bowlers in Norwich to enter all the events on the schedule. There will be a five-man team, doubles and singles events in which Norwich bowlers will compete.

Those who have entered the tourney from this city are Sidney Shabecoff, Frank Kellar, Harold Hull, Bert Smith, Michael Aldi and Claude Combies, proprietor of the Aetna alleys. Manager Combies has not selected his five man team as yet but will do so after the singles are rolled, the lowest man of the six being dropped from the team.

The two-man teams representing Norwich are Combies and Aldi, Smith and Hull, Kellar and Shabecoff. The singles will be rolled at 6 o'clock this evening followed by the doubles at 7 o'clock. The five man events will go on at eight o'clock. There is no competition other than rolling for the high score, teams not competing with one another in strings won and lost.

This local aggregation has been going strong all during the season and have bowled team totals of better than 1700 frequently during the season. The high mark at the present time in the five-man events is 1732 which the local five will shoot at this evening.

RAILROAD TEAM STILL LEADS IN NATIONAL BOWLING PLAY

WATERBURY, March 13.—(AP)—Worden's Dairy entry of Waterbury moved into second place in the five-man event of the National Duckpin Bowling congress tonight with a score of 1,704, 28 pins behind the mark set by Waterbury division of the New Haven railroad in the first night's program on Tuesday, while the team of Casey and Roden, of the Chase Foremen's association, rolled 717 to take the lead in the doubles. A flock of pinsters moved into the contending ranks for the singles honors but the 384 by Brick, of the Waterbury Eagles, set Wednesday, still remained at the top of the pack.

CALLAHAN SIGNS TO BOX FOR MACK'S ARGONNE A. A.

BOSTON, March 13—(AP)—Andy Callahan, rugged Lawrence, Mass., lightweight today agreed to meet the best available opponent, Eddie Mack could sign for the next Argonne A. A. show on March 21. Mack immediately opened negotiations with Bruce Flowers, King Tut, Pinky Kaufman, Sammy Mandell and Herman Perlick, and announced that he would come to terms with one of this quintet within 24 hours.

FIRST CUT MADE IN ACADEMY BALL SQUAD

Coach Brigham on Thursday made the first cut in his squad of battery candidates when from a list of about 25, he named 13 that will be carried from now on. The pitchers and catchers had been working out since Monday and many of them have shown much promise.

Those who have been kept are:

Pitchers—Weisgraber, Greene, Richards, Lavarge, Caron, Hamil, Lyons, Brown, Alex, Walker and Karkutt; catchers—Fontaine, Crowell, Pepin, Goldblatt, Ward, Stephano, McGuinness.

The first three in both positions have been named by many as the most likely to land the final jobs but the work of many of the others has surprised those who have been watching the boys practice. The team is short on left-handers but of the few that have been out, Alex, a slight-built boy from Baltic, has looked fairly good. Two brothers of former Academy stars, Boots Greene, kinsman of Johnny and Cliff Hamil, Eddie's relation, are listed among the pitchers.

Thursday's practice, aided by the mild weather, was a little longer than those held previously. A few of the veteran infielders and outfielders from last year, including Capt. Chubby Gibbs and Alex Arico, worked out Thursday.

Coach Brigham announced that practice will be held this afternoon and also on Saturday. Saturday's practice will be held around the noon hour.

THREE COLLEGES FORM TRIANGULAR BASEBALL LEAGUE

HAMILTON, N. Y., March 13—(AP)—Syracuse, Colgate and Penn State have formed a triangular baseball association, it was said here today. The three schools will begin play under the agreement this year, each member meeting the others twice each.

These institutions have a similar basketball agreement.

YESTERDAY IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

Dodgers Blank House of David

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 13—(AP)—With overcast skies threatening to include the Brooklyn-House of David game in the general washout of exhibition contests, the Dodgers defeated the Benton Harbor, Mich., nine, 9 to 0, today.

Krider, Blethen and Greenfield held the House of David batters to seven scattered hits while 12 safeties rained off the clubs of the Robins. The House of David started Janeski on the mound, but ran short of hurlers so borrowed Lefty Faulkner and Roy from the Dodgers.

Score by innings:

H. of David	000 000 000—0	7	4
Dodgers	000 252 00x—9	12	1

Janeski, Faulkner, Roy and Smith; Krider, Blethen, Greenfield and Picinich.

Red Sox

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Johnny Heving, the Red Sox' holdout catcher, today agreed with the terms of President Bob Quinn during a telephone conference and promised to report here to Manager Heinie Wagner tomorrow. Heving was recently given the alternative of signing his contract or quitting baseball.

The Red Sox were scheduled to play their first exhibition game against the Pensacola team but that club has not reported here as yet. To fill in this gap in the spring schedule Manager Wagner pitted his regulars against the rookies.

Phillies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Manager Burt Shotton today announced his satisfaction with the practices by the Phillies in the training camp here.

"I believe that players in camp are as far advanced as they should be," he said. "There is such a thing as being too fine so early in the work. We could play a practice game, but I am opposed to it. We will continue as we have been doing with batting and field practices twice daily."

Browns

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Reports were current in the Brown's training camp here today that a deal with the Buffalo club of the International league was pending which would give the St. Louis team a reserve infielder. The reports had it that Howard Freigau, formerly with the Cardinals and Chicago Cubs was the player the Browns were angling for.

The Browns and the Buffalo team will meet at Fort Lauderdale tomorrow in an exhibition game.

There was no development in the holdout situation today. Heinie Manush, Red Kress and George Blaeholder still are unsigned.

Reds

ORLANDO, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Clyde Sukeforth, the Cincinnati Reds' first string catcher, may bat in third place this season, it was announced today by Manager Dan Howley. If the move is made it will be because the young catcher has speed and hitting ability. He batted .354 last year.

Howley put his squad through an intensive workout today preparing the players for their first scrub game tomorrow. The lineups were uncertain.

Another scrub contest will be played Saturday. The first exhibition game is scheduled for Sunday with the Detroit Tigers.

White Sox

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 13.—(AP)—Competition for infield jobs on the first Chicago White Sox lineup has dwindled to a battle between Irv Jeffries, hard-hitting recruit, and Bill Hunnefield, for the shortstop berth. Bill Kamm worked at third today, with Clancy at first, Cissell at second. Hunnefield, Jeffries, Kerr and Kernie Smith dividing time at short. Smead Jolley again was officially reported to be on his way from San Francisco to join the squad.

Tigers

TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Unable to meet the St. Louis Cardinals today on account of rain, the Detroit Tigers will carry the pitchers and lineup slated for today over until tomorrow when they contest with the Philadelphia Nationals in the third exhibition game of the season.

The Phillies will bring a batch of heavy hitters here, and Manager Stanley Harris looks to them to make a severe test of Wyatt, Hogsett and Herring, recruit hurlers.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 13.—Fred Brickel hit for the circuit today in the fifth inning, scoring Hemsley in front of him and the Pittsburgh Pirates regulars beat out the Yannigans 5 to 4. The Yans, however, outwalloped the regulars 10 to 7.

Dick Bartell, erstwhile infielder holdout, broke into the Yannigan lineup at short and hit a triple and a single. He signed up yesterday.

Yankees

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The rain which swept the Florida front today washed out the hopes of the New York Yankees for getting in a good practice session to make up for the delays chilly weather has caused in their training program. With no chance to practice, interest centered on the big social event of the Grapefruit league season, a dinner tonight at which several members of the Philadelphia Athletics, whom the Yankees hope to make ex-champions this season, were the guests of honor.

Cubs

AVALON, Calif., March 13.—(AP)—Still somewhat agitated after losing two out of three games to the Los Angeles, Pacific Coast league club, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs today had his ensemble on a two-a-day schedule.

McCarthy believed the pitchers might be a little the worse for work, so the drills were fielding affairs.

Cards

BRADENTON, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cards got a day of rest today. Their exhibition game scheduled with the Detroit Tigers was called off because of rain, and Manager Street decided to let the players have the day to themselves.

Sunday, the team will go to Winter Haven to engage the Phillies.

Indians

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 13.—(AP)—Despite the fact that Charlie Jamieson is displaying more exuberance than the rest of the outfielders at the Cleveland Indian training camp, the dope today was that he will be kept in reserve when the baseball season starts.

Jamieson is the oldest of the Indians, both in years and experience. He is 37 with fifteen years of major league service, yet no one of the younger men can field as handily as the old timer.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the Indian manager, believes, however, that Jamieson cannot weather the test of the daily grind during a major league season. Dick Porter, whose sensational hitting helped put the tribe in third place last year, is expected to take Jamieson's place as a regular.

Senators

BILOXI, Miss., March 13.—(AP)—The Washington Nationals were primed tonight for their first training season game with the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern association.

The Capital City ball club will enter the first of nineteen exhibition games leading up to the American league opening with practically the same lineup they presented last season. Goose Goslin and his big bat will not be there. Red Barnes will be in the left field berth. Jimmie McLeod, who has been playing in the short field position, will replace Joe Cronin.

The salary situation between President Griffith and Goslin is at an impasse. Neither has made a move for several days. Griffith has said that if Goslin signs up and reports in good playing condition by the time the American league race opens he will not be penalized.

ELEANOR HOLM CLIPS 6 2-5 SECOND FROM OWN RECORD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 13—(AP)—Eleanor Holm, Women's Swimming association of New York, clipped 6 2-5 seconds from her own record for the 300-yard medley individual swim here today in the National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championship.

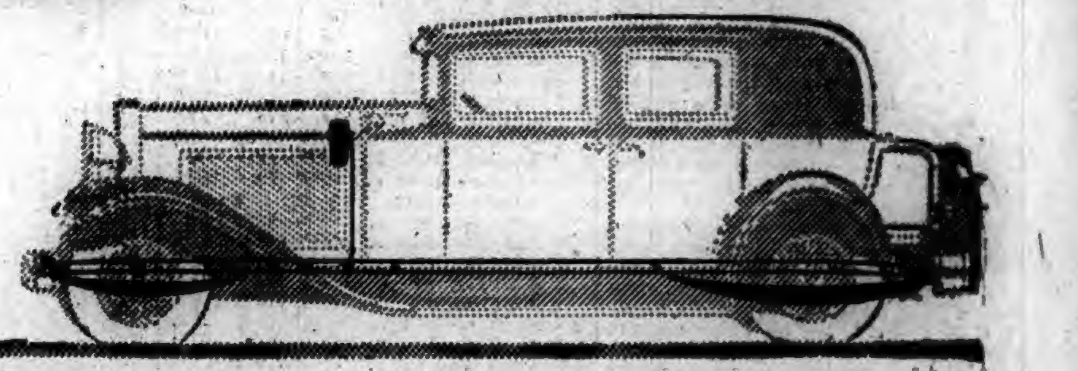
THE OIL CUSHIONED CHASSIS



CHASSIS PROTECTION, CHASSIS PERFORMANCE, that Nash alone Provides

NASH engineering has built an amazing amount of extra value and extra satisfaction into the 1930 Nash "400's." You will not find the oil cushioned chassis in any other car at the Nash price. ¶ Eventually, perhaps, but not now. And Nash offers you this superior chassis protection in both the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six. ¶ All Nash models, even the lowest priced, are equipped with an efficient, modern system of centralized chassis lubrication which eliminates the bother and uncertainty of hand greasing. ¶ In addition the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six have permanently lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers. This means chassis bearings, including spring shackle bolts and springs, constantly bathed in oil. No squeaks, creaks or rust—longer life! ¶ And you will find the "400" price no higher than that of other cars without this valuable safeguard.

SPECULATORS FOR RISE REGAINED CONTROL OF STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—Aided by sudden return to speculative favor of the petroleum shares, and short coverings in anticipation of the lower rediscount rate announced after the close, speculators for the rise regained control of the price movement in today's stock market. Trading quieted down considerably, but was comparatively active, 3,324,580 shares changing hands.

The market was subjected to further selling pressure for a three hour period during the morning, but eager bidding for the oil shares finally turned the tide. Some irregularity persisted at the close, but the majority of shares closed higher, regaining, on the average, about half of yesterday's losses. The movement in the oil group, which reached impressive proportions yesterday, continued to gain momentum today. Gains were largely moderate, but nearly a score of issues were pushed to new 1930 high levels. The advance was aided by announcement of judicial sanction for the California production curtailment plan, and further firming up of gasoline prices.

The reduction in the federal reserve rediscount rate to 3 1-2 per cent, with one exception the lowest level since formation of the reserve system, had been widely forecast, and while viewed with great favor by stock market operators for the rise, was regarded as lacking an adequate element of surprise to be an important bullishness development. The last two cuts in the rediscount rate have caused only feeble bullish demonstrations. Nevertheless, this development was sufficiently favorable to cause the shorts to cover in expectation of it.

There has been considerable clamoring for a lower rediscount rate, in the hope that it would provide a needed stimulant to business as it largely failed to gain in momentum during the past few weeks, although March is the month when the spring acceleration is expected. Not all bankers and economists agree that the lower rate will prove effective, however. Governor Norris of the Philadelphia Reserve bank stated only recently that lower rediscount rates were regarded by a considerable portion of the reserve officials as scarcely the proper remedy for present conditions. On the other hand, the charges for credit accommodations to business have not shown declines proportionate to the cheapening of credit for the stock market, and it is hoped that the lower rediscount rate may hasten the cheapening of commercial loans.

The weekly federal reserve brokerage loan figures showed a rather startling gain, even in view of the large amount of refinancing which had to be paid for. Loans jumped $137,000,000, the largest gain since last September, when the so-called Hoover-Coolidge bull market was singing its swan song. Despite this increase, loans remained comparatively low, but many observers regard it as an indication that pools have been distributing stock to the public on a fairly large scale during the past ten days, with consequent weakening of the technical position of the market. This gain was entirely provided by the banks, which in addition made up a reduction of $51,000,000 in loans provided from non-bank sources.

In the oil shares, Standards of California and New York rose about 3 and 1 1-2 points to new 1930 peaks, while New Jersey equalled its maximum for the year at 66 7-8 with a gain of nearly 3 points. Most of the leading independents reached new high ground with gains of a point or two. U. S. Industrial Alcohol rallied more than 4 points in short covering on announcement that the alcohol price structure had been stabilized, but lost half its gain later. Pressure was removed from Simmons and American and Foreign Power, the latter closing up a couple of points.

Shares rising 2 to 5 points included Air Reduction, American Can, Eastman Kodak, Electric Auto-Lite, National Power and Light, Vanadium and Warren Bros. U. S. Steel closed up 1 1-2 points. The steels involved in merger negotiations and controversies generally sagged. Gulf States advanced moderately, but Bethlehem, Youngstown and Republic closed 1 to 3 points off. Standard Brands was a soft spot, reflecting its 1929 earnings report, showing the $1.50 dividend not fully earned. Profits are reported running at higher levels this year. The shares touched 24 3-8, off 5-8. Coppers were generally heavy, and rails were inclined to ease, in expectation of unfavorable February earnings reports due within the next few days. Sloss Sheffield Steel dropped eight points.

The commodity markets were again inclined toward lower levels. March and May wheat lost about a cent, while July closed up 3-4. Corn lost 1 to 1 1-2 cents. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

Foreign exchanges mounted sharply in expectation of the lower rediscount rate, and influenced by reduction in the bankers acceptance and time money rates. Call money held at 4 per cent renewals with the midday drop to 3 1-2, but was in plentiful supply. Sterling cables rallied 1-8 cent to $4.85 5-16, and the discount on the Canadian dollar was reduced to less than 1-4 cent.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—Oils furnished the leadership for an irregular advance in prices in today's curb market. The sudden turn for the better in the petroleum industry, reflected in a sharp falling off in production, stiffening price tendencies and the upholding of the legality of the California conservation law, provided the background for the rise in these issues.

Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania ran up nearly 6 points to a new 1930 high at 147 7-8, closing at the top. The stock sold as high as 209 last year. Cosden Oil was marked up 5 points. General Petroleum, Humble, Leonard, Lion and Standard Oil of Ohio advanced 1 to 3 1-2 points, all selling at the year's highest prices. Standard Oil of Indiana and Vacuum advanced about 2 points each. Cumberland Pipe Line fell 4 3-4 to a new low at 41 1-4. Oilstocks "A", OilstocksETAOIN SHRDLU %&A"— and Union Oil Associates, investment trusts, also reached new high ground.

Public utilities, which have been under selling pressure in the last few days, also showed signs of strength. American Gas & Electric jumped 3 1-2 points and American & Foreign Power warrants, Electric Bond & Share and Rockland Light & Power. Nevada California Electric jumped nearly 5 points to a new high. Associated Gas & Electric "A" and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were heavy.

New 1930 peak prices in the industrial group were established by Axton Fisher, Babcock & Wilcox, Columbia Pictures, Ford of Canada "A", Ford of France, National Rubber Machinery, and a few ordinarily inactive issues. Glen Alden Coal, Supermaid corporation and Universal Insurance sold at new lows.

Technicolor turned heavy on selling believed to have been inspired by the announcement that Warner Bros. Pictures had acquired an interest in Harris-Color Film. Investment Trust and Trading corporation issues moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. General Baking preferred lost ground in the reduction in the dividend.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—The strengthening bond market moved upward at a vigorous pace today, bringing the average for thirty issues to a new 1930 high, or within one-fifth of a point of the 1929 peak, attained in January of last year.

Demand for the rails was particularly aggressive and once again two score bonds in that group made record levels for 1930 or considerably longer. The market's total turnover of slightly more than $16,000,000 was the year's largest.

Money was particularly easy. Another cut of an eighth per cent in bankers acceptances was accompanied by a drop in time loan charges, the 30, 60 and 90 day maturities being quoted at 4 1-4 per cent and the longer dates at 4 1-4 flat. A year ago 7 1-2 to 7 3-4 per cent rates prevailed.

The accumulation of funds here for the March 15 income tax payments resulted in an abundance of call funds, which once more dropped to 3 1-2 per cent. Money was available in the outside market at 3 per cent.

The rediscount cut by the New York Federal Reserve bank was generally anticipated and bond buyers went ahead confidently. The demand for the high grade investment issues found the floating supplies rather reduced, with the result that many of the gains were sharp. A score of rails rose a point or more.

All the listed United States governments touched at new highs. The Treasury 3 3-8s advanced 11-16, but the improvement in the other obligations was smaller, averaging about 1-4 point.

One of the strongest rails was the Santa Fe General 4, up 1 1-4 points on sales of about $160,000, principal amount, the largest turnover in some time. Other active issues included Central Pacific 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio "B" 4 1-2s, Erie 5s, Denver & Rio Grande 4s, Missouri Pacific General 4s, Missouri Kansas Texas adjustment 5s and First 4s, New York Central debenture 4s and General 3 1-2s, New Haven 4 1-2s, several of the Pennsylvania bonds, St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1-2s, Kansas City Southern First 3s, Southern Railway General 4s and Wabash 5s. Most of these rose at least a point.

Industrials, especially steel company bonds, pulled up another notch or two. The former issues included Chile Copper 5s, International Match 5s, Lorillard 5s, Republic Iron & Steel 5 1-2s, Youngstown Sheet 5s, and Wheeling Steel 5 1-2s and 4 1-2s.

Investment demand for utilities brought out several 1930 record prices. The American Telephone debenture 5s, of 1965 scored a new top at 103 3-8. Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4 1-2s, and Utah Power 5s were others to reach maximums for the year.

German bonds led the foreign list, many state, municipal and corporation issues in that subdivision showing buoyancy. The Agricultural Bank listings rose 1-2 to 1 3-8, while the Republic 7s touched 107 7-8, the best price of the year. Numerous South Americans were active and sharply higher.

The prompt oversubscription on the $60,000,000 issue of Pennsylvania railroad 40-year debenture 4 1-2s reflected the current taste for high grade securities and the new bonds, offered at 94 1-2, sold up to 94 3-4 on the curb market.

Wisconsin Has Most Cows.

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— Wisconsin had 2,033,000 head of dairy cattle more than two years old on January 1. This is a record in the history of the state. It is a half million more dairy cows than any other state has.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP)—Treasury receipts March 11 were $8,080,133.00; expenditures $4,794,831.77; balance $9,630,911.40.

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank's weekly report of gold movement at this port showed imports of $1,091,000, consisting of $1,007,000 from Colombia and $84,000 from other Latin American countries, exports of $60,000 to Java, and a net decrease of $13,000,000 in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account. This report covers the period from March 6, to 12, inclusive. The report for today showed imports of $3,350,000 from Brazil.

A stranger made its appearance on the New York Stock exchange ticker today when two odd lot sales of Texas and Pacific Land Trust stock were printed for the first time since 1927. One sale was for 10 shares at $2,500 a share, and the other for 10 shares at $2,600 a share. This stock is very inactive and trading now is concentrated in sub-share certificates, 100 of which were issued for each of the shares, which, in effect, amounted to a 100-for-1 splitup. The stock is the highest priced issue listed on the exchange.

General Motors common and preferred stockholders for the first quarter of 1930 totaled 240,482, compared with 198,600 for the fourth quarter of 1929. There were 218,392 holders of common stock and 22,091 preferred stockholders.

It was announced today that in connection with the formation of the new Republic Steel Corp., application will be made to the New York Stock exchange to withdraw from listing the preferred and common stocks of the old Republic Iron & Steel Co. and Central Alloy Steel Co., which companies have become units of the new organization.

Among the enlisted men of the navy there are 178 who have served more than twenty years and 12 of these have more than 28 years to their credit. Most of these men will retire when they have served thirty years so that they may receive the maximum pension, which is $142 a month for life.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 13—(AP)—Wheat trading became of a more two-sided character today, the market shifting to a notable degree from recent out-and-out bias downward. Reports were at hand pointing to considerable impairment of crop prospects from domestic wheat both in the soft wheat belt and in hard wheat territory as well. Meanwhile, however, persistent letting-go of May wheat holdings was in progress, especially on the part of easterners who were acquiring ownership of wheat yet to be harvested.

Final quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from 1 3-8c decline to 3-4c advance, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 7-8-1 5-8c down, oats unchanged to 1-8c higher and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12 cents.

Rallies in Chicago wheat values today were partly due to reports that the worst of indiscriminate selling pressure at Liverpool was over. Besides, the market here was responsive to complaints of high winds and of drought in sections of Kansas and Oklahoma, and these complaints were supplemented by increasing advices of winter-killing in soft wheat districts, southern and central Illinois in particular. On the other hand, export business in North American wheat today continued to be almost zero, notwithstanding assertions by some authorities that Europe's needs amount to 9,000,000 bushels a week.

More or less rainfall today at some points in Kansas had an evident bearish effect on the market during the last part of the day, and so too did forecasts of rising temperatures and of news that the Canadian cold wave was passing eastward instead of south. Wheat price downturns were also ascribed partly to the influence of weakness of corn values, May and July today closing below any level heretofore touched this season. However, buying support in the wheat market was forthcoming at critical junctures, farm board allies being credited with purchasing May wheat aggressively when most effective, a special instance being just before trading ended for the day.

Corn market weakness was associated with storage difficulties here and with the fact that emergency rules permit railroad track deliveries. Oats traders took their cue from the course of other cereals.

Provisions were governed chiefly by hog market declines.

Closing indemnities: Wheat May 104 1-4, 111; July 101 1-2-5-8, 105 7-8-106; Sept. 103 5-8-3-4, 107 1-4-1-2. Corn May 76 1-4-3-8, 79 3-8-1-2; July 78 1-4, 81 3-8-1-2; Sept. 78 1-2, 81 5-8.

Game fish numbering 4,250,000 will be released in North Carolina streams this year.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Goodyear Cotton Mills, Goodyear

In 1827 Caleb Williams of Providence, one of the pioneers of the cotton industry, elected to build a cotton mill on the banks of the Quinnebaug river where the turbulent waters of the stream could be harnessed to operate his machinery. Thus in the early days of the last century, was established the beginning of a mill and village known today as Goodyear and situated on the northwest border of the town of Killingly.

The structure, erected by this pioneer, was a handsome stone building constructed of stone taken from a nearby ledge and was three stories high, 144 feet long and 44 feet wide.

Caleb Williams did a thriving business from the start and kept many a horse and ox team traveling between Williamsville (as the village was then known) and Providence, the nearest seaport, hauling raw materials and finished goods to and from the mill.

About the year 1849, a group of Providence men purchased the mill and adjoining property and formed a corporation known as the Williamsville Manufacturing company. This company eventually developed the famous "Williamsville sheetings" and for years the trademark "AI" was sufficient guarantee as to the quality of the product and for the sale of the merchandise.

The business grew to such an extent that a new four story mill, 165 feet long and 49 feet wide, was erected in 1860. Again in 1876 another addition of the same dimensions was built to take care of the ever increasing demand for AI sheetings.

The management of the mill seemed to be passed on from father to son until it was eventually sold to the Killingly Mfg. company in 1911. This company installed new machinery and after a rather unsuccessful attempt at the manufacture of fine goods disposed of the entire property to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company of Akron, Ohio.

Acquisition of this property marked the first time that an American rubber company had expanded to include manufacture of cotton fabrics.

The lead taken by Goodyear in this respect established a precedent in the rubber industry and was soon recognized generally as an economic measure of great importance in addition to furnishing an excellent opportunity for tire development and improvement.

It was in this mill that Goodyear inaugurated its research work in connection with improved fabrics and resulted in the development and perfection of supertwist.

Goodyear fathered a model workingman's residential section on Goodyear Heights to add comfort and convenience for its employees. Present officers of the company are: P. W. Litchfield, president; C. Slusser, vice president; W. D. Shilts, secretary; P. E. H. Leroy, treasurer; H. B. Puckett, assistant treasurer and assistant secretary; C. W. Young, agent and superintendent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MOTOR SHOW OPENS AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Under the auspices of the local National Guard units, Battery B and the Headquarters Battery and Combat train, a combination automobile and motor show will open at the state armory tonight. Last year's successful auto show lacked the variation in attraction and display that this year's offers. The latest designs in motor cars will be attractively displayed by the local dealers from sport models to larger sedans. The A. C. Swan Co., will have on display the new sixteen cylinder Cadillac which will have a prominent place in the Armory. E. B. Patterson are displaying a stock Packard in conjunction with the custom built salon which they are conducting at their show rooms.

W. R. Frisbie has procured a twenty-one foot Dodge Water car which he will display in addition to the Reo car with which he has been identified for fifteen years. Julian L. Williams is also featuring the aquatics with the Johnson Sea Horse. The West Side Garage is showing two new Durants which were unloaded Thursday afternoon, a snappy sport roadster and an up-to-the-minute sedan.

The United Music company will have the latest and best in radio and Carl W. Brown will show Delco products. Carl E. Berkoff will show modern household appliances. O. C. Wolfe will be at the post with the Model A Universal and William C. Noyes will have several new model Chryslers to enter.

Olson's garage will display some snappy Auburns and Austin Chevrolet will have the newest and best Chevrolet. Bernard and Gilman and The Williams Tire and Supply Co. will display tires and accessories and A. E. Shedd will have some new model tractors for farm and general use. The Red Arrow club will have a display which promises something interesting.

Music during the show will be supplied by the 192d Field Artillery band which made a hit at last year's show. Led by Bandmaster Perry they will bring a 30 piece band which is recruited from New London and Norwich and is part of the regiment, to both days of the show and the concert numbers which they will play are alone worth the admission price. The hall has been attractively decorated by the company under direction of Louis O. Hawkins.

Under the direction of Capt. Lee, the ex-official chairman, the following committee has arranged the show: Lt. Harry W. House, Lt. Andrew M. White, Sgt. George J. Malcolm, Sgt. Kurt W. Seifert, Sgt. Edward L. Bonin, Raymond W. Coderre, Joseph Mazzerelli, W. A. Tringe, L. A. Tringe, Anthony Graley, Daniel J. Cellucci, Sgt. Malcolm is floor manager and Sgt. Seifert chairman of arrangements.

Broadway Theatre

Good things have their limits, and so at the Broadway, a most excellent double feature, all-talking program will close with the final screenings tonight of Nancy Carroll's newest thrill drama, "Dangerous Paradise," and "Wise Girls," the film version of the rib-tickling stage play, "Kempy." Starting tomorrow, the twin magicians of the Broadway—the magic screen and the perfect Western Electric sound system—will delight Norwich theatergoers with their first opportunity of hearing romantic Ramon Novarro in an all-talking picture. His first vocal appearance when he sang "The Pagan Love Song," is still remembered and this, his latest production, "Devil May Care," will make film history, for his talking voice is heard for the first time. "Devil May Care," tells the exciting story of one of Napoleon's lieutenants, who when the famous "Little Corporal" is sent to Elba, "the island prison," by the European allies, is arrested and sentenced to death. Through a daring ruse he escapes, to bend all his energies toward restoring his adored Napoleon to the throne of France. In his activity he becomes enamoured of a dainty Royalist maiden who ruthlessly betrays him. Action is fast and furious, with Novarro displaying his excellent swordplay and horsemanship in many sequences. There are a number of haunting songs and a stirring military chorus by "the Old Guard." Among the many highlights is a beautiful scene in natural colors of the historical garden of Versailles with their gorgeous fountains, backgrounding a marvelous ballet by the Rasch dancers. Napoleon's famous farewell to his guard just before the exile to Elba is another soul-stirring scene, William Humphrey, famous the world over for his character work, is Napoleon to the life, repeating his stage success in the role of "the Little Corporal." Dorothy Jordan is a ravishingly sweet Royalist lady, and John Miljan, sinister as always, is the treacherous de Grignon. Lovers of music, beauty, color and thrills in plenty will find their every wish fulfilled in "Devil May Care," which combines all these and many other qualities in a most exciting and dramatic story. The surrounding program, specially booked includes, besides the latest Paramount sound news, Harry Langdon in "Hotter Than Hot," a title which speaks for itself, and Mickey Mouse, that favorite of young and old in "When the Cat's Away."

Oldsmobile-Viking.

A part of the nation-wide prosperity movement to inaugurate an early spring buying season a sensational sale of used automobiles was opened Saturday, March 8, by The Eastern Conn. Motor Sales Co., Inc., at 321 Main street, local Oldsmobile-Viking dealers. The sale will continue for a week longer.

This sale, held primarily to assist in leveling the peaks of seasonal buying which recently were subjected to governmental criticism, offers exceptional opportunities for the motoring public to obtain unusually fine automobiles at low cost, according to Mr. Rosoff of The Eastern Conn. Motor Sales Co., Inc.

"There are several reasons why this sale should be of particular interest to those who desire good automobiles at unusually low prices," said Mr. Rosoff. "In the first place there is a wide selection which may not be available later when the rush of spring buying opens. This wide selection has been made possible by the fine business done by Oldsmobile-Viking dealers in this locality since the first of the year, which has resulted in a good stock of quality used cars being assembled.

"In addition to this wide selection, these cars have been carefully reconditioned during the past few months which, normally, constitute the quietest season for our service department. By taking advantage of this available time the cars have been given unusual attention by our service mechanics.

"Price, of course, is another important factor. Due to the deserved popularity of Oldsmobile and Viking, we have not been required to make undue allowances for cars received in trade with the result that they have been priced in accordance with the true value they represent."—See adv.

FULL 10-INCH, 75¢ SIZE RECORD ON SALE WHEREVER NEWSPAPERS ARE SOLD, AND AT BETTER MUSIC STORES . . 15¢

Even EDDIE CANTOR can't tell this 15¢ RECORD from 75¢ phonograph music

By EDDIE CANTOR, HIGHEST PAID MUSICAL COMEDY STAR IN THE WORLD

I THOUGHT Flo Ziegfeld was handing me a great big Ha-Ha.

He came back all steamed up after hearing this new record.

For 15¢ . . . a full-size record . : . Vincent Lopez Orchestra . . . big musical hits!

I had to laugh. I hadn't had a good laugh since before I was caught short in the market. For 15¢? For 15¢ you couldn't buy even a piccolo solo!

But then I heard the record played, right alongside a 75¢ one.

That's when I became interested in the business!

I listened to six of these Hit-of-the-Week Records, and if there's any difference between them and the kind I plunk down 75¢ for, I must be wearing ear muffs.

These records are one-sided. You can buy the music you really want without plunking down good dough for a dud on the reverse side.

And they don't break! I took one home. I sat on it. I hit it with a hammer. We used it as a cocktail tray. Even my pre-war (that is, "pre" the next war) stuff couldn't scar it. And then the cook fried an egg on it. It played just the same. There's not a break in a boxful!

They're made of Durium, folks, and that's the whole secret. Durium was invented by Dr. H. T. Beans, professor of chemistry at Columbia University. He told me the technical name and it made me dizzy, but, anyhow, the stuff looks something like brown patent leather.

With the old type of record, a man and a machine can turn out 700 a day. With Durium, a man and a machine can turn out 70,000.

Now your money can buy music instead of expensive material! That's why Hit-of-the-Week Records can sell for 15¢!

But that's not all. There are more reasons why this is the biggest thing that ever hit the phonograph business.

Only one record will be made each week, and that will be a hit that has proved itself on the stage, and over the radio, and on the dance floor.

Flo Ziegfeld, Vincent Lopez and I will act as a music jury to pick out the most popular piece of music every week.

Then it will be recorded by one of the best orchestras that money can hire.

Every record a hit! No flops admitted here!

That's why you can buy Hit-of-the-Week Records without bothering to hear them beforehand. You just know that each one's a wow.

So step up, folks, and give a poor margin-called actor a break, and give yourself a treat.

You can buy these records AT ANY NEWSSTAND as easily as buying a magazine. Get yours today.

GREENEVILLE

BOSTON ATTORNEY TO BE MEN'S CLUB SPEAKER

The Men's club of St. Andrew's church will have for their speaker Monday evening, Attorney Clarence A. Barnes, a distinguished member of the Massachusetts bar, who will address the members and their friends on the "Evils of the 18th Amendment." Mr. Barnes is a member of the law firm of White & Barnes of Boston, Mass., and has also served in the Massachusetts house of representatives. The speaker has been secured by J. W. McKinley, president-emeritus of the club, and Mr. McKinley will also address the meeting on the "History and Past Facts of Greeneville." To make the evening a success the committee has arranged a Roxy program and they are expecting a full house for their last meeting of the season.

The Ladies' guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon in the guildroom of the church with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted with the president, Mrs. Charles Erwin, presiding. Following the business session, a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the entertainment committee. Mrs. Howard Adams was hostess of the meeting.

Mrs. Geer of Thamesville was the guest of Mrs. William H. Taft of Boswell avenue, Wednesday.

Entertained Play Cast

The cast of Seven Chances, the St. Mary's Players production which is to be presented at the Palace theatre, was entertained with a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy on Prospect street, Wednesday evening following the rehearsal. Mrs. Murphy was hostess and served a delicious luncheon.

For the past two weeks ten teams of two men each have been competing to decide the pinochle championship of Greeneville. The games are played evenings at Nevins' store on North Main street. The standing to date follows: Christie and Rydholm, 7,970; Sullivan and Charles Shegoda, 7,900; Edward Nevins and Maxie, 7,580; Erie and McHugh, 7,270; Buckley and Ulrich, 7,040; Gromko and Barwell, 7,010; James Quinn, Jr., and Chester, 6,730; Benny Turpin and Voyck, 6,110; Robert Tennant and James Quinn, Sr., 6,050; Peter Rowkowski and Frank Monahon, 4,970.

Mrs. Edward Riordan and daughter, Josephine Riordan, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. John B. LeClaire of Jewett City.

Among the local people that took part in the Radioletta recently held at Taftville were: Howard Spaulding, Mrs. J. C. Atterbury, Mrs. Earl Christman, Mrs. George Turner, Tyler Gilbert, Miss Charlotte Fowler, Miss Helena F. Crandall, Fred Powers, Neil Finlayson, Miss Natalie P. Service, Miss Margaret C. West, Jabez F. West, Jr., Lloyd Thompson, William Fleming, Jabez F. West, Earle D. Kramer, Mrs. Raymond Britten, Miss Maude Smiley, Miss Josephine Gibson, Russell Wilson, Mrs. W. H. Stebbins and Mrs. Leonard C. Prentice.

NORWICH TOWN

The constitution of the League of Service of the First Congregational church, organized Dec. 14, 1927, and revised Feb. 20, 1930, reads as follows: The name of this organization shall be the League of Service; the object of the league shall be to enlist the whole church and parish for active religious and philanthropic service, and to raise the project money for which the church is responsible; the duty of the league shall be to have oversight of all its departments, call such union meetings as it deems best and present an annual report to the church; the officers shall be president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and a chairman of each of the associated departments and any other officers that may be deemed advisable. These officers shall be appointed annually by the church, shall perform the usual duties of their respective offices and, together with the pastor of the church, ex-officio, shall constitute the executive committee of the league. These officers shall be nominated by a committee appointed by the pastor, and an unexpired term shall be filled by the executive committee. The departments of the league shall be: Men's, women's, young people's, children's, cradle roll, home, literature, and every-member canvass department. These departments may be changed in name or order at the suggestion of the executive committee with the approval of the church; each department shall be independent in the selection of its committees, aside from the chairman, and in planning its activities, being willing, however, to accept the final authority of the league of the church. Each department shall render an annual report to the league; the league shall hold its annual meeting in connection with the annual church meeting and other meetings at the call of the executive committee. A special meeting of this committee shall be held the first week in December of each year to make such recommendations as may seem best to present to the annual meeting of the league. The meetings of each department shall be held at the discretion of the chairman of that department; at all meetings of the league or of the departments for adults, the voting power shall be vested in all adult members of the church and parish present and wishing to vote. The control of the children's and cradle roll departments shall be left to the discretion of their chairmen. The last clause reads: This constitution may be amended by a majority vote of those present at a meeting duly called for the purpose, a ten-day notice having been previously given.

To Hear Of California Trip

When the John Mason Community club holds its meeting Monday evening next in the vestry of the Norwich Town M. E. church, the speaker is to be William Kendall who will lecture on his recent trip to California. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon slides made from pictures taken by Mr. Kendall. Music will be furnished by Lewis Mell, a talented young pianist.

Sunday evening next at 7:30, at the M. E. church, the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter will deliver the monthly stereopticon lecture. "Gospel for a Working World" is the subject. It is based upon the book of the same title by Professor Henry F. Ward. It closes with the words, "It is the task of the church with tact, firmness and love, to declare the full social Gospel of the Carpenter of Galilee." Ralph Smith, who operates the stereopticon machine, will show 70 hand colored slides. The lecture is public. The Junior Vested choir will furnish special music, under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich.

The Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with the Methodist church held their meeting Monday afternoon, in charge of Cub Master Rev. George Warren Potter. The pack was inspected by Sixer Clarence Smith. There was an attendance of 23. Following the meeting the Cubs marched to Huntington Green where they had their Inter-Den contest which consisted of drilling and marching. The contest was won by the den in charge of Woodruff Sullivan, by one point. The meeting closed with the playing of Taps by Bugler Ellis Bentley.

The Boy Scout Father and Son supper is to be served at the Grange hall.

TAFTVILLE

The members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America, held their semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening.

A successful whist, bridge and pinochle party was held Wednesday evening by Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, at Ponemah hall.

Mrs. Alfred Linderson entertained at bridge Wednesday afternoon at her home on North Third avenue.

Mrs. Richard Thoma and John Thoma, of Blissville, were in Mystic on Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. John G. Thoma.

GAVE ADDRESS ON WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE

The March meeting of the Parent-Teachers association of Poquetanock was held Wednesday evening. After a short business meeting, Miss Sally F Gleaton, field secretary of the League of Women Voters, gave a most instructive address regarding the work of that organization. She urged the women as voters, to become better acquainted with their government, whether in town or city; that women attend the caucus to correct the prevailing practice of leaving nominations in the hands of a few. This would make them better acquainted with their new responsibilities and thus change harmful practices that had grown up under man regime. It is hoped at some later date to have Miss Gleaton aid in the formation of a league. Sandwiches and coffee were served.

Duwells Defeat Foresters

The Duwells, champions of the City Pinochle league, won from the Foresters pinochle team, Wednesday evening, by a score of 54,020 to 47,300 in the third and final contest of the post-season series. The Foresters failed to win a match in the tournament.

The prizes for the evening were taken by George Lynch, first, and Ellsworth Cramer, second, for the Duwells, and E. J. Mullins, first, and Louis Sauter, second, for the Foresters.

VERSAILLES PLANT TO PUMP WATER SUPPLY THROUGH HALF MILE PIPE LINE

Surveyors in the employ of the Bay company, formerly the Hygienic Fibre Co., of Versailles, are laying out a proposed eight-inch pipe line from the mill pond of the Occum Water Power Co., on its easterly side, to the plant of the Bay company in Versailles.

Beginning about 300 feet north of the waste gate of the Occum company, on a former ice house site, to a point in the mill yard of the Bay company, the line runs a distance of 3,000 feet, with the exception of a short cross-over on the property of Louis B. Brand, on the property of the Occum company.

A pump to be located on the former ice house foundation, on the bank of the Occum pond, will force the water into a tank of several thousand gallons capacity, to be built in the mill yard of the Bay company. The water will be drawn by gravity to the bleaching department of the company.

The Bay company, in common with its predecessor, has been handicapped in securing water of a quality necessary for its high grade work. Driven wells have furnished a portion of the needed water supply in the past.

Manufacturing plants located above on the stream have made the water unfit for the company's use.

LIONS CLUB ENDORSES NORWICH BROADCAST PLAN

The Norwich Lions club, at its weekly luncheon meeting Thursday noon, at the Wauregan hotel, endorsed the Norwich broadcast programme over radio station WTIC, Hartford, as proposed by the merchants bureau of the Norwich chamber of commerce. President Charles W. Cassidy presided at the meeting and Jean Keiffer acted as songleader.

Lieut. Andrew White of Battery B, 192nd Field Artillery, C. N. G., addressed the gathering on the experiences of the Connecticut rifle team at the national shoot conducted each year at Camp Perry, Ohio. In 1929 the Connecticut team, of which Lieut. White is a member, was placed 9th, and 18th in 1928.

At the meeting Willimantic Lions announced that their club is to conduct a concert soon for the benefit of the blind in the vicinity of that city. The local club voted to assist the Thread City club in making the concert a success.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS IDELLA SCOTT

Miss Idella Scott was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening by the Social Girls' club at her home, No. 321 Franklin street. Mrs. Francis Evans, president of the club, presented Miss Scott a sum of money on behalf of the club members. Misses Evans, Lacy, Wells and Byrd entertained, after which lunch was served. Miss Scott, who has been ill, was extended best wishes for a speedy recovery.

GEORGE GUILE HOME FROM HARTFORD HOSPITAL

George Guile, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Guile, of No. 6 Kinney avenue, returned to his home Thursday from the Hartford hospital where he was a patient for about a month. Mr. Guile, who underwent a serious operation at the hospital, has entirely recovered.

Managed Million Dollar Budget

Miss Charl O. Williams of Washington, D. C., chairman of the education committee of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who is sponsoring the education program for National Business Women's week, won her first fame in the educational field as a county superintendent of schools in Tennessee.

There she developed an administrative system which included a clerical and supervisory force of 18 men and women to carry out her plans for the progress of the schools. During her term of office the budget for the county schools was doubled, the total budget for the year 1922-1923 being approximately $1,000,000. Three-fourths of a million dollars was spent for the erection of new school buildings during her term of office. She likewise was influential in securing much important legislation affecting the school system of Tennessee.

Benefit Bridge Party

A very successful bridge party was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Slosberg, No. 121 West Thames street, Wednesday afternoon, for the benefit of the Bozrah section, National Council of Jewish Women. Each of the ten tables was provided with a prize. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. C. Slosberg, assisted by Mrs. E. Levitt, Mrs. E. Schatz and Mrs. Goldblatt. Prizes were won by the following: Mrs. W. Farrell, Mrs. S. Goldstein, Mrs. L. Pollock, Mrs. I. Goldberg, Mrs. Hourigan, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. S. Rosoff, Mrs. H. Libby, Mrs. A. Levine and Mrs. F. Hertz.

At Bridgeport Meeting.

Mrs. Thomas P. Sears of Taftville, state president of the "8 and 40" was in Bridgeport Thursday to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the organization at the home of Mrs. R. Smith, secretary.

FORMER SALEM MAN FOR STATE COMMISSIONER

John Young, formerly supervisor of rural schools in Salem, Colchester, Coventry, Hebron and other nearby communities, is mentioned among a number, as a possible successor to Dr. Albert B. Meredith, resigned state commissioner of education. Mr. Young, assistant superintendent of schools in Bridgeport, has, it is said, the support of U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, and Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers.

Mr. Young has emphatically said that he was not a candidate and that he would not take the initiative in any movement to obtain the position for him. He admitted that "school friends" had broached the subject to him and that he had a large following which might be interested in booming him for the post. Mr. Young made it clear that no member of the state board has come to him and that for the present, at least, he was not even considering entering the field as a candidate. Nevertheless, Mr. Young indicated that if an official call came to him, and influential support was needed, Senator Bingham, Mr. Rogers and those in control of the Bridgeport republican party most likely would back him.

Senator Bingham has already revealed his enthusiasm for Mr. Young as a school administrator as have the lieutenant-governor, Edward L. Kelley, executive secretary to Governor Trumbull and others.

Senator Bingham's friendship for Mr. Young dates back more than ten years when Mr. Young was a supervisor of rural schools as a member of the staff of the state board of education. He had charge of schools in Salem, Coventry, Colchester, Hebron and other communities in that district. As head of the Salem schools, he came in contact with Mr. Bingham whose residence is in that town. When Senator and Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. Alfred Mitchell built the Salem library, Mr. Young became the first librarian. Senator Bingham is president of the board of trustees of the library and Mr. Young is secretary-treasurer.

ARMY-NAVY MANEUVERS OFF NEW LONDON

Joint army and navy exercises will be held in the harbor defenses of Long Island sound (off New London), during the period May 26 to 28, 1930.

The attacking force Black will consist of a portion of the U. S. Navy Scouting fleet. The defense forces Blue will be the Coast Artillery garrison of the harbor defenses, manning both seacoast and anti-aircraft artillery, reinforced by squadrons of observation, bombardment and pursuit planes, and some auxiliary naval vessels for inshore patrol duty.

The exercises will consist of several phases of naval and air attack and defense. No decisions as to the outcome of the various phases are contemplated, the exercises being intended to stress particularly the co-operation of the different elements of the defense, i. e., seacoast guns, anti-aircraft guns, air force and auxiliary naval seacraft and aircraft.

The air forces involved will be the largest number of military planes that has been assembled in New England.

Colonel C. H. Hilton, C. A. C., commanding harbor defenses of Long Island sound, will command the Blue forces. The commander of the cruiser division, U. S. scouting fleet will command the Black forces.

Patients Discharged Thursday.

Patients discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital Thursday were Addie Wilcox, Baltic; Louis Holland, No. 158 New Village, Plainfield; Lawrence Barrett, No. 456 Main street; Helen Rudd, No. 19 Boswell avenue.

Completes Training Course.

Miss Agnes Lathrop, daughter of Mrs. James E. Lathrop, of Raymond Hill, finished her course of training this week at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London, and is to return there Saturday to take a position as supervisor of the Mitchell ward at the hospital.

STATE POLICE ARREST TWO MEN ON LIQUOR CHARGES

A squad of state police officers from the Groton and Danielson barracks swooped down on a tenement house located on "Rooster" hill in the town of Lisbon early Thursday evening and arrested John Gadue, 42, and Henry Therrien, 33, both of Versailles, as alleged proprietors of the two different speakeasies. They were charged with violation of the liquor laws.

A quantity of liquor and several cases of home-brew were seized by the officers, who, it is understood, had previously secured alleged sales against the two proprietors. Four cases of beer and a small amount of liquor were seized and taken to the local police station Thursday evening.

The two men were booked at local police headquarters. They will be tried beofre Justice Walter F. Drew in the Lisbon town court.

SUPERIOR COURT AWARDS DAMAGES OF $4,500 TO HARVARD STUDENT

In the superior court at New London Thursday morning, Harold P. Smith, of Stonington, Harvard student, was awarded damages of $4,500, by Judge Christopher L. Avery, against Ralph Harris, of Roxbury, Mass. By special arrangement, the case was disposed of when the court convened Thursday morning, taking precedent over jury cases on the docket assigned for Thursday.

Smith suffered serious injuries last August when he was struck by an automobile operated by Harris near Madison while acting in his capacity as state quarantine officer. He brought suit for $25,000 damages. It was brought out in the trial that Smith was unable to resume his studies at Harvard last fall as a result of his injuries and that he may not be able to return again next fall.

Following the award made in Smith's case, trial of the $10,000 damage suit brought by Anthony J. Silva against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad as a result of Silva's automobile being struck by a train on the Maple avenue crossing, New London, about a year ago was started before a jury.

Attorney G. Curtis Morgan and Samuel Gruskin, representing the plaintiff, put Silva and Capt. Thomas M. Gandy, both of New London, on the stand Thursday morning, to testify to the alleged dangerous condition prevailing at the crossing. Other witnesses called by the plaintiff include Drs. Thomas Murray, George P. Cheney and K. K. Kinney, Morris Rosenberg, Stanley Wiracomsky and William W. Mills.

Te jury selected is as follows: New London, Charles H. Kenney; Groton, John P. Ebbets, James E. Griswold, Arthur S. Boylen; Stonington, George P. Cella and Frank F. Furness and Edward H. Newbury; Montville, Dwight Kelsey and Burke G. Hewitt; Ledyard, Carroll S. Hurlbut; Waterford, Herbin O. Eccleston; East Lyme, Harry B. Morton.

SAYS DRY LAWS ARE EASY TO ENFORCE IN CONNECTICUT

Ralph H. White of New Haven, Research Worker For Fact Finding Committee On Law Enforcement, Testified That Drinking Had Lessened In High Schools and Colleges In Connecticut—Mission Workers Pictured Improved Conditions Among Those Who Before Prohibition Were Among the World's Outcasts.

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—Supporters of prohibition completed their second week of testimony against repeal of the 18th amendment today, presenting to the house judiciary committee a picture of improved conditions among those who before prohibition were the world's outcasts.

In simple language, men whose life work has been in the rescue missions of New York and Philadelphia asked that the dry laws be kept unchanged or that they be strengthened. They said great good had been brought by prohibition to those who live in the Bowery in New York and similar sections of the great cities.

An amazing change has been wrought in the opinion of John Callahan, who for 16 years was chaplain of Tombs prison in New York and is often referred to as the "bishop of the Bowery," because of his 35 years of work with the Hadley Rescue mission. He was seconded in this by John R. McIntyre, superintendent of the Whosoever Gospel mission, of Germantown, Pa., John W. Helmbold, of Camden, N. J., and Frank Dippel, of Philadelphia, mission workers.

The committee also heard Raymond Robins, Chicago social worker, who held that repeal had not a "Chinaman's chance" because the major political parties are dry and "dare not be otherwise."

Ralph H. White, of New Haven, Conn., concluded today's hearing by presenting the results of research done for the fact finding committee on law enforcement in Connecticut, with the conclusions that drinking had lessened in high schools and colleges and that prohibition laws were easy to enforce in his state.

At the outset of the hearing, Chairman Graham announced that the remarks of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., which resulted yesterday in the charge by Representative Celler, democrat, New York, that she was coaching women witnesses, would remain in the record.

The Massachusetts dry leader, Graham said, had examined the record containing her remarks to witnesses on the stand and she did not wish to change them. The Celler charge resulted in sudden adjournment of the committee yesterday after members accused him of insulting Mrs. Peabody.

An effort was made by Representative Dyer, republican, Missouri, today to introduce a telegram from Robert Dollar denying that his ships carried bars and liquor as charged yesterday by Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, but the chairman would not permit it read, holding that a witness had the floor at the time.

Robins brought to the committee an echo of the last presidential campaign with the statement that Alfred E. Smith, was defeated because he had become the "country's chief nullifier" by signing the repeal of the New York state prohibition act.

The committee members smiled as Callahan told of the "Tub of Blood," McGurk's "Suicide Hall" and similar places which once lined the Bowery and now have disappeared. They were moved when he added that hundreds of men he knew who ten years ago had lived "without God and without hope" today, thanks to prohibition, he said, had homes, families, automobiles and radios.

"I hope to God the dry law will stay on the books and be more consistently enforced," shouted Callahan, with arms uplifted as he exhorted the committee to disregard the pleas of wet witnesses for repeal.

"When I think of the reputation the Bowery had, I realize there has been a mighty change in the last ten years. Law and the gospel have been working together and they have been making old things new things," he concluded.

Robins told the committee that while he favored state control, the liquor question had become a social problem of such far-reaching effect that it had been forced to yield to national consideration and treatment.

"It might have been better if the states had solved the problem themselves," he added, "but they did not solve it and whether you like it or not this country has come to think on general fundamental problems along national rather than state lines."

He termed prohibition an expression of the "great adventurous spirit of the American people."

The Philadelphia and Camden mission workers testified they no longer had to go about the streets picking up drunken men, and that since prohibition the number they had to oust from the mission homes for raising a disturbance while drunk had dwindled from five to six a night to less than one a week.

White told the committee his research revealed that while drinking in schools and colleges had decreased, there was probably as much drinking by students in their rooms as before prohibition."

He said it was the opinion of Connecticut educators, however, that the character of drinking students was different now. He cited "clandestine drinking, especially associated with returning alumni and the fraternity life."

"The youth of this generation in Connecticut," he added, "have broken all the scholarship and athletic records of their fathers. But when it comes to getting drunk and making careers of dissipation the records are safely in the possession of the fathers and no youth of today could get started in such a career before being dropped from the student body."

WOULD HAVE TAX REFUNDS INVESTIGATED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—Easing his attack on the award of a $33,555,000 tax refund to the United States Steel corporation, announced earlier in the day, Representative Garner, the house democratic leader, today assailed the present method of deciding tax refund cases and demanded a congressional investigation.

The Texan said the steel corporation alone had been allowed over-assessments totalling $97,717,848 for the tax years 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. These cases should be decided in the courts, he maintained, advocating a $25,000 salary for a special attorney to handle the situation.

The $33,555,000 refund was announced today by Chairman Hawley, of the joint committee on internal revenue legislation, which under present law must pass on proposed refunds involving more than $75,000 proposed by the internal revenue bureau. Hawley was not in the chamber when Garner spoke and no other representative answered his remarks.

Garner attacked Secretary Mellon for the manner in which tax refund cases from Pennsylvania had been decided, saying "there are more refunds made to the state of Pennsylvania than any other state."

WOULD PROHIBIT CLEARANCE OF LIQUOR TO THE U. S.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 14—(AP)—Canadian government officials now act as the connecting link between distilleries and United States bootleggers, a practice which the people of Canada want to abolish, Premier MacKenzie King declared today during the second reading of his bill to prohibit the clearance of liquor to a country where its sale is prohibited.

The purpose of his bill, the premier said, is to eliminate such a condition of affairs and to prevent the countenancing by officials of anything in the nature of smuggling contraband into another country.

SIREN ALARM AT TOMBS ACCIDENTALLY SOUNDED

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Thirty police reserves, armed with riot guns, rushed to the defense of the Tombs today, when the prison's siren alarm reached them at the Oak Park station, six blocks away.

When the reserves had surrounded the prison, anticipating an attempted jail break, a guard came out and apologized explaining that the siren had been sounded in a test.

The reserves then dispersed the crowd of several hundred persons who also had been attracted by the alarm.

FORMER POLICEMAN SENTENCED TO PRISON

BRIDGEPORT, March 14—(AP)—Clifford Lee, 28, former member of the police department, of Norwalk, was sentenced to two to three and one-half years in state's prison by Judge Allyn L. Brown in criminal superior court today. He was convicted by a jury in 47 minutes upon a statutory charge.

FURTHER TESTIMONY IN DOHENY BRIBERY CASE

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—Testimony intended by the government to show that Edward L. Doheny conspired with Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, to get possession of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, was introduced today in Doheny's trial on a charge of giving Fall a $100,000 bribe.

E. C. Finney, solicitor of the interior department and first assistant secretary under Fall, testified that Fall personally executed the lease which gave the Elk Hills reserve to Doheny's Pan-American company. Fall ordinarily did not handle oil leases, he said. He testified that this lease and one granted the Mammoth Oil company, controlled by Harry F. Sinclair were the only ones executed by Fall.

Earlier in the day the defense scored when Justice William Hitz sustained its objection to the introduction of a letter written by Fall to the senate oil committee, in which the cabinet officer said that he had received $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher. The letter was offered by the prosecution in an effort to show that Fall, in writing the untrue statement was attempting to shield Doheny, who had sent him the 100,000 in cash.

FOREST FIRE COVERED WIDE AREA IN COLCHESTER

COLCHESTER, March 14—(AP)—A forest fire involving an area of between three and four miles tonight has given over 100 men in charge of two deputy fire wardens a stiff fight.

The burning area, located about two miles from the local center was steadily being extended by a northeast wind toward West Chester. No buildings, it was said tonight, were in immediate danger.

The fire started this morning at Mill Hill. A saw mill owned by Porter brothers for a time appeared to be in danger of destruction. Volunteers however, succeeded in diverting the course of the fire away from the building.

A pumper adapted for forest fire fighting was sent to the scene tonight by the state from Lebanon.

NEW YORK FERRY HOUSE WAS SWEPT BY FLAMES

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—The West Shore ferry house, a three story frame structure on the North River at 42nd street, was swept by flames tonight, inconveniencing thousands of persons traveling between New York and and New Jersey.

Land and water apparatus responded to two alarms and police reserves were called to control a large crowd attracted to the waterfront by flames which could be seen for a long distance.

CONVICTED OF MURDER OF MRS. LENA WALSH

HARRISBURG, Ark., March 14—(AP)—Willis Walker, 32, of Wynne, Ark., tonight was convicted of first degree murder for the death of Mrs. Lena Walsh and the jury fixed punishment at life imprisonment. The jurors deliberated only 66 minutes.

CABLE PARAGRAPHS

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, March 14—(AP)—Disappointment was general here upon learning that Miss Ecuador had failed to win the international beauty contest in Miami, Fla.

LONDON, March 14—(AP).—Dispatches to the Daily Mail from Bombay, India, said that the villagers of Bareja showed only a faint interest in the pilgrimage of Mahatma Gandhi and his 79 volunteers when they passed through the village.

DRESDEN, Germany, March 14.—(AP)—The police arrested 125 participants in communist "hunger march" demonstrations which led to frequent clashes. Mounted police and police in armored cars quickly dispersed the demonstrators, who at times attacked the police with bottles and stone.

BUENOS AIRES, March 14.—(AP)—Damage estimated at almost $400,000 was done to Argentine railways, when dissatisfied railway workers throughout the country began "working to rules," strictly following the clauses of a government decree issued years ago to govern work on the railroads. All trains were delayed, and infuriated passengers did much damage to local trains and stations, breaking windows and in some cases setting coaches on fire.

TROUBLE AT CONFERENCE OVER "PIRACY" CLAUSE

LONDON, March 14—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson has sought the opinions of two of America's most eminent jurists on the proposal to inject the so-called "piracy" clause in the naval conference treaty for the humanization of submarine warfare.

It was learned tonight that the secretary had cabled Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore, asking their opinions on the value of this clause, which was contained in a similar treaty drafted at Washington but never ratified by the French.

The ever present possibility of reprisals under the piracy clause is considered by its opponents ot be one of the strongest arguments against it. The Americans opposing it have laid before Secretary Stimson many cases in which the war-time submarine campaign of the Germans apparently brought about reprisals in the prison camps of the allies.

In the whole question of policy, however, the opinion of Mr. Root and of Mr. Moore is expected to put the deciding weight in the balance between the opposing theses.

FOR DEVELOPMENT OF THE PORT OF PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, March 14—(AP)—The Providence Journal tomorrow will say that a plan for a possible transportation of grain and other Canadian products to this city via the New York, Ontario and Western and the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads is to be submitted to the Providence chamber of commerce by the New Haven road as a means of developing the port of Providence.

The chamber is working for completion of the southern New England railroad between Palmer, Mass., and this city, hoping to develop the port by bringing to this city a railroad to compete with the New Haven. On January 18, directors of the New Haven, meeting with representatives of the chamber, agreed not to place themselves on record as opposed to completion of the southern New England until they themselves had prepared and presented a plan for developing the port.

CIVIL ACTION AGAINST WATERBURY UNIONS

WATERBURY, March 14—(AP)—Another legal attempt to determine the right of unions to interfere with non-union men working on a union job, started today when Domenick Anastasio, of Waterbury, a mason, started a $3,000 civil action in the court of common pleas against the Bricklayers, Stone Masons, Plasterers, Cement Finishers, Tile and Marble Setters' Union, Number 16. The union and its agents are alleged to have unlawfully conspired on two occasions to deprive the plaintiff of a means of making a living.

This is the second action brought by Anastasio. He started a similar action some weeks ago which was withdrawn after the defendants attorney filed a plea of abatement.

40 WOMEN STUDENTS ARE PENALIZED FOR SMOKING

LEWISBURG, Pa., March 14—(AP)—Forty-four of the 400 women students of Bucknell university may not walk on the campus nor have dates for the next six months, as a result of their admissions that they smoked in their rooms during the present year. The penalty was meted out by the women's student senate, the self-governing student organization, after the 44 had found themselves unable to sign a pledge that they had not smoked in their rooms.

While the non-smoking rule is a college order, the investigation was made and the penalty imposed by the self-governing body without the college authorities being involved.

SPREAD OF THE PARALYTIC MALADY IN JACKSON, MISS.

JACKSON, Miss., March 14—(AP)—Discovery today of 14 new cases of a paralytic malady so far undiagnosed brought to 202 the number of cases in Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia.

Both Georgia and Mississippi health authorities have ordered analyses of samples of Jamaica Ginger which a large number of victims of the ailment were reported to have used as a beverage before being stricken.

Mississippi health officers reported finding both ether and fusel oil in samples of the substance examined. Of the reported cases Mississippi has 73, Tennessee 120 and Georgia 9.

DRY AGENTS RAID BLACK AND TANS IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 14—(AP)—Burgundy street's dingy "Whoopee" row fell today before prohibition squads.

The trial of Assistant Prohibition Administrator Henley's men led down the old French quarter avenue and place after place was smashed after the routing of Negro band entertainers and ejection of scores of youthful merrymakers of both sexes.

None of the customers was arrested but whiskey, beer and gin was found and a half dozen men were charged with violation of the prohibition law. From the old dimly lighted section the raid on the Black-and-Tans spread spasmodically over the city.

Murderous Bandits Active In The West

Deputy Sheriff Killed and Three Other Colorado Officers Wounded—Policeman Shot In San Francisco.

CHEYENNE WELLS, Colo., March 14.—(AP)—A deputy sheriff was shot to death and three other Colorado officers were wounded this afternoon in gun battles with three men, believed by officers to be the pair who robbed the Manter Kansas, State bank of approximately $4,000 this morning.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Hickman, of Eads, Colo., was killed two miles east of Eads and another deputy, Bill Mosher, was shot through the leg. The officers attempted to halt an automobile similar to the one used by the Manter bank robbers in their escape, and a gun battle followed.

Posses were organized and sent in search of the men and eastern Colorado officers were notified to be on the lookout for the gunmen.

Five miles west of Cheyenne Springs, Sheriff William Coles of Cheyenne county and Deputy Sheriff George Hollings attempted to halt the slayers of Hickman. In an exchange of shot Sheriff Coles was wounded in the left leg and Hollingshead was shot through the arm.

After the gun fight, the three men commandeered the automobile of Fred Hadley, a deputized citizen who was with the officers, and fled east toward the Kansas boundary.

Told Communists Not To Slam Gate

The Parting Admonition By Mayor Walker of New York After Hearing Complaints By Foster and Minor.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—With good humor at times apparently with relish, Mayor James J. Walker today engaged in a prolonged exchange of repartee with William Z. Foster and Robert Minor, communist leaders now out on bail charged with felonious assault and unlawful assembly in connection with last week's "Red Thursday" riot in Union square.

When it was all over, the mayor wished them a polite "good morning" and added:

"And when you go out, don't slam the gate."

The occasion was a non-employment conference conducted by the board of estimate, with the mayor presiding. Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who since he broke up last Thursday's demonstration has become the principal target of communist fire, was present, but did not partake in the discussion.

Present also were Norman Thomas and other socialist leaders who, after Foster and Minor had called them "Whalen's undercover men" and had tried to draw them into the discussion, too, asked that at the next hearing the socialists be heard entirely apart from the communists.

"We don't want to be mixed up with any such disgraceful communist demonstrations," said Louis Waldman, former socialist.

"I don't blame you," sympathized the mayor.

At one point during the discussion, Foster called Commissioner Whalen a coward. Whalen said nothing, but the mayor, shaking his finger at Foster said:

"If it were not for the respect and obligations of his office, Commissioner Whalen would choke those words down your throat. I don't know of any man Whalen would let call him a coward."

Minor, during his speech, remarked that he, like Sherman, was "marching to the sea."

"You and Jesse James," remarked the mayor.

Cupping his hands about his mouth, Minor bellowed at the top of his lungs:

"Jesse James Walker! You can't spoof us like you spoof the socialists!"

"The socialists are simply Whalen's undercover men," he added.

"Now you stop using Whalen's name in the possessive when you refer to the police department" said the mayor in mock indignation. "I'm tired of hearing it referred to as Whalen's police department. I'm the sole head of the police department, and I want some of the advertising that goes in connection with the police department."

TWO BANK ROBBERS SHOT SAN FRANCISCO POLICEMEN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—(AP)—Two armed men today held up the Hayes and Divisadero street branch of the Bank of Italy here, probably fatally wounded a policeman and escaped with $3,719.

The robbers fled from the bank when someone blew a police whistle. At the entrance they almost collided with Police Corporal Eugene Egan who opened fire on the pair. They returned the fire and Egan dropped, a bullet wound above his heart. At the Emergency hospital little hope was held for his recovery.

TESTIMONY BY HUSTON AT LOBBY INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—After testifying today that he had deposited in his personal brokerage account $36,100 which he had collected last year from the Union Carbide company for the Tennessee River Improvement association, Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the republican national committee, was directed by the senate lobby committee to reappear next Tuesday for further questioning about the account.

Huston in his third day's testimony before the committee, told of the collection of this amount and emphasized that all of the money had been turned over to the association. He was questioned sharply by Senators Black, democrat, Alabama, and Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, as to why he deposited the money in his brokerage account.

"It is very customary instead of carrying money in a bank," Huston explained, "to carry it with your brokers because of the fact that they will do whatever you want to do with more flexibility than a bank will do it."

Sometime after he had been excused by the committee, another summons was sent to him to return on Tuesday.

INJUNCTION DENIED ROYAL MINT VENDING MACHINE CO.

NEW HAVEN, March 14—(AP)—An injunction restraining the police of New Britain from seizing their machines, was denied the Royal Mint Vending Machine company, of Springfield, Mass., today in a decision handed down here today by Judge Warren B. Burrows of United States court.

Judge Burrows ruled that the machines, from which mints and tokens are received for a nickel, are gambling devices.

The application for an injunction was made by Zelic Green, who said he planned to install 150 of the slot machines in New Britain.

The decision is expected to have an important bearing on a similar application now before Judge Edwin S. Thomas, which was filed by the Eastern Mint Vending Machine company. This company seeks to place the devices in Bridgeport, Stamford, Norwalk, New London, New Britain, and Manchester, without interference on the part of police.

GARMENT WORKERS' STRIKE IN BOSTON NEARING END

BOSTON, March 14—(AP)—Termination of the strike of more than 4,000 men and women members of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, which started yesterday, loomed tonight when it was learned that terms had been effected with employers of more than 1500 of the strikers.

The agreement was made at conference of the union committee and representatives of the Associated Dress Manufacturers' association.

RESCUE OF BROTHER'S FAMILY COST LIFE OF THE HERO

WINSTED, March 14—(AP)—Wilbert Donaldson, 33, paid with his life today for his daring in rescuing, with the aid of his brother, William, the latter's wife and eight children from their burning home on the Winsted-Norfolk road.

He died late this afternoon of burns suffered when his escape by a stairway was cut off by the flames which destroyed the house at 5:30 a. m.

Trapped on the second floor, Wilbert jumped from the window, injuring his back also.

Mrs. Donaldson and the children were singed, and suffered from exposure as they were forced to walk a quarter of a mile to a neighbor's home in night clothing. The children ranged in age from six months to 18 years.

THRICE REPRIEVED, NEW TRIAL DENIED F. W. EDEL

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Thrice reprieved, Fred W. Edel found guilty of the murder in December, 1927, of Mrs. Emma Harrington, must die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison sometime during the week of March 31.

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., who sentenced him to death a year ago in Mrach, today refused him a new trial on the basis of newly discovered evidence. He now has only the hope that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt may commute his sentence. The court of appeals previously had denied him a new trial.

CIGAR STORE INDIAN USED AS SIGN 130 YEARS

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Commuters who use the West Shore ferry between New York and New Jersey looked in vain today for "Pompey," believed to be the last of Manhattan's cigar store Indians.

"Pompey", having for 130 years watched the parade of daily travelers at the foot of 42nd street, has gone to the happy hunting grounds of his wooden kind.

Robert S. Dodge, broker and collector, has given him a home among his collected antiquities.

GROWTH OF VAN SWERINGENS IN THE RAILROAD INDUSTRY

Brothers, Novices In the Industry 14 Years Ago, Are Striving For America's First Trans-Contenental Railroad System—Need Only One Line, the Western Pacific From Salt Lake City to San Francisco, to Complete a Coast-to-Coast Route.

CLEVELAND, March 14—(AP)—O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland brothers, who entered the railroad industry as novices only 14 years ago, tonight were in control of a network of railroads which, according to financial leaders here, are intended to become America's first trans-continental railroad system.

Only one line is lacking to give the Van Sweringens a complete coast-to-coast route, and the line needed is believed available. It is the Western Pacific from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

Many great railroaders including such men as Collis P. Huntington, Jay Gould and E. H. Harriman tried in years gone by to build a trans continental system, but the Van Sweringens are closer to attainment of that fond hope than was reached by any of the others.

The present position of the Van Sweringens was reached, it was revealed today, by recent buying of sufficient stock and convertible bonds to give them or their holding companies a working control of the big system of the Missouri Pacific.

Already in control of several eastern and central railroad systems, the Van Sweringens by taking control of the Western Pacific could establish a through coast to coast route. Railroad men said it probably would connect the following:

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Buffalo to New York; Nickel Plate, Buffalo to St. Louis; Missouri Pacific, St. Louis to Pueblo, Colorado; Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Pueblo to Salt Lake City; and Western Pacific, from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

The financial connection of the Van Sweringens with the Denver, Rio Grande and Western is through the Missouri Pacific, which owns half of its stock. The same roads give the Cleveland magnates a "friendly contact" with the Western Pacific, for it also is half owner of the Denver Rio Grande and Western.

Other Van Sweringen roads which are available for the system in the east, are the Erie and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Officials of the Missouri Pacific today refused to make any statement of the reported new stock control of their road.

Under management of L. W. Baldwin, president since 1923, the Missouri Pacific, has made unusually successful and large expansions, and with more than 15,500 miles of lines in the middle west and southwest, claims to be the longest railroad system in the United States.

According to financiers, the Van Sweringens, through its holding company, the Allegheny corporation, have obtained at least a third of the Missouri Pacific common stock.

The Missouri-Pacific has outstanding 828,395 shares of common and 718,001 shares of five per cent cumulative preferred. It has applied to the interstate commerce commission to issue approximately $35,000,000 of common stock to fund the $48.25 a share accumulated dividends on its preferred.

It was announced this week that the holding company would borrow $37,500,000 on its Missouri-Pacific holdings.

At the Van Sweringen offices here confirmation or denial that they had gained control of the Missouri-Pacific was refused.

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS LESS THAN LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—Income tax payments were flowing into internal revenue collection offices today in large sums, tomorrow being the last date on which the first quarter of 1930 private and coroporate income taxes can be paid.

The treasury department, without any figure on the receipts so far, allowed its cash balance on hand to run down to one of the lowest points recently recorded.

The treasury return for March 12—the latest day for which government accounts were completed—showed $665,231.04 on hand instead of the usual total running into scores of millions kept to meet federal requirements.

The returns from the March 15 payments were being anxiously awaited, since upon them will hinge the question of whether the government can bring its finances through this fiscal year without a deficit. In March last year, the quarterly income tax brought in $601,000,000 and if the amount is equalled this year, it is expected the treasury will be able to balance the government's income against its outgo.

However, the collapse of stock market speculation late last year may cut the income tax radically. There was only one slight indication on this point in figures available today, which arose because income tax receipts for the first 12 days of March were reported as 30,965,338 against $37,701,208 in the same period last year.

These figures, if projected throughout the month would indicate that income tax receipts this March might fall 20 per cent below those of 1929 which would bring the March payment to $100,000,000 or more below that collected in March last year.

RESIGNATION OF PREMIER AND CABINET OF POLAND

WARSAW, Poland, March 14.—(AP)—After less than three months of office, Premier Casimir Bartel and his cabinet resigned today when the diet passed a vote of censure on Minister of Labor Alexander Prystor.

The opposition had the minister under fire because of his attitude toward government health insurance for workers. Premier Bartel declared that censure of the minister would mean a lack of confidence in the government.

The Bartel cabinet was formed December 29, 1929, with only three changes from the Switalsky cabinet, which resigned on December 7, in addition to the premier. Colonel Prystol was one of the holdovers, and his presence was expected to cause a conflict.

As most of the ministers in the Bartel cabinet belonged to the Pilsudski group, the ministry never was very popular with the diet.

BROTHER AND SISTER KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

NEW HAVEN, March 14.—(AP)—Carl E. Bates, 37, and his sister, Miss Frances Bates, 24, both of West Haven, were fatally injured today in a collision between their automobile and a trolley car in West Haven.

Miss Bates, driver of the machine, died shortly after being admitted to the New Haven hospital. Her brother died en route to the same hospital.

The automobile caught fire after crashing head-on with the trolley car. Bates and his sister, however, were taken out of the machine by police and the trolley car crew before it burst into flames.

ALL CHARGES DENIED BY BRIG.-GEN. JOHN H. RUSSELL

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 14.—(AP)—Brig. General John H. Russell today filed with the Hoover commission a lengthy refutation of all charges made against him in the hearings last week.

The American high commissioner in Haiti was bound by his diplomatic status from giving a statement himself, and the commission announced it was considering the report before releasing it, but it is believed to deny all charges that a dictatorship exists and to cite many accomplishments of the American high commission.

MOULTHROPE-LALONE MURDER TRIAL IS NEARING THE END

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Testimony in the murder trial of Roland Lalone and Watson Moulthrope, escaped Connecticut convicts charged with killing a Jacksonville city detective, neared completion late today.

The defense rested after Moulthrope had resumed the stand today to deny that he had ever made any admission to any officer which would point to him as the slayer of Detective Willie Smith. The state previously had presented testimony that Moulthrope had confessed to officers that he had shot Smith.

The defendant also denied saying to officers here that "to tell what happened on the night of January 17 would be the same as turning the juice on myself."

The state called in two rebuttal witnesses before court recessed for the night. It was planned that further rebuttal testimony would be introduced tomorrow morning and then court will recess over the week end. The case is expected to reach the jury Monday afternoon.

TWO MEN WERE FATALLY BURNED FIGHTING FIRE

ELLSWORTH, Me., March 14.—(AP)—Two men met death today while battling a fire that destroyed the 40-year old red brick Hancock county court house with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Five firemen had carried a line of hose up the stairs to the second floor of the old building, when a brick cupola collapsed, carrying four of them to the basement.

George Patrick and Fred Fortier were able to make their way out, the latter carrying Raymond Peavy on his back.

Peavy died soon afterward and Fortier and Patrick collapsed. The body of Lester Salisbury, charred beyond identification, was found tonight under a mass of debris in the basement.

Patrick was taken to a hospital where officials said tonight his condition was critical. Fortier, his mind temporarily unbalanced by the ordeal, was treated at his home.

The fifth member of the group escaped the falling cupola.

TWO DEATHS IN CRASH NEAR CLEVELAND AIRPORT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 14.—(AP)—Crash of a cabin monoplane from a height of 1,500 feet cost the lives of two aviators near Cleveland airport today. The victims were David Bunnin, airplane salesman, and Richard R. Braggins, 22, pilot, both of Cleveland and employes of the Curtiss-Wright flying service.

Bunnin was a World war flyer, had spent 17 months in France as an American army aviator, and had soloed in the air more than 2,000 hours. Braggins formerly was an army flyer.

The two men had gone up for a test flight and were seen by George Wagner of Olmsted Falls making several loops. Once they flew upside down. Then suddenly the plane went into a tail-spin and crashed in an apple orchard on the farm of John Kaminski.

SENTENCES IMPOSED BY JUDGE PEASLEY

WATERBURY, March 14—(AP)—Four men were sentenced to Cheshire reformatory, one to state's prison, one to jail, and two were placed on probation in the superior court session here today with Judge Frederick M. Peasley presiding.

Fred Diamond, 48, pleaded guilty to burglary, sentenced to prison, two to four years; two companions who also pleaded guilty, Joseph LaCroix 23, and Albert Cordeau, 20, were sent to Cheshire reformatory.

HELD IN $1,500 ON CHARGE OF TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

MERIDEN, March 14—(AP)—Joseph Bergeron, of this city, arrested here Wednesday by two federal prohibition agents on a charge of transporting liquor, was brought before U. S. Commissioner Robert Alcorn in New Haven today. Waiving examination, he was held in $1,500 bonds for trial in the federal court.

ANDOVER MANUFACTURER DIES SUDDENLY IN AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 14—Sudden death overtook Christopher C. Case of 90 Windham street, president and general manager of the Case Fibre Board company of Andover about 2 o'clock this afternoon, when he succumbed to a heart attack while in his automobile at Taunton, Mass. Meagre details of the death of the well known local resident were that his car was near the Roseland gasoline station in Taunton and that the car did not leave the road when the man was stricken. Death was attributed to a heart ailment from which the deceased has previously suffered according to Mrs. Case, who was with her husband at the time.

News of the death of Mr. Case spread quickly here and brought grief to a host of friends throughout this section. He was born in Highland Park, Manchester, July 27, 1875 and had been engaged in the paper manufacturing business at Andover for about 20 years. The plant was destroyed by fire a few years ago, having since been entirely rebuilt. Mr. Case was a member of the First Congregational church and member and past officer of the Willimantic Exchange club. He was also affiliated with the chamber of commerce and had devoted much time and energy to various civic projects.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Claira Morrison Case, he is survived by one son, Christopher M. Case of this city; and one daughter, Mrs. Dudley H. Smith, who as a bride, has just arrived at her future home in Honolulu, T. H. Mr. Case had served several terms as a member of the town school committee and was alderman from the first ward of the city government some years ago.

Committees for the ensuing year were appointed as follows by Commander Abraham Sussman at the bi-monthly meeting of James J. Shea post, No. 10, American Legion, held in the Jackson street quarters Thursday night; Service, Samuel Nield, chairman, Arthur W. Swanson and Fred R. Duprey. Entertainment, Levi G. Goss, chairman, James W. Litterick, Arthur W. Swanson, Albin Swason, Engelhardt Johnson, Earl Mastin, Walter McNickle, Charles W. Hill, Roy W. Downer, Wilfred Morean, Herman Lariviere and Alvin V. Nelson. Community work, Walter W. Taylor, chairman, Albin Swanson, Charles W. Hill, T. Frank Cunningham, Earl K. Haling and Charles A. Reynolds. Citizens' Military Training camps, T. Frank Cunningham and Harry Cohen, Lester H. Blish was named chairman of a committee on attendance at the national convention in Boston, Mass., next August. Adjutant Walter W. Taylor and Arthur W. Swanson were appointed to confer with the auxiliary relative to the poppy fund. A special meeting is to be held with the auxiliary April 3, when State Department Commander W. S. Alexander of Meriden will be the speaker, and other department officers will be guests. Announcement was made that the membership of the post had been increased since the last session from 152 to 164.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD TO DISCUSS TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 14—With the power, by statute, invested in the selectmen to take care of a deficit in town expenses because of too low a tax rate, through the levying of a rate bill, generally acknowledged, the taxpayers plan to consider matters further at a mass meeting in the town hall Monday evening, March 24. A rumor is about that a petition is to be circulated for signatures to rescind the action of the special town meeting when an eight mill tax was levied. The petition is intended to bring about another vote for a tax sufficient to meet the expenses contracted by the town for the year.

The further discussion on the tax rate matter will be under the auspices of the Windham Taxpayers' association which has a present membership of 560 and is out to increase the enrollment to 1,500. It is pointed out that while many beneficial results, especially that of a better attendance and increased interest in future town meetings will be derived from the organization of the taxpayers, such results are hardly consistent with an insufficient tax rate this year.

The state tax commissioner's office at Hartford, which has followed the local movement with much interest, has given notice to the selectmen of the power they have to levy a rate bill sufficient to meet expenses not provided for in the regular tax levy. The commissioner's office further points out that it is the duty of the selectmen to use the means accorded them to meet the budget expenditures. It is estimated by members of the board that a 12 mills tax is necessary this year.

OLD FASHIONED PARTY TO BE HELD BY MOTOR CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 14—In bringing to a climax the celebration of the opening of its new building on West Main street, the Bousa Motor Sales company will entertain at an old-fashioned party and dance at the show rooms Saturday evening. The celebration concludes the first half of the great used car rodeo and will be held without charge for admission. The extensive service station will be cleared and lighted for the dance. There will be a 16 piece band and two radios on hand to dispense music and the station will be decorated for the occasion. Refreshments will be served. During the early part of the evening an automobile will be sold for $1.98 to the person whose name is the 15th to be drawn from a box containing the registrations by Mayor Walter R. King.

The rodeo, which has brought many sales in surrounding towns as well as in the city is proving a distinctive success. J. Francis Florentine and his Team No. 1 have a lead of one car over the second team captained by William Gurnack. In individual sales Arthur Clark is second to Mr. Florentine with a margin of one car. Mr. Bousa said today that the rodeo would be continued until all used cars are sold.

"Barney" Gunshinan was re-appointed club professional for the ensuing year, beginning April 13, at a meeting of the new board of governors of the Willimantic Country club held at the office of Dr. Michael D. Riordan Thursday night. In the naming of committees the following were appointed: Finance, A. W. French, chairman, John E. Brick and William P. Jordan. Tournament, Raymond A. Parker, chairman, John C. Frazier and R. G. Remington. Membership, Louis H. Arnold, chairman, Albert B. Smith, vice chairman and power to select assistants. House, James P. Mustard with assistants. Entertainment, Charles W. Hill with assistants. Roland B. Jordan, James P. Mustard and Joseph B. Riordan were named to select a greens committee to put the golf course into shape for the season. James P. Mustard and John C. Frazier were appointed auditors and Joseph M. Berard, with assistants, was appointed to have charge of the annual lawn fete June 11. D. G. Boucher was elected to membership.

Income tax returns must be filed not later than Saturday, March 15. Several local people have visited the branch office of the internal revenue department in Norwich and others have gone to Hartford, while the mails have been used by still others. The revenue offices will be open until 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

FUNERAL

John Cummisk

Funeral services for John Cummisk were held this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church, South Coventry, at 9 o'clock. Rev. Austin B. Dignam of St. Anne's church, New Britain, was the celebrant. With Mrs. William O'Brien at the organ selections were sung by Miss Lillian Carpenter. Mrs. O'Brien was heard in Pie Jesu at the offertory. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery, this city, where Rev. Father Dignam read a committal prayer. The bearers were, Martin J. Hughes, Walter Hughes, William L. Wellwood and Joseph Dignam. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Frank Morin, 40, wanted in Berlin, N. H., where he is said to have deserted his family is held by the local police. Morin came to this city about a week ago and was located after a brief investigation by Officers John Killourey and Arthur Hurley. He will be returned to Berlin in custody of police officers of that place.

A food sale that met with good patronage was held today at the Jordan Hardware company store by Francis S. Long Woman's Relief corps No. 28. Mrs. Frank L. Ford and Mrs. William S. Johnston were in charge.

Nearly all of the 34 inmates of the town almshouse have accepted the invitation extended by the Knights of Columbus Boys' band to attend the minstrel-concert performance of the band at St Mary's hall, St. Patrick's night. Automobiles will be provided for their transport and they will occupy a block of seats.

As a result of a raid which netted a still, three quarts of finished product and 100 gallons of mash, Samuel Weingrad of Pine street, Columbia, will be arraigned in the town court there Saturday afternoon on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The raid was staged on the strength of complaints, by Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins of Columbia and State Policeman Roy B. Pettengill of the Hartford barracks.

Some 30 members of A. C. Tyler auxiliary No. 14, United Spanish War Veterans, headed by President Rachael Gallagher, attended the banquet of Mary Bushnell Cheney auxiliary in Manchester Thursday evening, the affair being a 10th anniversary. Mrs. Mary Mathieu and Mrs. Emma Doyle of this city appeared on the musical program.

Stafford Springs

Fred Carl Green, ordered committed to jail by Judge John Rufus Booth in the superior court in Rockville, January 7th in default of bond of $500 to secure the payment of $10.00 a week for the support of his wife and child, has been released. A bond with surety has been filed within the past few days and Burt T. Eaton, first selectman of the town of Stafford, has already received $110.00 from the clerk of the superior court for money due the town for the support of this family. Regular payments of $10 weekly will be made for the balance of the year. Green was brought back by the state police from New York, where he had been serving a sentence for burglary.

The Catholic Transcript (Hartford) said Thursday: Friends of Father Felix J. O'Neill of Stafford Springs were pleasantly surprised Sunday evening, March 9th, when his well known hymn, "When Evening Comes" was rendered during the Catholic radio hour. The composition was beautifully sung by the famous boy soprano, Basil Shaughnessey. While Father O'Neill has won himself a national reputation for his productions in poetic form his solemn and eloquent verses on the subject of death embodied in the hymn sung Sunday night are perhaps most widely celebrated. Father Finn, director of the Paulist choir, is a personal friend of the priest-poet of the Hartford diocese.

The citizens' committee, under the leadership of William O. Ladish, is making plans to conduct a systematic campaign to raise $750 to promote the work of the Boy Scouts located in Stafford. There are now three troops in this town, with a membership of 75. Plans for the drive are being perfected and it is expected that the campaign will open arch 24th.

Edward C. Madsen, of Boston, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Heald in the borough court Friday afternoon, on charge of speeding on the Crystal Lake highway. The fine and costs amounted to $21.35.

Miss Margaret Young, of South Coventry, was the guest of borough relatives Thursday.

E. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Miss Helen Dean, the leader, will take for her topic, "Why Soldiers of Christ never give up." George Boson will be leader of the young people's division of the C. E. society meeting at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. The topic for discussion will be "Peter, a great evangelist."

William Johnson and Abraham Alpert visited friends in Lisbon and Norwich Friday.

LEBANON

Mrs. F. A. Burgess and Mrs. W. Vey called on Mrs. James Casey in Willimantic Thursday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Vey visited Rev. and Mrs. Robert Parkes in Yantic Friday evening, also attended a Lenten service in Grace Episcopal church when Rev. J. R. Danforth, of New London, delivered the sermon.

There was a good attendance at the service Sunday morning. Miss Julia Standish was the soloist. Thirty were in attendance at Sunday school. There was a fifty per cent increase in the attendance of boys Sunday, which may help them to win out in the contest.

Sunday evening all the neighboring churches met at the Centre church and had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Alfred Ray Atwood, "the cowboy preacher," tell of the work being done among the cowboys and cowgirls by Intermountain institute, at Weiser, Idaho. Mrs. E. L. Waterman sang, "Praise Ye the Lord;" there was also a quartet by members of the Baptist society. Dr. Atwood was an overnight guest at the parsonage, leaving Monday morning for Pittsfield, Mass.

Friends of Mrs. E. L. Livermore, sister of Mrs. S. W. Throop, are sorry to hear that she is in very poor health. Mrs. Throop hears adily from her sister and as yet there is no improvement.

DANIELSON

GREENWOOD IS INDICTED FOR GRAND LARCENY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 14—Joseph Greenwood, alias Joseph Green, has been indicted by a grand jury in Providence on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny and will go to trial at the next session of the Providence county superior court having criminal jurisdiction.

Greenwood was arrested by state officers of the Danielson barracks at East Killingly several weeks ago after an investigation of a robbery at the Eldridge place, just across the Connecticut line in Rhode Island. Greenwood is charged with having stolen $19.

Interest in his case is heightened because of his previous bad record. He was wanted in Rhode Island at the time of his arrest at East Killingly as an escaped state prison inmate, doing time for breaking and entering. He is also wanted in Vermont for escaping from state prison while doing a term of nine years for breaking and entering and grand larceny. He also has done time for similar offenses in the New Hampshire state prison.

Whether or not he is convicted on the charge now pending against him, he must go back to prison in Rhode Island to finish out the term he was serving when he escaped and to serve such additional time as may be required for escaping.

Some time in the distant future when he has discharged his obligations to the state of Rhode Island for crimes committed therein he will be turned back to Vermont officials. Unless he manages to escape again, it will be years before he is a free man again. Greenwood is 36 years of age.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Joseph Richardson

At 1:30 this afternoon at the home in Elmville, a prayer service for Mrs. Adelaide F. Richardson, wife of Joseph Richardson, was conducted by Rev. A. E. Gallup. At 2 o'clock the funeral service was held at the Nazarene church on Academy street here. Rev. Mr Gallup was assisted at this service by Rev. F. A. Hillery of Providence, pastor of a church of which Mrs. Richardson formerly was a member, and Rev. G. A. Riley, also of Providence. During the service Mrs. K. A. Darbie and Mrs George Minor sang My Honeymoon, a favorite number of Mrs. Richardson's. Mrs. Leon Brown sang 'Tis Glory Just to Walk With Him, and Mrs. Darbie, Mrs. Minor and Mrs. Brown sang Meet Me There. The benediction was by Rev. C. J. Armstrong. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Mr. Gallup and Rev. Mr. Hillery. The bearers were three sons, Nelson, Llewellyn and Jesse Richardson, and three sons-in-law, Byron Randall, Joseph Krivanjec and Amasa Pierce. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

This evening members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., entertained the members of the evening school. There was a program of entertainment and refreshments were served. The event was arranged as a part of the Americanization work of the chapter.

No announcements have as yet been made as to appointments to take the 1930 census in the town of Killingly. It is stated, however, that the appointments will number three or four, and that areas of the town will be allotted between them. A considerable number of persons are said to have long since filed applications for appointment. The names likely will be disclosed in the near future, that is of appointees, for the census work is to get underway in April.

While there is no outward evidence that the annual borough caucus next Tuesday evening will be the occasion of unusual political activity, there are numbers of citizens who will make a special point of attending. For several years past the annual caucus has brought out no more than a score of voters out of the many hundreds entitled to participate. This fact makes it possible at any time for a very small minority of voters to control the caucus with all the possibilities that such a situation might create. It is for this reason that a larger attendance is being urged this year.

The New London archdeaconry of the Girls' Friendly society branches are to meet here Sunday afternoon at St. Alban's parish house. In addition to the usual proceedings there is to be a lantern lecture. Girls of the local branch are to assemble at one o'clock to receive their guests and to prepare the supper that is to be served after the evening service at the church.

Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., has contributed pictures of Old Trinity church and the Unitarian church and of Mortlake Manor, all in Brooklyn, for incorporation in the book Guide to Historic Spots, to be published by the Connecticut D. A. R.

Next Tuesday members of the Fortnightly club are to meet with Miss M. J. Mendell of Broad street.

FUNERAL

Owen S. Clark

This morning the funeral of Owen S. Clark was held from the home on Westfield avenue, with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Francis Baldwin, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery at Greeneville, the committal service conducted by Msgr. M. H. May of St. Patrick's church, Norwich. The bearers were James R. Walsh, Peter Reynolds, Thomas Dooley and Martin Dooley. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Special Deputy Commissioner Chauncey Ganung of the bureau of domestic animals will welcome information as to the ownership of the rabid dog that leaves all the dogs of the town of Sterling facing the likelihood of being quarantined for an indefinite period. The dog, a small, dark brown collie, blind in one eye, had no collar or tag. It is possible that the dog was owned in Moosup, from which direction he entered the town of Sterling, and it is also possible that the rabid animal had traveled a much longer distance before creating the furore in Sterling. There is the chance, too, that this dog bit other dogs in or near Moosup, another matter about which Mr. Ganung would like to know.

Candidates are being accumulated for a "wreck," otherwise an initiation, in the local chapter of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the funmaking branch of the American Legion. A date in July will be picked for the event, and it promises amusement for the town's people as well as the legionnaires. There likely will be a parade, along the lines of the one held here several years ago by the same organization. This time it is hoped to have replicas of a French locomotive and boxcar in the parade. This was attand boxcar in the parade. This was intended at the time of the parade referred to, but it was impossible to bring it about.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald C. Street and children are to spend the week end visiting with relatives in New York.

Miss Evelyn Cranska of Moosup will be the speaker and her subject Ancient Palaces of India at a meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., in the parish house of the Westfield Congregational church next Thursday afternoon.

A number of members of Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows plan to go to South Manchester Saturday afternoon to witness the conferring of degrees at the district meeting of the Encampment by a Lawrence, Mass., degree team.

Mrs. Ralph H. Reed, chairman of the department of the American Home of the Massachusetts States Federation of Women's club is to be the speaker at the meeting of the Killingly Woman's club next Wednesday afternoon. Miss Emily L. Plumley of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's clubs is expected to be present.

James Case is to be the speaker and Fred Maples the soloist at the annual roll call and supper at the Baptist church next Tuesday evening. Messrs. Case and Maples are residents of Norwich.

Tuesday afternoon members of the Ladies' Prayer circle are to meet with Mrs. George Minor of School street.

Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich will be here next Tuesday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock to conduct the monthly chest clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

From various parts of the county poultrymen came to a quarterly meeting of their organization held at grange hall in Brooklyn today.

PLAINFIELD

The closing exercises of Plainfield evening school were held at the grammar school, Tuesday evening. The program had been prepared with a desire to present, on the one hand, a suggestion of the purpose of the evening classes, and on the other hand, the degree of accomplishment that had been reached during the year. Selections by the members of the beginners class exemplified the admirable spirit and enthusiasm of these people who are adding new vitality and strength to our nation. Original selections and a debate by members of the advanced or vocational class gave a glimpse of the endeavors of these more advanced pupils to make themselves better citizens. The certificates and pins for perfect attendance were presented by Superintendent Chapman. Miss Annie Tillinghast representative of the D. A. R., presented pins for one year of perfect attendance to the following of the beginners class: Louise Bussman, Karl Bussman, Margaret Courtois and Albert Fournier; to Armand Bernier, for three years' perfect attendance, was presented a gold piece. Mr. Chapman, in behalf of the town of Plainfield, presented pins for perfect attendance to these members of the advanced class: Miss Victoria Pechie, Miss Cecile Vezina, Emile Carron; certificates were presented to beginners class, Mrs. Louise Bussman, Karl Bussman, Miss Margaret Courtois, Albert Fournier, Armand Bernier, Henry Langlais, Miss Hermina Pechie, Gilberte Bernier, Alvine Labrecque; advanced class, Miss Cecile Vezina, Miss Bernadette Plourde, Miss Victoria Pechie, Ledevique Jodoin, Philip Beauchemin, Emile Charron, Alphonse Bernier, Hervey Gosselin, Harvey Mercier, William Lacasse, Severe Beausoleil. The program follows: Introduction, America, community singing, flag salute, selection, "Which Are You," Miss Courtois. Accordion solo, Armand Bernier; original story, "The Duke," L. Jodoin; vocal selection, "Sunrise," Miss Bernier; original poem, "Jake, the Rascal," Miss Pechie; presentation of certificates and pins for perfect attendance, Mr. Chapman, Miss Tillinghast; debate, "Is the Prohibition Amendment Beneficial?" affirmative, Jodoin, Mercier, Gosselin; negative, Pechie, Lacasse, Plourde; novelties, Charron; selection "The Flag," Mr. Bussman; America the Beautiful, community singing.

Miss Adelaide Prentiss, dean at Damon college, Newton, Mass., is visiting her father, Rev. William C. Prentiss.

PUTNAM

ARTHUR SHERBURNE HARDY DIES AT WOODSTOCK HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 14—Arthur Sherburne Hardy, nationally known figure, died late last evening at his home in Woodstock hill where he had been in failing health for many months. He was in his 82nd year.

While the death of the diplomat and author came as a sad occurence it was not altogether unexpected for Mr. Hardy's illness of many months on Wednesday weakened him to such an extent that his condition took a sudden change for the worse and continued to fail steadily.

Mr. Hardy's service in the American diplomatic corps and his numerous writings gained much renown for him. For two years, from 1893 to 1895 he was United States minister and consul-general to Persia and later served as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Greece, Switzerland, Spain and Rumania.

Mr. Hardy was perhaps one of the outstanding men of Windham county, although Connecticut is not his native state. He was born in Andover, Mass., and attended Amherst college. Later he became a cadet at the United States Military academy at West Point and was graduated from there in 1869. Following his graduation Mr. Hardy spent two years in the army serving as a lieutenant of artillery. In 1871 he became professor of engineering in Iowa university, at Des Moines, which position he resigned two years later, in order to continue his studies in France. In 1873, after his return to America, Mr. Hardy was appointed professor of mathematics at Dartmouth college, a position he held until 1893. In that year he left the field of education to enter journalism, taking over the duties of editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine.

Three universities recognized Mr. Hardy by conferring honorary degrees upon him. They were Dartmouth, Amherst and Iowa.

In 1905, Mr. Hardy closed his career as a diplomat and devoted most of his time to writing and travelling. He was the author of a number of texts on higher mathematics and in later years published several of his works, the best known being, "His Daughter First," "Passe Rose," "Wind of Destiny," "Aurelie," and "Diane and Her Friends."

After his marriage in Greece in 1895 to Miss Grace Aspinwall Bowen, daughter of the late Henry C. Bowen, of Woodstock, Mr. Hardy returned again to America and established a summer home on Woodstock hill overlooking the Quinebaug valley. He was well known in Putnam and previous to the impairment of his health made daily visits to the city.

Politically Mr. Hardy associated himself with the republican party and was a strong advocate for the nomination and election of President Herbert Hoover. Fraternally he was affiliated with the Masonic order and had received a number of decorations during his service in the diplomatic corps.

Besides his wife Mr. Hardy is survived by a neice Mrs. George C. Lincoln, of Worcester, Mass. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college in Florida and a summer resident of Woodstock, is a nephew.

In official circles in Washington, and in New York the death of Mr. Hardy was being mourned today. His passing last evening saddened his many friends at home and abroad.

FIREMEN PREVENT SERIOUS FIRE IN NORTH END

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 14—The quick response of a small army of firemen to a general alarm from box 32 on Marshall and Providence streets at 8:55 this morning prevented what might have been a disastrous conflagration in the north end of the city when fire was discovered in a small shed adjoining the home of A. Weiss at 44 Maynard street.

Upon the arrival of the firemen, flames had already swept over the small structure and had taken to a large barn adjoining and were scorching the Weiss residence. A line of hose was laid, but before a stream could be trained on the blaze the shed had been leveled and considerable damage had been caused to the barn. Flames creeping out the outside of the house were checked before any great loss had occurred.

An investigation after the fire by Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas gave the impression that the blaze had been started by hot ashes which had been deposited near the building. Chief Dumas estimated the loss at $400.

Less than three hours after the Weiss fire the members of the hook and ladder and pumper companies at the central station in Union square were called to fight a brush and shed fire on the property of Mrs. George H Shepherd on Grove street extension which managed to create considerable loss before the fire was extinguished. A lumber shed containing a valuable supply of lumber was leveled to the ground and flames burned over several acres. Chief Dumas after an investigation learned that the fire began when a laborer working on the new state road over Putnam heights lighted a camp fire to cook a meal lost control of the fire, it spreading the dry grass and brush and taking to the lumber shed before the fire department was called. The absence of a supply of water, necessitated that the fire fighters carry water by means of a bucket brigade from a well some distance away and employ brooms and shovels to combat the flames. This was the third alarm of the day.

Thomas, one month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gilbert of Livery street and two brother of John Henry Gilbert who died February 28, died yesterday at the Day Kimball hospital. The mother of the infant before her marriage was Miss Ann Harrington of this city.

Burton D. Bosworth of East Woodstock, will appear Monday at 12.30 o'clock in superior court in New London to answer to charges of keeping his son Robert Bosworth illegally, which were preferred against him by his estranged wife Daisy D. Bosworth of Waterford, after Bosworth is alleged to have abducted the child from its mothers residence in Waterford. A writ of habeas corpus was served on Bosworth a week ago, which was signed by Judge Christopher L. Avery of New London county. Judge Avery will award custody of the minor child to the parents best equipped to care for him.

Belated income tax returns were being rushed to the post office tonight in order to procure a March 14 post mark on the envelopes, in order that the blanks may be filed among the prompt returns at the treasury department in Washington. March 15 is the termination of the period allowed by the government to file returns.

Manager James F. Mahoney, of the Connecticut chain of Interstate theatres announced the promotion of Erwin Ciechowski for the past year and a half assistant manager of the Bradley theatre this city to the managership of the Revere theatre in Revere, Mass. Mr. Ciechowski is a native of Rockville and since coming to Putnam has made many friends who will regret his departure, but wish him success in his new field.

He is to be succeeded by Robert Beattie of Sumerville, Mass., who will take up his new duties this week.

Coach L. F. Noyes of Putnam high school was in Norwich, Thursday evening attending a basketball game between the Norwich Free Academy girls and the P. H. S. girls sextet.

Dr. E. B. Williams of Center street was in Moosup today.

Postmaster A. Macdonald Sr. was in Hartford today, visiting with his son John A. Macdonald, commissioner of the state highway department.

"Pickles" was the title of a musical comedy presentation at the Bradley theatre Friday evening given by the members of and for the benefit of the Putnam High School Athletic association. The affair was well attended and netted a good financial return.

It was said today that re-surfacing operations begun last fall on the high school athletic field and discontinued early in the winter because of unfavorable weather conditions will be resumed again within a few weeks. It is hoped that the field will be completed before the close of the school baseball season in June.

The basketball team at Putnam high school left this afternoon in company with Coach L. F. Noyes, for Storrs college where the quintet will take part in the Connecticut championship tournament, class C. The season's average for the local team was .887.

The combination chemical and hose wagon at the Smith street station in the north end of the city made its initial appearance in its new dress—a set of pneumatic tires—this morning, in responding to a general alarm from box 34. While the purchasing of the new equipment for this piece of apparatus did not meet with the full approval of Fire Chief R. E. Thurston, the city fire officials seemed satisfied with its performance this morning. It is said that the new tires instilled new riding qualities and increased the speed of the engine.

Rev. Joseph D. Casey delivered the Lenten sermon at Thursday evening services which were held for the English-speaking element of St. Mary's church last evening in the chapel of St. Mary's convent.

Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church officiated at the funeral service for Mrs. Hiram Brown of Florence street who died Wednesday at the Haven in Abington, which was held in the chapel of th church on Main street this afternoon at two o'clock. Burial was in Grove street cemetery with commital services at the grave in charge of Rev. Mr. English.

WESTMINISTER

Westministerites read with interest reminiscences of Quid Nunc of the Social Corner in a recent issue of The Bulletin, recalling the Red school house and school mates of the long ago in and around this vicinity. Some of those mentioned by Quid Nunc have died at an advanced age during the last decade. Very few are still living and in practically every instance the old family homes have passed into the hands of strangers.

Blue birds, robins, phoebes and black birds are here and March 9 The Bulletin correspondent was delighted to hear the joyous notes of that harbinger of spring, the song sparrow. Robins began arriving as early as Feb. 15th, but not until the arrival of the swallows can we expect real spring.

Charles Dewing who has been spending the winter in Norwich, visited friends in town over the week end.

Travel over dirt roads in this vicinity during the winter has been the worst in years. The selectmen are beginning road repairs, filling some of the worst places with gravel for the past two weeks. The big milk trucks have been unable to collect milk in some sections and producers have been obliged to haul their milk out to the state road with horses.

Henry Graff and family, who have spent the winter in New Haven, have returned to their farm here.

Alfred Bonz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bonz, who has been a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, is at home.

Mrs. A. T. Macleod and son, Earl, have returned from a motor trip to New York city and Mt. Kisco.

Miss Louise Soderburg has German measles.

VOLUNTOWN

MT. MISERY YARNS SEEM NATURE FAKES TO SOME

Shades of Old Mt. Misery! Old Cluey Watson has again invaded that mountain side, and we hear strange stories of wildcats and other strange animals roaming that territory! We also hear that Mt. Misery is now in the south part of the town of Griswold, and many village people are asking when it was moved over there. We have also heard of the wonderful radio, built out of a box of old junk. Why not make a good job of it and build a broadcasting station, so that we village people can hear the cries of the wild creatures residing so near us, as many of us dare not go through the state forest after these stories. We trust those fearless hunters mentioned recently will rid the forest of those wild creatures before huckleberry time, our own marksmen may be too timid? We wonder!

Local people were saddened to learn Monday of the death at the Backus hospital, Norwich, of Mrs. Samantha Miller, wife of Charles A. Miller, after a brief illness Mrs. Miller was born in this town, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley. She is survived by her husband, two children, two sisters and a brother, who have received the sympathy of a large circle of friends. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church, Rev. J. W. Carter, of Jewett City, officiating. There was a large gathering of friends and relatives, also a large delegation from Unity circle, No. 1250, C. of F. of A., of which Mrs. Miller was a charter member. Burial was in Robbins cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Carter read the church service, which was followed by the burial ritual of the Companions of the Foresters of America. The bearers were Albert Dawley, Jr., Harold Bitgood, Lester and Arthur Dawley, Clifford Adams and Ernest Eccleston. There were beautiful flowers.

Louis Boucher is at present confined to his home by illness.

Lenten devotions were held this week Tuesday and Thursday evenings at St. Thomas' church. Tuesday evening the services consisted of the rosary, sermon by Rev. Father Mandler, of Taftville, and benediction. Thursday evening there were stations of the cross and benediction. The services were well attended.

Moses Tatro is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. James McFall and family of New York were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins the past week.

Peter Selway of Wethersfield is a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles A. Downing.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Derosier at the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Derosier of Pawtucket, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Derosier, and Mr. and Mrs. Brunier of Willimantic.

The contractors in charge of building the Voluntown-Westerly road over Pendleton Hill are preparing to resume work. It is hoped that the road will be finished early in the summer.

JEWETT CITY

BUILDING OF STATE HOUSE TO BE DONE BY E. E. GILBERT

Contractor Earl E. Gilbert was the lowest bidder on the new house to be erected by the state of Connecticut for the Fisk Rubber company, and has been awarded the contract. The site is to be on Slater avenue, about 300 feet south of the house which is to be rased to make room for the approach to the new Quinebaug viaduct. The construction is to be brick veneer, ten rooms, with a slate roof. Colonial style of architecture will predominate. Mr. Gilbert was staking out the ground plan Friday. When completed the new house will be the home for Walter A. Richardson, superintendent of the local plant of the Fisk Rubber company.

The brick house which is to be torn down was built by the one time W. A. Slater mills under the supervision of the late A. A. Young, Jr., being primarily in use as the mill office.

CHAIN LETTER COPIES COMING TO LOCAL MASONS

A few weeks ago this town was subjected to a deluge of suspenders, there being a sufficient quanity in the shower, each accompanied with a hard luck, wooden leg story, to hold up all the pantaloons in this section and then some. Just preceding the influx of galluses there came a copious visitation of ties. All colors, sizes and styles were included in the supply. Friday, members of the Masonic order in different parts of the borough received the following letter:

Dear Brother:

In compliance with a Masonic request, I'm passing on to you as one of my brothers.

"God I implore thee to bless all mankind."

It was said by many Masons in ancient times that all who did not pass along this prayer would be in danger of misfortune. Be good enough therefore to copy and send on to nine brothers of this fraternity and on the tenth day you will come to a great happiness. Do not break this chain. This chain was started by an American officer and should go three times around the world. Do not break it, for whosoever does will have reverses.

Fraternally

Good luck..............Good health.

Do not break this chain. Make out nine copies of this letter and send to persons with whom you are acquainted and to whom you wish luck. This chain was started by a colonel in the American army in France and must go three times around the world without a break. It is translated in all languages. Send nine copies within twenty-four hours after receipt of the present, and do not break the chain.

In eight days which follows the one on which you have sent your nine copies (count the days) a happy event awaits you, and if you do not send your copies you will be unhappy. Mr. Babbilou Leto owes his fortune to the fact that he followed the above instructions; Mr. Delspyde Guide Co. Vistoria eight days after he did obtain the first prize in the National Lottery. Mr. Francisque Monthecuy did not take this seriously and says that nine days after receipt of the present letter his firm ruined.

Several local people offered suggestions for a name for the Yankee Clipper, the new de luxe New Haven railroad express which goes into commission Tuesday, March 18. East bound this train, No. 18, leaves New York at 3.31 p. m. arriving in Boston at 8.15. West bound train, No. 17, leaves Boston at 3.30 p. m. arriving at the Grand Central station at 8.15. The Yankee Clipper is not operated Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Ellen Prior and Esther Dicks of Brown university are spending the week end at Miss Prior's home.

Mrs. Alex McNicol sails from New York for Bermuda today (Saturday).

The Thursday evening scores at the Borough Pinochle club were: C. L. Dudkowski, 9590; W. A. Field, 9040; S. H. Winroth, 8820; Wilfred LeClaire, 7485; Clovis Casavant, 8735; Francis McLaughlin, 7035; Velo Shaskey 5385; E. J. Carroll, 8595; Fred Condie, 8165; Tony Lamarine, 8480; Dr. G. H. Jennings, 8370; Dennis Sullivan, 8855; J. B. LeClaire, 8285; Eudor LeClaire, 9195; Frank McCarthy, 7995; J. H. Shea, 7585; Horace Dawley, 8770; John Davis, 7835; H. Popham, 9190; Charles Maynard, 8390.

Chester L. Dudkowski cleaned the board with the high score, 9590.

Students Give Health Play

BLACK HILL

Miss Mabel Moffit, who has been staying at the Medbury home, has returned to Attawaugan.

Frederick Graves, who has been visiting his parents, is now at Stamford.

Ralph Brown has been visiting in Bridgeport and New Haven.

Benjamin Connell broke his arm recently while cranking an automobile.

Most of the families in this section were represented at the funeral Thursday of Mrs. William S. Babcock, who was a resident of Black Hill for 60 years.

OBITUARY.

Dr. Thomas R. Baker.

Word has been received of the death March 10 at Winter Park, Florida, of Dr. Thomas R. Baker, Professor Emeritus of Science at Rollens college. Dr. Baker's wife was Miss Mary Evans Francis, for years a resident of this town. Dr. Baker was the author of a number of scientific works and assembled an extensive collection of scientific specimens for a museum, which was established in 1909 at Rollens college and named in his honor, and of which he was director until his death. Mrs. Baker is an author of note having several works on Botany, including a book on The Flowers of Florida.

LISBON

The meeting of the Community club Wednesday evening opened with the singing of America the Beautiful. After business, the meeting was turned over to the chairman of the program committee, Walter A. Hyde, who announced the following numbers: Selections by the Lisbon orchestra; solos by John McLean of Jewett City, Monarch of the Woods and Bells of the Sea; an address entitled "Grades," by Rev. A. H. Abbott of Norwich; solos, Kipling's Recessional, and McGregor's Gathering, by John McLean; selections by the orchestra; Mrs. Jesse Phillips accompanied the orchestra and for the solos. A rising vote of thanks was given the soloist, the speaker of the evening, the orchestra and the committee in charge for the pleasing entertainment. The closing song was Sailing. There was an attendance of about 100. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The committees announced for the next meeting are: Entertainment, Archie Goldberg, Charles and Harold Helmboldt, Alwin Kaempffe, Jr., and Newell Rist; refreshments, Augusta Thoma, Helen Thoma, Sadie Goldberg and Ruth Allen.

Mrs. Henry Kendall, who underwent a surgical operation at the private hospital in New London Wednesday, was reported as resting comfortably Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Amidon attended the funeral of the former's brother, Robert S. Amidon, in Scotland and Tolland Wednesday.

The Girl Scouts are to have a bandaging lesson from Dr. R. C. Paine on Saturday, March 22.

About 75 attended the C. E. society meeting Sunday evening when U. G. Colby spoke on Faith. Representatives from Webster, Worcester, North Grosvenordale, Brandy Hill and Thompson Hill societies spoke briefly after his talk. Music was furnished by Worcester visitors. Refreshments were served, under the direction of Mrs. T. D. Green, Mrs. A. Maitland, Mrs. R. C. Paine and Mrs. Dartt.

Miss Mary E. Chase is spending the week end with Mrs. Houghton, in East Putnam.

Mr. Colby and the school nurse spoke to the pupils in the grade schools here on health habits and foods, last week.

Prayer meeting this week was at the home of Mrs. Gina St. Martin, with Rev. George F. Camp leading.

HAMPTON

Stanton Burdick's pen of 106 Rhode Island Reds, L. A. Bellis stock, received blue ribbons for January and February for the highest egg production for Windham county in the 4-H club home egg laying contest. The blue ribbons are awarded by the Windham County Farmers' association.

A bean and salad supper was served at the chapel, Saturday, to nearly eighty by the Parent-Teachers association. A large exhibit of work from the schools in town was displayed around the room and excited much interest. There was a large amount of splendid hand work exhibited, that and the lesson papers shown won compliments for teachers and pupils. Following the supper there was an entertainment, the program including parent and teacher songs; My Tribute and Schools, motion song, first grade pupils; song, Center school; piano duet, Mrs. Ray Fuller and little Jean Merrill; original poem, Mrs. Asa Burdick; song, Parenthood United; reading, Mrs. Arthur Pearl; quartette, Mrs. Joseph Estabrooks, Mrs. Richard Burchnall, Carl Jewett and Reginald Thayer; reading, John Scott; song, Center school; Boys number, George Fuller, Malcolm Burdick, Lincoln Iskiyan, harmonicas; Leon Paulikowski; violin, Parting song.

Mrs. Arthur Pearl spent a portion of the week with Putnam relatives.

Miss Eleanor Pearl has returned home after a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Earl Overbaugh in Waterbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pearl gave a whist Monday evening in honor of the second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Keach. There were six tables in play. Misses Eleanor Hall and Fawn Jewett, Jerome Keach and George Hall won the prizes. The rooms were decorated in green. Ice cream and cake were served. Favors consisting of chocolate hats covered with green paper were given the ladies and chocolate cigars covered with green to the men.

The American Legion met with one of its members, Dr. A. D. Marsh, Monday evening. After the business meeting, games were played. Mrs Marsh served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Phillips and daughter spent Sunday with Mrs Phillips' brother and family in Pascoag, R. I.

CONNECTICUT APPLES

When Assistant Director Hodge of the Connecticut Bureau of Markets decries the practice of overfacing the barrel or bushel or box of apples, that practice of putting the best of the fruit in the top layer, and declares that deceit is not necessary to sell high quality apples in this state, he is certain to get a round of prolonged applause.

It is not a new game. It is in accord with the practice of enticing people to buy fruit or other things from certain attractive samples and then delivering the run of the orchard. It has been done for so long that buyers anticipate it and try to protect themselves by digging down into the basket, shaking up the strawberries or making a rather careful inspection of fruit and vegetables to see how near to the sample on top is the bottom or next to the bottom layer.

When Mr. Hodge refers to it as deceitful he knows how the buying public feels about it. If the seller wants to polish up his fruit to show that he has something just as good as the producers in other parts of the country there can be no objection, provided the under layers will prove to be equally attractive as to size, and will yield as good results in the hands of the polisher.

The opportunity for supplying a larger part of the demands for apples in Connecticut should not be overlooked. It cannot be expected, however, that it is going to be met and business is going to be encouraged just because the growers are stacking the cards against the buyer. Connecticut can build up a reputation for state-grown fruit just as well as any other commonwealth. It can likewise convince the buyers that it not only has the goods but it is going to give them a square deal. Through such a handling of the apple business in this state there would be developed a confidence in Connecticut growers and Connecticut fruit. There would not be the readiness to accept something else, claimed to be just as good, when experience has taught otherwise. Playing the shell game with apples has much the same effect upon the buying public as being made the victim of a gold brick scheme.

THE WHITE HOUSE FIRE

Because it involved the white house, the Christmas eve fire at Washington received nationwide attention. Such was inevitable and because of it there cannot fail to be interest in the explanation as to the cause of the fire which is given by W. H. Rodda, a member of the National Fire Prevention association. He points out that the "cause of the fire was clearly indicated to be faulty construction of the fireplace. Wood studs and furring strips were in direct contact with a four-inch fireplace and chimney, which is, of course, absolutely contrary to the accepted rules of fire protection."

In continuing his report in regard to the fire, Mr. Rodda declared: "The fire once more demonstrates very clearly the folly of combustible construction for important buildings, especially when they house operations and documents as valuable as those in connection with the federal government. It is obvious, too, that protective measures such as used in mercantile and manufacturing plants would have avoided or reduced the loss."

What has been said concerning the white house fire and its prevention might apply equally well to many fires about the country, to which less publicity was given, but where there was quite as much opportunity and need for preventive measures.

No one had supposed that construction at the white house had been carried on with the idea of a cheap job. Certainly there should be no thought of subjecting any valuable building and its contents to dangerous conditions through faulty or money-saving construction. Where public buildings are involved the government is expected to pay liberally and it does, so much so that there ought not to be any poor construction work. It is true that the dangerous feature was covered up when the job was done but it ought not to have been sanctioned when it was being built. The studding and furring being separated from the blaze of the fireplace by only four inches of brick, the wonder is that there wasn't a fire there long ago. Possibly those who constructed the fireplace thought it was simply for show and built accordingly. The lesson of that fire should not only have its good effects in the reconstruction but in any other buildings where similar practices are resorted to. The folly of inviting fires in such a manner is perfectly obvious.

PASSPORT FEES

Since the close of the war many measures which were adopted as emergency legislation have been rescinded, or returned to the status that prevailed prior to the war. Partial results have been obtained in that direction in regard to passport fees, through negotiations which have been carried on between this and other countries. There remains the war-time fee, however, for those going to Great Britain, since that country has displayed a reluctance to abandon what it regards as an excellent revenue producer at the expense of Americans, and this country has not reduced its charge.

The situation exists despite much discussion. Whether the bill which has been offered in congress by Representative Douglass of Massachusetts will bring about a change awaits developments. By its provisions the passport fees charged those going abroad would be cut to $2 from the present figure of $10. This would not obligate the British to do likewise but it would mean lowering the expense that is imposed upon American travelers and bring to the same level all passport fees for those going to foreign countries. It might have the effect of attracting more to continental Europe since agreements exist with many countries on the continent whereby the fees of the respective countries will be $2. That means considerable to travelers when it is considered that a fee is collected every time a border is crossed, and especially so where $10 fees prevail.

Because the boost in the fee was due to the action of the United States in order to produce revenue and to discourage foreign travel during the war, it is only proper that we should take a leading part in reducing it. As soon as we raised the fee other nations took the cue and did likewise. It was no more than could be expected. They reaped the same benefits that we did and since the war they have profited handsomely until the point was reached where many of them felt that it was operating to restrain American travelers, who were considered good spenders. That discovery made it possible for this government to negotiate a uniform reduction until Great Britain is the chief country which maintains its unwillingness to lower the fee. The chance to help Americans and possibly to influence the British lies in the legislation that has been sought.

CLEAN-UP SEASON

It is getting to be time, and some have already started, to get out and clean up in anticipation of spring, warmer weather, and all that go with them. It is a process that will get encouragement as days roll along, for inspiration not only comes from appearances, but from what the other fellow is doing. There are always leaders in the clean-up activity and they have a powerful influence upon others. They start the work and set a fine pace.

In the cleaning up of yards and property after the passing of winter, and in getting rid of the rubbish and accumulations there is reason to give consideration to more than the property that is being cleaned. It isn't enough to clean up and polish your own back yard if it is being done at the expense of the next door neighbor or someone else a bit more removed. There is an obligation to get rid of the debris and not park it on the property of another to become just as much, possibly more, of an eyesore than if it had been left where it was.

Along with the cleaning up there should go a thorough removal. Otherwise, the general effect is lost. Otherwise, the property that might pass inspection is made worse because someone else has adopted the easiest way of getting rid of his waste. In many instances it is possible to eliminate the rubbish by a bonfire. That will effectively dispose of the material so that it will give no further bother to anyone. It might require a bit more time and effort but it means a good job. Carrying it over and parking it on a neighbor, or even on public property which is not used for such purposes, doesn't carry out the idea of cleaning up. Further than that, it makes a disgraceful sight to greet the eyes of visitors to the city.

THE MACDONALD GOVERNMENT

When the present labor government came into power in England it was indicated that the tenure of office might be short. It all depends upon the manner in which the reins of government are handled and the policies that are put into operation.

There has been an opportunity to put it to a test in the matter of recent legislation and, while the MacDonald government has shown itself strong in most instances, there was one vote in which it failed to get a majority vote. Had it been a vital matter and disclosed a lack of confidence it would have meant the resignation of the ministry but the storm appears to have been weathered for the time being and no such action will be forthcoming now. The vote of censure which was sought was successfully beaten.

How long this will give the labor party assurances of control is quite uncertain. It is open to the interpretation that it signifies the beginning of the end. Whether political prognosticators are correct in this particular instance remains to be seen, but it seems highly improbable that any concerted effort will be made to upset the government until after it is determined what the result is going to be at the naval conference.

This is a gathering which has been called by the British. It is known what a handicap the situation in the French government has been to the conference and it seems improbable that the British will deliberately undertake to make it worse by creating any such situation at the seat of the parley.

There are certain features of the labor government which have made a fine impression. The successful outcome of the conference would increase it and to force a government crisis at this time might react strongly to the advantage of the MacDonald ministry.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is well to remember that this is the last day in which to file your income tax report.

The man on the corner says: There's no chance for an argument when everyone approves your proposition.

That man whose friend returned $10 for the $5 borrowed 51 years ago wouldn't get rich as a money lender.

From the statement by Secretary Stimson, France must understand that our participation in a security pact is hopeless.

Even though he is criticized for it, there will be plenty of support for the attitude the police commissioner of New York has displayed toward the trouble-making communists.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

If readers of the daily press, especially those who live in foreign countries, should estimate the condition of Chicago by the work of its gangdom, or its present financial plight, they would be justified in throwing up their hands and exclaiming, "Sodom! Sodom!" Possibly the more supertitious might confidently expect that once again fire would descend from heaven and destroy the city of the plain as it once did that former one and its neighbor, Gomorrah. But Chicago is a mighty community and, as a whole, is not fairly represented by law breakers and debts. Let me point out its magnificent university, that has so forged ahead in recent years as to be easily the world's greatest center of theological education. To this ought to be added the beautiful buildings and spacious parks that have recently been added to the municipal area.

Isn't it one of the strange vagaries of the human mind to overestimate and magnify the shady side of life. Also to belittle and pass unnoticed those better things without which human society would quickly collapse? The very fact that the better side of human action never gets into print is that it represents the regular, normal side of daily living. It is so common that to publish it would be an absurdity. How people would laugh to read in a morning paper something like this: "We have been informed on good authority that John Smith still continues to go to his daily business; that he continues to pay his bills regularly as they come due; and that he continues to support his family as becomes a right minded-citizen!" Now this isn't news because 90 per cent of the John Smiths do that thing. But let one John Smith out of the multitude drive his wife out of the house with a stove poker, then we have a thriller that everybody reads. It is this steady righteousness that keeps society from collapse.

From what we read in the papers and magazines, and more especially what we see with our own eyes, the evidence accumulates that we are passing through a period of unemployment. People who have to work for a living and have never been out of a job, have no idea what it means to him and the rest of his family. When he sees the growing thinness, the pallor and the frequent tears of his wife and children because of anxiety and lack of proper nourishment, he begins to have some understanding of the meaning of hell. We have this in our own city, and our city is but a type of conditions that prevail everywhere. Is it not a time for us church people to find out as far as possible if our parishes have hungry ones? Let all charity and visitation committees get busy and find out just what conditions are in our respective fields. At the present time there is no way in which we can serve the community better.

To one who loves that noble game, baseball—and the writer confesses without the least tinge of a blush that he belongs to that great number—notice has come of the strenuous preparation being made in the warm south for the coming season's activities. Let no boy get the impression that the men who command anywhere from five to 60,000 dollars a year for their services have nothing but a soft snap. These great salaries are only paid to those men who can render an adequate service. They must know baseball from A to Z; they must keep themselves in prime condition: they must submit to rigid discipline; they must keep in practice they must remember that an error is very harmful to their reputation; that they must submit to the will of the manager even when they do not see the reason or the justice of it. Remember that $20,000 to $25,000 are given only to those who know and can play baseball.

Once upon a time—in the long distant past—a mother told her son to go to a certain store and get a spool of white thread when he came home for dinner. Like a true child of Adam he was on hand for dinner but minus the spool of thread. His mother belonging to the old school of orthodoxy took him to task for his heedlessness. The boy having a good deal of spirit replied: "You know, ma, that I have an awful forgettery!" Isn't it true that when man had that awful tumble in Adam, it affected his "forgettery?" When he got up on his feet from that tumble he found that his head piece had a moral curvature so that he has been forgetting spools of thread ever since. Now this man who fell in Adam has passed on that weakness to his successors. Remember, it is not women who forget spools of thread, because it is nowhere stated that she ever fell in Adam, although she may have fallen to him.

When we consider the personnel of the cabinet Jesus chose to help him in the work of his earthly ministry, there was no uniformity of type, any more than there is in the cabinets of our presidents. But after all were not those differences superficial rather than inherent? There was a time, and not so long ago when Christendom took sides in this matter; there were the Pauline and the Petrine schools of thought, but the differences were so trivial that they vanished away because there was nothing fundamental to fight over. Mere questions of temperament and modes of expression cannot long separate men when they have the love of God in their hearts. What great outward difference between the gentle Robertson and the thundering Talmage but they were both preachers of the one gospel. If we carefully study the lives of the original 12 we shall find the note of Christian love running through them all.

Gentle reader! does it ever occur to you that we of today are living altogether too much in a dead past and are forgetting many of the crying needs of today? Why should we continue to spend so much time in the old lime pits of Egypt and still continue to cross the Red sea with the liberated captives? Haven't we right here in Connecticut, or at least in America, at the present time conditions just as appalling? Captives in some of our coal mines are crying out to the great Jehovah for release from conditions that are intolerable. Women and little children are looking from the gloomy windows of cotton factories yearning for some intangible Moses who shall lead them from bondage to liberty. There is not a boy in our Sunday schools outside the primary grade who is not familiar with the life of the Children of Israel in Egypt and their deliverence, but how much do they know of the need of a second Moses here in America?

Is it not true that the scenes of the advent of Jesus are perfectly familiar to all? To be sure all should be perfectly familiar with them. At least most people are because the story has been repeated so many times. There is the story of the "Wise Men" following the star to the place where the Christ child was born. Why not spend more time following that star which has crossed oceans and continents for nearly 2000 years? A star that "giveth light to every man—that cometh into the world." Leave the Bethlehem of long ago but see the same star shining with kindly light over a thousand Bethlehems of the modern world where helpless little children are living in almost stable conditions: let us see that star and follow it until it leads to heaven and immortality! As we see that star today it will help us to understand that great hymn: "Lead, kindly Light."

Plum Island Bought 255 Years Ago From Indians For Coat, Biscuit and Fishhooks

A coat, a barrel of biscuits and 100 fishhooks was th price Samuel Wyllys of Hartford paid to an Indian sachem in 1659 when he bought Plum island, which is one of the key defenses of the eastern end of Long Island sound and now being considered as the possible location of a new federal prision. Wyllys bought the island of between 800 and 900 acres, from the Couchoug Indians, but considered it prudent to fortify himself against any future claims by getting a deed from Nyandauch, sachem of the Montauks, with whom the coat, biscuits and fishhooks passed as coin of the realm.

Values Rise

As the island was part of the state of New York, the Hartford man had his tenure ratified by a patent of confirmation which was granted to him, April 2, 1675, by Governor Andros and the island was subsequently conveyed to Samuel Beebe. Values had gone up by the next time a transfer is recorded, for in 1722 the island was sold for 355 pounds (about $1,700) to Daniel Tuthill. Like the original purchase from the Indians, this transfer was not without its unique element, for Tuthill agreed to pay to the governor of New York, as quit-rent, the one-half part of a fat lamb upon midsummer's day, yearly, every year successively forever.

Bought By Government

Government ownership of a part of the island for the establishment of a military post there began in March, 1897, when 150 acres at the eastern end were bought from Abram S. Hewitt, a former mayor of New York city, who had come into possession of the island five years before this time. The price paid by the government was $25,000 which was substantially more than Mr. Hewitt had paid for the whole island.

Negotiations at the price of $100 an acre for the remaining 647 acres were entered into in December, 1900, which resulted in the government becoming the sole owner and being in a position to enlarge the fortifications which then consisted of three batteries at the easterly end.

Costly Fortifications

By 1915 new lessons had been learned from the European wars of the increased range of guns on shipboard and congress was asked to appropriate $3,000,000 for the enlargement and improvement of the fortifications on Plum island, which then consisted of Fort Terry, manned by six companies of coast artillery, and mounting 12-inch guns, the same size weapons as constituted the equipment of Fort Wright on Fishers island, the most easterly of the defenses of Long Island sound and the metropolitan area.

Rendezvous For Fishermen

Old Timer in the New Haven Sunday Register writes:

The rumors about glum old Plum island being converted into a federal military prison are awakening a lot of memories among old timers in these parts, for we have always been more or less intimate with that solitary spot, and with Little Gull island, and Montauk and Block island, and so on out as far as the sea. In other words, there are few places in that charted and lighthouse guarded body of water between the Atlantic and the eastern end of Long Island with which Connecticut fishermen are not on some terms of familiarity.

Always Lonely

That region has ever been an intriguing resort for Connecticut sailor men, good or bad. It is historically a gloomy spot.

In the days of the revolution some of our forefathers, it is said used to kill beef and sell it to the British ships off there, and New Haveners and New Londoners used to peddle contraband pork and potatoes to the fleet of the common enemy, at a price. Some of the old Yankees were more than thrifty.

Plum island nowadays, however, does not seem to be of any particular value to anyone. It is but a bluff little tract about 50 feet above the level of the sea, about a mile long and half a mile wide, spanding with Montauk at the outmost point of Long island, lonely and pounded by the surf.

It was in 1659 that the white men from New Haven and elsewhere on the north shore discovered the lure of the Long island coast and the sparkling waters that the Indians had long been aware of but which they were willing to sell it for the glittering baubles offered by the English.

Plum island has ever since then been an inviting place for the rough-and-ready fishermen from Connecticut. It is the home of the bluefish, where that inhabitant of the sound has been pursued by Saybrook fishermen for years with the approach of each August and September, fishermen who spend the first part of the season fishing for shad on the Connecticut river and who then go home and plant their farms. They are the type who take up the chase of the blues in comfortable boats in Plum gut and come back to the mainland in winter for educating their children, for hulled corn, and so on and so forth, all of which is true to Connecticut form.

One claim which Plum Island has to fame is that it was for some years the summer home of John Howard Payne, who wrote "Home Sweet Home." He was from East Hampton, where the cottage of his boyhood is a prized possession, I am told. That is an interesting locality, but I understand that it was his life on the rugged shore of Plum island that finally led him to compose that famous song which is supposed to make one homesick when one is away from home and cannot get back forthwith.

Attracts Fishermen

Now nobody will deny that the piscatorial delights of eastern Long island and the Plum island region are supreme. They draw fishermen there every moment and have always done so. New Haveners made trips to Southold, across the way from here, and established a church there in the 1700's. Whether the church was well attended or not, I don't know, but we do know that they had plenty of Santa Cruz rum on the island and that they made a specialty of catching and salting shad.

Also, the clams caught in Plum gut, a most wild and fearsome current for small boats, furnished a choice bit of great size and rare flavor, the counterpart of which was also to be found at Shelter island and at Montauk and at Fort Pond bay, "inside of Montauk." There were also numerous beds of blue claw crabs and lobsters galore.

Somehow, the Connecticut fishermen always had great luck at Plum island. The Old Timer has a lot of pictures which repeat the story of that spot from A to Z since the time when the first plantation flag was planted here in 1638. A hundred years later, and old timer, David Applemban, who sailed from Clinton, said among other things:

"We caught as many codfish as haddock, in the gut (Plum gut). We got 4,000. The run of blue fish this fall has been big and there has been a run of mackerel and porgies which has been bigger than we have ever seen before."

Why Plum Island

The name of Plu misland became attached to that tract, it is said, by virtue of the fact that the island was, is and apparently always will be covered beach-wise with plum bushes, a bush whose fruit when preserved properly has all sorts of other preserves "skinned a mile." The plums there seem to get a tang of the sea.

Anyway, our early housewives used to send their husbands over there in the fall of the year to lug home the plums (see Calkins, History of New London and Norwich, and Barber, Connecticut Historical Collections.) The plums had a peculiar flavor which has never been found elsewhere except in the lower valley of the Connecticut river.

No account of Plum island would be complete without mention of the winter visits of "Bill," the Plum gut gull. "Bill" has been missing now for a year or two, and his absence is especially noticed by the lighthouse people there. He was not too sociable, always keeping a distance proper for safety from the hands that were feeding him. He received tons, you might almost say, of food from the lighthouse keepers who welcomed him not only at Plum island but at Little Gull island, the entrance to the race, as well.

His steady habit and skill in riding the dangerous and swift-running gut attracted considerable attention from scientists, and the dates of his arrival and departure when sent out over the wires invariably suggested many a fish story.

One of the oldest mementos on the island is the grave, still marked, where the British buried one of their sailors 100 years ago.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 14—It is all very well for masculine members of the house invariably, since the ladies got seats there, to begin formal speeches with that "Ladies and Gentlemen of the House" gesture.

That is the chivalrous thing to do, and it's done.

But chivalry and politics don't mix when it comes to dealing out committee assignment plums.

A strict seniority rule is in vogue and apparently it will be a long time before any of eight house ladies get within shooting distance of even a lesser commitee chairmanship. The feminine group now does not even rate a job on any of the big communities like appropriations, ways and means or rules.

Not even that veteran, Florence Kahn of California, serving her third term, has made much progress. She holds down only the military committee place once so importantly filled by her late husband, Julius Kahn. But she is still far down the senority list. She ranks tenth among the republican membership of fifteen.

But There's Hope

There is some hope of an early chairmanship for Ruth Pratt of New York. She is junior member on the republican side of the library committee. Only two men stand ahead of her, however, due to the small size of the committee. A shifting of assignments almost any time might see her the first woman committee chairman in congress.

Ruth McCormick of Illinois must base her senatorial ambitions on a single committee job. She is the junior majority member, No. 14, of the naval committee. Edith Rogers of Massachusetts has two committee places, civil service and veteran legislation. She is by way of being an expert on veterans' hospitalization matters, yet she still ranks seven from the top on the republican membership of that committee.

Incidentally, vets legislation is the only house committee with two woman members. Mary Norton of New Jersey ranks No. 4 on the Democratic side.

Katherine Langley of Kentucky has an imposing looking list of committee jobs. They are claims, education, immigration and naturalization, and invalid pensions. But Mrs. Langley is No. 8 among claims committee republicans, No. 13 on education, No. 7 on immigration and No. 8 on invalid pensions.

Another, Too

Among the democratic ladies Ruth Owen of Florida also fostering senate hopes, has the most important assignment, the foreign affairs committee. She is the absolute junior member on the minority side, however, ranking No. 8. Her political colleague, Pearl Oldfield of Arkansas, who probably does not care as she has declared herself through with politics anyhow, is in a similar position, No. 8 and junior, on the coinage, weights and measures committee.

Coming back to Mrs. Norton, she might beat Ruth Pratt to a chairmanship if the house went democratic. She is No. 2 on the minority side of the District of Columbia committee.

YOUR HEALTH

Some Patent Medicines.

By J. C. Anderson, M. D., Austin, Tex.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

There are some weak willed, credulous ceratures who will swallow anything—any kind of tonic, or remedy that a neighbor advocates. They are the sort who fall ready victims to the patent medicine advertisements. Of course the most lucrative field of the patent medicine vendor is where there are no doctors and medicine shows have a record breaking attendance wherever they pitch tent. People generally should be warned against the indiscriminate use of such nostrums as are tried by quacks and fakes. Sometimes a mixture of molasses and salts will be recommended to cure almost every ailment from tuberculosis to ingrowing nails. There should be wholesale exposure and condemnation for the imposter whose wares, when analyzed, are revealed to be lacking in a single virtue advertised, or worse still, are really noxious.

Study the medicine in advertising in some papers and you will find yourself in a veritable goblin realm of fakery peopled with monstrous myths. Here is an amulet in the form of an electric contrivance, warranted to restore youth and vigor to the senile; yonder a magic ring or a bewitched plaster which will draw the pangs of rheumatism from the tortured body or "your money mack." Now and then quacks get so brazen that we hear such declarations as "my magnetic shield can cure anything, paralysis, consumption, Bright's disease, obesity, insanity or senility."

Space does not permit dwelling on the money wrung from dupes of headache cures, drink cures, morphine cures. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are annually squandered by gullible American people who give credence to the advertisements of quacks. Next to bogus stocks there is no more fruitful source of easy money than the frightened human being who dopes himself with mail-order remedies. It is paradoxical that in a land boasting of armies of highly trained medical men, so many people put their trust i nthe far fetched claims of a group of men whose main object in life is to extract money from other people's pockets, when a visit to a reputable doctor, or a letter to the state department of health, would get trustworthy health information.

"Highways to Happiness"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "He that loseth his life . . . shall find it" (Matthew 10:39).

Read: Matthew 16:21-27.

MEDITATION: To lose one's life is not to throw it away, but to give it away. Life is too valuable to be sold at any price. We do not sell our most precious possessions. If we part with these we give them away. Life's best rewards come as we invest ourselves without thought of gain in some great cause or in the welfare of human beings. A story was recently told me of a wealthy man who offered his services to a hospital board saying: "I have spent enough time and effort in making money and in getting things for myself; I should like now to have the pleasure of doing something for nothing." The way to the enjoyment of life is; something for somebody for nothing.

PRAYER: Deliver us, O God, from the self-centered life. Lead us forth from solicitous and anxious thoughts of self to the wider fields of service. In Christ, Thou hast shown us the way; help us to walk in it, for His sake. Amen.

THE GARDEN

By REX REES

The Gladiolus.

The gladiolus comes principally from South Africa where about 50 species have been discovered. It is also a native of middle Africa, central and southern Europe, Persia and the country around the eastern end of the Mediterranean. About 40 different species have been found in these localities, and one in Hampshire, England. These varieties have been crossed and hybridized until they are so mixed that it is almost impossible to say what species have been combined to produce the choice varieties so much admired by all true gardeners; nor does it matter. We all know that the gladiolus is one of the most beautiful of all our summer flowers and is so easily grown and so reasonable in price as to be within the reach of almost any one who cares to have it. The history of the modern gladiolus is interesting because some of the great gardeners of France and England and Holland and America have devoted years of faithful study and experiment to bring the flower to its present perfection and beauty. The flower is already very popular and is becoming more and more a favorite every year because of its long blooming period of months from June until November. It includes a marvellous range of color with almost innumerable combinations. Its general habit of bearing two rows of flowers facing the same way makes it easy to arrange so as to show all its qualities to the best advantage. It takes up water freely, which enables it to go on blooming to the very tip of the spike after being cut, lasting a week in the hottest weather and two weeks when kept in a cool room. Then, too, the case with which the spike can be cleaned of the faded flowers, leaving it fresh and trim as if newly cut in a great recommendation.

So many times visitors in my gardens have said: "What a pity the gladiolus has no perfume." I have always thought and still think more firmly then ever that one of the great merits of the flower is that it lacks perfume. An agreeable feature of any flower that is used in moderate quantities is an appealing fragrance, but in banks and masses as is so often the case with gladiolus decorations, it would be a serious handicap.

For decorative purposes the gladiolus is fast becoming indispensable. The demand has grown within the last few years beyond all telling. It is reported that one of the great gladiolus growers of our country has sold the last year bulbs running into millions and that his income from the sales exceeds $500,000. This same grower has recently sent out an inquiry in which he makes known the fact that he has calls for many millions more bulbs than he can supply from his own great fields. I mention this fact to show the popularity the flower has attained. The bright and lasting blooms make it very desirable for stores and office rooms, for dining rooms, restaurants and hotels, for weddings and funerals sometimes calling for thousands of spikes, which, with their sweet message of cheerfulness, speak alike of joy and comfort to all.

It matters not whether your garden soil be of sand, or clay, gravel, muck, or loam, gladiolus will grow in it with only a moderate chance. While it prefers a sandy loam, it readily adapts itself to its circumstances and like a true sport does its level best. It stands dry weather well but relishes plenty of water and low land well drained is most excellent for gladiolus. Any ground that will grow potatoes will grow good gladiolus. The very richest place in your garden suits it admirably and if given that place it responds appreciatingly by giving you glorious blooms. Spade your ground as deeply as you would for potatoes.

Now as to fertilizers. Any crop can be well fed with good stable manure, but in these days it is a very difficult matter to obtain such fertilizer, so we must resort to commercial fertilizer, or depend upon the soil to produce the necessary nutriment for the plant. But a gardener cannot afford to take any risks along this line. I you do not have proper nourishment your whole season's crop may be lost. It is a safe course always to assume that the soil is lean and must be fed and then proceed to furnish the amount needed to produce results desired. The gladiolus is a vigorous feeder and can assimilate a lot of nourishment, so feed your plants generously. I have tried out various foods through a number of years, and the very best results I have ever had is with sheep manure and acid phosphate in equal proportions sown in the trenches as liberally as you would sow common potato fertilizer. Plant the bulbs directly in it and cover them about three inches deep and when the plants appear fill up the trench and when the spikes show or just a little before, add an equal amount of the manure. Cultivative is of great value to growing plants. The plants should be hilled up to give strength to the spike and protect it against the wind and storm. If you are planting a few you can easily stake them and tie the spikes fast to the stakes but where you are planting hundreds or thousands it is impossible to do this. My rule is to plant as closely as I can and let the plants take care of themselves.

The passion for growing gladiolus will grow on you, year after year. There is nothing quite so charming and wonderful as to go out in the early morning and find a new one of these precious bits of nature's handiwork in bloom for the first time. When growing, a new variety and color first shows in the bud. I am always more or less excited until the full flower shows itself. There are so many varieties in gladiolus and you will like one or more much better than any of the others, but one should have some of the representatives of all the varieties in his garden for he will have many visitors and a garden is for others as well as for one self.

There are various types of gladiolus. The exhibition type, primulinus grandiflorus, pimulinus, lacinatus type and the cameo or miniature type. The most satisfactory type for the most of us is the exhibition type. This is the tall spike with 15 or more florets and eight or ten or more open at a time, all facing the same way. More people are attracted to this type than to any other. Next comes primulinus grandiflorus. This is also a tall spike with many florets open at the same time, and all harmoniously spaced on the spike. In this type the spacing is often wider than in the exhibition type, but it still maintains its symmetry and beauty. The main difference between this and the first type is in the form of the upper three petals. The center one of these petals still holds a hint of the hood of the true primulinus, the two lateral upper petals are spread like wings. The third type is the primulinus which usually is a small flower having a hooded placement of the upper petals. The placements of the florets is usually good with wide graceful spacing and slender spikes. Some of the most beautiful bouquets I have ever seen were of the primulinus type. As for myself I like the lacinated types, developed by A. E. Kunderd. Their ragged lacinated or cut edges like unto autumn leaves, appeal to me greatly.

As to colors, most people who visit my gardens prefer red to any other color. Next comes pink, then salmon pink, then lavender and finally yellow and white. I have not kept a record of these preferences, but a tally of the orders would prove this beyond a doubt. As for myself I prefer the soft pastel shades blending in perfect harmony. Then too, the bi-colored types appeal with great force and are the most striking of all. One thing more, before I come to the naming of varieties, unless you are growing your gladiolus for exhibition purposes I would suggest that if you are going to grow any quantity of gladiolus that you buy seconds or what growers call No. Twos or No. Threes. They save money and will give good satisfaction. As to the colors for your garden I would suggest white varieties as follows: (I grow the flowers I suggest and know their qualities. They please the most fastidious taste and are fine keepers when cut). Every year, Carmen Sylvia, Marie Kunderd and Giant White appeal to me as the best of whites; Albania is a fine white growing in popularity every year. The Albatross and Helen Wills, Ruffolace and White Glory are excellent. Of the lavenders, Byron L. Smith and Mrs. F. C. Peters hold the place of affection in my heart. Jubilee is fine, and when your pocketbook will afford it, Royal Lavender, Minuet, Jane Adams, Orchid Lady and Bernard Shaw will give great pleasure, and pride in possession. Of the salmon pink there are three that outclass all others, Catherine Coleman, the largest glad grown; Mrs. Leon Douglas and W. H. Phipps. Of the light pinks, Mrs. Frank Pendleton and Mrs. H. E. Bothin. Personally I prefer Mrs. Bothin, but to Mrs. Frank Pendleton should go the honor of making the gladiolus popular. It is the greatest keeper of the family. Pink Wonder, Rita Beck and Yonell's Favorite, very late, are all fine.

American Engineers Build Dam at Marathon.

The original course of the Marathon will soon become a watercourse by the efforts of American engineers and Greek workmen.

A dam at Marathon impounding the Charadra river, to divert the water for the use of Athens, is being completed. As ancient Greece built her temples of marble, so modern Greece builds her dams, and the new dam at Marathon is said to be the only marble-faced dam in the world.

"Over the route that Pheidippides ran 22 miles to bring good news of victory over the Persians, water will soon run to refresh thirsty Athenians," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"Pheidippides had won races at the Olympic games, so the city council called on him in that emergency 2,420 years ago. A few days previous to the battle they asked him to run down to Sparta to persuade the Spartans to bring up reinforcements. When he returned the army had marched and was encamped on the heights above the Plain of Marathon, which is on the other side of the peninsula from Athens. So Pheidippides took up his heavy shield and spear and set out to join the troops.

"When the Greek charge routed the Persian army Pheidippides dropped his spear and shield and sprinted for Athens. Tradition says that he ran 22 miles from the battle-field only to fall exhausted, crying out before he died, 'Rejoice, we conquer!'

"A Greek runner won the Marathon when the difficult race was revived at the first modern Olympic games held in Athens in 1896. The official distance has been increased from the 22 miles that Pheidippides ran to 26 miles, 385 yards.

"The Battle of Marathon is often included among lists of great battles of the world, although some historians hold that the tactics of the Greeks were the result of happy accident rather than examples of superior military wisdom. Darius, king of Persia, had ordered his generals to enslave Athens and Eretria. Eretria fell and the Persians drew their ships up on the sand at Marathon and disembarked cavalry and infantry.

"The Athenians and their allies, meanwhile, had taken a position in the narrow passes of the highlands which run down the peninsula. In the passes the Persian cavalry was useless. Finally the Greeks, though fewer in numbers, boldly attacked in a running charge. The Persians repelled the center of the charging Greek line whose ends then swung in with crushing attacks on both flanks. The invaders fled to their boats and shoved off, although the Greeks succeeded in capturing seven ships.

"Marathon has also been made famous by the lines of Lord Byron who lost his life in the modern Greek revolution against the Turks:

'The mountains look on Marathon,
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And, musing there an hour alone,
I dream'd that Greece might still be free;
For standing on the Persian's grave,
I could not deem myself a slave.'"

Expresses Appreciation to Kellogg Company for Relief

If you are troubled with constipation, this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 800 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will interest you:

"This is simply a letter of appreciation for the wonderful results I have obtained through the use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"For years, in fact ever since my return from France, I have been troubled with constipation and its companion ills. I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally in desperation, not wishing to be a slave to laxatives all my life, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable and quick—in fact the next day long-hoped-for relief became a happy reality."

The Kellogg Company has received thousands of similar letters in praise of ALL-BRAN, the product that is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

It also adds needed iron to the diet and builds health.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream . . . in soups, salads and fruit juices . . . in cooked foods and hot breads. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Greatest Need

The spiritual needs of the church are its great and important needs. When these are met, when men are rooted and grounded in the truth, when their lives are hid with Christ in God, when they are growing in wisdom and love, when all the fruits of the spirit are abounding, then such matters as have to do with money, or church buildings, will be easily met.

How true this has been in the history of the church. When the spiritual condition of the church was strong all other departments were thriving.

Is not this what we need in the world today to solve the many problems? If the hearts of the people were stayed in Christ what a change it would make in this world of ours. O, that the hearts of men would turn to their creator who would solve all their difficulties and fill all hearts witih peace and joy.

If we would only learn to look up to our Heavenly Father what a change it would make. Keep our eyes on Christ and His service first we would never go astray. Our lives would be filiied with that joy and peace which far exceeds all earthly joy, was not that the secret of the great power of the early church. The spiritual needs of the church were placed first. Not that they neglected any part of the work, but each part of the work occupied its right place. They realizied that soul saving and the spiritual growth and strength of the Christian ranked first. To be a Christian meant to be a sincere worker for Christ, making Christ's example their goal. To be found faithiful at all times no matter what the cost.

Stories That Recall Others

Let There Be Light

Bill, four years old, asked his father to leave the light burning in the bathroom at night.

"No, son, we can't have that," the father replied. "The light bill would run too high."

Bill pondered a moment, then came a juvenile solution of the problem.

"That's easy," the youngster suggested, "Just take out the bulb!"

Disappointed Dog

On a farm lives a dog that is very fond of weiners. Mrs. Farmerette, on her regular weekly shopping trips, brings the household pet his coveted morsels. On one occasion the dog met her in the driveway and the package was tossed to him.

A few hours later a very disconsolate dog was found just outside his doghouse with a bedraggled pair of "silk teddys" nearby.

HALTS AT FIFTEEN BRIDGES IRK TRAFFIC IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO—(AP)—Harried by gangsters and worrying over its bills, Chicago's most pernicious irritation is the fact that when it goes to the river it sometimes can't get across.

Fifteen bridges, spanning the Chicago river, connect almost all the main arteries of traffic to the loop. Every time a boat, sometimes even little tugs, goes up or down the river bridges have to open and close.

This operation closing costs above a million dollars a year for help and machinery.

Statisticians have figured out how many weeks it takes of citizens' time, out of each year. The auto clubs estimate that the delays to passengers on trolleys and busses, and to operators of loaded trucks, cost $1,800,000 a year.

GEORGIA BATTLEGROUND TO GET DEED TO ITSELF

ATLANTA—(AP)—Remains of a line of Confederate breastworks along the Chattachoochee river will be converted into memorial by deeding the property to itself.

The breastworks are on the estate of Mrs. C. K. Ayer, Atlanta club woman, who has planned a dedication ceremony to be conducted by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The works are opposite side of the river by Gen. Sherman's forces.

The property will not be the first in Georgia deeded to itself. At Athens an historic oak has been the property of itself for years.

SCOTTISH SCHOOLS WILL MEASURE MILK BENEFITS

GLASGOW, Scotland—(AP)—Twenty thousand Scottish school children have been enlisted in an experiment to determine the effect of different kinds of milk on growing children.

The experiment, which is the most extensive of its kind ever attempted, was inaugurated by Tom Johnston, parliamentary undersecretary of state for Scotland.

Ten thousand children will receive three-quarters of a pint of milk every morning. Of these, 5,000 will have raw milk while the other 5,000 will have pasteurized milk. The other 10,000 youngsters will receive no milk allotment, but will be weighed and measured with the others.

BIG ONION TOWN FINDS WORLD SHY

LENTON, Ohio (AP)—This town of 300 people claims to be one of the biggest onion towns in the world. But it can't keep in touch with anybody.

Kenton's woes run like this: Train service has been discontinued. The telephone office has been moved three miles away. Even the flow of natural gas has slowed up so that citizens have had to discard their gas stoves and buy coal ranges.

Four thousand car loads of onions are shipped from the town every year, in addition to those consumed on the spot.

CHICAGO PLIGHT RECALLS FINANCIAL BOG OF 1837

CHICAGO (AP)—This year's financial troubles of Chicago and Cook county recall misfortunes of 1837, when scores of Illinois cities and towns declared themselves bankrupt.

Money troubles in that year inspired the legislature to pass an act to prevent towns and cities from issuing warrants to circulate as money, a recourse Chicago has taken.

Florida Plants Seedlings

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(AP)—A half million slash and long leaf pine seedlings will be planted in Florida this year, the state forest service estimates. About 6,000 were set out last year.

Poor Soil Justifies Cow

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—Need for soil building is so great on the average North Carolina farm that the presence of the dairy cow can be justified even if profit from milk and cream is small.

Shrimp-Fed Pigs

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—An experiment to determine the desirability of adding shrimp to the diet of prize swine is being conducted at Louisiana State university.

Best Furniture Months.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The best months for furniture dealers are not May and June, but December and November, a survey reveals.

GRADE CROSSING DEATHS SHOW SLIGHT DECREASE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Highway grade crossings claimed 1,982 lives for the first 10 months of 1929, according to railroad reports filed with the interstate commerce commission.

This is a reduction of 56 persons from 1928 figures for the same period, though the total number of accidents increased from 4,585 to 4,712.

There was an increase of 13 per cent in deaths resulting from automobile accidents on all highways in the country.

WOMEN ASKED TO REPORT ON FILMS THAT OFFEND

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Women throughout the country are being asked to report on motion pictures which they think offend good taste, and to explain why they think so.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter was selected by motion picture producers to come to Hollywood as a representative of all organized women of the country. She seeks to harmonize ideas of the women and the producers so far as possible.

Women pre-viewers, representing five large women's organizations, see films before they released as part of their plans. These women represent the General Federation of Women's club's the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Parent Teachers' association, the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae and the American Association of University Women.

Each organization has a committee of 30, with a different group pledged to attend previews every day of the week. The women pool their opinions, then make reports.

SIX-YEAR-OLD RIDERS SHINE IN HORSE SHOWS

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Little Red Riding Hood is outclassed by Little Brown Riding Hat.

Five and six-year-olds clad in tweeds and derbies and cantering on pony-back over Washington bridle paths and taking part in society horse shows.

Mrs. Ambrose Preece, who has ridden to hounds in England, coaches many of the children of prominent Washington families.

She will not start them under six years of age though many of the tots have crept into the saddle by advancing their age a year or so when they report for duty.

"It's healthful, fine exercise for children provided they have competent instructors and don't over-do it," says Mrs. Preece.

Among her promising pupils are Karen Lloyd and her sister, Angelica, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Demarest Lloyd; Lionell Massey, son of the Canadian minister, and Miss Nancy Leiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter.

All are going through their paces at the spring horse show events.

PERSONALS

Mr. Rabinovitch, who is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and of New York university, class of '24, is resident manager of the Standard Acceptance corporation with offices in this city. Mrs. Rabinovitch is a graduate of New York university.

Mr. and Mrs. Rabinovitch's many friends extend them best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

Received Cut Finger

Charles Robinson of Benjamin street, received a slight cut on a finger of his left hand Friday morning at the machine shop of the Lester and Wasley Co. Inc., of Franklin street, where he is employed. The injured finger was struck by a piece of steel from one of the machines at the shop. He was attended by a physician, and was able to continue work.

LARGER ROAD FUND PENDS IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress would loosen the strings on the federal purse to boom state highway construction.

Both the house and senate have agreed that $125,000,000 should be made available annually. There has been no agreement, however, on a senate amendment saying how it is to be spent.

The standard apportionment has been $75,000,000 for many years, including sums voted for each of the fiscal years of 1930 and 1931.

The additional $50,000,000 would be alloted for 1931, and flat sums of $125,000,000 would be allowed to the states for 1933 and 1933.

The money made available for federal aid is apportioned to separate states, to be matched by equivalent state funds for improvement and expansion of the federal aid highway system.

Texas would receive the largest amount, approximately $7,552,088, of the pending increase. Its apportionment for the fiscal year ending June 30 is $4,531,162.

New York's allowance under the proposed change would be increased from the present $3,617,748 to $6,029,700. Pennsylvania would be alloted $5,543,201 and Illinois $5,198,352.

Minimum approximate allowances of $609,387 would go to Delaware, Hawaii, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. Under the existing allotment, each is receiving $365,625.

PARK CHURCH MISSIONS DEPT. HOLDS MEETING

The missions department of the Woman's Federation of Park Congregational church held its monthly meeting in the Sunday school room of the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial parish house Friday afternoon with Mrs. Allen Latham, preaching. Prof. Brundage of Storrs, who was to have been the speaker, was detained by illness, and his place was supplied by Randolph W. Whaples, of the New London County Farm bureau. His subject was the 4-H clubs for boys and girls. The federal department of agriculture, the farm bureau and the state college at Storrs cooperate in the enterprise of founding and developing these clubs in the state. For girls there are projects in cooking, sewing, gardening, canning and health development and for boys, poultry raising, dairying, also better physical condition. The name 4-H means training for head hand, heart and health. Mr. Whaples gave examples of the fine work done by a number of boys and girls of the state whose parents were foreign-born. A number of slides were shown on the screen of groups of young people who are members of the 4-H clubs of Connecticut.

At the close of Mr. Whaples' interesting talk, Mrs. Edward J. Graham gave a word of personal testimony to the value of the 4-H clubs, as she had observed their results. Miss Edith Bliss gave a short talk on the need for an enlarged hospital at Plateau Valley, Colorado.

Mrs. Dwight Stone of Hanover explained the plan for a grading contest, sponsored by the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut.

The meeting closed with a responsive devotional service, led by Mrs. Latham.

COURT GIVES CUSTODY OF CHILD TO MOTHER

After a prolonged hearing Friday in the superior court at New London over the legal custody of Robert G. Bosworth, 8, Judge Christopher L. Avery gave temporary custody of the child to the mother, Mrs. Daisy Duggan Bosworth, of Waterford. The question of custody arose two weeks ago when the father, Burton D. Bosworth, of Eastford, visited the child in Waterford and drove off with him. The boy's mother, who is separated from her husband, obtained a writ of habeas corpus.

ENGINEERS STUDY FINS AS MOTOR-COOLING AIDS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —(AP)— Fins not those of fishes but metal fins for cooling aircraft motors, are being studied by aeronautical engineers at Massachusetts institute of technology.

Fins of different materials at varied spacings, and of all shapes and lengths will be investigated to evaluate those which best control cooling for each of many types of surfaces.

The research, conducted under auspices of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, aims at carrying out designs of cooling fins on a scientific, rather than hit-or-miss trial basis.

METAL FENCES LEGAL NOW ON ROADS IN CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Conn.—(AP)—Wooden guard rails along Connecticut highways have made their last stand aginst wire fencing.

Nearly $500,000 will be spent by the state in repairing wooden guides with metal cables, following a superior court decision in which the safety factor of wire was legally recognized.

More than 30 miles of wire rope railing will replace existing wooden fences.

Until the court's decision the function of the railing was to mark the right of way for the motorist as well as to protect him from damage when he ran off a road.

NEW ARMY PURSUIT PLANE PRACTICES AT 25,000 FEET

BURBANK, Cal.— (AP) — Tactical maneuvers 25,000 feet in air—approximately two miles higher than aerial battles were fought during the war—have been carried out by a new pursuit plane designed for the army here.

The new model is a biplane, powered by a single 425-horsepower motor. It is equipped with a supercharger which increases its climbing power, to give it greater speed.

Officials of the Boeing factory said in recent tests the ship flew from the ground to an altitude of 10,000 feet and back in four and one-half minutes. They said it attained a speed in excess of 200 miles an hour.

Wrecking of a Japanese boat off Monterey, Cal., liberated 3,000 live abalones.

UNITED CHURCH WOMAN'S GUILD HOLDS MEETING

An interesting meeting of the Woman's guild of the United Congregational church was held Friday evening at the Community house with an attendance of 50 women and 40 Girl Scouts. Among those present were six nurses from the W. W. Backus hospital, the Misses Powers, instructor, Lathrop, Ravenelle, Holmberg, Montgomery and Baldwin. Miss Montgomery gave a brief paper on her first impressions of the hospital, after which demonstrations in first aid were given.

This was followed by a social and tea served by Mrs. Marcus Leith and committee. The affair was held under the direction of the hospital committee of the church, Mrs. A. C. Freeman, chairman.

CHIMNEY FIRE AT SCOTLAND ROAD HOUSE

At 4.69 o'clock Friday afternoon the Yantic fire department received a call for a bad chimney fire at the residence of William Rogers on Scotland road. The engine broke down on West Town street, Norwich Town, and the Central station was called for assistance. Chief Henry R. Taft and Engine No. 3 responded. Forty-six gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze.

MACHINE STOLEN BY BANDITS IS FOUND

The Chevrolet roadster used by the two highwaymen, who held up the Ideal Service Station, West Town St., Thursday night, in making their getaway, was found abandoned early Friday morning in a lot between the Taftville reservoir and Occum on the Canterbury turnpike. The machine, which was not damaged, was recovered by its owner, Joseph Izbicki, the employe, who was forced into a backroom at the station, while the robber stole the $200 from the cash register.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT NORWICH GRANGE DANCE

A large number attended the dance conducted Friday evening at grange hall, Norwich Town, by Norwich Grange, No. 172, P. of H., music for which was furnished by the Musical Aces. Grangers were present from Salem, Ledyard, Lisbon and Quonochontaug, R. I.

FORECLOSURE JUDGMENT AGAINST FAIR SOCIETY

Judgment by foreclosure was given Friday by Judge Christopher L. Avery at a short calendar session of the superior court at New London, in favor of Martin E. Jensen of Norwich against the New London County Agricultural society. The debt is $24,041.35 and the property involved is the fair grounds at East Great Plain. Sept. 2, 1930 was fixed as the day of redemption.

SISTER SHIP FOR GRAF IS PLANNED IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Plans for construction to a giant dirigible, sister to the Graf Zeppelin, are reported to the department of commerce by H. C. Schuette, Paris trade commissioner.

Work on the air liner, to be known as the L. Z. 128, will begin this year with completion scheduled for the summer of 1931.

The ship will be about 740 feet long in contrast to the Graf's length of 776 feet. It will have many of the design features of the British R-100 and R-101, especially in arrangement and situation of passenger quarters.

Radio Aids Collectors

PARIS—(AP)—Radio is proving a valuable assistant in collecting and recording national traditions and customers in France. Already through a broadcast appeal recipes of dishes of different parts of Europe have been collected, and now an appeal has been made for local proverbs and sayings.

Radio Link to Thibet

NANKING —(AP)— Erection of a chain of radio stations to connect Thibet and the great China province of Szechuen with the outside world, has been ordered by the ministry of communications of the Chinese government. Work on the stations will begin as soon as the snow has melted in the interior.

Rides On Air Only Legal

SALEM, Ore.—(AP)—Oregon motorists ride on air unless they're lawbreakers. New highway regulations prohibit motor vehicles without pneumatic tires to use state roads.

Washington state's per capita wealth in 1929 was $3,524, which was [illegible]

LABORATORY COMPLETED FOR PLANE MOTOR TESTS

ARLINGTON, Va. —(AP)— Fifty-two aircraft engines a year may be tested here with the completion of the new motor laboratory of the department of commerce.

Three modern test stands have been erected for the 50-hour endurance run which must be undergone by all motors except those approved by the army or navy.

During the first five hours of the test, the engines are run at full throttle while for the remaining time they are operated at nearly 97 per cent of their rated speed.

Y SENIORS CLOSE LEAGUE SEASON TONIGHT AGAINST TORRINGTON

Tonight's Probable Line-ups

Norwich	Torrington
Brown, lf	Lawton, lf
Lynch, rf	Germano, rf
Harris, c	Scoville, c
Eccleston, lg	Good, lg
Pingree rg	Peasley, rg

The Norwich Y basketball team will play its last home state league game tonight when Torrington, the league miracle team, will invade the Rose of New England. Torrington, who got off to a poor start in the early part of the season, strengthened up with former Torrington high school players and have won their last eight starts. The home club was defeated 50-42 at Torrington but are out to set down the visitors tonight.

Coach Demarest will start his regular lineup and will have Yerrington, Barber, Ludlow and Manager Leffingwell to step in at any time.

A fast preliminary will precede the big attraction and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected to watch the close of a very successful basketball season on the part of the Norwich Y outfit.

The preliminary will commence at 8 p. m. with Howard Ludlow handling the game and Randy Whaples will officiate in the banner game commencing at 9 p. m.

PUTNAM HAS SUCCESSFUL BASKETBALL SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 14.—The 1929-30 basketball team of Putnam high school, together with its able group of substitutes have been photographed and the official record has taken its place among the rows of "ghosts" of the past in the lobby of the first floor of the building, being worthy of its well earned rest. While the squad, which, in the opinion of Coach Noyes, is the best body of athletes to function under his direction, will make its final appearance Saturday in the state tournament at Storrs college, the 1929-30 aggregation is history, but its excellent seasonal record established in the past three months will stand for all time among the great teams of Putnam high school.

A review of the score-book shows the team to have taken thirteen victories while suffering but three defeats, two of these coming at the hands of the powerful Chapman Tech quintet of New London and the other being inflicted by the ancient Putnam rivals—Killingly high of Danielson.

The Putnam team throughout its season played games which were specimens of clean, healthy basketball as well as ideal sportsmanship. In every tilt the 1929 edition of the Noyesmen stressed the supreme ethic of the sporting world—fair play. In every game the five members of the team played fast, hard and desperate, straining every muscle in order to obtain the last ounce of energy to chalk up the points which were of vital importance to every victory.

In no contest did Putnam take their opponents over with walk-away scores. The team's victories and defeats were achieved and dealt in surprisingly close measures, so that the school's claim to the mythical county title is merited. All schools in the Quinebaug valley—Putnam, Plainfield, Killingly, Woodstock and Tourtellotte, turned out crack teams and the results of contests at any time could not be determined beforehand because of the well matched court outfits.

BRIGHAM PLEASED WITH PROSPECT FOR 1930 TEAM

As the first practice week of the Academy baseballers draws to a close it finds Coach Brigham of the Wildcats very much pleased with the prospect. The local mentor, after watching his batterymen work out since Monday, proclaims this year's batch of pitchers and catchers, the best, as a whole, that has turned out in some time.

The local summer leagues have contributed heavily to the local squad, especially the junior loop. Outside of Butsy Weisgraber, last year's regular, and Boots Greene, practically all of the batterymen saw service in the Duwell's junior league. Weisgraber and Greene played in the Industrial league along with two of the catchers, Les Crowell and Bud Fontaine.

Another practice session is carded for today, which, incidentally, is just three weeks before the Red and Whitesters take the field for the first game on their 22-game schedule, against the Richmond Radiators.

COLONIALS DEFEATS CHUMPS IN BILLIARD TOURNEY

At the Recreation last evening the Colonial club came through and upset all dope by giving the Chumps one of the worst lacings they have had to date, 100 to 48. Bill Farrell, who years ago wielded a mean cue, showed that he still could run the balls with his old time wizardry. He came through with three runs of 14 and two of 11. Grover and Panek were in rare form and had runs of 12 and 9 respectively. Johnson and Grisky of the losers were not up to usual standard and C. Straub came through and made runs of 7 and 8 respectively.

Starting next Monday the Singer Sewers, H. D. H.'s and Colonial club battle for the title. Each team has a chance for the money as three prizes are in order. The odds favor the Singer Sewers but the H. D. H's, the miracle team in the tournament might offset all dope and come through. Also the Colonial club is favored by the showing they made in their last two games.

HARVARD WILL NOT PLAY OFF HOCKEY TIE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 14—(AP)—William J. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, today announced that the Crimson hockey team would not play a fourth game with the Yale sextet. As a result, this annual rink series which dates back to 1900, has ended in a deadlock for the first time. Harvard opened the series with a 3 to 2 overtime victory and Yale evened matters by winning the second 3 to 1. The rubber game, played in the Boston Garden on Wednesday night, ended in a 2-2 draw after 30 minutes of overtime had been played.

Yale athletic officials were willing to play the fourth game in the Madison Square Garden but Joe Stubbs, Harvard hockey coach, was opposed to prolonging the hockey season any further.

WALTER JOHNSON, JR., INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

WASHINGTON, March 14.— (AP) — While his famous dad is down south whipping the Washington Senators into shape for the American league campaign, Walter Johnson, Jr., lies on a hospital bed with both legs in casts and his pitching hand bandaged.

The Bethesda, Maryland, high school nine will miss him this spring. The 14-year-old pitcher was injured by an automobile while roller skating last night in Bethesda. For some time he will have to get around on crutches.

AETNA TEAM GOES INTO THIRD PLACE

WATERBURY, March 14.—(AP)—Leaders in all divisions of the National Duckpin Bowling congress were recorded tonight in the fourth day of the big event. Genlot's Ambassadors of Waterbury displaced Waterbury Railroad in the five-man event with a score of 1,752. Atwood and Rice, also of the Ambassadors, took first place in the doubles with 731, and Manion of Derby, Shincel's, went into the leadership in the singles with 394. Kellar of Norwich took the lead in the all-event with 1,070.

In the girls' games, Shincel Girls of Derby, with 1,471, moved into the top berth in the five-girl event with 1,471 and the Waterbury Stars, another new entrant, bettered the earlier mark by advancing to second place with 1,437. Miss Hamilton of the Derby Girls is the new singles' leader with 330 and the Monsky Chase team, also of Derby, bettered the previous doubles tourney record with 609.

VELVETMEN CLASH WITH RHEA CO. TEAM SUNDAY

A fast and interesting game of soccer is expected at the J. B. Martin ground on Sunday afternoon when the Velvetmen clash with the National Rhea team of Putnam. These boys have been playing in hard luck so far this season, having been unable to get enough experienced players. Their manager writes that this has now been remedied, having signed on some fast men during the past week and he is confident that the team he is bringing down will show the local's some real soccer. The Velvetmen will also have a re-arranged line-up, having a couple of men on the injured list. The team will be chosen from the following players: F. Orcutt, F. Hargreaves, E. Eccleston, E. Erickson A. Headon, I. Alexander, J. Houston, H. Decelles, G. Rochead, I. Archibald, B. Labenski, C. Tarbutton. The game will start at 2:30 p. m.

PUTNAM REACHES SEMI-FINALS IN BASKETBALL TOURNEY

NEW HAVEN, March 14.—(AP)—Warren Harding and Central high schools of Bridgeport, West Haven and Naugatuck, won their way to the semi-finals today in the scholastic basketball tournament for class A and B held at Yale.

Madison, Branford, Stafford and Putnam survived the first day of play in the class C and D games played at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Warren Harding defeated Bristol, 21 to 14; Central got a 21 to 18 victory over Torrington; West Haven won 27 to 23 over Manchester; while Meriden lost to Naugatuck, 38 to 16.

At Storrs, Madison defeated Simsbury, 27 to 25; Branford won 26 to 19 over Woodbury; Stafford entered the semi-finals with a 24 to 19 win over Glastonbury, and Putnam easily beat Plainville, 30 to 17.

The semi-finals will bring West Haven and Naugatuck together, while Central will play Harding tomorrow afternoon. The final will be played tomorrow night.

Madison meets Branford, and Putnam will play Stafford tomorrow morning in the semi-finals at Storrs. The final will be played tomorrow afternoon.

WALKER-GAMBER TEAM WINS INTERNATIONAL 4-BALL PLAY

MIAMI, Fla., March 14—(AP)—Cyril Walker of Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., won the annual international four-ball golf matches today over Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis. The match ended one up on the 18th green.

Walker and Gamber collected $1,500 first team money. Hampton and McIntyre received $1,000 second place team money.

It was an up hill fight all the way for Walker and Gamber, who went down early in the match and fought back a hole at a time, to square the match on the 15th, go one up on the 16th and then halve the 18th to win.

Sarazen and Farrell, eliminated in the semi-finals, drew a $400 team prize, as did Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., and Denny Shute, Columbus, O.

The four teams defeated in the quarter finals were given $200 each, while those who played Monday were given $100.

MOLLOY OFFERS $1,000,000 PURSE FOR DEMPSEY-CARNERA BOUT

ST. LOUIS, March 14.—(AP)—Mique Molloy, Chicago fight promoter, announced here this afternoon that he would offer a purse of $1,000,000 for a fight between Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and Primo Carnera, giant Italian contender, if Carnera wins his fight with Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis, here next Monday night.

The promoter said he had discussed the matter recently with Dempsey in Cleveland, and that while not giving a definite answer, Dempsey said he would consider the offer if he could get in condition and if Carnera were not defeated in the meantime.

CANZONERI GIVES LOAYZA A TERRIFIC LACING

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 14.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri tonight gave Stanislaus Loayza, rugged little Chilean, the worst defeat of the game South American's career in Madison Square Garden. A crowd of 9,500 saw Tony, badly beaten by Jackie Kid Berg in his last match, stage a convincing comeback and win the unanimous decision of the officials in ten active rounds.

Sammy Dorfman, lightweight, defeated Jackie Pilkington, in the ten-round semi-final.

In the opening ten, Vincent Sericl, middleweight, won the decision over Charlie Rosen.

Heard in any restaurant where there are one or more waitresses.

"Listen, Sadie, you lay off my side of the counter. Just because you ain't got a date for tonight you can't go horning in on my prospects. If you don't draw no live wires on your side it ain't my fault."

"Oh, all right, Josie, if you feel that way about it I'll keep away from all your customers. And may they all be Scotchmen. Who was it that got you that date for last night? Me, and nobody else but. And a lotta gratitude you showed too."

"Now listen Josie, there was them two hosiery drummers the other night. You waited on them and all you did was smile and show that one tooth of yours and when he said, "Ah, I see you're an Elk" all you said was, "No, but my brother is." It took me to fix up the date."

"And look what you got out of it, an automobile ride, a nice dance and dinner and two pairs of silk stockings. Yeah, I'll admit they was sample stockings but you can wash 'em and they'll be as good as new. Now I ask you, what would you have got if I hadn't brought over that cup of coffee?"

"You know Josie, I been in this game a lot longer than you have and I know my drummers. Drummers is like sailors, they got a girl in every town. But Josie, find out what they're selling before you make dates with 'em. Don't make dates with hardware drummers, tobacco drummers, piano drummers or automobile salesmen, those guys never give you any samples."

"If you want a good tip get in with these ready-made dress salesmen They're easy. When you go out in their car wear an old dress and manage to catch it on the car door when you get out. It's a ten to one bet he'll offer you a sample dress. I got four dresses home I got that way."

"Lookit what just drove up, Josie. Now I hope he picks my side of the counter; I ain't had a live wire tonight. All I've took in is three nickels and a dime in tips. This guy looks like ready money. Pipe the raccoon coat and the Ritzie car."

"Well, he's gonna take my side. So long, Josie, watch me knock him cold." Sadie marches off and Josie hands the check to her customer. Josie gets a smile for a tip but nothing else. Sadie is waiting for her order to be put up and the conversation proceeds.

"How much didja get off that guy you was crabbing me about? Not a nickel. There didn't I tell you that you ain't got personality. If it had been me I bet I'd got at least a thin one and maybe two bits. Say Josie are you doing anything tonight? Is it all right if I fix up a heavy date for you?"

"All right, I'll go to work on this bird, maybe he's got a friend." Sadie is gone and is doing her best to get an invite to go out. The customer is engrossed in his food and paper and answers only in monosyllables. Finally she gives it up and comes back to Josie.

"Gosh, that guy's a tough one. I bet he's just married and is thinking of the wife at home. He'll be different in a year or two. Guess it's home early tonight, Josie."

A sport that is work: Spearing eels. A certain policeman in Norwich is sporting several blisters on his hand that bear out this assertion that eel spearing raises more blisters than pounding pavements.

DEMPSEY TO GO INTO TRAINING TO CHALLENGE LOGICAL CONTENDERS

DETROIT, March 14.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey said here tonight that he intends to go into training as soon as he completes the theatrical tour in which he is engaged at present.

"If I find that I can get into proper condition," said the former heavyweight champion, "I will be ready to meet the outstanding claimant of the title."

Physical condition, rather than financial considerations, will determine his future course, Dempsey asserted. "It won't make any difference if I have a million dollars or haven't a dime," he said, "if I can't get back into condition, I will remain retired."

The trouble with the heavyweight situation at present, Dempsey believes, is that "there are too many logical contenders and not sufficient elimination to produce a champion."

He outlined what he considers the proper way of arriving at a title claimant. Tuffy Griffiths should be matched with Otto Von Porat, he said, the winner to meet the survivor of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling bout.

"The ultimate survivor should be matched with Carnera, provided he survives a real test," continued Dempsey, "and then I might stage my comeback with the title at stake."

In a general discussion of heavyweight prospects he remarked that Carnera "is apt to come through and be a foreign menace and will have to be eliminated. Perhaps George Godfrey, the big colored fellow, could do that, but George has about lost interest through his lack of getting a chance among the contenders."

Dempsey referred to reports that he will fight Carnera in September as "the bunk."

UNION

Miss Gladys Stratton, home management specialist, met with the Union Home Economics club for an all-day session Tuesday, March 11. This was a continuation of Miss Stratton's instructions in the keeping of household accounts, a subject which she started at the February meeting. Much interest was shown the logical points on budgeting for present needs and saving for future use.

The third annual Tolland county round-up, held Saturday afternoon and evening, March 8, at Connecticut Agricultural college, drew a group of interested attendants from here. Miss Helen Hutchins, teacher of Red school, with four members of the 4-H Health club, Winifred Moore, Margaret Sedlak, Myron Gaudette and Joseph Hery; Miss Mae Daley, teacher of Rock Meadow school, with six members of the 4-H Cackling club, Ruth Agard, Helen Brodway, Roxanna Heck, Cheney Heck, Lester Agard and Raymond Skopek; also William Clayton, leader of the Cackling club, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Skopek, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Agard and Andrew Szych.

As published in the "Tolland County Farm Bureau News" for February, the following members of the Cackling Club received blue ribbons for production of eggs in the 4-H egg laying contest for January: Ruth Agard, first in class A; Raymond Skopek, third in class A, and Helen Brodway, first in class B.

DAIRYMEN COOPERATE TO OUST SUBSTITUTES

CHICAGO —(AP)— Throughout the corn belt dairymen are meeting to plan a national campaign against the inroads of vegetable oils in the dairy market.

First, they propose to set their own house in order. Farmers, they say, have been hurling cocoanuts at their own cows.

Rural tables contributed heavily to the consumption, in Michigan alone, of almost 20,000,000 pounds of butter substitutes last year. At the same time there were 3 per cent more cows on Michigan farms than the year before and 6 per cent more heifers.

Importation of copra and cocoanut oil last year increased the production of butter substitutes some 40,000,000 pounds over 1928, dairymen say.

FAMOUS MARSH GUERNSEYS TO GO UNDER THE HAMMER

WATERLOO, Iowa—(AP)—Dominant in the American show rings for 20 years, the famous Guernsey herd of the late Wilbur W. Marsh, Waterloo manufacturer and prominent national figure in the democratic party, is to be dispersed under the auctioneer's hammer.

In 1911 the Marsh barns contained 300 Guernsey cattle, most of them importations. That year, with 19 head, Marsh established a show ring record which, it is believed, still stands unbeaten. At seven major shows, including the national dairy show, the Marsh herd took every first place, with but one exception, and championship of the breed. One young calf placed second at the national dairy show.

About the same time Marsh purchased the herd of 42 cattle owned by J. Pierpont Morgan.

Coast Building Outlook Good

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Building of apartment houses in Pacific coast states in 1930, financial houses estimate, should total more than $60,000,000. Apartment house construction represents slightly more than 40 per cent of total new building, approximately $150,000,000 for the year.

Dairy Producers to Meet

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Conferences of Wisconsin butter and cheese producers will be called in the near future to work out a program for the extension of large scale cooperative marketing of dairy products.

Carolina Hens Busy

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—North Carolina has 5,602,220 hens, with a potential annual output of 560,922,200 eggs.

YESTERDAY IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

Cards

BRADENTON, Fla., March 14—(AP)—Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, announced today that Joel Hunt, third baseman, would be sent back to Houston of the Texas league, and Eddie Baker, another infielder, would be sent to Rochester to the International league. Both Houston and Rochester are affiliated with the Cardinals "Farm" system.

Rickey said he still had hopes Sparky Adams would play second, allowing Frankie Frisch to move over to third, leaving Andy High for utility infield duty.

Yankees

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14—(AP)—Some heavy slugging regulars and rookies featured a practice game between the New York Yankee regulars and Yannigans today, the regulars winning by 8 to 7 in six innings. Durst and Gehrig hit successive homers in the fifth, Ruth, Dickey, Asbeck and Cooke contributed triples, and Lazzeri, Heimach and Hoyt doubles. Hoyt and Asbeck, rival pitchers at the start, were in fine form but their successors, Wells and Walsh did not fare so well.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 14—(AP)—Rain held the Pittsburgh Pirates indoors today and thoughts turned to the first spring exhibition game to be played Sunday with San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league.

Manager Jewel Ens said he would urge his boys to win these exhibition games because 'victory is one of the very best tonics in the world."

Red Sox

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 14—(AP)—With the belated arrival of Johnny Heving, a holdout, the Boston Red Sox catching staff today was at full strength. While Heving was arguing over terms with President Bob Quinn, it appeared that the brunt of the catching burden would fall on Charlie Berry, former Lafayette college football and baseball star, who is a weak hitter; with Bob Asbjornson and Ed Connolly, two youngsters, as his understudies.

Lamar Bell, a Mobile recruit, who has been making a strong bid for a regular outfield job, will be out of action for several days. He pulled a muscle in his leg going after a long drive in the soft, sandy soil of the Red Sox practice diamond.

Tigers

TAMPA, Fla., March 14—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers will have a good base running team this year, with such sprinters as Johnson, Funk, Stone, Rogell, McManus and Gehringer, the latter the league leader in base stealing last season.

Manager Stanley Harris is eager to match the speed of this aggregation against the throwing arms of rival catchers, but realizes that there has been a diminution of the value of base running ability since the advent of the home run era. He has encouraged speed, however, in the training camp here and is well satisfied with the results.

Indians

NEW ORLEANS, March 14—(AP)—George Detore today was appointed to the lead off position of the Cleveland Indians when they tackle the New Orleans Pelicans at the first spring exhibition game in the Indian training camp here tomorrow. He will play third base.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the manager, selected an all-rookie lineup for the game.

The pitching will be divided by Sal Gliatto, Les Barnhart and Belve Bean, all new comers.

Reds

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14—(AP)—The big bat of Harry Heilmann, the Cincinnati Reds new outfielder, led the Red regulars to a 6 to 0 victory over the "Colts" in a five inning practice game, the first of the season, at the training camp here today. Heilmann gathered in two bingles, one of them a home run which scored one man ahead of him.

Allen, Ford, Meusel and Heilmann, who batted in that order, accounted for six of the regulars' 8 hits, while Kelly in fifth place, and Stripp in seventh, each added a safety.

Manager Dan Howley believes the routine training is more beneficial than practice games, but wished to prepare his athletes for the opening exhibition encounter with the Tigers at Tampa Sunday, and also get a line on his batting order.

Robins

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 14—(AP)—There was a complete abstinence from baseball for members of the Brooklyn Robins today as the athletes began a 300 mile automobile ride to Miami for the first of two games with the Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow.

Phillies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 14—(AP)—With spring training two weeks under way, Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies today pondered over the best tactics he could follow in view of the fact that there are still three Phils who are not in camp.

These are Chuck Klein, home run king of the National league; Fresco Thompson, captain, and second baseman, and Chester Nichols, pitcher drafted from the Montreal Internationals.

In their absence, Shotton has decided to drill Don Hurst in the outfield in case he may find it necessary to use him there. For second base, Shotton has Barney Friberg, one of the best keystone guardians in the game and a hard hitter when he is in his stride, as he was last summer.

Browns Rally to Beat Bisons

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 14—(AP)—Showing a tight defense and a 14 hit attack, the St. Louis Browns scored a 10-5 victory over the Buffalo team of the International league here this afternoon in an exhibition game. Fred Schulte led the Browns attack with four hits out of five chances.

Dick Coffman started for the Browns and Kimsey finished. Score by innings:

Browns	203 000 113—10	14	1
Buffalo	203 000 000— 5	11	3

Coffman, Kimsey and Ferrell; Buchanan, Schoof and Murphy, Brube.

INDUSTRIES IN FAR EAST BOOST EXPORTS OF COTTON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Despite domestic consumption, more than half of the American cotton crop is manufactured in foreign mills.

A summary by the textile division of the department of commerce shows how conditions in Europe brought a decrease in exports during the war and postwar years but increased in recent years.

The increase is largely attributable, the department found, to rapid extension of cotton manufacturing in the Far East.

Retailers May Save

WASHINGTON—(AP)—By standardizing wrapping and packing of merchandise, the department of commerce estimates retail department stores may save $9,000,000 annually.

FISHERMEN'S COMPLAINT OF OIL DUMPED IN RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 14.—Investigation of smelt fishermen's charges that the South County Public Service company was dumping waste oil from its gas plant into the Pawcatuck river was started Friday by the state of Rhode Island.

Inspector John J. Hackett of the purification of waters commission was in Westerly in answer to the complaint. He visited the several crews of smelt fishermen and later conferred with General Manager Robert F. Burnett and H. W. Carpenter, gas house superintendent, of the South County Public Service company.

The fishermen allege that the oil waste is discharged into the Pawcatuck river in violation of the law and that it will eventually ruin the smelt industry. Nets covered with an oily substance were exhibited to Inspector Hackett, in support of their contentions.

A year ago both Connecticut and Rhode Island authorities took up the fishermen's complaints of similar conditions and promises of no further trouble were made by the South County company. This spring, however, the old trouble was renewed.

THREAD MILL WORK SLACK— PLANT CLOSED FOR A WEEK

The Pawcatuck plant of the American Thread company has closed down for one week. Change over of machinery is given by officials as the reason. About 100 are idle as a result of the shut-down.

The Pawcatuck branch normally employs upwards of 300. For some time it has been operating on a three-day basis. When the mill reopens the same working basis will be continued.

COTTRELL CO. BUILDING WILL FURNISH SOME WORK

Some relief from the Westerly unemployment situation will be forthcoming next week when the C. B. Cottrell Sons company begins enlargement of one of its Pawcatuck shops. It plans the addition of one floor. Between 75 and 100 workmen will be temporarily employed to rush the work to an early completion.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM IS BEING EXTENDED

Extension of the Westerly fire alarm system to include the Westerly-Watch Hill road, where the Margaret Edward Anderson hospital is located and the the hamlet of Avondale, was announced yesterday by Fire Chief George E. Egger. Wires are being strung and by the first of next week will be connected with four new boxes.

The new alarm boxes are: 325, Mt. Pleasant farm; 326, Jolly's ice houses; 327, River View road, and 328, River View road. The Anderson hospital box is 833. The section was added to the Westerly fire district a year ago but the alarm system was not extended then.

Deputy Sheriff Charles A. Fuller of Wyoming, an officer of Third district court, Westerly, yesterday celebrated his 80th birthday. Sheriff Fuller, as usual, drove his own machine from home to the Westerly courthouse for the Friday session. He received the congratulations of the court and attendants, at the close of the morning session.

Bert LaBounty of Westerly has moved into an apartment in the Sklarew building on West Main street.

Thursday evening four tables of fine players contested, on the fourth night of the annual elimination bridge tournament in the Mystic Hook and Ladder company's rooms, Gravel street. The contest at table 4 was watched very closely, the players being Otto Wilhelm and Warren Chapman of Mystic against Elmer Jayne and Luke Phillips of New London. Both pairs were runners-up in tournaments in 1929 and 1930, respectively. The score and players:

Table 1—Burrows and McGregor of Mystic, 2,447; Stillman and Stahle of Westerly, 1,862; margin, 586.

Table 2—McLaren of Westerly and Hyde of Stonington, 2,728; Franzen and Mundell of Groton, 2,021; margin, 707.

Table 3—Dexter and Finch of Groton, 2,192; Grinnell and Hempstead of Mystic, 788; margin, 1,404.

Table 4—Wilhelm and Chapman, Mystic, 1,348; Jayne and Phillips of New London, 2,814; margin, 1,466.

The 37th annual state conference of the Connecticut D. A. R., is to be held in Bridgeport, March 20 and 21, by invitation of the Mary Silliman chapter. Delegates and members of the local chapter expecting to attend have been requested to notify the regent, Mrs. Estella B. Bailey, if they wish reservations made for dinner Thursday or luncheon Friday.

Miss Stella Ashcroft is confined to her home, ill with a grip cold.

Albert Whipple was in Boston on business, Friday.

The son born to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Startz of Pequot avenue has been named Frederick Emil.

Mrs. Dudley Bindloss is confined to her home by illness.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Sammy Jay Learns the Whole Secret

I pray you to this truth attend:
You can no broken promise mend.
—Old Mother Nature.

Sammy Jay was chuckling noiselessly. Quite by accident he had made a discovery. He had seen a tail—a long, slim tail—hanging from the lower part of a big wasps' nest that was in a bush on the edge of the Green Forest. He had seen that tail withdrawn, so he knew that the owner of that tail was inside that wasps' nest.

"I think I know whose tail that was," said Sammy to himself. "Yes, sir, I think I know whose tail that was. If that wasn't the tail of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, then I don't know the tail of a Wood Mouse when I see one. I wish he would put that tail down again."

Just as if Whitefoot had heard that wish expressed, he lowered that telltale tail of his through his little round

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living"

doorway once more. There it hung. You see, Whitefoot was careless once more. Sammy Jay chuckled. Then he spread his wings and flew down and alighted close behind that telltale tail. Reaching out quickly, he seized a tip of it in his bill and pinched it. He pinched hard, too, did Sammy Jay.

Things happened hard and fast. That tail was withdrawn in a hurry and, in its place appeared a pretty little head with large black eyes, in which were mingled fright and anger.

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living!"

"Who says I am living here?" retorted Whitefoot. "Can't a fellow visit a wasps' nest without making it his home?"

"Of course he can," replied Sammy good-naturedly. "But that isn't what you are doing. You've been living in that nest all winter. Now, own up, Whitefoot, haven't you?"

"It's no business of yours whether I have or haven't," squeaked Whitefoot angrily. You see, he was very much upset. He was angry because his tail had been pinched; he was angry because his secret had been found out, and he was angry because he had been so careless.

"Oh, it isn't any business of mine," replied Sammy. "You don't have to tell me unless you want to. I guess that Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Peter Rabbit will be surprised when I tell them what I've found out."

Whitefoot forgot all his anger. A troubled look crept over his face. "You don't have to tell, do you, Sammy Jay?" said he.

"I don't have to," replied Sammy, "but this news is too good to keep. Chatterer and Peter have been looking for your home for a long time. They've seen this wasps' nest dozens of times, just as I have, and never guessed that you would be smart enough to make your nest in it. Your nest is in it, isn't it?"

"If I tell you truly, will you promise not to tell any one else?" Whitefoot asked.

Sammy promised. Then Whitefoot told him how he had discovered that nest at the beginning of winter and how he had built his own home inside it and lived there ever since undisturbed. Sammy Jay admired Whitefoot's smartness and kept his word. So to this day Peter Rabbit and Chatterer the Red Squirrel still wonder where Whitefoot's home was all through the winter.

Rhymes of an Ignoramus

At dancing I'm a dunce,
Though I only tried it once,
It was quite enough for me,
For while dancing don't you see,
I tried to keep in time,
With music quite sublime;
But that is out of fashion,
So I flew into a passion,
And never danced again.

With wireless I'm a silly,
Or so says little Billy,
Who is ten some time in June
And calls me Uncle "Coon."
I couldn't tell high tension,
From the low stuff for a pension,
And have no inclination so to do,
And it's the truth I'm telling, too,
That I never want to learn.

If I'm stranded in my car,
Either near to home or far,
All I do is sit and wait,
For a fitter or his mate;
For I couldn't mend a thing,
With a spanner, wire or string.
"Is it petrol?" I don't know,
The infernal thing won't go,
And that's quite enough for me!

At golfing I'm a mutt,
With a drive or with a putt;
Though that's not really all,
For I cannot even swear,
And plus-fours I will not wear.
If I joined a club today,
I'd never dare to play,
So I stay at home and—SEW!
—Arthur Groom, in Pearson's.

Perseverance

One step and then another and the longest walk is ended,
One stitch and then another and the largest rent is mended,
One brick upon another and the highest wall is made,
One flake upon another and the deepest snow is laid.
Then do not look disheartened
on the work you have to do,
And claim that such a mighty task
you never can get through;
But just endeavor, day by day,
one little point to gain,
And soon the mountain that you feared will prove to be a plain.

When the Captain, with His Whiskers, Stole a Glance at Me

As they marched through the town,
With their banners so gay
I ran to the window, to hear the band play.
I peeped through the blinds, very cautiously then,
Lest the neighbors should say,
I was looking at the men.
Oh, I heard the drums beat
And the music so sweet,
But my eyes at the time, got a far greater treat.
The troopers were the finest I ever did see,
And the captain, with his whiskers,
Stole a sly glance at me.

When we met at the hall, I of course thought 'twas right
To pretened that we never had met before that night,
But he knew me at once, I perceived by his glance,
And I hung down my head
When he asked me to dance.
Oh, he sat by my side, at the end of the set,
And the sweet words he spoke
I shall never forget.
For my heart was enlisted and could not get free,
As the captain, with his whiskers,
Stole a sly glance at me.

But he marched from the town
And I see him no more,
Yet I think of him oft,
And the whiskers he wore.
I dream all the night and I talk all the day,
Of the love of a captain, who went far away.
I remember with super-abundant delight
When we met in the street and we danced all the night.
And keep in my mind how my heart jumped with glee
When the captain, with his whiskers,
Stole a sly glance at me.

Beautiful Island of Sometime

"There's a beautiful island just now in our view,
With trees always green and with skies always blue.
Where flowers of sweet fragrance look up through the dew,
'Tis the beautiful Island of Sometime."
CHORUS
"Beautiful Golden Sometime—Sometime—Sometime.
Hope beckons us onward, still keeping in view
That beautiful Island of Sometime."

"Through long years of labor mid anguish and tears
With hearts heavy laden and burdened with fears,
Still looms up before us, through wearisome years
That beautiful Island of Sometime."

"When weary with waiting and friends are untrue
And heavy the work which our hands
find to do,
Hope, beckons us onward, still keeping in view
That ever-Bright, Beautiful, Sometime."

"When dear ones grow weary and fall
by our side
And voices are drowned with the roar of the tide,
We still have that promise—That we shall abide,
With them, in that Beautiful Sometime."

Confession

I stole dem breeches, I 'knowledge de corn;
But twan't no crime, ez sure ez you're born.
Ef de motive is right, den whar's de
sin?
I stole dem breeches to be baptis' in.

Fur my onliest pa'r was clean wored out;
Dey guv' up de shoes when I 'gun to shout.
But re'ligion is mighty, an' mus' prevail,
Do it lands der lark in de county jail.

De chain-gang's got me, an de coal mines, too!
But what could er 'fenseless colored man do,
When de judge an' jury 'lowed it was sin
To steal dem breeches to be batis' in.

Tell de folks all howdye, an' goodby, too;
I'll meet 'em in hebben, when my wurk
is fru;
Fur my heart is white, do my skin is black
An' I'm goin' to trabbel on de shinnin' track.

When de Lawd is judge, I know he gwine to say,
"Pomp's straight ez er shingle, and fair ez de day."
He'll shout to de world dat it warn't
no sin
Ter steal dem breeches ter be baptis' in.

SONGS

Dear Social Cornerites: I always enjoy the poems on our page. The one entitled One Day at a Time, I cut out and will save it among my other choice clippings.

Each of us has some talent, some like to compose poetry, others love to play a musical instrument while another loves to sing, and I think it's more interesting if one knows who composed our favorite song or poem.

As I was looking over song books the other day (I enjoy music and singing) I spent the most time with "The Golden Book of Favorite Songs." There I found the names of those who composed America, The Star Spangled Banner, America the Beautiful, Yankee Doodle, Dixie, Battle Hymn of the Republic, Tenting on the Old Camp Ground, When Johnny Comes Marching Home, Home, Sweet Home, Old Black Joe, Old Folks at Home, My Old Kentucky Home, Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground.

First I will write of Home, Sweet Home. The author, John Howard Payne, was born in New York city, June 9, 1792. His mother died when the boy was 13 years old. He became a clerk in a mercantile house. At 17 he went on the stage and gained success in the large eastern cities. He was 21 when he appeared in Drury Lane theater, London. He wrote several successful dramas, among them, Clari, the Maid of Milan. The play was changed into an opera and the words Home Sweet Home were introduced into it. The song was a great success and enriched all who handled it except the author, Mr. Payne did not even receive the 25 pounds which was the share of the proceeds from the sale of the manuscript. In 1883 he died in Tunis. The body was brought to his native land and buried at Oak Hill cemetery, Washington, D. C.

America the Beautiful. The words of this song were written in the summer of 1893 by Katherine Lee Bates upon the return trip to the summit of Pike's Peak. They were first printed in a magazine July 4, 1895 and soon after set to music.

America was written by Rev. Samuel F. Smith, a Baptist minister, who was born in Boston. Dr. Smith says: "Friend Mason gave me this German song book to translate, so I came across the air, God Save the King. I liked the music, I went to work and in half an hour America was composed." The hymn was first sung at a children's Fourth of July celebration in Park street church, Boston. It was not popular until after the Civil war. Since then it has become the best known and most frequently sung by any of our national songs.

I have written of three and before the letter gets too long and tiresome, will close.

"Judge not thy friend until thou standeth in his place."—Hillel

CLUB 6 MEETS TUESDAY

Dear Social Corner Members: It is Sunday again. So guess I will get my letter written early. I say to all of you who did not attend the anniversary meeting of Club 5 last week that you missed a grand good time. The dinner was fine, wasn't it Windy Bell. We enjoyed the afternoon program too. Your feature, Bay State, was fine. Think we will try it some time. I was hoping to see a letter showing from Club 6 but, Skipper and I had to represent the whole family. Thought you were going, Milky Way?

Now Club 6 celebrates its anniversary next Tuesday, the 18th, and we want to see a big crowd. I am to be hostess and Suma has charge of the program and we will treat you the best we know how, so come all who can and try and bring some one with you. I hope some one will take Sumac's advice and be ready to be hostess in April.

Y. Y.: Skipper, Estella, Ruthina and Ignac: Don't forget.

Lucille Drew and Rebecca: Do try and come. We want a good showing of the charter members as well as of all the others.

Callie and Averie: Think it's time we saw you.

Yelolw Jacket: Can't you get your family started?

The place of meeting is Mechanic's hall Westerly. The dinner will be served at 12 o'clock. Now, come all who can, bring your dishes and some kind of food as that is what makes the dinner a success.

American Girl: Hope everything works out all right. E. L. M.

DIDN'T MEAN EVERY WOMAN

Dear Social Corner Members: I didn't mean that every middle-aged woman was like that. There is a question about the ages also, as it doesn't altogether hit the middle-aged. This was part of an article I read in a paper. A woman had written asking what different ones thought about the middle aged woman entering a profession at that age and nearly everything pointed to her going in as she would probably be kept out of mischief that way. It is the middle-aged woman (as also the younger ones) that has time hanging heavy on her hands that stir up a lot of mischief here and there. I know Chelsea, there are plenty of middle-aged women that have done wonders in the world and will continue doing so.

Here is another thing that interested me. "What is a person to do when she has lost everything and has nothing to live for?"

This woman loved unwisely and now the man is going to marry another. Can this woman win back her self-respect in time? Some say by a change of environment. Get out among strangers where she will have fresh contacts, new interests and fill her mind with different thoughts and purposes.

I should consider this last almost impossible. It is hard to readjust the things of a life time.

What do some of the sisters think? Please don't think I felt hard against the middle-aged because as I said before, I will say again, some of my best friends are among the middle-aged.

SELECT WORTHWHILE BOOKS!

Dear Editor and Sisters: Well, here I am again. I think I am gaining. Perhaps in time, I shall be writing as many letters as Sumac and Prairie Chicken. I noticed Sumac's letter was missing last week. Hope she wasn't cleaning that sink. The Corner page was certainly overflowing. I wonder how it will compare with some of the pages next summer.

It was such a beautiful morning I couldn't resist the temptation to clean house and have finished a bedroom.

I enjoy reading the letters about books. As my time is limited, I try to always select books that are worth while, and those that will repay me for the time spent. I find one doesn't have to read very long to learn something new.

When my son entered college, he was given a list of books that every one is supposed to read before graduation. They are called the chief masterpieces of the world's literature. The list is too long for me to name all the books, but it begins with the following taken from the Bible: Psalms, Job, Isaiah, 40-60; Mark, John, and Hebrews. Included in the list are books by authors some of whom I will name: Homer, Virgil, Cicero, Horace, Marcus Aurelius, Koran, Bacon, Shakespeare, Milton, Bunyan, Defoe, Swift, Goldsmith, Burns, Scott, Lamb, Webster, Macauley, Hugo, Emerson, Hawthorne, Tennyson, Dickens, Thoreau and Kipling. There are dramas, essays and orations. One thing I was glad to see, and that was the fact that the Bible was mentioned first, for I think in these days we are apt to think that there is not much religion taught in college.

I have a book, "History of the Indians of Connecticut," by De Forest which my father won by reading a certain paragraph, without any mistake, which was selected by his grandfather. This was in competition with a large number of cousins at a Thanksgiving reunion. The book was prized highly as he was only a small boy at that time. Another valued book is "A History of the Baptist Denomination in America," by Bennedict, which was willed to him by his grandfather. One writer mentions the books for elderly people. Perhaps I am getting old, for I enjoyed reading some of those she mentioned. Haven't read them all. The last one I read was Cranford. When my younger son was in high school, they presented a little play, "Ladies of Cranford." That is when I read the book.

Stranger in the City: How are you? Suppose you arrived safely, as I read your letter recently. Write again.

E. L. M.: I was right here on the 18th. Had been ill and didn't dare go out that day.

I think it is about time Paroquet attended some of the meetings. Hope she reads this and takes the hint.

Now I hope next Tuesday proves a pleasant day, and the members wend their way toward Mechanics' hall in Westerly. Shall look for the long-lost sisters from Mystic and Stonington.

Could write duch more, but it is almost time for my hungry people to return so, best wishes to all.

TOPSY.

SPRING PAINTING

Dear Social Corner Friends: My, but there were a lot of fine letters in the March 8th paper. So many who have not written lately. I want to thank friends that have written me, and sent papers. Aries is always so kind and a member sent a paper from Baltic, Conn. Thank you.

I read all the letters and poems. Cake recipes are good, too. We do like new ones at times. I cannot eat red meat any more so miss my nice "beef stews" I once made.

Do you all like corn muffins made from white cornmeal? I make them often. The meal is so fine and they are so good for one.

Aunty Jane: You are O. K. I do like cheese. How about spring painting? I love to paint from roses to chairs. Last fall I painted by kitchen walls an olive green and table and chairs a pretty green with orange trimmings.

Green gives the kitchen a cool look for summer.

Do a little painting each day and you will not get sick, or make others sick. A pail of water in a freshly painted room will help to remove the odor of paint.

A light coat of varnish, applied every few months will lengthen the life of linoleum.

A coat of clear shellac over the seat or rush-bottom chairs will greatly prolong their lives and keep the reed from splitting.

OLD FASHIONED LOAF CAKE

Social Corner Sisters: As I have a good recipe for raised cake, am sending it, hoping that E. L. M. will have good luck with it, too. It is called Old Fashioned Loaf Cake: It requires 6 cups of flour, 1 pint of milk, 1 yeast cake, 2 cups of sugar, 2 cups of butter or part lard, 1 egg, white only, ½ teaspoon of soda, 1 teaspoon of nutmeg, 1 cup of raisins and a little salt.

Mix the flour, salt, yeast, ½ the milk, ½ the sugar and ½ the butter or lard at night, as you would if making bread and let rise till morning, then add the rest of the ingredients and put into cake pans. Let rise as you would bread before putting in oven. This makes two large loaves. Here is another called

Quick Loaf Cake: 4 cups of flour, 1 cup of milk, 3-4 cup of shortening, 2 cups of sugar, 1 yeast cake soaked in 1 cup of warm water or milk, 1 cup of raisins, salt, ¼ teaspoon of nutmeg, ½ teaspoon of lemon extract or lemon juice, and 2 teaspoons of baking powder.

Mix and put in two pans. You may let it rise for 15 minutes, or put it in the oven at once, if in a hurry.

Spring is surely on the way, for I have seen and heard the bluebirds, song sparrows, fox sparrows and a robin.

MORE ABOUT MOSELEY HOUSE IN HAMPTON.

Dear Social Corner Members: In the kitchen stood a grandfather's clock; "was too tall for the shelf so stood many years on the floor." Changes of the moon were recorded on the face as well as time. This piece was the only one in all the furnishings desired by a son of Mary Moseley Daniels of New York. This clock stood beside the large brick oven which used to be fired up during the homecoming of the out of town children. The fire was built in the oven of hard wood and when reduced to red coals was drawn out and food put in. A long handled shovel that was flat easily holding a pie was used to convey it to rear of the oven. The shovel was withdrawn and continued carrying pies until a substantial number was inside. They used to bake not less than twelve of mince seasoned to keep and often distressed the partakers. These pies have been termed "devil between two crusts."

My mother was afraid to ride in cars and so went by team to Manchester to visit relatives, and, reaching Andover, went to the Perkins tavern to dinner. She often said to me, "Mrs. Perkins made the best mince pie she ever ate." When I was married in 1880 and went to live in Windsor the people were all strangers to me. In due time I mentioned the wonderful pies to my nearest neighbor, who said, "I lived with Mrs. Perkins when a young girl. When the mince meat was finished and put in large earthern jars, packed firmly, she put over all a certain quantity of rum and put it up in dance hall until needed." How little we know what mixtures we eat.

Out of the kitchen in northeast corner was Eliza Moseley's room, while the eldest couple slept in the northwest room, which was shaded by the big elm tree. I do believe people at the present time are looking more to sun in sleeping rooms. Out of the kitchen to the north was a good sized room with outside door and well inside with two buckets, one up while one was being filled with such cold water that there was no need of ice. The family during the summer ate in this room and after the family the hired help ate. One day Frank Malbone, colored, was to dinner and Grandma Moseley, as we called her, asked, "Frank can you pick a bone?" He replied, "Yes, by G—d, I can if there is any meat on it." In this room cheese was made. I used to see the the rennet drying on a forked stick, the curd in basket for that purpose and letting the whey run into a receptacle for it. Then the curd was put into a round wooden box and into press with the cover on weighted down. Occasionally, if not always, while subjected to such pressure there would be thin pieces of the fresh cheese squeeze out and we children were given a taste which we relished immensely. I would like a bit now. After a required length of time the cheese was released and Grandma Moseley carried it to the cheese room in the northeast corner containing suitable frames for holding the substantial food. I remember seeing them turned and greased by her own hands. She took much pride in being able to produce good cheese and was known in town and often in other towns. Right here I am going to say Mrs. Reuben Elliott of Elliot's station was noted in this line. Beside this cheese room was a room where meal and other flours were kept in large quantities.

On east side of the house was a veranda with a long flight of stone steps on south end and on north end leading to veranda, while in center was another well with two buckets. Going down the north steps you came to several sheds protecting wagons. At the end of these was a larger building that Mr. Coleman used to dress cattle in and as Mr. Moseley used to deal in cattle before my time I presume this building was used to slaughter their own creatures, and cure their own meat.

Quite a distance in front of this slaughter house stood the store formerly used. Certainly a well planned farm house.

In the front yard were two cherry trees, two Althea bushes, red and white, a maple tree that in a breeze the leaves turned and looked like silver, called silver maple, while outside of the fence were the old-fashioned prim or cinnamon roses so sweet.

Grandma Moseley wore a white cap becoming to her round face and pink cheeks. I have an image of her tripping over the ground Sundays to church. She always went the length of the aisle to the end seats near the pulpit. Mr. Moseley was very lame, his knees being much affected. He seldom walked out and when he did he used a rake's tail or handle to aid him.

About all I remember about the barn was the barn swallows under the eves on the east side and cows in their places to be milked and the threshing machine in fall. I thought the horses tried hard to get out. CRETIA.

RAISED CAKE RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Members: As I read in the last Social Corner about the experience of E. L. M. with raised cake, I wondered who ever made the recipe that she used. It seems to me that some one either made a mistake or got it up from imagination or "by guess and by godfrey," like the old sea captain's chowder. There seems to be entirely too much sugar, flour and shortening for the rising material. I never use any flour when I mix it, as it would make it very dry. My recipe is certainly tried and true, having been in my family for years and I have used it very many times.

Raised Cake: Take two cups of light bread dough, (not sponge) but bread risen over night and ready to knead), one egg, one cup sugar, one-half cup soft shortening (not melted), one tablespoon rich milk, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one cup seedless raisins, washed and floured, and whatever spice one prefers, I use nutmeg. Mix all together with your hand until a smooth dough, turn into a greased baking tin lined with white paper. Cover and set in a warm place until light, probably two hours or so and bake slowly till a straw thrust in comes out clean. Keep the dough and all the ingredients warm while mixing. This makes a good sized loaf. One could add nuts, currants and citron if she wished, I suppose, but I have an idea that the cake wouldn't rise so well. So many rich things make the dough heavy and dense and it doesn't rise well, which is the beauty of it. No doubt you will be deluged with recipes for raised cake, probably all good, but I doubt if any are better than this when it turns out as it should.

Of course you can frost it if you wish, I use a white frosting and by the way, does anyone remember the days when making cake frosting was quite a ceremony? When the whites of eggs were beaten on a platter with a fork and frosting sugar stirred in and the whole family called in to pass judgment as to whether it was stiff enough to eat without running off the cake?

E. L. M.: I can agree with you that it is some job to move but unlike you I can't say that I love it. I've moved 23 times in 25 years which to use a slang phrase, is "going some." At first it seemed rather like fun but the fun has long since gone out of it. There are advantages on each side, it isn't well to get in a rut, and then again we think of the dear old country homes, which one generation occupied after another and where they knew and loved all the surroundings so much.

I enjoyed the letter by Quid Nunc very much. I used to live in Westminster for many years and the old names are very familiar to me and bring back memories of the days of "lang syne." The "fiery hand" has indeed visited that place and desolated it to us who used to know it.

It doesn't seem the same with the stately old parsonage gone and the Dening house, but we who knew it in the past carry in our memories the picture of it as it used to be.

Like Sister Gertrude, I am not expressing much opinion on By Jingo's letter as I should probably say too much and get severely criticised. I think it is best for everyone to follow out his own ideas as to those things but most of us, as we begin to tread the path toward the setting sun, like to go as easily as may be, having borne the burden and heat of the day in the rush and push of young and middle life. We like to have time to draw a long breath and perhaps pick up some of our old pursuits abandoned for years keeping reasonably busy but not "driven to death" with work.

"Grow old with me,
The best is yet to be.
The last of life for which the first was made."

Pedestrian: I can remember those old Harper's Bazars and I also remember some old numbers (not old then) of the Atlantic Monthly where I read articles about forest and wild life with great interest. I couldn't have been over eleven or twelve years old, either, and one of my great pleasures was when my mother used to let me go with her when she made an all day visit to the Misses Sarah and Abbie Kingsley. Miss Sarah was the neighborhood dressmaker and had bound volumes of either Harper's Bazar or Godey's Lady's Book and when I was settled on the lounge (we didn't have couches then) with some of those volumes. I was happy for all day with the stories and pictures. I doubt if many of the girls of that age now would enjoy that kind of reading as I used to. And, now I think I have said plenty for this time and with many thanks to the editor for the yellow slip which was an unexpected pleasure. I will bid you good evening. IOLA

SEES SIGNS OF SPRING.

Dear Sisters and Editor: I want to thank the editor for my yellow slip. I haven't decided yet what I'll spend it for. On Tuesday I went to the meeting in Norwich with Milky Way, Coonie and Cosmos and we have a very nice time. It was a surprise trip as I didn't know we were going until shortly before we started. I hadn't attended a meeting there in over a year, but saw quite a few familiar faces. We hope to see a lot of them at our anniversary meeting next Tuesday. That was a lovely jar that held the pussy willows that Aries brought. Did you decorate it Aries?

Last Tuesday evening we heard hylas for the first time but it is cold enough tonight to freeze them in again I guess. But it is a good prophecy for spring will soon follow when the hylas sing. An enormous flock of crows were in the woods in back of the house this afternoon, there must have been a hundred or more in the flock. I never saw so many before.

My, but what a page (or pages) full of letters we had last week. Why can't we do that every time. It must be encouraging to the editor to see so many who show they appreciate his efforts by sending in so many letters.

Necia: Hope you are feeling better.

Susanna: Sorry, but perhaps you can some other time.

B Natural: I hope you can be with us.

So long, everyone, until Tuesday next, when we hope to see you all.

SUMAC (No. 6)

APPRECIATED POEM.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: We surely did have lots of good reading from a lot of members.

I wish to thank Royanco and Primrose for sending the poem I asked for, it sure is fine and very true. More home-like will seem the Great Beyond because so many of our loved ones are there, and when the time comes for us to go we hope to welcome them all or perhaps they will welcome us.

I also wish to thank Aunty Jane for sending in how to make cheese and I am going to try it some time. When I do I will let you know what luck I have with it.

Calla Lily: I don't blame you for not guessing without some clue to work on. Just think it will be seven years the 11th of June since Mandy went away. How time flies. Of course you remember her daughter. Well look for her in Lisbon. Maybe I had better write you a short note direct then I can tell more.

Here's hoping all the sisters and their families are well and hoping those that are sick will soon be well. STEBELIA.

ATTENDING MEETING

Dear Editor: Just another line to tell you what a fine day we had at the anniversary meeting of Club No. 2. The morning was fair and everybody and their grandmothers (nearly) started for the good time. I did not "count noses" but think there were over one hundred present. After the usual formalities of grace and singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow", we started in ernest to demolish the good things with which the tables were laden. The manager and aids all wore yellow butterflies in their hair, and to the handle of each coffee cup was attached a yellow butterfly for each of us. The usual yellow ruffles were used on the tables also yellow candles and napkins. As I had carried a bouquet of pussywillows to give to our shut-in sister, "Palmleaf," I left after dining so I missed the program. "Palmleaf" said "She had been wishing for some pussywillows and was delighted with the ones I took." She sent greetings to all the members of the Social Corner and wished all health and prosperity. She would like to receive cards or letters from friends, address Miss Sarah Palmer, 99 Washington street, Norwich, Conn.

As the clouds collected and rain threatened, I boarded a bus for home as I didn't want to get my best bonnet spoiled. Good luck. ARIES.

ONLY NEW PENNAME NEEDED

Dear Editor and Friends of the Social Corner: After reading your column for years, and wondering what it was all about, I attended one of your meetings with a friend and member of your most delightful club.

I spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Everyone was so friendly, so social, I only wish I could be one of them.

Will you, editor, and members of the Social Corner, consider this?

NINNA

(Your name is so near that of two other members as to cause confusion. Please select another and it will be recorded.—S. C. Editor.)

DEFENDS THE MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN

Dear Editor and Sisters: I must say what I think about middle-aged sisters. Isn't it too bad to think "By Jingo" has such a poor impression of them? Why, our Social Corner is composed of them largely and such a friendly helpful crowd as they are and such beautiful letters as they are writing. I would not advise a middle-aged woman to go into business today, neither would I suggest breaking up a home and going to live with one's children. It is worth something to be independent and I think there is work for us all to do.

Quid Nunc: I do enjoy your letters and the old red school was more than enjoyed.

Cenzi: I decided after a little thought I was too inquisitive to inquire for what I did and too I did not want to take your time so did not wait but the lady in question was my friend and neighbor and am sorry to hear she is not so well this week. Please tell her I have not forgotten her.

Aunty Jane: No, I am sorry to say I have not the book you ask for.

Aries: Glad you could go to Norwich, 1926, and I have had a good visit today.

CAPRICON, Club 4

THE AVOCADO GAME

Social Corner Members: Well, here we are again, me and Cal Coolidge both in California, and not an earthquake yet. I haven't asked Cal what he thinks about it yet, and I don't suppose he would tell me if I did, He's one of these close mouthed boys, is Cal, a "silence is golden" sort of a feller. But I'm different, Oh, yes, I'm different. I tell the world what I think about things, and so get into all sorts of arguments with hemale old maids, shemale old bachelors, and prohibitionists.

From what I have observed going over into Old Mex to get one, the main traffic across the line is schoolmarms, deacons and goody goody people going over to look at "Old Demon Rum" when he is rumming, together with a few old soaks who can't forget their early training, and a few of us moderates who go just to revive the memories of what a real drink feels like in our cosmic, (I said cosmic, not comic), plan. Anyway the gals and deacons can't have much of a story to tell the folks back home unless they let old demon rum experiment on their cosmic tummies.

It's all avocadoes now in San Diego the real estate birds and bird dogs have gone out of the "Buy a lot and be rich and happy until the mortgage comes due again." It's overworked, or rather died of overfeeding and like Florida, about every house has a "For Sale", "For Rent," or "Rooms and Apartments" sign out. So some bright genius invented a new one. Oranges, chickens, grapes and almost everything else has been the lure to get your coin in a painless operation, but the avocado beats ef all. You see avocadoes will only grow in certain places, one small section in Florida and around Mt. Helix, some 17 miles east of San Diego. They are temperamental, are avocadoes, something like a Hollywood actress. They will only play if the air, water, land, view, surrounding conditions, and kind of cigars the boss smokes, to say nothing of the noise of dogs, children, and jazz, and the color of the ladies hair is right. But if they do play, oh, man, aren't they producers.

The Bible has a story about a man living under his own vine and fig tree, but if the stories you hear of avocadoes is true, he only needs one tree to be healthy, wealthy, and wise forever. He can eat all he needs of avocadoes, as butter, meat, medicine oil (I suppose he could use it on his car), beauty cream, ice cream, and every other dog gone thing he needs. I tried it on my dog "Wufty" and he was gone all right, gone looking for a bone. And after all what are the avocadoes? Well, just plain old alligator pears, that have been to the beauty shop, and got their faces lifted and some, not all, of the warts removed. But they're good eating, if you like alligator pears, but nothing to rave about, that I can see. But these smart boys are pulling in the suckers all right, selling land at around $4,000 per acre, four thousand good old bucks, I said.

But, of course, you get free rides out there to get on the hook and a free lunch too, and a lot of hot air from the artists. If you haven't a good strong, able-bodied, and hard-boiled sales resistance, you are in for it. And if you are lucky and I'm a bum guesser, in a few years or months you will be in the hard luck class, along with the holders of real estate that they are trying to sell to get money enough to go back to Iowa, or somewhere else and earn enough money to fall for some other slick guy.

It's a great life and very few escape from it alive and in full possession of their faculties and pocketbooks. I'm immune, a hard boiled, 20-minute egg. When I meet people who look me over with a speculative eye and figure out that I may have some loose cash concealed on my person, and then begin to try to sell me a house and lot, or just a lot, or an orange grove, or a few inches of what they claim is the only land in the universe that will grow avocadoes, I promptly tell them that I'm an old bum, have only 15 cents in cash, and my bank account is overdrawn, and I owe for my last shave yet.

That let's me out, except for the used car men, they're game birds. They will sell you a car for nothing if you will move it away and pay for a license, and fill it up with oil and gas and buy a couple of tires and pay to have a few odd jobs done to it and the lights and brakes examined and a new rear end put in. Outside of these few things you can get a car for almost nothing, and there are millions of 'em everywhere. They are burning them up in piles at Long Beach, according to the papers.

A lady has started a war on California at Yuma. It seems they examined her husband's car at Yuma as per usual, he didn't object much it seems, I guess maybe he didn't care who saw his pajamas. But the lady, oh, my, she's different. She objected strenuously, and slapped Big Bill's jaw for him, and Bill had them both pinched. Friend husband paid his bit, all right. Guess he's one of these genial cusses, but not her, no siree! She would see the judge, the state of California and all of them in, some place else, and would rot in Yuma before she would pay a cent. So they let her go in self defense and then she went to work and started things moving from all over the country to California and threatens to take the case to the supreme court of the U. S. I said in the first part of this letter that Cal Coolidge and I hadn't started an earthquake in California, but I guess we weren't strong enough. Just us two and Will Rogers, it needed this lady to do the job.

Anyway, there was an earthquake in the Imperial Valley the other day. Shook 'em up quite a bit around Brawley, good name that, anyway she started a brawl that promises to shake other places in the land of the "Native Sons," and the "Talkies." They had a riot in Los Angeles last week, too. A lot of the chaps out of work and money, got together and paraded, yelping about wanting work. The cops, of course, couldn't stand that, and got busy working 'em over with clubs. They claim it is the "communists" back of it. I wonder. And I also wonder what a "communist" is? If being broke and hungry is being a communist, then there are a lot of them around in California to hear them tell their hard luck stories.

In Los Angeles the most prominent signs outside the theatres are "Going out of Business," "I'm Quitting."

Everything going out. Nothing coming in and such. It surely doesn't look good and prosperous in spite of Herbert Hoover and his "Hoptimistic" talks. But as the Bible says "The poor you have always with you," and some people are always poor even at wartime shipyard wages and they still go over to the races at Tia Juana and buy beer and encourage the old reprobate "Demon Rum." Well, I'll quit now and go on a free ride to look at another Avocado proposition and hear the "spieler" do his stuff and see how many of the visiting firemen from the north look as if they might loosen up and take a chance, but from the number of avocadoes trees I have seen planted already, I figure all this end of California will be top heavy in another year or two and avocadoes will be a drug on the market like the grapes and pomogranates. But I won't be trying to sell any of them and probably be dodging "native sons" of California and other folks for telling the truth about things as I see them. It doesn't take much to be a "booster" either sense or observation.

ADAM.

CORNER MEMBER 18 YEARS.

Dear Editor and Sister Friends: Am writing so to be amongst the anniversary folks. It has been 18 years this month since I wrote my first letter to the Social Corner but maybe I've not been as faithful in writing as I should. Have read the page with an interest and it has been a long time since I met with Club 1 in Willimantic. Last time I went to picnic was up to C. E. S.'s home the last time she entertained the sisters and I did enjoy it.

I will send thanks to Balsam Fir for my lovely birthday card which I received in due time but I've been wondering how you ever found out when I had a birthday as you came so near to the very day but not the exact one. I don't think you and I ever met but really should like to.

Now, Cretia, your letter did bring back to my memory so many things as those folks I remember so well and Henry Moseley's wife took care of my mother 59 years ago and was there a little while after she died. She went up to see David Greensilt on business she said concerning her husband's estate and was gone three days, so mother was left to wait on herself. She only left for a day but stayed three so mother took cold and passed away. Such a winter! Snow and snow everywhere and very cold; not much like this winter.

Writing of trundle beds, ours is still in being and I want you all to know I still have an old fashioned bedstead in a valance I made 48 years ago last December. I once had two of the real high post bedsteads. One we got at William Brown's auction on the hill, the other one I got of Mrs. John Greensilt, but one I left in the Asa Witter house when I moved here 30 years ago. The other one son took the side pieces and made two horses of to have when doing carpenter work. If I had kept them I might have got considerable for them.

Aries: I received your nice letter and will try and send a reply before many moons. Am getting pretty slow at anything. Not as spry as I used to be. Had too many birthdays.

Sprybird: Where have you flown to? Don't see anything from you and Cricket. How and where is she? Would like to hear from you both. Dew Drop has left the Corner too, I guess as she never writes. Salinda and Conundrum don't write.

Well guess this is about enough for once. I heard bluebirds out in our trees but no peep frogs yet. With best wishes to all and my sympathy to the sorrowing ones, as ever,

AUNT JERUSHA.

RECALLS OLD SONG.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Sometime ago I asked if anyone of the Social Corner knew the words of a song entitled, "Beautiful Island of Sometime." One of the Corner sisters answered by inquiry, but it was not the one I referred to. Since then I have kept my brain working and at last have managed to make out the four verses and chorus, which I am sending in to Corner in hopes the Social Corner editor will print it in verse column. The tune is very sweet and if I could sing (can't carry a tune since having the grippe six years ago) would let you hear it at some Social Corner gathering.

Aries: I sincerely thank you for the cheery card you sent me. One can't imagine how much it brightens up a day when you know someone is thinking of you. I am a great lover of violets.

God does not send us strange flowers every year;
When the spring winds blow o'er the pleasant places,
The same dear things lift up the
the same fair faces—
The violet is here.

Keziah Doolittle: H. E. C. and Ellen were down to see me one day this week. You come again some day. Am still here doing nothing.

Twice Twenty: Thanks for your sympathy. Come up sometime. My! but the anniversary brought many letters. If we all did our duty in writing to the Corner page what a volume it would make. And the editor does all this for nothing. Do we appreciate the privilege that is given us? VIOLA (Club 4)

A PATHETIC INCIDENT

Dear Corner Members and Editor: I am sending this most pathetic incident which happened 25 years ago this month in my home town. It is calculated to disclose tenderest feelings in all hearts, the calling of three persons all members of one family, away from earthly home and life. But thoughtful souls will not look upon the summons as either sad or distressing. It was the family of James Clapp of Abington, Conn., esteemed and beloved by all who knew them, who had enjoyed a long and happy life here, that entered the new and larger life together. For two weeks or more the family had been ill together with the new and unaccountable disease—the grippe. All that was mortal of father, mother and daughter was buried twenty-five years ago this month from the old Clapp farmhouse.

The father succumbed to the disease at the age of 77 years. The daughter was in a precarious condition from her malady and she died, leaving the mother and daughter alone, but the separation was but brief, for the shock of this double bereavement was too great for the feeble old lady and she also passed away at the age of 71. The daughter was 49. It was a touching scene as the remains of the three per-

Pearls Are for Tears

—By— MARJORIE WYNN

A FOOLISH YOUNG MATRON FINDS HER REPUTATION AND HAPPINESS IN THE HANDS OF A MAN WHOM SHE HAS GROSSLY INSULTED

"DARLING JESSICA, it's heaven to see you again, to hold you in my arms, to kiss you again, to know that you're here beside me once more. Gosh, how the days dragged without you." He groaned in mock misery and caught her to him.

"Did you—did you miss me, too?" he whispered.

She swallowed hard. Her eyes opened slowly. It was with difficulty she spoke. Her voice quivered with emotion.

"When I got your telegram, John," she said, "I was almost hysterical. I cried and cried. And then I packed up."

"Were you that lonely for me, baby?" his voice was hushed with awe, as it always was when he faced the fact of her love for him. He had never quite got used to the thought of this beautiful, rare, exotic creature loving him, being his wife, being Mrs. John Winston Collyer.

She walked to the window and stood there, clutching the curtain, staring out to the rolling green hills in the distance.

"Like this hotel, honey?" His voice was anxious. He always wanted so desperately to please her. Nothing in the world gave him more pleasure than to see her satisfied. He laughed a little. "Not quite up to your Park avenue standards, is it, Jessica? It must have been real fun high-hatting it like that for a little while. Glad it kept you amused while I was gone. New York's an amazing city, isn't it, darling? The most astonishing things happen there every day. Imagine your luck getting such a gorgeous apartment for nothing! It's really just short of miraculous. Imagine Mrs. Dexter picking you out of all the women she might have chosen! But then, of course, no one can resist my Jessica."

"Yes, isn't it?" murmured Jessica vaguely. She patted her hair and glanced at her wrist watch. "Oh, it's time for lunch! I'm so glad! I'm absolutely starved!"

AS THEY were sitting over their coffee a man aproached them, a certain professional suavity evident in his manner.

"Everything all right?" he inquired solicitously. "Are you engaged this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Collyer? If not, perhaps you would like to join the swimming party? We're motoring over to the falls, a great big jolly crowd of us."

"Would you like us to go, honey?" John leaned across the table eagerly.

"Of course not," was Jessica's curt reply. "I don't like great big jolly crowds." She gave the man an icy stare.

He retreated immediately, with many small bows and murmurings. "I beg pardon, Mrs. Collyer, I beg pardon." Then, hopefully, he added: "Perhaps I might arrange a set of tennis for you or a round of golf?"

"Usually, Mr. Shaw, I like to do my own arranging, without any outside suggestions. I don't play tennis and I detest golf, and please leave me alone."

Her voice was like a slap in the face. Mr. Shaw swallowed hard and managed, "I shall remember, Mrs. Collyer." His eyes narrowed. He turned on his heel and stalked away.

When he was gone, John quit his nervous drumming on the table. He felt uncomfortable. He hated scenes and unpleasantness.

"Why did you have to answer that fellow so sharply, Jessica. You know he's the social director here and it's in his line of duty to try to keep you entertained. He meant no harm."

"Well, I don't like him. That's all. I've just got a feeling about him. He's all over the place, listening to the men, flattering the women, ducking in and out of groups. He's in about a dozen places at one time. Mrs. Morley told me this morning that he sees everything and hears everything and gossips right along with the old rocking-chair here."

"He's supposed to keep everybody amused and happy, and since the only way to keep the old hens gay is to give them gossip—well, it's his duty to give them gossip!"

"Oh, duty, duty," Jessica shrugged her lovely shoulders impatiently. "How I hate that word!"

"Now, now, sweetheart, you're getting all upset. And over such a trifle, too." His voice was quiet and soothing, but there was an anxious look in his eyes. Something was bothering Jessica. He had sensed from the first that something was wrong. There was a slight quiver of hysteria beneath her simplest statement.

"HELLO," Mrs. Morley hailed him. "Up to anything?" She wagged a playful finger at them. "You two hide so much by your lonesome, everybody here insists you're newlyweds."

"Oh, no," beamed John in pride, "married five years by the calendar. And not a day apart until last month. I was called down South to New Orleans because my brother-in-law was in a nasty accident. Smashed him pretty bad. But here I am, holding hands again."

Jessica blushed, smiling prettily.

"While you're holding hands," cried Mrs. Morley, "what do you say I put some cards in 'em? Let's bridge!"

"All right." Jessica seemed quite docile. Fool that he had been to think anything wrong. "If you'll just wait an hour or so until I finish the book I'm reading. Mr. Morley will join us?"

"Of course," promised his wife, "although I haven't asked him yet. But he will. Now, run along, child."

Jessica changed into a flowery chiffon for the afternoon and tossed a string of glistening pearls about her creamy throat. She was thinking how fine and big and decent John was. With a sigh, she rushed from the room, meeting Mrs. Morley in the corridor, chatting idly with a Mrs. Fenton.

"All set, Mrs. Collyer?" she called. "With you in a moment. Our partners are there already."

Jessica nodded and waved and danced on into the bridge room, the sunlight firing her auburn hair.

Seated at their table was John—and Mr. Shaw, the social director! How dared he, when she had been so rude to him? She almost turned to go, when Mrs. Morley flew in hurriedly and seated herself. There was nothing else for Jessica to do. She sat down also, facing Mr. Shaw. Her partner!

"Mr. Morley had already arranged a session on the links, and Mr. Shaw was kind enough to fill in, because the swimming party decided at the last minute to dance instead. Aren't we lucky?"

Jessica bit her lip. John cleared his throat.

"You from New York, too, Mr. Shaw?" John was determined to be friendly and cheerful.

"I have lived there. But then I've lived in almost every interesting city in this country. I've also been in Venezuela, Alaska, Siberia and Cape Town, South Africa, and almost every other place of interest en route from one to the other."

"Adventurous aren't you?" John was really impressed.

"Were you social director in all these places, too, Mr. Shaw?" cut in Jessica's clear voice in lashing irony.

"No, madam," he answered her precisely, and the steel in his voice matched the ice in hers! "I have been a coffee planter, an ivory trader, a Secret Service man, a sailor, a horse thief, a miner, a professor of romance languages, a scholar, a gentleman—and a social director."

"Whew!" John gasped, the awe of the stay-at-home in his eyes. "You must've had some extraordinary adventures, flying around like that, here today and gone tomorrow."

"You bet. But sometimes people have gorgeous adventures just sitting snugly at home."

"That's right, old man," exclaimed John warmly. "Why, just look at what happened to Mrs. Collyer the very moment I dashed off for the South to see my brother-in-law. We'd been living quietly in New Rochelle all these years, without anything extraordinary happening along. And the next day almost, Jessica blows herself to a pot of tea at a ritzy Madison avenue teashop and her life changes like that!" He snapped his fingers dramatically.

"Oh, John, must you?" murmured Jessica, looking from Mrs. Morley's eager eyes to Mr. Shaw's narrowed ones.

"Sure, darling you don't think it happens to every one? And a lady," continued John, addressing the others, "sitting at the same table, drinking a cup of tea, asked for the sugar. That's how they began to talk. She liked Jessica very much—everybody does—and asked her to dinner that evening at her Park avenue home. Then they went to theatre. And then—she offered Jessica the loan of her magnificent apartment for a month! Isn't that extraordinary? Such coincidence! She was off to Maine for a month and Jessica had told her I was South for a month. And Jessica had a perfectly glorious month, living like a queen. I even felt good just addressing my letters to her there. 'Mrs. John Winston Collyer, in care of Mrs. Philip Case Dexter,—Park avenue.' Just like that!"

Oh, why did John talk so much? Why was he so crude, so clumsy? Jessica played her hand very badly.

"I'm so sorry," she murmured to Mr. Shaw. "My error."

"Yes," he said clamly, "your error." Their eyes crossed and held. Jessica's dropped first.

She felt her face flushing and raised her hand to pat her hair in an attempt to regain her slipping poise. Then her hand trailed down her cheek and came to rest upon her pearls.

"Lovely pearls," said Mr. Shaw, the steady look of his eyes setting her fingers to fluttering. "As an employe of the hotel I must warn you, Mrs. Collyer, that it is unwise to wear so perfectly matched a string of genuine pearls about the hotel premises. All sorts of people frequent summer hotels, you understand."

"Ha, ha," laughed John, hilariously, slapping his knee heartily. "I was taken in at first, too. They do look good, look like the top layer of oyster fruit, don't they? But they're only a cheap string of imitation pearls, costing a few dollars. Jessica ran into a department store and bought them on her way to meet me at the station."

His eyes caressed her, adored her. These pearls lent such dignity to her charm, such luster to her loviness.

"I was once a pearl diver in the South Seas and I've handled countless strings of pearls. I'm never mistaken about them. Those are real pearls!"

John's eyes twinkled. "Well, boy, here's once when you're mistaken. Jessica paid a few dollars for them in some department store. Didn't you, honey?"

"Yes," Jessica's voice sounded hollow.

"I'm never mistaken," repeated Mr. Shaw coldly, "and those are real pearls."

"Nonsense!" cried Jessica. "Let's get back to the game." Her fingers slipped up to the string of pearls and closed over them, as though that gesture would blot them from Mr. Shaw's steady look.

"May I see them?" smiled Mr. Shaw. "May I take them to my room so that I can test them? I've never been mistaken before—but Mrs. Collyer is so positive. May I?" He stretched out his hand for them, a hand smooth and suave and unfaltering.

"No, no," cried Jessica, dropping her cards and closing both hands over the pearls. Then, realizing the indignity of her conduct, she turned smilingly to John. "But suppose he's a crook, one of those slick society crooks who hang about summer hotels? I bet he's a bad man who wants my pearls for his sweetie. Once he gets them to his room we won't see him or the pearls again."

"What if he is?" argued John. "You said yourself the pearls are worthless. If he flies off with them, I'll wire to that department store for another string just like this one. So you won't be out anything"—he bent low to whisper in her ear—"and we'll have the satisfaction of proving this nervy ass to be a liar!"

"Oh, forget it, everybody," called Jessica gayly. "Consider them real, if you must, and let's get on with the game."

"If you don't mind," smiled Mr Shaw, "my real interest and curiosity have been aroused. I'd love to test them. You may have a fortune there!"

"Boy, what a pretty idea that would be!" guffawed John. "I'd sell the string immediately. I'd put about twenty-five thousand into my business, buy a peachy little home and car and all the beautiful things for you, Jessica, you ever craved!" And with that John stood up, snapped the catch of the string and, before Jessica really knew it had happened, her pearls were dropping into Mr. Shaw's outstretched palm.

"I'll let you know in an hour or so," Shaw called back over his shoulder as he walked toward the elevator.

Jessica's dark eyes took on a wild look as she saw the door of the elevator snap to. She clasped her hands until they were white at the knuckles. She stood up.

"Too bad our bridge is broken up," prattled Mrs. Morley. "But we can resume it the moment Mr. Shaw returns. He won't be long."

"No, it won't be long now. Fool that I have been, fool, fool, fool," she shouted in her heart. John was looking at her so tenderly, his eyes adoring her, worshiping her. In another hour, how would he look at her then? How would the world look at her? What would her life be?

"Back in a moment * * * left something upstairs * * * no, John, I'd rather * * * really, I'd rather get it myself * * * pardon me * * * back in a moment. * * *" She flew up the stairs in her flowery chiffon gown, looking like a spray of rainbow-tinted mist. She could not wait for the elevator. She wanted action, movement, or she'd scream, stamp, get hysterical—or go completely dead.

"Which is Mr. Shaw's room, please?" she called into the phone. "Four hundred eleven? Thank you." On the same floor, too!

She ran in zigzag fashion down the corridor on her tiptoes. She kept brushing her hair back from her brow in quick, nervous movements. Her breath came fast, in little, strangling gasps, as though she was suffocating.

With a sob she turned the door handle of Room 411 and rushed in. The man at the window turned instantly to face her.

"Well," she cried, panic threading her voice. "Now you know! Are you going to tell John? You'll kill his faith in me, in people, in life! You'll shake my life into ruins. Tell me, tell me, what are you going to do?"

"The pearls are real, a string of marvelously matched perfect pearls. Worth scads of money."

"I know, I know," she cried widly. "Give them to me!"

"Calm yourself, Mrs. Collyer. First you insult me, and now you give me orders." He turned the pearls slowly before her eyes, tantalizing her, watching her squirm as the colors clashed and melted in their creamy depths.

"I'll tell you," she spoke hurriedly. "Philip Dexter and I were once desperately in love. But he was already married. And, anyway, there was never talk of marriage between us. I loved him—but not enough to forget all my mother's teachings. I felt myself weakening, so when John came along I ran into marriage with him, terribly relieved and glad to be free of temptation. John is fine. He's big and generous and decent and I really grew to love him. Philip had always made me wild, impetuous, delirious and dramatic—our love was like that. With John, life was cozy, comfortable, sweet and friendly. I've made John a good wife—for five years. Until last month." She paused.

THE man before her seemed scarcely to be listening. He was holding the pearls toward the sun, where they shone, a snaky string, dotted with flame.

"I did go to that teashop. But I met Mr. Philip Case Dexter. The five years went out like a flash. These are the pearls he gave me when I left—to go to John."

Over the silence that fell suddenly upon the room, the man and the woman regarded each other. There was panic in her eyes. There was pity in his.

"Perfect," the man murmured, as he snapped the catch and held the circle before his caressing eyes. "Perfect pearls."

To Jessica that circle of creamy fire was like a skillfully disguised noose, held ready to slip over her throat.

"Pearls are for tears," said the man. "You will always carry tears in your heart while you wear these pearls about your throat. Because you do love your John."

She had to make three efforts before she could speak.

"You will not tell him?" she whispered.

The man dropped the string of pearls into Jessica's trembling palm and slowly shook his head from side to side. He bent low and kissed the hand that held the pearls, and every pearl seemed to shimmer with struggling flame.

There was a painful throb in Jessica's throat. She looked into his eyes and knew he spoke the truth.

"You darling!" she cried brokenly and ran from the room.

A few minutes later a rap came upon the door of 411. Two raps followed the first.

"Come in," called Mr. Shaw, standing by the window.

John stepped in.

"Well," he asked grinning, "what'll we do with the first fifty thousand?" Suddenly his voiced sobered and he regarded the silent young man with concern. "Well, speak up."

"Really, I am ashamed to own myself, mistaken. I was so cocksure. I have already offered my apologies to Mrs. Collyer for daring to doubt her word. And you also, my dear Mr. Collyer, must accept them. Those pearls are of the most perfect—paste!"

"Didn't I know it?" John laughed heartily. "A joke on you, Mr. Shaw."

Mr. Shaw nodded his head, agreeing.

When John found Jessica in their room she was changing into a little sports dress.

"So they're paste after all, eh, honey? Don't feel too blue about it. Silly fellow, isn't he, Shaw? So darn cocksure and conceited. I guess you're right about him, darling. He is an annoying fellow."

"Now, John, dear, I don't agree with you at all. I think he's quite all right. After all, he did admit his error. It must have taken some spirit for him to do that. You know, a fellow of his type might have gone on insisting they were real just to save his own face. And we might have had to go to so much trouble to straighten things out between ourselves. So you see, John, he is rather a gentleman."

SOCIAL CORNER

sons were given back together to the bosom of mother earth.

A fitting tribute by M. P. D. of Danielson was printed in the Windham county Transcript as follows:

"The death of James Clapp, together with his wife and daughter, recalls to my mind the fact that as far back as 1845 they were citizens of Danielsonville. Mr. Clapp with his brother, Silas, carried on the dry goods business then occupied by W. W. Webster, one side being used for the post office, James Clapp being the postmaster. Later James moved back to Abington. A continuous acquaintance enables me to testify to the singularity of the father, mother and daughter, all of whom was endowed with that modest Quaker character set forth in a long life of silent usefulness to friends and neighbors. Such a life deserves to be held up for imitation M. R. D."

OLDER PEOPLE MORE CAREFUL

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Through the kindness of Milky Way and Sumac I attended the anniversary of Club No. 3, and had a very nice time and dinner.

Country Sister: You certainly can whoop her up.

I do not know By Jingo personally, but I presume she had some occasion for writing as she did at that time. I think some people as they grow in years are much more careful about making trouble and are more considerate than young folks. Not all of us have dispositions alike, some worry easier than others. Easy young folks are most always good natured and carefree and nothing worries them. I notice from observation that it is the old cranks, as they are called, are usually smartest.

Alvernon: I see you are busy at it. You must feel better. I made one and it looked more like a scoop shovel, so shall have to re-sew it. Called at your house Labor day but you were out.

Hope to see visitors from other clubs on Tuesday, March 18 at Club No. 6. I don't know what terrible things Sumac is planning for us to do, but come and see.

Spring cleaning and woodchucks will soon b here, both are hard to beat.

Jane of R. I.: Your letter reads all right, the next thing is to make it come all right.

Prairie Chicken: Where do you find so many interesting things? The lead pipe might work wonders.

With best wishes to all the Corner members. COSMOS.

CLUB 4'S ANNIVERSARY MEETING MARCH 27.

Dear Social Corner Folks: Here I am again. This time to say that the anniversary meeting of Club No. 4 will be held Thursday, March 27, in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church, corner of Grove and Bradley streets, Putnam. The hostesses will be Rosalind, Avon, Last Rose of Summer and Your Neighbor. Please respond to the roll call by telling why you chose your pen name and how long you have written for the Corner. Don't forget to bring dishes and eats." Members of other clubs are cordially invited. PRIMROSE.

EATING AIR

Dear Social Corner Members: Have you ever heard that poem which starts:

Once I met a lady, handsome, fat and fair;
I said, "What's the secret."
She said, "Eating air."

It then goes on to show how fresh air is needed to make strong, healthful bodies.

Have you ever stopped to think that plants and flowers need air to eat as much as they need soil and water? Have you wondered why plants didn't grow well in the house for some people who have very good success with them outside? Perhaps the lack of fresh air is part of the trouble. There is too much of a tendency in some homes to "shut that door quick" and keep the house warm and at the same time unaired.

It is said that rooms in which plants are kept should be aired for at least twenty minutes a day. Of course there must be no direct draft on them nor should the temperature be allowed to drop low enough to cause chilling.

Only the tenth of March and the snowdrops are blooming! What is our earliest wild flower in this locality? Opinion seems to be divided; think that the pussy-willows should stand first on the list. I remember hearing of a school teacher who was asked by one of her pupils and she replied that the witch hazel was the first to bloom. Even her scholars knew better than that.

One April Fool's day when I was going to school we got some skunk cabbages from a nearby swamp and put them in the back of one of the drawers in our teacher's desk. It took her a long time to locate the source of the odor and meanwhile we had a great deal of fun watching her perplexity.

Goodness, it's getting late and I'll have to hustle if I'm going to get that bunch of pussy-willows for the house. PERNICKETY

LEBA'S RAISED CAKE.

Editor of Social Corner: I noticed in the Social Corner of last Saturday a call for help from E. L. M. of Club, No. 6.

As I have received help from the S. C. many times and this is the first time that I have been able to make any return for the many helps I hasten to do so.

Yes, E. L. M. I have a raised cake recipe that is both quick and sure.

Raised Cake: ½ yeast cake in cup warm milk and 1 cup bread flour; mix and let it stand 2 hours in a warm place. Then add 1 egg, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, another cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup raisins, nutmeg and salt; bake slowly in moderate oven about one hour. LEBA.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: I read your pleasant page every week and enjoy the letters very much, especially the recipes and practical hints.

I am a busy housewife but will try and find time to write often.

I will take for my pen name, JOHNNIE'S MA.

PRESTON

The grange held its meeting Tuesday evening. The program in charge of Worthy Lecturer Marion Hall was an evening of old songs as follows: Songs of Long Ago by the grange, Carry Me Back to Old Virginny, Lynwood Crary; Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms, Fredrick Wilcox, Roll call, My Favorite Song, solo, by Sister Ida Richardson, of Norwich grange. Paper, John Howard Payne, Cynthia Crary; duet, Juanita, Hattie and Arlene Bennett; Silver Threads Among the Gold, Lydia Foote; The Quilting Party, quartette Marjory Dawley, Charity Pendleton, Sidney Foster, Alice Hall. Musical reading, Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, Mildred, Slater and Marjory Dawley; Ye Mountains, Nathan Hall; Maryland, My Maryland, G. W. Clark. There were two selections by the newly formed grange orchestra, this being their first public appearance. Salad, rolls, olives and coffee were served by the feast committee, Catherine Turner, Arlene Bennett and Charles Staubley. Visitors were present from Ledyard, Pachaug and Norwich.

The Do Well Cooking club met at the Congregational church Saturday afternoon and made chocolate date cookies. Plans were discussed for raising money for the club girls to atend the Short Course at Storrs in August. At the next meeting there will be an indoor picnic, each girl bringing a luncheon which she has prepared considering the knowledge of nourishing foods she has acquired during the club's existence.

Monday afternoon the executive committee of the Stonington Union association met and plans were discussed for the meeting to be held at the Union Plainfield church, June 11.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society met at the church on Wednesday for an all-day session. Two quilts were tied.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid society was very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Charles Geisthardt, Wednesday afternoon, a good number being present. A lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served.

A number from this place attended the meeting of the Norwich Union C. E. executive committee at the Baptist church, Greeneville, Monday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. George Clark spent Tuesday in Hartford.

Pictures At Y. M. C. A. Sunday

The rather unusual titled picture, "East Side, West Side," in six reels will be shown in the large gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A., on the coming Sunday at 4 o'clock. This is an Irving Cummings production, and the leading characters are Kenneth Harlen and Eileen Percy. The scenes are laid in New York city; a miniature cross section of the world where within a few scant blocks of each other are the wide contrasts of East Side and West Side so greatly different from each other, where almost anything can and does happen. This picture is truly a real life picture and its impressions are bound to linger long in the minds of those who see it.

The adult public is specially invited, and children from eleven to fifteen may come on condition that they are accompanied by their parents.

United Cong. Church

Services next week at the United Congregational church will include:

The Charitable circle of King's Daughters meets in the junior department rooms of the church school Tuesday evening.

All officers, teachers and substitute teachers of the church school meet at the Community house at 6:30 on Thursday evening, for the monthly supper and conference.

The Girl Scouts meet at the Community house at 3:45 o'clock Friday afternoon.

All boys of the church, between the ages of nine and 12 who are interested in the Cub Scout movement, will meet in the church school rooms at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Girls' chorus rehearses at the Community house at 6:45 o'clock Friday evening.

The Junior Guild meets at the Community house at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, for work, reports, social hour and refreshments.

The regular meeting of the Boy Scouts will be held at the Community house Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Brownies meet in the junior department rooms of the church school Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Central Baptist Church

Services and meetings next week at the Central Baptist church will include the following:

Monday—7:45 p. m., Fathers' and Sons' night.

Tuesday—10:30 a. m., conference on evangelism of the New London and Stonington associations; 3:30 p. m., W. C. T. U. meeting in the woman's room; 7:45 p. m., Mothers' and Daughters' night.

Friday—3:30 p. m., meeting of Opportunity circle in the mother's room, Mrs. E. Wigley and Mrs. W. Potter, hostesses; 7:00 p. m., pioneer meeting; 7:00 p. m., Alpha Kai meeting; 7:45 p. m., Young People's night.

CENSUS SUPERVISOR EXPLAINS FARM SCHEDULE QUESTIONS

The census of agriculture will be taken in conjunction with the census of population, said Otto B. Robinson of Willimantic, supervisor of the third district of Connecticut, in a statement issued Sunday. The statement continues:

Sample farm schedules showing the information that the department desires to secure are being distributed to the farm owners through the county agricultural agents, whose cooperation in this matter has been of great assistance to the department.

Any farm owner who has not received a copy of this farm schedule may receive a copy by writing to the supervisor, Otto B. Robinson, census office, Willimantic, and every farm owner should have a copy of this schedule in order to get the information ready for the enumerator who will call during the month of April, 1930.

Ordinarily, one would think that to define a farm would be unnecessary, because everyone, especially those who reside in rural areas, knows what a farm is. The census, however, has found it absolutely necessary to provide a very specific definition of a farmer.

"A farm, for census purposes, is all the land which is directly farmed by one person either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employes. The land operated by a partnership is likewise considered a farm. A 'farm' may consist of a single tract of land, or of a number of separate tracts, and these several tracts may be held under different tenures, as when one tract is owned by the farmer and another is rented by him. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a farm. 'Small tracts of land of less than three acres are not farms unless their products for the preceding calendar year (1929) were valued at $250 or more.' All market gardens, truck and fruit gardens, nurseries, greenhouses, poultry establishments and city or village dairies if their products for the preceding census year (1929) were valued at $250 or over. Any small tract of land of less than three acres, however, is not a farm unless its products for the preceding calendar year (1929) were valued at $250 or more."

The General Farm schedule, adopted by the joint committee for the 1930 census is comprehensive and complex. It contains approximately 350 possible questions—more than 50 of which have never been asked before in an agricultural census. One of those must be made out for each of the 6,500,000 farms in the United States. However, each farm operator answers only the questions which apply to the farm he operates. A farm operator, as the term is used by the census, is the person who directs agricultural operations of a farm, such as growing crops, raising livestock, or producing other agricultural products. He may be the owner, a hired manager, tenant, or cropper. All inventory items of the schedule are to be given as of April 1, 1930; and all production items relate to the calendar year 1929.

The schedule may be divided into seven parts:

1—Personal information regarding the farm operator.

2—General information regarding farm acreage, farm values, and farm expenses.

3—Farm tenure.

4—An inventory of all livestock, including poultry and bees, on April 1, 1930.

5—A statement of the quantity of livestock products produced in 1929 with the quantity and value of certain products sold.

6—A statement of the acreage and yields of all crops harvested in 1929, as well as the quantity of the principal crops sold or to be sold.

7—Miscellaneous information relating to the farm.

The personal information regarding the farm operator is his name, postoffice address, color or race, age, period of his operation of present farm, number of days worked for pay in 1929 on jobs not connected with the operation of his farm and his "occupation" as reported by him in the population census. The question on occupation will yield data on number of persons who operate a farm merely as a side line.

The general information regarding farm acreage, farm values, and farm expenses covers a series of questions. The total number of acres in the farm is sub-divided into crop land, pasture land, and other land. The farm includes all outlying or separate fields, meadows, pastures, woodland or waste lands. Crop land is further sub-divided into "land from which crops were harvested in 1929" and includes "all field crops, all tame and wild hay cut on this farm, and gardens, orchards, and vineyards"; "land from which no crop was harvested in 1929 because of crop failure or destruction," and "crop land lying idle all of 1929 or land in summer fallow in 1929." Under pasture land is classified "land used only for pasture in 1929 which could be plowed and used for crops without clearing, draining, or irrigating," "woodland used for pasture in 1929," and "all other land used for pasture in 1929." Other land in the farm includes "woodland not used for pasture in 1929" and all waste land not in forest pasture nor crops and also all land used for house yards, barn yards, feed lots, lanes, roads, etc. Farm woodland includes all farm wood lots or timber tracts, natural or planted, and cut-over land with young growth.

The value of the farm is the value of the land and buildings composing the farm and is the amount for which the farm would sell. Under farm values, separate questions are asked for the "value of all buildings on this farm," "value of farmer's dwelling house" and "value of farm implements and machinery used in operating this farm, including automobiles, trucks and tractors."

Farm expenditures in 1929 are such items as "amounts expended for hay, grain, mill feed, and other products (not raised on this farm) for use as feed for domestic animals and poultry"; "for purchase of electric light and power (paid to a power company)"; "for purchase of farm implements and machinery, including automobiles, trucks and tractors"; "cash for farm labor (exclusive of housework)"; and "for commercial fertilizer, manure, marl, lime and ground limestone." In connection with farm expenditures there is an inquiry for the "number of days of farm work (exclusive of housework) done in 1929 by hired laborers of all ages and the "quantity in tons of commercial fertilizer bought in 1929."

The items chosen for "farm expenditures" are not only those for which most farmers will have some kind of records, but are also among the most significant of farm expenses. Considerable expenditures for feed are absolutely necessary for certain types of farming in certain parts of the country. Likewise the expenditures of large amounts for fertilizer may result in maximum crop yields and represent a profitable investment; or, under other conditions, it may represent an "easy" method of increasing soil fertility which might better be maintained by crop rotation and good management. Hired labor on the farm always presents a serious problem—and never more serious than at the present time. The reports of the census will indicate the extent to which farmers in the various parts of the country depend upon hired labor.

In any agricultural census of the United States today it is essential to classify all farms by the tenure of the operator. Are we becoming a nation of farm owners, or a nation of farm tenants? Does the farmer still own and operate his farm? Is the absentee landlord on the increase? Is the farmer of the United States headed for farm peasantry?

As an aid in answering these questions and as a check to other items in the schedule, every farm operator in the United States is asked: 1—How many acres in this farm do you own? 2—How many acres in this farm do you rent from others? 3—Do you operate this farm for others as a hired manager?

If he answers question 1 only, he is an "owner." If he answers 1 and 2 he is a "part owner"—owning part and renting part; if he answers only 2, he is a tenant; and if answers only 3, he is a farm manager. If the farm operator is a tenant—rents all the farm land he operates—he is classified as a share-tenant if he pays a share of the crops; a cash tenant if cash only is paid; a share-cash tenant if both share and cash are paid; a standing renter if a definite quantity of farm products is paid regardless of the yield.

Fool Health Fallacies

In these days of approaching spring there are probably still a few people who are stocking up the family cupboard with sulphur and molasses mixtures or some other so-called spring tonic, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health.

One of the familiar fool health fallacies is that of persons needing a tonic in the spring. The healthy person does not need it. The sick person needs to seek the advice of a licensed physician. Diagnosing and prescribing for one's own illness is bound in the long run to lead to not only wrong diagnosis but probable disaster to one's health. The family medicine closet is not a cure-all. Above all, if you do feel you need a spring tonic, do not consume any of the countless products in the stores without knowing what you are doing. Your stomach, anatomy and well-being are too precious to experiment on. The traditions of the family medicine chest should be exposed and its inaccuracies and nonessentials eliminated, in accordance with present-day knowledge.

Innumerable health fallacies such as the alleged cancer cure in California recently proclaimed by the press, will give many thousands a false hope in the cure of this disease, which our present knowledge does not substantiate.

Careful Mothers Keen About It

"Coughs never last long in our family, for we use Foley's Honey and Tar," says Mrs. J. M. Hill, Homer, Ga. "Foley's Honey and Tar has never failed to take care of coughs and colds in our family, and we have used it over 20 years," says Mrs. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis. Dependable always, no opiates, no chloroform, nothing that a careful Mother hesitates to give her children. That's why Mothers endorse Foley's Honey and Tar. Ask for it. For sale at Lee & Osgood's.

AGGRESSIVE BEAR ATTACK TURNED PRICES LOWER IN THE FINAL HOUR

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Bears took advantage of the stock market's disappointingly indifferent response to the cheapest money in recent years today to launch an aggressive attack against the copper, food and other selected shares, which turned prices irregularly lower in the final hour of trading. Prices were working higher under the leadership of the oils when blocks of 5,000 shares were dumped upon the market. Trading was in large volume, the day's turnover approaching 4,000,000 shares.

The cut in the New York Reserve bank's rate had been so widely forecast that it could scarcely have been expected to provide an impetus toward higher levels. The responses of the market to the previous two reductions in the rate were not impressive. Bank rate reductions, however, have so long been hailed as bullish developments, that failure of the market to make the orthodox response caused considerable uneasiness. In reflection of the lower rate, call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent for the first time in two years, then dropped to 3 per cent for the first time in nearly four years Time money and bankers acceptance rates were also shaded. The cheapness of money was accentuated by the piling up of funds at the banks against the March 15 income tax payments.

Weekly business and trade reviews were slightly more cheerful than last week. Bradstreet's reported that the expected enlivening of wholesale trade was finally perceptible at several points, and that employment conditions have tended to improve since February. Dun's said, "the measured pace of the recovery and its uneven course reflect the presence of numerous retarding factors, yet the foundation for subsequent advance is being gradually strengthened."

That the automobile industry is planning to cope with a lessened consumption this year by raising prices and effecting savings through refraining from model changes was indicated by the heads of General Motors and Chrysler, returning to Miami after a yachting trip to the West Indies. President Sloan of General Motors said, "We anticipate a good year in business but cannot expect it to parallel last year's output. However, general business conditions are on the upgrade and will continue to be."

The advance in the oils was aided by further strengthening of crude prices in California, and rumors of impending upturns in the mid-continent area. Standards of New Jersey, New York and California rose moderately to still new peak levels for the year, but ended the day with losses of a point or so. Several of the so-called independents also sold up further into new high territory, but generally reacted before the close. Simms was a conspicuous exception, ending the day at 31, up 2 points and a new 1930 high. A few of the rails and utilities were firm. Atlantic Coast Line, Electric Power and Light and Federal Light and Traction reached new highs for the movement, and American and Foreign Power rallied. Colorado Fuel, Goodyear, Checker Cab, and General Refractories were among other issues reaching new top prices for the year.

The drive against the coppers was aided by reports of small sales of the red metal, and rumors of increasing difficulty in maintaining the price level. Anaconda touched 69 1-2 a new low for the year, and off more than 2 points. Kennecott sold at 55, its previous 1930 minimum. Bears evidently took advantage of the rather unsatisfactory initial annual statement of standard brands to depress the food shares, although the company encountered unusual organization expenses during its first year, and reports recent improvement. The stock was driven down about 2 points to 22 1-2, a new 1930 low. General Foods and Purity Bakeries were also sold, the latter touching a new bottom at 74 3-8, off about 5 points. International Telephone was also under heavy pressure, evidently on the basis of the increase in capitalization through the offer of rights announced last night. The stock dropped nearly 5 points to within 1 1-2 of its 1930 final minimum. Losses of a point or two were numerous among leading issues.

The commodity markets showed a better tone, on the whole. Wheat was heavy for a time, but rallied on bullish weather and crop reports. March and May closed about a cent lower, but July ended the day fractionally higher. Cotton rallied on a somewhat better than expected consumption report, and closed 85 cents to $1.25 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly, sterling cables ruling at $4.86 3-16, off 1-8.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Extreme irregularity in price movement developed in today's curb market, but operators for the rise appeared to have a slight advantage at the close. Failure of the market to make a more emphatic response to the cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate encouraged some short selling and profit-taking, particularly in some of the oil, electrical equipment and public utility issues which recently have recorded sharp gains, but most issues displayed fairly good underlying buying support.

Trading in curb bonds received considerable stimulus from the general relaxation in credit conditions, the day's sales of nearly $5,000,000 (par value) being the largest in about two years. Detroit International Bridge 7s stood out with a gain of 9 points, but a number of other issues showed net gains of 1 to 3 points. Rock Island 4 1-2 were turned over in large volume, closing 1 3-4 points higher at 101 5-8 after having sold above 102.

Oils attracted a fairly good following on reports of improvement in trade conditions. Humble moved up to a new 1930 high at 102 1-2, and then slipped back to 98 1-2, off 1 1-2 net, on heavy realizing. Standard Oil of Indiana closed a shade lower at 54 after having set a new peak for the year at 54 3-4. Lion was marked up more than 2 points to a new high at 25 1-4. Gulf attained a new peak at 149 and then eased to 145 for a loss of nearly a point. Illinois Pipe Line jumped 5 1-4 points.

Crocker-Wheeler ran up nearly 2 points to a new high at 33 1-2, and retained most of its gain, but Eisler and Noma fell back on profit taking. Revival of activity and strength was noted in some of the chain and department store issues. Nathan Strauss, Inc., which operates a chain of about 100 retail meat and poultry stores, crossed 13 to a new high. Kresske moved up nearly 2 points to a new high at 17 7-8, and Metropolitan Chain Stores jumped 4 points.

New highs in the public utility and natural gas groups were established by Eastman Gas Fuel, International Superpower, Neveda California Electric and Electric Light & Power optional warrants. Electric Bond and Share showed a fractional gain at 99 after having sold above 100. American Gas & Electric, Hydro-Electric and United Gas were heavy.

New highs for the year were also recorded by Axton-Fisher, Babcock & Wilcox, Douglas Aircraft, Midvale Steel, New Jersey Zinc, New York & Hamburg, Standard Screw, Stern Bros. "A," and Tri-Continental preferred. A. O. Smith ran up more than 20 points to a new high at 199 1-2, and retained all but 3 points of its gain.

Glen Alden Coal sank below 100 for the first time this year. Stromberg Carlson also reached new low ground. Ford of Canada A, Pacific Coast Biscuit issues, Newmont and several others sagged a point or more. Royal Typewriter broke nearly 10 points.

There were 126 stocks quoted ex-dividend today, a new high record.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—[illegible] bullish fervor for bonds resulted [in] something like an old-fashioned m[ar]ket today as interest rates found [illegible] lower levels. Scores of issues forged [to] new highs and the day's turnover [of] more than $21,000,000 was the larg[est] in months. The 1929 record was [illegible] under $30,000,000 established Octo[ber] 29, but on that day the convertib[les] took a prominent part in the dealin[gs]. Today they were relatively quiet.

The composite price of 30 bonds f[ail]ed to show an increase, due to [de]clines in a few of the rails which s[ag]ged on small turnovers. As a gro[up] however, the carriers displayed gre[at]er vitality than yesterday and o[nce] more there were many gains of at le[ast] a point. Issues listed on the bond di[vi]sion of the New York Curb ma[rket] likewise displayed strength.

Foreign obligations moved stea[dily] upward, with German issues taking [a] prominent part in the advance. Un[ited] States governments were quiet, [al]though five of the listed securities w[ent] to new 1930 highs.

Call money at 3 per cent was [the] cheapest in about 4 years, while o[ne] quarter of a per cent was pared fr[om] the rates on time funds. Another [re]duction in bankers acceptances on [top] of the New York Federal Rese[rve] bank's rate reduction, reflected the [un]usual easiness in credit.

Many industrials and utilities tra[ded] in large blocks. Among the more act[ive] issues were International Match 5s, [up] a point; International Telephone [illegible] up 1-2; Postal Telegraph 5s, No[rth] American Edison 5s of 1969, and Am[erican] Telephone 5s, 1965. Oil bo[nds] rose with the stocks. Phillips Pet[ro]leum 5 1-4s advanced 1 1-4. Te[xas] Corporation convertibles 5s touc[hed] the new high of 103 3-4. Shell P[ipe] Line 5s, Sinclair Crude 5 1-2s [and] Transcontinental Oil 6 1-2s, with w[ar]rants, were other favorites.

The St. Louis-San Francisco 4[s] was the busiest rail, turning over [to] the extent of more than $600,000, pr[in]cipal amount, for a net gain of 3-4. T[he] first 5s of Western Pacific, which [was] mentioned in connection with the p[os]sible linking of a transcontinental s[ys]tem controlled by the Van Swering[ens] advanced half a point, also on a la[rge] turnover. Other active rails [were] Southern Railway General 4s, Chic[ago] & Eastern Illinois 5s, Louisville [&] Nashville 4 1-2s, New Haven 4 1-[2s], Pennsylvania 4 3-4s, and the Misso[uri] Pacific listings. The latter, howe[ver], declined on the offering of $25,000,[000] in first mortgage 50-year 5s at 100 [illegible]. This issue was oversubscribed. Atc[hi]son General 4s, one of the Thurs[day] leaders, yielded a point after equall[ing] the previous high at 95 1-4. Sales w[ere] small.

The Baltimore & Ohio converti[ble] 4 1-2s, moving to the Stock excha[nge] from the curb, ranged between 00 [illegible] and 101 3-4 on a volume of $1,300,[000] par value. International Teleph[one] 4 1-2s dropped 3 points in sympa[thy] with the stock. Remington-Rand 5 1[-2s] with warrants, rose one to the [new] high of 98 1-2. Commercial Investm[ent] Trust 5 1-2s soared 3.

Foreign bonds met a lively rec[ep]tion. Brazil 8s snapped up 2 1-2 poi[nts]. Berlin City 6 1-2s, Australia 4 1[-2s], Cologne 6 1-2s and the German Ag[ri]cultural bank issues about one ea[ch]. Pernambuco 7s two; and Jugo[slav] Mortgage bank 7s 3 1-4. German [Re]public 7s rose to the new high [of] 108 1-4. Both of the French Repu[blic] bonds improved.

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—[The] number of business failures in [the] United States remains relatively h[igh] according to R. G. Dun & Co. wit[h a] total of 560 being reported for [the] week, an increase of 33 over last we[ek's] 527 defaults, and 100 above the [illegible] insolvencies reported for the cor[res]ponding week of 1929.

Although the International Har[ves]ter Co. has reduced the prices of [some] of its tractors $40 to $75, the A[llis] Chalmers Manufacturing Co., of [Mil]waukee, does not contemplate sim[ilar] action, O. H. Falk, president, said [to]day. Officials of Oliver Farm Eq[uip]ment Co. said that they have no [in]tention of reducing tractor prices. [Offi]cials of other leading implement c[om]panies would make no definite st[ate]ments.

AGGRESSIVE BEAR ATTACK TURNED PRICES LOWER IN THE FINAL HOUR

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Bears took advantage of the stock market's disappointingly indifferent response to the cheapest money in recent years today to launch an aggressive attack against the copper, food and other selected shares, which turned prices irregularly lower in the final hour of trading. Prices were working higher under the leadership of the oils when blocks of 5,000 shares were dumped upon the market. Trading was in large volume, the day's turnover approaching 4,000,000 shares.

The cut in the New York Reserve bank's rate had been so widely forecast that it could scarcely have been expected to provide an impetus toward higher levels. The responses of the market to the previous two reductions in the rate were not impressive. Bank rate reductions, however, have so long been hailed as bullish developments, that failure of the market to make the orthodox response caused considerable uneasiness. In reflection of the lower rate, call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent for the first time in two years, then dropped to 3 per cent for the first time in nearly four years. Time money and bankers acceptance rates were also shaded. The cheapness of money was accentuated by the piling up of funds at the banks against the March 15 income tax payments.

Weekly business and trade reviews were slightly more cheerful than last week. Bradstreet's reported that the expected enlivening of wholesale trade was finally perceptible at several points, and that employment conditions have tended to improve since February. Dun's said, "the measured pace of the recovery and its uneven course reflect the presence of numerous retarding factors, yet the foundation for subsequent advance is being gradually strengthened."

That the automobile industry is planning to cope with a lessened consumption this year by raising prices and effecting savings through refraining from model changes was indicated by the heads of General Motors and Chrysler, returning to Miami after a yachting trip to the West Indies. President Sloan of General Motors said, "We anticipate a good year in business but cannot expect it to parallel last year's output. However, general business conditions are on the upgrade and will continue to be."

The advance in the oils was aided by further strengthening of crude prices in California, and rumors of impending upturns in the mid-continent area. Standards of New Jersey, New York and California rose moderately to still new peak levels for the year, but ended the day with losses of a point or so. Several of the so-called independents also sold up further into new high territory, but generally reacted before the close. Simms was a conspicuous exception, ending the day at 31, up 2 points and a new 1930 high. A few of the rails and utilities were firm. Atlantic Coast Line, Electric Power and Light and Federal Light and Traction reached new highs for the movement, and American and Foreign Power rallied. Colorado Fuel, Goodyear, Checker Cab, and General Refractories were among other issues reaching new top prices for the year.

The drive against the coppers was aided by reports of small sales of the red metal, and rumors of increasing difficulty in maintaining the price level. Anaconda touched 69 1-2 a new low for the year, and off more than 2 points. Kennecott sold at 55, its previous 1930 minimum. Bears evidently took advantage of the rather unsatisfactory initial annual statement of standard brands to depress the food shares, although the company encountered unusual organization expenses during its first year, and reports recent improvement. The stock was driven down about 2 points to 22 1-2, a new 1930 low. General Foods and Purity Bakeries were also sold, the latter touching a new bottom at 74 3-8, off about 5 points. International Telephone was also under heavy pressure, evidently on the basis of the increase in capitalization through the offer of rights announced last night. The stock dropped nearly 5 points to within 1 1-2 of its 1930 final minimum. Losses of a point or two were numerous among leading issues.

The commodity markets showed a better tone, on the whole. Wheat was heavy for a time, but rallied on bullish weather and crop reports. March and May closed about a cent lower, but July ended the day fractionally higher. Cotton rallied on a somewhat better than expected consumption report, and closed 85 cents to $1.25 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly, sterling cables ruling at $4.86 3-16, off 1-8.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—Extreme irregularity in price movement developed in today's curb market, but operators for the rise appeared to have a slight advantage at the close. Failure of the market to make a more emphatic response to the cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate encouraged some short selling and profit-taking, particularly in some of the oil, electrical equipment and public utility issues which recently have recorded sharp gains, but most issues displayed fairly good underlying buying support.

Trading in curb bonds received considerable stimulus from the general relaxation in credit conditions, the day's sales of nearly $5,000,000 (par value) being the largest in about two years. Detroit International Bridge 7s stood out with a gain of 9 points, but a number of other issues showed net gains of 1 to 3 points. Rock Island 4 1-2 were turned over in large volume, closing 1 3-4 points higher at 101 5-8 after having sold above 102.

Oils attracted a fairly good following on reports of improvement in trade conditions. Humble moved up to a new 1930 high at 102 1-2, and then slipped back to 98 1-2, off 1 1-2 net, on heavy realizing. Standard Oil of Indiana closed a shade lower at 54 after having set a new peak for the year at 54 3-4. Lion was marked up more than 2 points to a new high at 25 1-4. Gulf attained a new peak at 149 and then eased to 145 for a loss of nearly a point. Illinois Pipe Line jumped 5 1-4 points.

Crocker-Wheeler ran up nearly 2 points to a new high at 33 1-2, and retained most of its gain, but Eisler and Noma fell back on profit taking. Revival of activity and strength was noted in some of the chain and department store issues. Nathan Strause, Inc., which operates a chain of about 100 retail meat and poultry stores, crossed 13 to a new high. Russeks moved up nearly 2 points to a new high at 17 7-8, and Metropolitan Chain Stores jumped 4 points.

New highs in the public utility and natural gas groups were established by Eastman Gas Fuel, International Superpower, Neveda California Electric and Electric Light & Power optional warrants. Electric Bond and Share showed a fractional gain at 99 after having sold above 100. American Gas & Electric, Hydro-Electric and United Gas were heavy.

New highs for the year were also recorded by Axton-Fisher, Babcock & Wilcox, Douglas Aircraft, Midvale Steel, New Jersey Zinc, New York & Hamburg, Standard Screw, Stern Bros. "A," and Tri-Continental preferred. A. O. Smith ran up more than 20 points to a new high at 199 1-2, and retained all but 3 points of its gain.

Glen Alden Coal sank below 100 for the first time this year. Stromberg Carlson also reached new low ground. Ford of Canada A, Pacific Coast Biscuit issues, Newmont and several others sagged a point or more. Royal Typewriter broke nearly 10 points.

There were 126 stocks quoted ex-dividend today, a new high record.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—The bullish fervor for bonds resulted in something like an old-fashioned market today as interest rates found still lower levels. Scores of issues forged to new highs and the day's turnover of more than $21,000,000 was the largest in months. The 1929 record was just under $30,000,000 established October 29, but on that day the convertibles took a prominent part in the dealings. Today they were relatively quiet.

The composite price of 30 bonds failed to show an increase, due to declines in a few of the rails which sagged on small turnovers. As a group, however, the carriers displayed greater vitality than yesterday and once more there were many gains of at least a point. Issues listed on the bond division of the New York Curb market likewise displayed strength.

Foreign obligations moved steadily upward, with German issues taking a prominent part in the advance. United States governments were quiet, although five of the listed securities went to new 1930 highs.

Call money at 3 per cent was the cheapest in about 4 years, while one-quarter of a per cent was pared from the rates on time funds. Another reduction in bankers acceptances, on top of the New York Federal Reserve bank's rate reduction, reflected the unusual easiness in credit.

Many industrials and utilities traded in large blocks. Among the more active issues were International Match 5s, up a point; International Telephone 5s up 1-2; Postal Telegraph 5s, North American Edison 5s of 1969, and American Telephone 5s, 1965. Oil bonds rose with the stocks. Phillips Petroleum 5 1-4s advanced 1 1-4, Texas Corporation convertibles 5s touched the new high of 103 3-4; Shell Pipe Line 5s, Sinclair Crude 5 1-2s and Transcontinental Oil 6 1-2s, with warrants, were other favorites.

The St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1-2 was the busiest rail, turning over to the extent of more than $600,000, principal amount, for a net gain of 3-4. The first 5s of Western Pacific, which is mentioned in connection with the possible linking of a transcontinental system controlled by the Van Sweringens, advanced half a point, also on a large turnover. Other active rails were Southern Railway General 4s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4 1-2s, New Haven 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania 4 3-4s, and the Missouri Pacific listings. The latter, however, declined on the offering of $25,000,000 in first mortgage 50-year 5s at 100 1-4. This issue was oversubscribed. Atchison General 4s, one of the Thursday leaders, yielded a point after equaling the previous high at 95 1-4. Sales were small.

The Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1-2s, moving to the Stock exchange from the curb, ranged between 00 1-2 and 101 3-4 on a volume of $1,300,000, par value. International Telephone 4 1-2s dropped 3 points in sympathy with the stock. Remington-Rand 5 1-2s, with warrants, rose one to the new high of 98 1-2. Commercial Investment Trust 5 1-2s soared 3.

Foreign bonds met a lively reception. Brazil 8s snapped up 2 1-2 points; Berlin City 6 1-2s, Australia 4 1-2s, Cologne 6 1-2s and the German Agricultural bank issues about one each; Pernambuco 7s two; and Jugoslav Mortgage bank 7s 3 1-4. German Republic 7s rose to the new high of 108 1-4. Both of the French Republic bonds improved.

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—The number of business failures in the United States remains relatively high, according to R. G. Dun & Co., with a total of 560 being reported for this week, an increase of 33 over last week's 527 defaults, and 100 above the 460 insolvencies reported for the corresponding week of 1929.

Although the International Harvester Co. has reduced the prices of some of its tractors $40 to $75, the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., of Milwaukee, does not contemplate similar action, O. H. Falk, president, said today. Officials of Oliver Farm Equipment Co. said that they have no intention of reducing tractor prices. Officials of other leading implement companies would make no definite statements.

So great has been the increase in passenger travel since air transport operating companies reduced fares to a level with or below railroad fares at the beginning of the year, that several companies now contemplate raising the fares slightly. This can be done, they feel, without impairing the present volume of traffic. Some companies it was said, have more than doubled the carrying capacity of last year.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

A History Of Connecticut Industry

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The G. & O. Manufacturing Company New Haven

The G. & O. Manufacturing company started business on August 2, 1915.

Chas. Oppe was the prime move in the organization of the company. He has been identified with the development of radiators since the early days of the automobile, as engineer, production manager, sales manager and in other executive capacities.

The company first rented a portion of one floor of the old Hooker Carriage factory, New Haven. It devoted its energies to the production of radiators of the highest quality and thus catered to the needs of high priced passenger cars and motor trucks.

Those who still remember the first trans-Atlantic flight in 1919 by the four motored navy NC-4 may be interested to know that it was equipped with four G. & O. radiators.

During 1924 the company purchased a plant on Winchester avenue, New Haven, where it has expanded its manufacturing facilities and has added other allied lines. The 300 ton toggle presses in the press room of this company used in the stamping of one-piece radiator shells are said to be the largest presses of their kind in New England.

The company has recently purchased adjoining property which will enable it to expand its manufacturing facilities to more than double its present capacity. The first unit in this program of expansion is now under construction.

The present officers who have been serving in the same capacity for nine years are: A. J. Verdi, president; Chas. Oppe, treasurer and general manager; Vincent Carrangelo, vice president; F. I. Newton, secretary and assistant treasurer.

HANOVER

Allan Lebourveau, Yale '33, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Lebourveau.

Miss Dorothy Owen, of Detroit, Mich., a sophomore at Connecticut college, spent the week end at the Parsonage-by-the-Pines.

The Sprague League of Women Voters held its March meeting in the parish house Monday evening with the usual attendance and interest.

Raymond Allen and Theodore Kusan, and Misses Florence Blackburn, Flossie Lucy, and Dorothy Thornes attended the meeting of the executive committee of the Norwich Y. P. S. C. E. Union held at the Third Baptist church, Norwich, Monday evening.

Miss Cogswell Speaks

The March meeting of the Missionary society of the Congregational church was held in the parish house Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Frederick W. Lebourveau was leader, Mrs. George Westland and Mrs. George Gessner were the hostesses. Miss Alice W. Coggswell of Norwich gave a very interesting and instructive address upon Jerusalem as seen since the war and the doings of the church council.

Frederick Eadie and Frederick Lebourveau were in Boston Wednesday evening and witnessed the determing game of hockey for this season between Yale and Harvard. Mr. Lebourveau, while visiting his son Allan at New Haven last week saw the first game of the series in which Harvard was victorious.

The Story Hour children was held at the parsonage, Thursday, this week.

Mrs. Sarah Riley of Westerly, R. I., is visiting her niece, Mrs. Kenneth Doyle.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 14—(AP)—Uneasiness over crop hazards west and south, especially drought dangers and Hessian fly perils, turned wheat upward today after prices earlier had suffered material breaks. A reported likelihood of a railroad strike in Argentina and of delay also to wheat shipments from India because of political disturbances attracted notice. There were later advices, too, that export call for North American wheat had enlarged somewhat, today's wheat purchases by Europe totaling 750,000 bushel with North American barley and rye being taken also, the first since last fall.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 1 3-8c off to 1 1-8c up compared with yesterday's finish. Corn touched new low price records for the season, but closed unchanged to 3-4c higher, with oats at 3-8c decline to 1-8c advance, and provisions ranging from 37c drop to a rise of 2 a 5.

Among the factors helping to rally wheat values today were predictions current that owing to falling-off in the volume of world shipments the amount of wheat on ocean passage would reveal a shrinkage of new supplies from Argentina and Australia. Meanwhile, dry weather complaints, especially from Kansas and Oklahoma, continued, and in the late trading much was made of reports of heavy infestation of Hessian fly in nine Missouri counties, as well as in southwest Ohio, northeastern Kansas and southwestern Nebraska.

Preceding the consequent late rallies in wheat prices, however, the market here had temporarily been dominated by word of scattered showers southwest and as a result of new weakness of Liverpool quotations, a good deal of notice at times was also given to reports that farm board auxiliaries may be called upon to pay for more than the present Chicago stock of wheat and to take delivery of car-lots on railroad tracks here because of elevator congestion and of possible shipments to Chicago from Kansas City or other leading centers.

Tending also to complicate trading at times were reports current that if serious damage to the domestic crop develops, July and September deliveries would benefit most, whereas if no unusual injury to crops take place May wheat apparently will have little chance to advance.

Evidence of better cash demand for corn rallied the corn market quickly from early declines that came about through scattered selling of futures. Favorable weather for field work pointed to cessation of rural shipments until after corn planting. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 104 5-8, 109 1-8; July 103 1-8, 107 1-8; Sept. 104 5-8-3-4, 108 3-8-1-2. Corn—May 78 1-2-5-8, 80 5-8-3-4; July 79 5-8-3-4, 82; Sept. 7 7-8, 81 7-8.

Treasury Balance.

Connecticut College Concert

Violin master music is a thing apart! True beauty can be revealed only when technique and the soul of the artist are perfectly blended. It is a born secret revealed only to those who possess the great gift, and this secret and this gift Toscha Seidel possesses. Seidel's great art is based on a marvelous technical facility, a limpid lovely warm tone, a natural grace, and a deep down inarticulate understanding of the music that is in his soul and the souls of the great ones who wrote the music which he so exquisitely conveys through his instrument. Under the auspices of Connecticut college, this master musician will be heard in Bulkeley auditorium Thursday evening, March 20.

This will be an opportunity for those who have heard Mr. Seidel on the radio to hear him in person and for those who never have heard him to revel in the beauty of the music which pours forth under his magical fingers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's Players

The question has been asked whether this year's play and cast are as good as those of former years? Yes. There are some newcomers. There are every year. This year the new ones selected were chosen only after careful consideration, and so this year's cast is the equal of those St. Mary's has had in the past. This is saying much, but it is the truth. All of St Mary's casts have been good. That of this year is no exception. Why are the players so good, the performances so well done? Because of the care taken in selecting the players, and because of the hard work they do—and which is required of them, and because of a capable director. That's why the performances of this organization have been, and are, so well done. That's one reason why the ordinary amateur failings are not found in the presentation of any of St. Mary's offerings. That's why the public is so confident of getting their money's worth when it goes to see what St. Mary's puts on. This year a good play and an excellent cast are soon to be seen. Will you see them? Get your seats today. They are going fast.

Slater Hall Concert

Norwich music lovers and especially those interested in the career of Henry Brynan, violinist, are expected to attend the concert to be given on Tuesday evening, March 18, in Slater Memorial hall. Mr. Bryan, who is a local resident, has been pursuing an intensive course of study in New York city under some notable masters. He is a violinist and is well known to the music followers of this city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Brynan, of 50 Ward street, this city. During the entire time he was a student at the Free Academy, he being a member of the class of '25, Mr. Brynan played first violin in the Academy orchestra and featured the concerts with his special selections. The young man will appear here next Tuesday, under the auspices of the Workman's circle of this city.

Palace Theatre

Starting at the Palace theatre today and for the ensuing three days will be presented another gorgeous music and color festival, "The Song of the West," a picture such as those which have made the name Vitaphone famous on half a dozen continents, a picture which for setting, cast and plot, stands head and shoulders above the ordinary motion picture fare.

John Boles, who sang into a million hearts when he played the lead in the "Desert Song," is the star of this new production. With him are Vivienne Segal, Joe E. Brown, Sam Hardy and other matchless Vitaphone entertainers, including a chorus of 100 singers. All in all it is a spectacle as rich and rugged as the untamed west of '49, the place where the action is laid.

"Song of the West" is an operetta with a genuine plot. It is ablaze with color, resonant with melody, captivating in beauty. The gay singing and dancing, the magnificent outdoor scenes and the march of the covered wagons across bare leagues of prairie land form a perfect background. The story opens at Fort Independence, the jumping-off place for covered wagons going west. Even as the wagons are gathering and the occupants know what is in store for them in the long voyage across those wild and Indian-infested plains, a dance is going on among the soldiers and plainsmen with their wives and sweethearts.

The great outdoors of the west, beautifully photographed in natural colors is a stirring sight. The covered wagons, rumbling over the plains, carrying the hopes and worldly goods of a few brave men and women, and the long nights when the travelers gather around campfires under the bright stars all fit into the background of this drama. The love story, telling of the degeneration of a man through the devotion of his wife, is in keeping with the adventurous spirit of the piece.

All that is necessary to say is that never has such a high-spirited and adventurous theme been coupled with such matchless music and stirring action as are to be found in the new Warner Brothers triumph, "Song of the West."

PAINTERS' FEVER KEEPS MIKE PASSI OUT OF RING

Big Mike Passi known as Strong Boy, a heavyweight, new at the game, was to wrestle at Quaker Hill at the Smoke Eaters' hall. Two hundred and fifty fans were there, as the rain was falling fast, but sad news came as they were saying "Where is Big Mike, the Noank wild man with a thousand holds?" Twenty-five went by auto to see him in action. The referee was waiting around before he could say "Go to it, Mike and let the best man win!" At last Smiling James, A. May, ex-mayor of New London with his silver voice said "Word has come from Big Mike's manager, Eddie Scott, that the wrestler is between the white sheets—sick. He has painters' fever and it will be several days before he will be out of bed. He is sorry to be on the card and not able to show up!" A giant that came from Providence was built like Jess Willard but was shy on a few holds. The Clammer never learned wrestling from a book, he might have torn a fe wleaves out. He almost shook the head off of his rival. That did not feel good, for he reached for one of his ears but they were there. The blond-headed chap from Providence has thrown them in every corner of the ring, from here to the west coast, although he does not know all the holds. But he takes it easy, not puffing like a steam engine. It sure was a good match. Passi is young, but if he was shown a few holds in which he is weak! Take the toe hold, Oh boy! It's like bending cement, his toes are so hard! Fans, you cannot expect that Noank's Strong Boy will be up with the stars in a few matches. Many tricks are caught on to while you are out-guessing the other fellow. Talk of Smiling Bill Collins, the most popular wrestler in the Nutmeg state; when he comes in the Sunshine Firemen's hall everybody will say "Hello Bill! going to win?" Entering the ring with his pretty bath robe on, the fans are cheering, giving him an ovation. Smiling Collins knows the mat game from A to Z and goes at it so nice he can get out of a thousand holds. If his rival tries any dirty work, Popular Bill will stay with him until the bench breaks. When Smiling Bill is on the card the fans sure get their dollar's worth. Today he holds the record as best light-middleweight wrestler of Nw England, but some day you all will pick up the newspaper and read to your grandchildren that Smiling Bill Collins is the light-middleweight champion of the world, winning two matches a week!

Collins said he is going to have a heart-to-heart talk with Passi, bag-crusher, and will help him train; show him all he knows about the game and the holds. Wrestling is hard work. Every time you enter the ring something is new to learn. Your rival might be a small man, strong as can be, and give you some trouble, but he might not know any holds. The wrestling matches are getting better around this part of Connecticut every time one is pulled off. One fan who has not missed one this winter was rolling his Bull Durham for a smoke and said "I used to be a great boxing fan, but now I would rather go and see wrestling any time—there's more thrills and action. Take a toe hold, I don't know how they can stand it—the foot almost touching their chin, but they get away with it! That is what I like. The flying tackle is not wrestling; let them get a hold and try and break it." And he said, "one time in Boston I was looking at two giants go to it for one hour and not a fall! Clean wrestling, tough as the Rubber Man from Cleveland, Johnny Risko, if I remember right, the western giant got a toe hold and had so much power in those Scotch hams that he broke three toes on his rival's foot and of course won the match in one hour and 25 minutes. The follow with the broken foot had to be helped from the ring but got a hand from the 5,000 fans that lasted for 15 minutes. It cost $2.50 for a seat, but I got my money's worth."

Wrestling fans from here to Hartford or this side of the Westerly river are waiting to see Big Mike Passi enter the ring again, but by all reports, it will be a week or so before Strong Boy Passi will do any work on account of the painters' fever. That sickness is like a boxer getting punched drunk—not knowing where you are! In one hour you are feeling great and could lift a Ford auto, next you are flat on your back, weak as a mud turtle after a long walk.

When the disappinting news reached he fans that the Noank wild man was sick in bed, they all hoped he will be up and around in a week and that they will be able to see him enter the ring before the curtain is rung down on the wrestling matches on account of hot weather.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Living fully up to the title of his new photoplay "Devil-May-Care," which opens at the Broadw today, Ramon Novarro in his first all-talking role as Armand, lieutenant in the ill-fated Napoleon's Guard, rises to new screen honors, his rich singing voice being displayed at greater advantage than ever in the romantic incidental songs, specially written for the production. Outdoing the redoubtable Fairbanks in his acrobatic agility and swordsmanship, Novarro displays a brand new character as the hero-worshipping young officer. Doomed to death before a royalist firing squad on the eve of Napoleon's departure to exile on the Isle of Elba, he escapes by a clever ruse, and after a daring night ride seeks shelter in the upper windows of a darkened chateau. To his amazement, the room is occupied by a charming young lady, whom he seizes and gags before she can scream. Soothing words calm her fears, but he is later betrayed by the fair charmer and again seized by the royalist death squad. Through fast sword play and quick wit he again escapes, to serve in the cause of restoring Napoleon from exile to the throne of France. He cannot lose sight of the girl, who, even though she betrayed him, he loves madly, and his final escapade culminates when he kidnaps her from under the very nose of the royalist guard and rides with his then willing prisoner across the border to safety. Stirring music, martial airs, the historic farewell of Napoleon to his beloved Guard, the beautiful gardens of Versailles with their gorgeous fountains, the charming Albertina Rasch dancers, and glimpses of the palace and chateau interiors of Napoleonic France are among the many highlights of this amazing production. William Humphrey, famous stage star, who has made a life study of "The Little Corporal" is Napoleon to the life. Beautiful Dorothy Jordan is exquisite in the gowns of the period, and furnishes a dainty foil for Novarro. John Miljan is the crafty and treacherous de Grignon, and the other characters are as strongly drawn. There are gorgeous scenes in technicolor. Every school child and every student of history should view this picture for the wealth of accurate detail and the authenticity of the historic sequences in France's darkest hour.

The accompanying program is equally interesting, with Harry Langdon, Thelma Todd and Edgar Kennedy in "Hotter Than Hot," a Mickey Mouse cartoon "While the Cat's Away," and the latest Paramount sound news, showing among other subjects, the funeral of the late Chief Justice Taft, Admiral Byrd's 20,000 mile talk between New Zealand and station WGY, and the opening of the government's new 3,000,000 acre irrigation project, The Coolidge Dam, at Globe, Ariz.

The Jade Doll.

A most unusual entertainment is anticipated by those expecting to attend the presentation of "The Jade Doll," at the Masonic temple, Tuesday, March 18, at 8:15 p. m., under the auspices of the music department of the Woman's City club.

Norwich has not been offered a production of this kind for a long time. It is a comedy, but not a burlesque; full of comic situations and quaint costuming. It presents a series of beautiful scenes, featuring charming English Wedgwood ladies; gay Japanese boys and girls, with fans of every description flashing before the eye, representing the treasures brought by the suitors of Sakusu from all the world.

The entire production of the Jade Doll is the work of Miss Leila Church of Rockville, Conn., a writer and producer of notable indoor plays and of large historical pageants. Among very successful productions presented in New England were the Centennial Pageant at Manchester, Conn., with a cast of 1000 actors; the 250th anniversary celebrations of Northfield, Mass., and of Wallingford, Conn., with casts of 700 and 1000 people, respectively; and the pageants of Antrim and of New London, N. H., last summer, which were favorably likened to European productions.

Membership tickets, presented at the door, will serve as admission tickets to club members, but are not transferable. All others may obtain tickets from members of the cast, from the music committee, and at the door.

Packard Autos

The special four-day exhibit at the New London showrooms of E. B. Patterson, Inc., local Packard dealers, from March 19th to March 22nd, inclusive, is intended to illustrate prevailing fashions in automobile body types, both open and closed. A feature of the display is a convertible sedan, individually custom-built by Brewster and mounted on the 145 1-2-inch Packard De Luxe chassis.

This car represents admirably the flexibility of the convertible type of body, which is increasing in popular favor with the passing of each season. In it, color harmonies of a special appeal have been worked out through the use of a medium blue tone in the chassis parts and molding, combined with a rich cream color for body, bonnet and wheels. The effect of this Puritan Cream in the striping, and wire wheels of the same tone, is strikingly beautiful.

A deft touch is provided in this special Brewster-designed convertible by a special corrugated aluminum running-board, with strips of the same metal.

In addition to the convertible, the Packard display includes four distinctive body types from among the Packard DeLuxe and Custom lines. Both lines contain the same large De Luxe motor, the distinction between the two consisting of a difference in wheelbase and in appointments.

One of the most popular automobile body types today, because of its trim, compact appearance and the feeling of cosiness it inspires, is the Club sedan. One of these, in two tones of green, on the 140 1-2-inch Packard Custom wheelbase, forms a distinctive part of the New London exhibit.

Other interesting models in the display are a black and silver sport Phaeton, a convertible coupe in grey and brown tones, and a light grey roadster. The New London showrooms of the Patterson company are at 407 Broad street, and will be open evenings during the showing of these distinguished cars.

POETRY

The Bird's Appeal

At morn, when seated in your cosy room,
Before the table, spread with breakfast warm—
Just glance without into the cheerless gloom
Where we, poor starving mites, abide the storm.
Our homes in bush and tree, alas are lost,
And wearily we fly, but fail to find
A nook to hide our bodies from the frost,
Or shield us from the cold and bitter wind.

The cruel snow has numbed our nimble feet,
With shaking feathers and with beaks apart,
We meekly plead for but a scrap to eat
To give us strength another day to start.

We ask but little from your plenteous fare,
A few rolled oats, chopped apple or boiled rice,
Bird seed, if just a trifle you can spare—
Or bread crumbs, will our little needs suffice.

With anxious eyes we watch the window bright
For your small gift that may our lives prolong
And if we can survive till Spring's in sight
Your kindness we'll repay with gladsome song.

—Carleton W. Holt, in Vancouver Province.

Dreams

All days she toils with tiresome tasks,
Faithful, to duty true.
She never thinks, as Duty's slave,
What she would like to do.
She gives her whole mind to her work,
However dull it seems,
But when night comes she drops her cares
And dreams—and dreams — and dreams!

Forgotten are her daily tasks,
Forgotten every night,
And wondrous visions give her joy,
And thrill her with delight.
She sees new lands, she travels far,
She roams in realms of bliss,
She dreams of love, devotion, trust,
And of a lover's kiss.

So pass the hours of night away,
She lives a life apart
From the dull life of daily toil
In which she has no heart.
At night in dreams she lives as she
Has yearned to live—and then
When comes the day she drops her dreams
And turns to work again!
—Somerville Journal.

Manager—I'm afraid you are ignoring our efficiency system, Smith.

Smith—Perhaps so, sir, but somebody has got to get the work done.—Boston Transcript.

"How did you find your wife when you got home last night?"

"Just as nice as pie."

"How's that?"

"Short and crispy."—Exchange.

"What do you do?"

"I keep house, scrub, scour, bake, wash dishes, cook, do the laundry, iron, sew."

And the census-taker listed her: "Housewife—no occupation."—Boston Transcript.

Customer—Are these eggs really fresh?

Grocer—Madam, if you'll step over to the 'phone and call up my poultry farm you will be able to hear the cackle of the hens that laid those very eggs.—Exchange.

"They say your landlady is awfully cross-eyed."

"Oh, awfully cross-eyed! Why, that woman can look through a keyhole with one eye, and up and down the hall with the other.—New Bedford Standard.

A man took his wife to a doctor, who put a thermometer into her mouth and told her to keep her mouth shut for two or three minutes.

When departing, the man tapped the doctor on the shoulder and said: "Doctor, what will you take for that thing?"—Exchange.

Gunbusta and Pistola were out hunting and they had taken their wives along. "Bang!" went Pistola's gun, and Gunbusta running up to him shouted: "Confound it, you almost hit my wife then."

"Well," replied Pistola, "I'm terribly sorry—but there's my wife over there—have a shot at her."—The Pathfinder.

RULES AND REGULATIONS CONCERNING DOGS IN THE TOWNS OF PLAINFIELD AND STERLING

Whereas, a rabid dog has recently run at large in the towns of Plainfield and Sterling, thereby exposing persons, dogs and other domestic animals to the infectious disease known as rabies, now,

Therefore, the Commissioner on Domestic Animals, deeming it reasonable and necessary for the security of the inhabitants and their property and to prevent the spread of said disease and at the request of the Health Officers of these towns, in pursuance of the authority given under Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925, hereby makes and promulgates the following rules and regulations for confining, controlling, vaccinating and destroying dogs and other animals in the towns of Plainfield and Sterling:

Sec. 1. All dogs or other animals in said towns known to have been bitten by a rabid dog or other animal shall forthwith be mercifully killed by the dog wardens of these towns unless the dog so bitten has received 21 days prior to the time of the biting or inoculation by a rabid animal, a vaccination treatment known as the anti-rabies vaccination which treatment must have been applied by a registered veterinarian who shall furnish the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog wardens of these towns a certificate to the effect, giving date of application of treatment, the method used, and the name of the manufacturer of the biological product so used; or unless a dog which has been bitten by a rabid dog shall have received within three days from the time of biting or inoculation, the first injection of the treatment known as the anti-rabies treatment or Pasteur treatment for animals, such animal being held in quarantine while under this treatment and until released in writing by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his special deputy.

Sec. 2. All dogs in said towns known to have been in contact with a rabid dog but not positively known to have been bitten by said rabid dog, and all dogs showing symptoms of rabies shall be quarantined in close confinement to the acceptance of the dog wardens and the special deputy until released by the Commissioner on Domestic Animals or his special deputy.

Sec. 3. All dogs in said towns shall be quarantined in close confinement or securely chained on the premises of the owner or keeper and no dog shall be allowed to go at large from and after the date these rules shall go into effect until the same are rescinded EXCEPT:

(a) Dogs being led or held on leashes of not more than five feet in length in the hand of the owner, keeper or attendant provided such owner, keeper or attendant is of responsible age.

(b) Hunting dogs while actually engaged in hunting game accompanied by a licensed hunter.

(c) Sheep and cattle dogs while actually engaged in driving and tending sheep or cattle and accompanied by and in control of the owner, keeper or herdsman.

(d) Any dog, twenty-one days after anti-rabies vaccination has been applied by a licensed veterinarian provided a special metal tag inscribed "vaccinated," as provided by said veterinarian has been attached to collar, and certificate stating name and address of owner and date of vaccination has been issued to the Commissioner on Domestic Animals and the dog wardens of these towns. Such certificate stating that the dog has been immunized by the injection of Anti Rabic Vaccine will be in force for one year from date of administration. Veterinarians shall keep a record of all vaccinations subject at all times to inspection of the Commissioner's agent, deputies or dog wardens of these towns.

Sec. 4. No dog shall be shipped, taken or removed out of said towns except as provided by Paragraph D of Section 3.

Sec. 5. The dog wardens or any constable or police officer having jurisdiction in said towns shall humanely kill all stray dogs which they may find at large without collar and license tag attached. Said dog wardens shall capture and take into their custody every dog in said towns found with collar and license tag attached NOT confined and controlled agreeable to the foregoing, except as provided by Section 1 and 3 of this quarantine, and shall impound and hold such dog seventy-two hours and kill the same if unclaimed as is provided by law.

Sec. 6. These rules and regulations shall take effect at 12 o'clock, Noon, Eastern Standard Time, the 20th day of March, 1930.

PENALTY

Sec. 25, Chapter 269, Public Acts of 1925: ". . . Any person who shall fail to comply with any rule or regulation made under the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars."

NEW LONDON PROPERTY OWNERS PROTEST AGAINST REASSESSMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 14.—In an endeavor to obtain relief from what they term unjust and unequitable assessment against their real estate, a group of property owners has formed a club and within the next fortnight will meet for the purpose of organization. The sponsors of the movement comprise owners of much real estate and it is believed the club will start with a membership of a hundred or more. Ever since the re-assessment of real estate valuations six weeks ago, hundreds of owners of property have been aggrieved, especially those whose valuations were doubled and tripled over that of a year ago, while some of the largest industries were given a lesser valuation than that of the year before. When the board of relief was in session for the purpose of listening to the remonstrances of property owners aggrieved over the re-assessment, over 600 real estate owners protested because of what they claimed to be an unfair assessment.

Miss Mildred S. Kip, daughter of Prof. Herbert Z. Kip, Connecticut College for Women, and Mrs. Kip, of Quaker Hill, Waterford, who is a student at Radcliffe college, Harvard has been appointed on the dean's list of the college, because of her academic grades as shown by the mid-year examinations. Miss Kip is a member of the sophomore class.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's license of Max Elionsky, 25 Moore avenue, which was suspended several weeks ago.

J. JAMES FLOYD HEADS ELKS' LODGE FOR YEAR

At the annual meeting of New London lodge of Elks, which was also observed as "Old Timers' night," last night, Attorney J. James Floyd was elected exalted ruler, with Cornelius C. Costello, esteemed leading knight; esteemed loyal knight, S. Victor Prince; esteemed lecturing knight, James J. Doran; secretary, James J. Drudy; treasurer, James F. O'Leary; trustee, Anthony Silva. The meeting was attended by over 300 members and there were among the attendants about 25 members who have been identified with the order over 25 years. After the transaction of business a social session was enjoyed, with a feast and vaudeville entertainment.

BOOZE HID UNDER FLOOR EXPENSIVE FOR GAMBARDELLA

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 14—Genaro Gambardella, 621 Bank street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell. He was fined $200 and costs on each count. A long and diligent raid at Gambardella's resulted in success only when a section of flooring was removed. In the opening was found nine pints of rye whiskey.

John J. Feehan, Hartford, was charged with theft of $850 from Leonard Bruce, Howard street. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer requested a continuance of the case for he said there were angles of the robbery which he wished to investigate before presenting evidence. Judge Cronin ordered the case continued to Friday next. Bail of $2,500 was fixed, but as Feehan could not obtain a surety, he was committed to jail. Feehan has confessed and has declared that he spent most of the money for liquor. Feehan said that he spent the money in Springfield, Mass., Providence and New York.

Konomoc Iron Works, Inc., has brought suit for $2,000 damages against Nicholas and Angelina Sammatara, the plaintiffs claiming to have furnished the defendants material and labor for which payment has not been made. Property on Shaw street owned by Sammatara and his wife has been attached.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell to Miss Dorothy Myrtle Snooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snooks of 24 Mercer street. Mr. Cockell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cockell, 58 Morgan street.

Mrs. Herbert Hicks is ill at her home at Quaker Hill. She recently moved to Waterford from New London. Mrs. Hicks' health has not been good for some time and last January she was a patient at Home Memorial hospital.

Robert Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Page, 197 Montauk avenue, was operated upon this week at Lawrence-Memorial hospital for appendicitis.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, Great Pocohontas and staff, will be guests at a banquet of Hiawatha council, Degree of Pocohontas, at Odd Fellows hall, on the night of April 10. Guests from Norwich, Putnam, Westerly, Essex and of Minnehaha council will attend.

A grass fire at former Plant field, rear of Thames street, was discovered burning briskly because of a strong wind this morning. Nearby residents became alarmed and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. Chief Thomas Shipman and Ockford hose company responded, the fire being subdued with chemicals.

At a meeting of the Catholic Women's club, held last night, it was voted to contribute $25 to Diocesan Bureau of Social Service. At the meeting Mrs. Charles J. Ducy presided.

Private funeral services for Verena Moreash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moreash, of 24 Hamilton avenue, Groton, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street. Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Walter, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bronislaw Przybylowski, died last night at the residence of the parents, 20 Eastern avenue.

J. Nicholas Danz, of Ocean avenue, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital and in a serious condition. Mr. Danz was operated upon earlier in the week for appendicitis and since then pneumonia has developed.

Joseph Rosenthal, U. S. Coast Guard; Mrs. George Sadinsky and infant son, 15 Rosemary street; Mrs. George Gadbois, 449 Montauk avenue; Mrs. William Mattison, and infant daughter, Blackhall; Mrs. Ethel Bridgeman, Old Lyme; Mrs. George Mayor, 5 State street; Mrs. William Watrous and infant daughter, Groton; Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, and infant son, 12 Grand street, Mrs. John M. Mallon Jr., and infant daughter, 777 Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for John Nazzello, who escaped from the Middletown asylum last night. He is described as being 19, about five feet six inches in height and weighs about 140 pounds. When Nazzello escaped he wore ordinary working clothes.

Mrs. John Elwood, 34 Prest street, made complaint to the police last night that a man had stolen articles of apparel from the clothesline in the yard of her home. The man was seen loitering on the street after he emerged from the yard and carried the clothes under his arm; but he could not be found by Automobile Patrol Officer, who was assigned to the case.

POLICE CANDIDATES TO BE EXAMINED APR. 4

The police department being without the services of supernumerary officers, other than those who are doing regular patrol duty, but who have not been advanced from the probationary force to the regular, City Manager William A. Holt has decided to hold a mental examination that additional officers will be needed. The examination will be held at the Jennings school, Mercer street, Friday evening, April 4, at 7:30. The candidates must be citizens of New London and must obtain a character recommendation. They must not be less than 21 years of age nor more than 30, at least ve feet nine inches in height and weight to be proportionate to height. The examination will be based solely on knowledge of the city, its government, traffic regulations, as well as state motor vehicle regulations, use of the English language, eighth grade arithmetic, etc. It is believed that the applicants for appointment to the force will be many, as there are many young men out of employment who desire to obtain permanent employment.

A large number of followers of fistiana came to New London tonight from Norwich and Westerly and witnessed the series of bouts staged by the East End Athletic club in the Lyceum theatre.

The high wind of this morning caused street cleaners unlimited work on State street, for receptacles containing waste paper awaiting collection were blown over, causing their contents to be distributed all over the street, especially where the contents consisted of paper or other similar light material.

SHIP & ENGINE COMPANY LIKELY TO BE MUCH BUSIER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 14.—It is believed that the New London Ship & Engine company at an early date will be a busier corporation than it has been in recent years, for it is expected that the agreement between the five great powers now in conference in London, will result in the retention of the submarines as a party of the navy of this nation and, indeed, of the other nations. That will mean the construction of submarines and of course the extension of work at the plant of the Ship & ngine company. That establishment has depleted its force in recent months and many of its former employes have left Groton and New London.

As evidence of the few vessels in the coastwise trade at present it is stated that there was not a single vessel in sight in the lower harbor the past few days except a large schooner that was awaiting orders to go after a cargo. Time was when there were as many as 80 sails in the harbor at a time. This was when coal was carried in the schooners and they transported immense quantities of it to the cities and towns to the eastward of here.

The real estate market has not been as dormant as it now is in many seasons, according to the dealers and in the opinion of those who desire to dispose of property.

The Boy Scouts held their weekly meeting this evening with a large attendance.

WAITING FOR CONGRESS TO STABILIZE TARIFF

Commercial travelers who are coming to New London report that there is an improvement in trade in their respective lines and that when the tariff bill is disposed of in congress they look for a quickening of business that will be well defined. They say the past few months has seen the dullest season of which they have any knowledge, because manufacturers are inclined to withhold production till they have definite information of what prices will be.

MONTVILLE

A card party is being planned under the auspices of the American Legion post, No. 112, to be held at Uncasville Community house.

He was fined $2 and cost by Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church, of Montville.

The Uncasville-Shelton Corp. closed part of the weave shop Friday afternoon till Monday morning.

GALES FERRY

The March meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nelson Parker, with 14 members and three visitors in attendance. Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. John Harold. The program for the meeting was arranged by Mrs. Morton E. Crawford and opened with the song Sweeter As the Years Go By, Mrs. Jerome Greer at the piano. Mrs. Greer conducted the devotions with lesson from St. Mark 12. The recording secretary, Mrs. Crawford, read the roll call and minutes of the last meeting and a report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Courtland E. Colver. Mrs. Greer read a letter from the secretary of evangelism in the absence of the corresponding secretary and reported that the annual luncheon of the Conference W. H. M. S. would be held in Providence, April 29. Readings, Why Browning? Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins; Conference City Work, Mrs. Crawford; What Is Demanded, Mrs. Solon F. Chapman; The Greatest Thing in Like, Mrs. C. Alton Chapman, were followed by the hymn, Love Lifted Me. A chapter from the book on devotions Jesus and Our Earthly Goods, was read by Mrs. Greer. A new member, Mrs. Horace A. Newbury joined the auxiliary and Mrs. Solon Chapman conducted the Mission Enigmus and presented St. Patrick favors with the selections. During a social hour the hostess served salad, sandwiches, cookies and coffee, assisted by Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt and Miss Margaret Colver.

Mrs. Everett Noyes returned Wednesday night after two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. E. S. Worcester, in New Brunswick, N. J.

Elizabeth Main, a pupil at the Stoddard district school, has been awarded record prize in the poster contest conducted by the Savings Bank of New London.

Mrs. Monett A. Lawson, of the Long Cove district, entertained Long Cove members of the Ladies' Aid society of the local church.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton E. Crawford and daughter, Arline, of the Lester district, accompanied by Mr. Crawford's mother, Mrs. Charles Crawford, her daughter, Miss June, and son, Hugh, of Groton, attended the funeral of a relative in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently.

The March meeting of the teachers of the Ledyard schools with School Supervisor James F. Connelly, of Norwich, has been postponed, owing to the conditions of the roads.

The village school closed Friday for a vacation of a week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shad and son Richard of New London moved Tuesday to one of the Prentice apartments in the village.

Joseph P. DeRusha is having a week's vacation from his duties at the submarine base.

Clarence Moxley of Stamford returned home Monday following a week end visit to his father, Minor Moxley.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton E. Crawford of the Lester district entertained Mr. Crawford's sister, Miss June Crawford, of Groton, over the week end.

At Boston Luncheon

Westerly Templars attended, Friday noon, the luncheon at the Boston City club with Charles F. White of Malden, grand commander, presiding. The speakers were Governor Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts and Governor Norman S. Case of Rhode Island. The Rhode Island governor urged his Massachusetts hearers to visit South county and follow its trails and delve into its historic lore. There was an attendance of 300.

LEDYARD

At a special town meeting to lay a tax rate for which taxes will be collected this spring held in town hall Friday afternoon, March 7, there was an attendance of nearly 30. First Selectman F. W. Burton called the meeting to order. W. R. Snyder was chosen moderator and W. I. Allyn, clerk. The same tax rates as last year was voted, 8 mills for roads, 9 mills for miscellaneous and 13 mills for schools, making a total of 30 mills. Everything was harmonious at this meeting. Several women voters were among those present.

Bion J. Kinney, who has lived on the Peter Williams farm for several years has purchased from Frank Mell the homestead known as the Fred Mell place on the Westerly road in the town of Preston. Mr. and Mrs. Kinney have already moved into their new home. Charles A. Grey 2d, has leased the Peter Williams farm from the Spicer heirs of Norwich.

There are three portable saw mills in town at present. Earl B. Geer has sold a timber lot, Enos M. Gray has sold one and William Gray has been cutting and sawing ties on the John Yeomans farm.

A meeting of the town school committee is to be held at the residence of the chairman of the board, Billings T. Avery, Monday evening, March 17.

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1930

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, March 15, 1930

THE WEATHER

Conditions

Pressure remains low from eastern Hudson straits southward over the Canadian maritime provinces and thence southeastward over the ocean.

There will be showers Saturday and Sunday in the south Atlantic states, probably spreading over the lower lake region and the middle Atlantic states during Sunday. The temperature will be lower in portions of the south Atlantic states Saturday, but it will rise slowly Saturday and Sunday from the Ohio valley and the lower lake region eastward to the Atlantic coast.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh northwest and north winds and fair weather Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh north and northeast winds with increasing cloudiness Saturday, possibly showers over extreme south portion.

Forecast

For southern New England: Fair with slowly rising temperature Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer, probably followed by rain Sunday afternoon or night.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

	Ther.	Bar.
7 a. m.	33	30.00
12 m.	35	30.10
6 p. m.	34	30.20

Highest 38; lowest, 26.

Predictions for Friday: Fair, colder.

Friday's weather: As predicted, westerly wind.

GREENEVILLE

The Greeneville Community workers held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John McNeeley on Boswell avenue, Wednesday afternoon, with a large attendance. Reports showed the society to be steadily growing. The work supervisor reported a quilt pieced ready to tie. A social hour was spent with games, the prizes being won by Mrs. Fred Sears, Mrs. John McDougall, Mrs. Levitsky and Mrs. Raymond Britten. In the dining room where a luncheon was served, the table was decorated in green with a center piece of green carnations and small potted shamrocks for favors. Miss Hayes will be the hostess next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Campion of Golden street and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Hess, of Staten Island, N. Y., left today to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy at Northbridge, Mass.

The Greeneville N. M. Sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. Harry Richmond on Boswell avenue Friday evening. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, fruit, ice cream and wafers, hot chocolate were served. The dining room was very prettily decorated with the color scheme of green and white being used. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Helgo Ericson and Mrs. Alvin Barrows.

The eighth grade baseball team of St. Mary's school defeated the Seventh Grade Thursday afternoon, the score being 20 to 9. Features of the game were the heavy hitting of Jerry Gleason and the fine fielding of Larry Quinn. The lineup for the winning team follows: Brennan c, Kirby p, Ducchpio 1b, Lavions 2b, Delgado 3b, Downes ss, Larry Quinn lf, Delgodoc cf, Flaherty rf. Hartnett was the umpire.

James Gordon, Richard Hourigan, Edward Gleason and John Gehegan have returned from a motor trip to Hope Valley.

James Turner is confined to his home in Preston City.

TAFTVILLE

Friday's March wind furnished many of the village boys with an opportunity for kite flying, many fantastic and novel designs, some of them home-made, were flown.

The N. S. M. club met Thursday evening with Miss Hazel Larochelle, of Providence.

The weekly meeting of the Basketry club was held Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building.

George Serus, of Norwich avenue, has disposed of his business. Cleophas Martin is the new owner.

ENCAMPMENT DELEGATION TO SOUTH MANCHESTER

A large delegation from Palymra encampment, No. 3, I. O. O. F., will go to South Manchester, this (Saturday) afternoon, to be present when Kearsarge encampment of Lawrence, Mass., confers three degrees upon large classes of candidates. The degrees will be the patriarchal and golden rule, to be worked in the afternoon, and the royal purple, in the evening. The degree work will begin at 2:30 p. m. with refreshments to be served at 6 o'clock followed by the royal purple degree.

Several grand officers were guests at the inter-encampment meeting held Thursday evening at Odd Fellows hall, Main street, when Palmyra Encampment acted as host. They were Grand Patriach George C. Brayman of Bridgeport, Grand Junior Warden H. H. Pritchard, Grand Marshal B. H. Duular of New London, District Deputy Grand Patriarch Edward M. Welch of New London and Past Grand Representative Stephen J. Stephen of Mystic. There were over 75 present from Norwich, New London and Mystic, the three encampments participating in the series of meetings.

At 7:30 o'clock there was a cold meat supper served by the entertainment committee, after which a short business session was held with Chief Patriarch Lewis Aldrich presiding. The Royal Purple degree was then conferred on a class of ten candidates from the three lodges, the work being ably done by Degree Master Leslie Fowler and staff of officers. Brief remarks were made by the grand officers after the degree work.

DR. DANFORTH GIVES SECOND LENTEN ADDRESS

Before a large gathering Friday noon, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, gave the second talk on his series of Lenten addresses at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. The topic of the talk Friday was The Carpenter. Herbert W. Gallup presided at the meeting and Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, offered the prayer. O. W. Carpenter presided at the piano and the hymn sung was Hiding in Thee. In his talk, Rev. Dr. Danforth said:

"It was at Nazareth, His home town, that the people could only recognize Christ as a carpenter. He must have been a good one. If not, they would have called Him something else.

"Just because He did not plan to work at the bench for all His life He did not slight the work of His craft. The truly great do not neglect life's preparations. A beautiful cathedral should have a beautiful door. The wonderful ministry of our Master had a preparation which was not meagrely and reluctantly performed.

"Joseph must have observed many things in Egypt. Look at the mummy cases and see what skill the artisans of that ancient land had in working in wood. See the chariots and the thrones, the boats and models, and we see that ancient men had knowledge to contrive and skill to perform some very wonderful and beautiful things.

"In Nazareth stone houses needed wooden furnishings. He made them. And He had help at home. There was One there who 'did all things well.' No wonder they called Him the carpenter.

"Is there a conflict between the hand and the heart? There ought not so to be. Many a child might come to the carpenter with a broken toy for mending. And many a broken heart would come there, too. The skill of the hands is greater if love holds them in its dominion to guide and to inspire.

"Whatever occupation you and I may have we will do better in it if we go at it in the way in which that carpenter did so long ago, knowing that there is a heavenly purpose in every earthly trade and it is ours to be true to the Godward side of all we do."

FOREST FIRE WARDENS HELD ANNUAL MEETING

At the Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, Thursday, the district forest fire wardens of New London, Windham and Tolland counties held their annual meeting. State Forest Fire Warden Austin F. Hawes presided. There was a general discussion of the forest fire problems of Connecticut and at the afternoon session various forestry questions were considered. It was brought out by several of the wardens that deer were doing great damage to forest plantations, orchards and other crops. There was a unanimous vote by the 95 wardens present in favor of having a short open hunting season on deer, in order that this damage might be reduced.

W. C. Shove of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad told the wardens how the railroads of Connecticut are assisting in forest fire prevention. He stated that the locomotives are carefully inspected after each run and spark arresters are kept in perfect condition. Last year there were 591 forest fires reported in Connecticut and only 37 of these were attributed to railroads.

Robert M. Ross, forester of the Connecticut Forest and Park association of New Haven, told of the activities of this association and the need of larger appropriations for the purchase of state forests. He stated that 50,000 acres of state forests had been acquired to date, but at the present rate of purchase it will take 20 years to complete the program of 200,000 acres of state-owned forests.

FAIRFIELD MAN VICTIM OF OLD "TIN BOX GAME"

BRIDGEPORT. March 14—(AP)—Charles Chonowski, former restaurant owner of Fairfield, is $1,000 poorer today. He was the victim of the old "tin box game." Two strangers wanted to buy his home, and offered to post $550 as evidence of good faith if Chonowski would put up $1,000. When the tin box into which the money had been placed and given to Chonowski, it was, of course, empty.

NO DECISION ON TARIFF ON HIDES, LEATHERS, SHOES

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—After five hours of debate the senate recessed tonight without a decision on proposals for tariff on hides, leathers, and shoes, now on the free list.

FRIDAY NIGHTS SELECTED FOR NORWICH BROADCAST

Advices from WTIC broadcasting station at Hartford, received Friday evening, advise that the Norwich broadcast has been assigned to the half hour period from 10 to 10:30 on every Friday night for ten consecutive weeks, beginning with April 18. This means that the average audience reached by Station WTIC of 11 millions of people will learn to know Norwich intimately through the weekly meetings of this great audience and the Old Doctor and his friend, the Schoolmaster. During this discourse of historical, scenic and industrial Norwich, with the fine touches of humor and musical setting which will be brought into play during the rendition of each program, the people of this great radio audience will in many cases, learn for the first time, of the many firsts to which Norwich is entitled when the question of contributions to the progress of America are considered.

It is possible that the Old Doctor and his friend may reveal to the local people and the people of this state many incidents of outstanding importance, but of course, the two characters will bring the tidings in a new way and with the touch of modern trend. Secretary John Richardson of the Norwich chamber of commerce is now working on the tremendous task of gathering the events of some 271 years, upon which will be built the manuscripts and through which Norwich will take a step into the front rank of the cities undertaking community advertising programs of this scope. President Fleming of the merchants' bureau has ordered window cards which will be shown in the windows and offices of those who are helping the bureau to sponsor this program. As soon as the cards are received from the printer they will be distributed and from this point on the work of preparing the many phases of publicity which will support this project will be pursued by those in charge vigorously.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Virginia Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson, of Taftville, became the bride of Houghton Bulkeley, son of Mrs. Morgan G. Bulkeley and the late United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley, of Hartford, Friday afternoon, at the Ambassador hotel, Park avenue, New York. Rev. Warren S. Archibald, of Hartford, performed the ceremony, in the presence of near relatives. The rooms were decorated with quantities of forsythia and other spring blooms. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory tinted lace and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The ceremony was followed by a small reception for the members of the two families. After a two months' wedding trip to England and on the continent, Mr. and Mrs. Bulkeley will live in their new home at 75 Terry road, Hartford.

Miss Minnie L. Palmer returned Wednesday from Winter Haven, Fla., where she has been spending several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitney have motored to New York for the week end.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Weston C. Pullen gave a bridge in compliment to Mrs. C. Werter Van Deusen, of Hudson, N. Y., and Mrs. Lorimer B. Slocum, of Winchester, Mass. Mrs. George Harold Gildersleeve and Mrs. David W. Morton poured.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson and Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Brown Grover were in New York Friday, attending the Bulkeley-Grover wedding. Mr. Bulkeley and his bride sailed Friday evening on the White Star liner Majestic, for Cherbourg.

Thursday evening a St. Patrick bridge of three tables was given by Mrs. Clifford C. Oat, of East Great Plain. The prizes were won by Mrs. Clarence G. Thompson, Mrs. Louis Lougee and Miss Justine Morrison.

Charles R. Butts is leaving today (Saturday) for Winter Haven, Fla., to join Mrs. Butts who has been there since early in the year.

C. Werter Van Deusen arrived Friday from Hudson, N. Y., to spend the week end with Mrs. Van Deusen and children Ann and Carol, who are visiting Mrs. Frank H. Pullen.

OBITUARY

James J. Byrne

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP)—James J. Byrne, borough president of Brooklyn, died in the Brooklyn hospital tonight, a victim of uremic poisoning. He had been seriously ill since last Friday.

Mr. Byrne, who was in his 67th year, had been Brooklyn borough president since 1926 when he was appointed to succeed the late Joseph Guider. He later was elected to fill Mr. Guider's unexpired term in a special election and was reelected last fall for a regular four-year term.

Portugal to Build 3 Stations

LISBON—(AP)—Portugal is the only country in Europe which has on broadcasting station. To meet this deficiency, the minister of finance has authorized the expenditure of $250,000 for the erection of three stations, the largest at Lisbon to be of 12 kilowatts.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Two prominent doctors of Norwich died here fifty years ago. Dr. A. B. Haile died at his residence on Broad street at the age of 74, and Dr. Henry Potter died suddenly at his office. Other items of interest taken from the files of The Bulletin beginning with the week of March 8, 1880, are in part as follows:

Monday, March 8, 1880—The east end of the residence of Miss J. E. Osgood on Church street is covered with a luxuriant growth of English ivy which remains a rich and cheerful green through the winter months.

The Rt. Rev. J. F. Shanahan, bishop of Harrisburg, Pa., lectured in St. Patrick's church, Broadway, last evening, on "The Church; her Trials and her Triumphs."

Miss Lizzie McMahon, who was so seriously burned at Bean Hill, Friday afternoon, was relieved from her intense sufferings by death on Saturday afternoon.

Walter Rogers fell into an old cellar on the premises of George Loomis on West Main street, Friday evening, severely bruising and cutting himself about the head and face.

The old willow tree in front of Dr. J. V. Wilson's lot on Broadway, the earliest harbinger of spring in that neighborhood, fell before the woodman's axe on Saturday.

Tuesday, March 9, 1880—People still continue to visit the scene of the landslide on Laurel Hill, and yesterday Dr. Brigden and family had more visitors than any church in town.

Besides erecting a large mill, the Willimantic Linen company is to build 50 first class tenement houses the coming season.

The Rev. C. C. Frost of the West Side Baptist church baptized three candidates in Yantic Cove yesterday.

Several artists have taken views of the landslides and demolished apartment of Mr. George B. Brigden's house on Spruce street.

The common council made George Weaver a special constable last evening. Mr. Weaver came from Montville here to take charge of the farm of C. L. Richards, situated between Boswellville and Greeneville.

J. C. Perkins has connected his confectionery store on Main street with his manufactory on the eastern side of Franklin square by a simple telephone.

Wednesday, March 10, 1880—A plain-gold ring purporting to have been worn by John Surratt, one of the conspirators in the assassination of President Lincoln in 1865 is on exhibition in a Main street window.

Fresh radishes were offered for sale in this market Monday.

Dr. A. B. Haile of this city died at his residence on Broad street Tuesday morning at the age of 74, after an illness of two years. His wife, Mrs. Mary Haile, and his daughter, Mrs. William C. Lanman survive him.

The house recently owned by the late Edward W. Johnson, Esq., on Lincoln avenue has been purchased by Dr. E. A. Tweedy of New York with 60 feet front of the Hakes property adjoining.

The St. Patrick's Benevolent society elected the Rev. P. P. Shahan chaplain of that organization on Sunday last. Charles A. Kingberger was elected chairman of the board of directors to fill a vacancy.

Eggs are getting down in price so that a dollar buys five dozen.

Thursday, March 11, 1880—Dr. Henry Potter died suddenly in his office Tuesday night.

Homer Randall, a brakeman on the New London Northern railroad, was severely injured at Willimantic yesterday afternoon while coupling freight cars. His left shoulder was caught and crushed so that he lost all use of his left arm.

Matthew Kane, the young man who was severely injured at the Thamesville rolling mill Tuesday afternoon, by a red hot bar piercing his thigh, was reported to be doing well last evening.

The warm weather has forced vegetation forward rapidly, and already many trees have free buds and are already to come into leaf with a continuation of the past mildness.

Wednesday, with its alternating snow squalls and sunshine, was the type of fickleness.

Friday, March 12, 1880—John Exley of Greeneville, the veteran newspaper carrier and pedestrian, who walked from Kansas to this city several years ago, made a wager of $5 yesterday that he could walk from Greeneville to Canterbury Green and return, a distance of 28 miles in nine hours.

Mrs. Sabrina Adams, the mother of Mrs. Ethan Allen of Hanover, and Mrs. Harriet Morgan Allen, the mother of Col. Ethan Allen, both passed away at the ages of 89 and 84 respectively, the former on Tuesday and the latter on Wednesday of this week. Both will be buried at the same hour this afternoon.

Yesterday Norwich had one of the most businesslike snow storms of the season.

The smelt catchers have not met with flattering success thus far this season. Their largest catch has been one hundred pounds in a day.

The staunch old schooner, Copia, Capt. Vars, has gone in ballast to New York, where she will go into the freighting service.

Saturday, March 13, 1880—At the Brown auction at Ledyard, Thursday, John O. Peckham bought the mill and all the real estate at about $6,500. A. P. Sturtevant purchased the machinery in the new mill at about $2,000.

Dr. J. V. Wilson had several work on his lot on Broadway yesterday cleaning out a well that has been out of use for 30 years.

The funeral of the late Dr. A. B. Haile took place yesterday afternoon, the Rev. L. W. Bacon, pastor of Park church, officiating.

The Willimantic Thread company are rushing operations on their new mill at Willimantic.

CONFERENCE NEXT TUESDAY ON EASTERN CONN. RAIL SERVICE

It has been decided by mutual agreement between Chairman Macdonald of the committee on railroad service of the Putnam chamber of commerce to hold the first meeting by the communities affected by the lack of proper railroad facilities in the committee room of the Norwich chamber of commerce, Secretary John Richardson of the local chamber announced Friday evening. Secretary Richardson stated that he has advised Mr. Macdonald that next Tuesday, March 18, at an hour to be set by him would be satisfactory. Due notice of the meeting will be given through the press as to the exact time and opportunity for those interested in securing from the New Haven system what would seem to be adequate transportation facilities for a city of the size and importance of Norwich, and the neighboring cities of Putnam and Jewett City, both of which, through their representatives, have expressed a desire to meet in conference through which this transportation problem of this section of eastern Connecticut might be remedied.

Lack of train service, inability to make connections by bus or train, inability to secure proper information regarding trains and connections and general indifference to the public interests are a few of the items upon which the conference will present its claims to those who now hold the transportation franchise of this territory and upon whom Norwich is dependent, if it is to compete with other cities in the matter of transacting the business of the cities in question on a basis of equity, Mr. Richardson said Friday night.

LEBANON WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Wednesday the regular meeting of the Lebanon League of Women Voters was called to order by the president at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. C. H. Lathrop. The regular reports were read and accepted. A lengthy business meeting followed. A luncheon at the home of the president to celebrate the tenth birthday of the league was planned.

The program was in charge of the chairman of welfare, Mrs. Carolyn W. Cummings. Her subject, Public Welfare, was handled by means of topics and discussion and was much enjoyed.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOM

SHEPHERDS OF BETHLEHEM

Rose of New England lodge, No. 62, Shepherds of Bethlehem, held their regular meeting Monday evening. Mrs. Margaret Rogers was elected commander. It was voted to hold a card party in the rooms on the next regular meeting night. Each member is to fill one table. The membership drive is started and each member is to bring in at least one new member this quarter. Mrs. Charlotte Denison is chairman of the card party.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich Grange, No. 172, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening in Grange hall with W. M. A. W. Lillibridge presiding. Mystic, Lyme and Lebanon Granges neighbored with Norwich Grange and put on excellent numbers for the lecturer's hour: Song, by the Grange; recitation and encore by Mrs. Cora Aspinal, lecturer of Lebanon Grange; recitation and encore by Miss Beulah Rogers, Norwich Grange; solo by Mrs. Aspinal, Lebanon; recitation and encore by Eunice Stott of Norwich.

An amusing playlet was put on by Lyme Grangers, entitled A Scene in a Court House. There were songs by the Grange; Mrs. Abby Olsen was pianist for the evening. Very pleasing remarks were heard from Rev. Andrew Littlefield, master of Lebanon Grange; Albert Neff, acting master of Mystic Grange; also Clifford Hall, master of Lyme Grange. Mystic Grange was unable to contribute to the program but was well represented by Brother Brooks, who presented two beautiful bouquets to the entertainers, also emblem pins to the two degree teams of Norwich. There was an attendance of 225 patrons. An invitation was extended to Norwich Grange to attend a meeting at Gales Ferry Methodist church, March 16, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Downes of Killingly is to be the speaker. The Grange auxiliary held an all-day sewing circle and accomplished much work. A committee is to be appointed to start an organization for the betterment of rural highways in the near future. A contribution was given toward the Grange tract in the People's forest at Barkhamstead. The Grange closed in the usual form, to meet again March 26.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

After the routine business refreshments were served.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening at the Moose home with Senior Regent Margaret Comire presiding. Legionaire Mary Lasch, chairman of Old Members' night, had very satisfactory results in getting the old members to attend the meeting, and a rising vote of thanks was extended to her by the chapter. One member was initiated by the senior regent and her staff. The new ritualistic work was put on by the guides and the new degree team which consists of the following legionaires: Nora Willett and Rose Carter, leaders, and Mable Goldberg, Mary Hunter, Elsie Caughey, Margaret Mehrholz, May Lasch and Margaret Seidel. Past Regent Emma Beaver congratulated the senior regent and degree team on their work.

After the meeting an entertainment was given in honor of the old members. The program was as follows: Solo, Mother Machree, by Mary Edmonds; sketch, Pat and the Specimens; Professor Knowit, Mary Edwards; Pat, Ethel Hoelck; Katie, Margaret Mehrholz.

Tableau—Yesterday's Girl, by Vera Sterry in costume, Mary Edwards, Ethel Hoelck, Emma Beaver. Tableau—Today's Girl, by Margaret Comire, Mary Edwards, Emma Beaver, Ethel Hoelck, Margaret Mehrholz, Irene Burns. Sketch, Emerald Isle: Mother, Emma Beaver; Daughter, Irene Burns; Jane, Margaret Comire; Bridget, Teresa Watters; solo, Where the River Shannon Flows, Mary Edwards; song by entire company, The Wearing of the Green. The audience of 50 guests of the chapter voted the entertainment a great success. Both the sketches were humorous and created much merriment and applause, each one taking her part very creditably. After the entertainment refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the refreshment committee, Margaret Mehrholz, chairman. The degree team will hold their weekly card party next week at the home of Margaret Mehrholz on Boswell avenue. Past Regent Teresa Watters was in general charge of the entertainment.

AMERICAN LEGION

The 750,000 members of the American Legion, the average annual strength of that organization, learned two things well in their service in the World war, says a statement issued Friday by R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, of this city.

The first of these two things was to get down to the fundamental principle in any big undertaking. The second thing was, team work, or unity of purpose, in carrying out the fundamental principles, and not be swerved aside by distracting and petty interruptions.

The habit of sticking to a fundamental principle came when these Legionnaires surmounted the many personal discouragements of training camps and in the field or on the sea. The habit of team work came in attaining the far-flung objectives despite those personal discouragements. The lone hand in the army soon was doomed to permanent failure. Only in hewing close to the fundamental principle, together and unitedly, was success possible.

Those lessons have kept the Legion alive to one fundamental principle which it never will forget, nor relinquish. That principle is found in the Legion's request that "equal service for all and special privilege or profit to none in time of war" be enacted into the basic law of our land. The Legion knows that principle is fair and just. It knows it is not fair, nor just, for the youth of our country to be compeled to do the work of war, at menial pay and with all danger, while others roll in the lap of luxury at home, and in no danger. The Legion believes the dollar, and natural resources, should work as unselfishly as the soldier in time of war.

For more than a decade, the Legion has stuck to that principle. Many measures for the operation of the principle have been proposed, but the Legion, knowing that its strength is in team work, discards all tacky arguments about how this bill, or that bill, would operate, or would not operate. Combined, these three-quarters of a million veterans, believing in the fundamental principle, insist that a competent commission be provided by congress, in order that any arguments may be settled by all the elements of our people in a fair and just way. Such a commission is provided in the Reed-Wainwright resolution now pending in congress, and the Legion deserves to have its voice heeded, and the principle studied, in order that a satisfactory plan for the operation of the principle can be devised.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

A meeting of Buckingham council, No. 14, Daughters of America, was held recently, with Councilor Arlene Friese in the chair. The recording secretary, Carrie Howard, has received an invitation from Mateida Morgan council, of Westerly, for the members of Buckingham council to attend a dance to be held by them next week. The national councilor is expected to visit Buckingham council and a special meeting may be held on that occasion. The matter of the special meeting will come up at the next regular meeting, at which a large attendance is looked for.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Sebequanash council met in the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening. A short meeting was held as there was a public whist and pinochle after the meeting. The meeting was called to order by Pocahontas Hulda Jensen. After the salute to the flag the meeting closed in the usual manner.

The scores in whist were: Women, 1st, Miss Mary Quinn; second, Mrs. M. F. Noyes; third, Mrs. Vetter. Men, first, C. Lasch; second, C. P. Bushnell; third, Mr. Webber.

Pinochle, women, first, Mrs. Ida Clifford; second, Mrs. C. Cooney; third, Mrs. Louise Manchester. Men, first, J. Clifford; second, G. Morse; third, J. M. Brown.

The committee in charge was Mrs. L. Cochrane, Mrs. Noyes, Mrs. M. Retkovske.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

Division No. 18, Ladies auxiliary, A. O. H., held its regular meeting at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening. Because of illness the president, Mrs. Sullivan, was absent and Mrs. Nellie Bissonnette presided. Mrs. Walsh reported on the whist of which she was chairman.

All members were reminded that they should be present Sunday, at 7:30 a. m., at St. Patrick's church to receive communion in a body with other branches and Auxiliary No. 54. Literature pertaining to the funeral benefit fund was read, also a communication from the National Council of Catholic women, and action is to be taken on both in the near future. A food sale is to be held shortly.

It was announced that all arrangements have been completed for the St. Patrick's night dance and all were urged to attend. The meeting came to a close in the usual manner.

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

At St. Patrick's church, Sunday, there will be a special observance of St. Patrick's day, with masses at 7:30, 9:30 and 11 a. m. and a service at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The musical programme has been arranged as follows:

Did Just What You Are Doing Now

Mr. J. W. Jones, Ashville, Ala., read of Foley Pills diuretic, just as you are doing now. "My kidneys bothered me, and I slept poorly. Had backache, headaches, too. Just wanted to keep quiet and rest. Foley Pills diuretic worked a big change in me. I am in better physical condition now than I have been for years. Others who took them on my recommendation are also well satisfied." Try them. For sale at Lee & Osgood's.

KITCHEN QUESTIONNAIRE

HOW CAN I WHIP CREAM OR THE WHITES OF EGGS QUICKER?

Add a pinch of Ivory Salt to the cream or egg whites. This speeds up the whipping process, and does not in any way affect the flavor.

For the countless other kitchen and household uses of this famous salt see the new Worcester Salt Cook Book. Write for your free copy today, addressing: Worcester Salt Company, 71 Murray Street, New York City.

PRIMO DE RIVERA, FORMER SPANISH DICTATOR, DEAD

Died Suddenly of Heart Disease In His Room At a Hotel In In Paris—His Two Daughters Found the Body When They Returned From Church — Evidently Had Been Trying to Summon His Valet, As His Hand, In Death, Was Stretched Toward An Electric Button At His Bedside.

PARIS, March 16— (AP) —Miguel Primo De Rivera y Orbaneja, Marques De Estella, Spanish grandee and for seven years dictator of Spain, lay dead tonight in the modest Latin quarter hotel where in the 1890's he spent what he always considered the happiest days of his life as a student at the Sorbonne.

The former dictator was stricken by an affection of the heart this morning and died alone in his room at 11 a. m., less than seven weeks after relinquishing the supreme power in Spain.

Death broke his voluntary and temporary exile in Paris with the rapidity of a stroke of lightning. Primo's hand was stretched forth in an effort to reach an electric button to summon his valet. His broken reading glasses lay beside him.

Perhaps the former dictator had a premonition of impending death, for as he kissed his daughters, Carmen and Pilar, early today he said, "Very well. Go attend mass. I feel much better and am going to dress, but be sure not to return too late."

Mindful of his request, the young women went to his room on returning from church and to their amazement and sorrow found him lying dead. They sent for Miguel Primo De Rivera, who in turn called the family physician, Dr. Alberto Bandelac De Pariente. After examining the body, the doctor said the former dictator had been dead for half an hour.

He died on the very eve of his departure for Wiesbaden, Germany, where he was going to take the cure for diabetes. He had wakened feeling very well and looking forward to a farewell tea his physicians had allowed him to offer a few friends at the hotel this afternoon. For some time his general condition had been improving steadily.

A priest from the Spanish mission in Paris immediately went to the hotel and said the prayers for the dead.

Tonight his body lay with serene visage encased in a cowl formerly worn by the monks of the Carmel congregation. His body was draped in a coarse woolen fabric similar to those used in ancient Spanish monasteries. In his hands was a huge rosary of black granite.

As he lay in state, with his daughters and his son kneeling in prayer, a continuous procession of notables from the military, official and political worlds of Paris filed by the narrow iron bed. Almost the entire Spanish colony passed through the room.

His features, on which could be discovered the slightest traces of a smile, and the relaxation of his body gave the impression that death had come in a sudden shock, without a tremor of pain, and that the ex-dictator's busy life had finally ended in calm.

He looked, however, ten years older than his 60 years, and several years older even than he appeared when he arrived in Paris five weeks ago carrying his suitcase himself and slipping off to his little hotel alone in a taxicab. His beard, which he had allowed to grow during the past three weeks, was shaved and his skin still appeared rosy from the barber's razor.

His body had been embalmed and will be taken to Madrid in a special car attached to the Madrid express at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

By a strange trick of destiny, he had planned to lunch at the "Cafe De Paris," near the opera, at noon today, where the Duke of Alba, Spanish foreign minister, and one of his most bitter political enemies, was lunching at a nearby table, and noticed his absence from the reserved table.

The duke then inquired about the reason for his failure to appear, and on learning of his death, immediately forgot their political quarrel and was one of the first persons to visit the body of his dead rival.

Marshal Petain of the French army, a personal friend of Primo's, who was to have been one of his guests at the farewell tea, was another early visitor. He arrived accompanied by Ambassador Quinones De Leon.

Young Miguel Primo De Rivera, son of the dead statesman, accompanied each visitor to the elevator in the little hotel. He appeared to be grief stricken, and still bore the scar of the duel he recently fought at Pampluna in defense of his father's honor.

WILL BE BURIED WITH FULL MILITARY HONORS

MADRID, March 16.—(AP)— Former Premier Primo De Rivera, who died in Paris today only seven weeks after resigning the dictatorial powers he had held for nearly seven years, will be buried with the full military honors of a Spanish captain-general who dies while in active command of troops, according to plans formulated tonight.

All Spain was shocked by his sudden death. King Alfonso received the news as he was preparing to go to the race track and immediately cancelled his engagements, expressing his sorrow. Premier Damasco Berenguer, the resigned dictator's successor, did the same.

THREE BANK ROBBERS IN CUSTODY OF WOMAN SHERIFF

JOHNSON, Kansas, March 16.—(AP)— Three bank robbers who led hundreds of possemen along a trail marked by the killing of a Colorado officer and the wounding of three others in one of the Arroya country's greatest manhunts, tonight were in the custody of a woman sheriff, facing trial on charges of bank robbery in Kansas or murder in Colorado.

Mrs. W. D. Rorick, sheriff of Stanton county, said the trio undoubtedly would be taken to Eads, Colo., to face murder charges for the slaying Friday of Deputy Sheriff Charles Hickman. Although no definite steps had been taken to secure extradition, the sheriff said she believed this would be done tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Rorick, who weighs 105 pounds, scoffed at rumors of possible mob violence from the other side of the nearby Kansas-Colorado border where the three robbers are alleged to have fled, killing the Eads deputy sheriff and wounding his companion, W. H. Mosher, and on their return to Kansas again W. D. Coe and George Hollingshead were wounded at Cheyenne Falls.

The trio, John Walker, 41, Joplin, Mo.; Andrew J. Halliday, 22, and Clyde Rhea, 24, both of Web City, Mo., were apprehended late yesterday in a shack near Jetmore, Kansas, by a posse after a 26-hour man-hunt in two states. Each of the three admitted having served prison sentences.

Guards today marched about the jail here, eight miles from the Manter, Kansas, state bank which the trio robbed Friday. They denied participation in the Colorado gun fights but admitted the $3,500 bank robbery and Walker readily confessed to participating in half a dozen Kansas and Oklahoma bank holdups, implicating his companions in some of them.

BROOKLYN BULL FIGHTER WAS GORED IN MADRID

MADRID, March 16—(AP)—Sydney Franklin, bull fighter of Brooklyn, N. Y., was gored by a bull today at his second appearance of the year in the Madrid arena. Doctors said his condition was serious.

Franklin drew a large crowd to the arena today and received a great welcome on killing his first bull. The second bull was an unusually large and fierce one, but Franklin attempted to play a few fancy tricks with it.

Franklin was not only gored and ripped by the bull's horns, but was tossed high in the air by the big black animal, an unusually vicious bull. He was given emergency treatment and taken to another hospital where he was put under anaesthetic and underwent an operation.

The doctors tonight believed he would live.

SEC'Y OF LABOR DAVIS TO ENTER RACE FOR SENATE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 16—(AP)— Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today announced his candidacy for the republican nomination as U. S. senator from Pennsylvania.

The secretary will bid for the nomination at the primaries May 20, in opposition to Joseph R. Grundy, appointed senator from Pennsylvania by Governor John S. Fisher on the senate's refusal to seat William S. Vare.

SENATE TO ENTER 28TH WEEK OF TARIFF DEBATE

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)— Continuing its eleven hour a day program, the senate will enter upon its twenty-ninth week of tariff revision tomorrow with leaders entertaining high hopes of passage of the Hawley-Smoot measure by Thursday.

The first point of difference will be tackled tomorrow with resumption of efforts to place duties on hides leathers and shoes, now on the free list, but made dutiable in the house bill. An amendment by Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, calling for higher hide rates and lower shoe levies than those of the house measure will be the hub around which the debate will revolve.

Eight attempts to modify the Oddie proposal failed last week, but this was not interpreted as a sign it would go through. On the contrary the consensus appeared to be that it meant a repetition of the action of a few months ago when all three commodities were left on the free list by a vote of 46 to 28.

Debate will be limited when it is resumed tomorrow, and a decision is expected before the session ends at 10 p. m.

BATTERED BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN PASSAGEWAY

CHICAGO, March 16—(AP)—The badly battered body of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, 59, political worker, was found in a narrow passageway behind a southside building early today. Indications were the woman had been slugged to death by an assailant wielding a heavy blunt instrument.

Preliminary investigation led police to advance robbery as the motive for the slaying. Mrs. Doyle's purse, which contained a check she received shortly before her death for services as republican judge of the Seventh Precinct poll of the second ward was missing. Her earrings and a bar pin were untouched however. Her wedding ring was found 150 feet from the body.

Police scouted the theory that a political motive was involved although the case marked the second slaying of a republican worker here within the past five days.

NEW LONDON MAN CAUGHT IN JERSEY CITY ROUND-UP

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 16.—(AP)—In a round-up today the police today arrested more than a dozen persons, among them a man giving the name of Harold Spring, New London, Conn.

The police made a thorough job of running down all persons who might in any way be connected with two recent gang killings. Detectives searched persons emerging from the tubes and coming off ferries for firearms. They met with much opposition and discovered few weapons.

The charge against Spring was not made known.

REPRESENTATIVE LEE "DEFINITELY BETTER"

WASHINGTON, March 16— (AP) — Representative Lee, Texas, who has been seriously ill at a Washington hospital for the last few days, was reported today by his physician to be "definitely better" and to have a good chance for recovery.

Set Fires In New York And Philadelphia

Alleged "Professional Firebug" Was Captured In An Isolated Cabin In the Virginia Hills.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today announced the arrest in an isolated cabin in the Virginia hills of Joe Eisenstein, 51, of Atlantic City, N. J., who, Mr. Tuttle said, is a "professional firebug" and has confessed setting at least four fires in New York and Philadelphia at the instigation of merchants.

Tuttle said the arrest, which was made yesterday, marked the breaking up of the most extensive arson ring uncovered in many years.

Eisenstein was arrested as a result of an investigation of a fire which destroyed the place of business of Louis Dachis, New York fur merchant, last July.

Eisenstein surrendered without resistance, waived extradition proceedings and was brought back to New York.

The fire in Dachis' establishment was followed by a claim for $140,000 insurance. A short time later Dachis and five of his employes were indicted on charges of conspiracy and of using the mails to defraud in presenting fraudulent claims.

Some of the defendants pleaded guilty, and furnished information about Eisenstein.

Ben Greenberg, a member of the defunct firm of Lerner & Greenberg of New York, which was alleged to have staged a $21,000 fire last July 8th with the assistance of Eisenstein, surrendered here Saturday. Federal agents said he had been in hiding in Montreal.

Mr. Tuttle said Eisenstein held a high reputation as a firebug and had devised a fuse which would burn for hours before igniting the building to be destroyed.

POLL SHOWS 71 PER CENT OF YALE STUDENTS DRINK

NEW HAVEN, March 16—The Yale Daily News survey on the extent of college drinking disclosed, it was announced today, that 1874 of the 2648 students who answered the questionnaire, or 71 per cent drink either frequently or occasionally.

Those who do not touch liquor in any form numbered 769.

There are 3129 students in Yale university, and 84.6 per cent took part in the poll, which was conducted last week. Of those who answered 2113 favor repeal of the 18th amendment and 426 believe in strict enforcement. This was a ratio of five to one on the side of repeal.

Students who drink frequently, and by frequently it is meant twice a month or more, number 852, or 46 per cent. The occasional imbibers of once a month or less total 1,000, or 54 per cent.

Whiskey seems to be favored over other beverages as 35 per cent voted for this drink. Gin was next in popularity with 24 per cent giving it its approval. Twenty per cent preferred beer and twelve per cent had a preference for wines.

M'MAHON ADDRESSED 1,000 TEXTILE WORKERS

DANVILLE, Va., March 16.—(AP)— Thomas F. McMahon of Rhode Island, president of the United Textile Workers of America, in an address before nearly 1,000 textile workers here this afternoon, asserted the formation of the union here was in accord with the principle of the American Federation of Labor, for improved wage scales and fewer working hours.

The speaker said the cotton industry "is in a bad way," and complained of price fluctuations of the commodity. He said, however, the workers were not responsible for such conditions.

THERMOMETER READ 73 IN CHICAGO YESTERDAY

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—Never before has there been a March 16 as hot as this one here. The official thermometer read 73 degrees, which was 13 points hotter than the previous record in 1882.

Ordinarily hot spots of the nation, like Phoenix, Los Angeles, Miami and New Orleans, all took their straw hats off to the Illinois metropolis today. The weather man, however, said it wouldn't be for long. Rain and cooler tomorrow, he said.

PROMOTING DRIVE TO ELIMINATE ILLITERACY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)— Secretary Wilbur today appealed in a letter to all evangelical bodies in the United States to join in the drive to eliminate illiteracy.

The secretary's letter said:

The National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy is stimulating interest in the campaigns now being carried on in 30 states to reduce adult illiteracy before the 1930 census is taken.

COUNTESS SURVIVED HER HUSBAND ONLY THREE DAYS

WORCESTER, England, March 16 —(AP)—The Countess of Coventry, widow of the ninth Earl of Coventry, died today. She survived her husband only three days.

The Earl of Coventry died at his home, Droome Court, March 13 at the age of 91. The countess was a daughter of the second Earl of Craven. They were married in 1865.

U. S. SAILORS RIOT WITH FILIPINO CIVILIANS

MANILA, March 16—(AP)—Fifty sailors of the U. S. navy and a crowd of Filipino civilians, engaged in a riot at Kittelle field here this afternoon after a baseball game. Clubs and blackjacks were wielded and stones and lead pipe were used as weapons during the melee in which five of the sailors were injured, although not seriously.

OBITUARY

Brighter Outlook For The Naval Conference

Result of Discussion Between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardeau.

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—A four-hour conference at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu gave the naval conference a new lease on life tonight.

With A. V. Alexander, British first lord of the admiralty, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and a whole crew of experts and advisers ranged beside them, the French and the British premiers negotiated to bring together the viewpoints of France, Great Britain and the other powers.

The conversation is believed to have changed the whole complexion of the conference. New avenues have been opened for bring France and Italy into a general agreement on armaments, which has already been achieved by the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

The thick gloomy clouds that have hung over the negotiations for weeks were dispelled by a breath of fresh air from France. The return of the French premier to London from Paris was generally regarded as marking a crucial point in the negotiations for a five-power agreement, and the delegates tonight believed the stalemate would be broken.

Premier Tardieu was elated on returning to London from Chequers with M. Briand.

"I am convinced we shall come to satisfactory results. The common work is going on," he declared.

Tomorrow M. Tardieu will meet Prime Minister MacDonald at 9 a. m., and Secretary of State Stimson at 9:45. At 11 he will leave for Paris, but Foreign Minister Briand, who had also planned to return, will remain in London.

Foreign Minister Briand went to the conference at Chequers today from a breakfast table talk with Ambassador Morrow. While Mr. MacDonald and M. Tardieu, and Mr. Alexander and M. Briand, were bent over their task at Chequers, Mr. Stimson anxiously awaited the result at Stanmore.

M. Tardieu and M. Briand were in high spirits on their return to London, and did not conceal their elation over the new developments when they received the newspaper men, tonight.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO HEAR WICKERSHAM AND MITCHELL

WASHINGTON, March 16.— (AP) — Just what the Hoover law enforcement commission has learned about the effectiveness of the dry law will be sought tomorrow by the senate judiciary committee from Chairman Wickersham.

Both Attorney General Mitchell and Mr. Wickersham will be before the committee to give their views on the resolutions proposing a senate investigation of the administration of the prohibition law, but they will speak behind closed doors.

It is the first time any member of the eight months old law enforcement commission has been before the senate, and there are some inquisitive senators awaiting the opportunity to question Mr. Wickersham.

Both Mitchell and Wickersham are expected to oppose the senate inquiry into dry enforcement, but it seems certain they will be asked some pertinent questions about their findings of law enforcement under the dry law.

MISSING GIRL FOUND WORKING IN RESTAURANT

CORNING, N. Y., March 16.—(AP)— Miss Gladys Mustor, 18, of Elkland, Pa., missing from home several weeks, was found working in a local restaurant last night by police. They were informed of her whereabouts by Miss Gladys Lovejoy, of Corning, who walked into police headquarters dressed as a man.

Miss Lovejoy said she and the Mustor girl had been working near Watkins Glen.

The police were almost as much interested in the girl in man's clothes. Miss Lovejoy said she had been dressing that way two years because she disliked woman's clothes and wanted to do a man's work, training horses, driving a tractor and shoveling coal.

CONGREGATION DRIVEN FROM CHURCH BY FIRE

SOUTH DARTMOUTH, Mass., March 16.—(AP)—Fire of an unknown origin forced the congregation of the South Dartmouth Congregational church, one of the oldest places of worship in this vicinity, to flee during the services this morning. Damage of approximately $20,000 was done to the building.

Three firemen were caught when the roof collapsed. All escaped injury with the exception of Bartlett M Brownell, son of Chief Clarence H Brownell. Brownell was dragged out from beneath the debris unconscious. He was revived and returned to his duties.

JAP. BEETLE MAY CAUSE STATE-WIDE QUARANTINE

NEW HAVEN, March 16.—(AP)—The possibility of a state-wide quarantine in Connecticut, because of the Japanese beetle, is expected to precipitate a heated controversy at a hearing to be held at the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, Tuesday afternoon.

Nurserymen and florists have announced their disapproval and have signified their intention of offering strenuous objections at the meeting.

Fruit and vegetable growers will be on hand, but they have not made known their positions on the question.

SALESMAN AND MECHANIC KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, March 16.—(AP) —Albert J. Edwards, 23, garage proprietor and airplane salesman, and Burl Chaney, 35, auto mechanic, were killed in a plane crash four miles north of here today.

The ship, which was owned and piloted by Edwards, went into a tailspin at an altitude of about 3,000 feet.

Both men were still living when they were taken from the wreckage. They died shortly after reaching a local hospital.

RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION IN RUSSIA DENOUNCED

Meetings of Protest and Prayers For Its Cessation Were Held In New York Sunday By Protestant, Catholic and Jewish Religious Bodies—Churches Throughout England Held Similar Services In Response to Call of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Meetings of protest against alleged religious persecution in Russia, and prayers for its cessation were held today by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious bodies.

At the same time a crowd of 14,000, including communists and others, gathered at the Bronx Coliseum to protest against criticism of soviet Russia's anti-religious policy.

While special details of police and detectives guarded St. Patrick's cathedral, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and the Free synagogue, another detail of more than 200, together with riot and bomb squads and emergency wagons, with tear gas bombs and submachine guns, stood watch over the communist gathering.

"In the service of prayer at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Bishop William T. Manning declared that, "setting aside all that may be uncertain or exaggerated, the main facts of this persecution are beyond any possible doubt or question. The statement that the cruelties inflicted are not persecutions for religion but punishments for disobeying the law of the state is a subterfuge so transparent that it should deceive no one."

Dr. William B. Millar, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, representing more than 1,100 churches, expressed sympathy for religious sufferers.

At St. Patrick's and 444 other churches in the archdiocese of New York, Catholics held prayer services.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, at the Free synagogue, said that protest should be made, not by the churches, but by the liberals of the land as a duty to minorities.

At a protest meeting of the American Jewish congress, Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, said, "I shall never vote to urge the American people through diplomatic recognition to place the stamp of their approval upon the Godless soviet government as long as she continues a relentless campaign to persecute and destroy the Christian and Jewish faiths in Russia."

At a communist meeting in the Bronx loud demonstrations greeted the arrival of William Z. Foster and Robert Minor, two of the leaders out on bail after arrest at the communist mass demonstrations on March 6.

Carl Brodsky, chairman, said, "We licked the white army. Now we will lick the black army of the imperialists. Today is a day of prayer for the holy of holies, and we want to be ready to mobilize hundreds of thousands of workers to defend sovietism."

SERVICE OF PROTEST IN CHURCHES OF ENGLAND

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Intercessory services on behalf of Christians in Russia were held in churches and chapels throughout England today in response to a call by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Preaching at St. Matthew's, the Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. A. F. W. Ingram, declared "We do well to pray for those in Russia today."

Recalling that he had received a warm welcome to Russia before the war, he exclaimed, "To think that all those bishops have been butchered, all those priests murdered."

"There is nothing political about this. This is one part of the church of Christ praying for succor and sympathy for the other."

Dr. A. Fleming at St. Colomba's church said, "Of the reality and the terrible character of the persecution to which the Christians in Russia are being subjected there can be no doubt. Persecution and war to the death on religion have been acknowledged and glorified by those who perpetrate them."

At St. Paul's cathedral, the Rev. Dr. Mannering declared Russia the storm center today of the greatest campaign against religion in history.

"This service is not so much one of protest as of prayer. We believe the Christian church will emerge from her trial, that out of this crucifixion will come her resurrection."

A slight disturbance was caused at Islington Parish church when four young men interrupted the special prayers, asserting that they were a form of war propaganda against Russia. When asked to leave they did so quietly.

Condemnation of the persecution of the Jewish religion in Russia was embodied in a resolution passed by the Jewish board of deputies. This stated that "The persecution and suppression of religious teaching in Russia are causing intense spiritual suffering for millions of pious law-abiding Jews, are undermining the foundations of family life, and are threatening Russian Judaism itself with extinction."

The British government's order prohibiting intercessory services at the compulsory military services was censured by the Rev. E. L. Macassey at St. Andrew's church, Stoke, Newington, who declared that it was the "genius of the present government to come to grief every time it touches Russian affairs."

The French premier's flat statement that he is convinced that "satisfactory results" would be achieved is the most optimistic word from the French headquarters in weeks. Whether he takes too optimistic a view of today's events remains to be seen.

ATHEIST SOCIETY OF RUSSIA PLANS PRE-EASTER ASSAULT

MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—While millions in other lands prayed today for Russia's legions of Christian faithful, the Militant Atheist Society of Russia, the League of the Godless, prepared for a more intensive assault against God and the churches during the approaching Easter period.

The Russian government itself, however, has noticeably moderated its attitude toward religion. It now discountenances the forcible closing of churches or the tearing down of church bells, without the consent of an overwhelming majority of the population and the formal sanction of the central government authorities.

Even so great an atheist as Joseph Stalin, "the strong man of Russia," has issued strict orders that any communist party worker, or village soviet official, found guilty of using violent methods in the party's fight against religion shall be severely punished.

All Moscow's churches were well attended at services today, the government having at no time attempted to prevent individuals from freely taking part in their religious rites.

Most Christians here, however, see a dark future for their faith if the government continues to carry out its present plan of forbidding the teaching of a religious faith to those under the age of 18.

DOHENY TO OPEN DEFENSE IN BRIBERY CASE TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP) — Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil operator, tomorrow will open his defense to an indictment charging that he bribed Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, to award his company a leased to Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserves.

Chief efforts of the defense are expected to be directed toward trying to prove that it was the navy department under Secretary Denby and not the interior department under Secretary Fall, which directed execution of naval oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, this contract contained a clause giving Doheny's company preference to any land in the naval oil reserve which the government decided to lease.

HOOVER HAITIAN COM. HAS SAILED FOR HOME

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 16 —(AP)—The Hoover investigating commission sailed for home aboard the U. S. S. Rochester at ten o'clock this morning, leaving an outlined plan for solving Haiti's political difficulties and for ultimately ending American occupation of the republic.

The capital was quiet as they departed, and there were no demonstrations of any kind. The hour of their departure was not generally known.

President Louis Borno today issued a brief communique praising their work.

"It was a great day for Haiti when the commission announced that the choice of a temporary president, and popular elections, had been approved by all sides."

WOMAN WAS BEATEN TO DEATH WITH HAMMER

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 16— (AP)—The body of Mrs. Pearl Voss, 30, beaten to death with a hammer, was found in a pasture near here today. She was an employe of a Fort Worth rooming house.

Police believed the woman had been taken to the pasture and killed after a struggle. Her hat was found near the highway.

One severe blow had been struck on the back of the head, apparently with the claw end of a hammer. Several other blows were struck, beating in the front and top of the skull.

Officers found two small diamond rings and a gold wrist watch on the body. The watch had stopped at 10:30 o'clock.

THREE VICTIMS OF POISON ALCOHOL IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, March 16—(AP)— Three persons, one a woman, believed to be victims of poison alcohol, were in a serious condition in a hospital, here tonight. Two may die.

Sophia Cowles, 44, and Peter Dueff, 64, were taken violently ill in their homes yesterday and rushed to the hospital. An unidentified man was found on a street here today, suffering from a fractured skull which he is believed to have received when he became ill from drinking denatured alcohol and fell to the sidewalk. The woman's condition was also critical.

The police vice squad tonight was investigating each case in an effort to trace the source of the liquor.

KILLED WHEN CIRCULAR CAW CAUGHT IN SWEATER

WATERBURY, March 16.— (AP) — Modesto Pirro, 64, was instantly killed today when a circular power saw caught his sweater and pulled his body over it at the rear of his home.

Pirro, with his son, Anthony, were cutting railroad ties with a home-made sawing outfit, powered with a Ford motor housed in a shed. The saw mandrel was in the yard. Peter Moscufio, a neighbor, had to run into the shed to shut off the engine. The elderly man's body was nearly severed just below the chest and the left arm was severed at the shoulder.

He is survived by his widow, six sons and one daughter.

ANOTHER UNDERWORLD KILLING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP) — The Chicago river yielded another corpse and another underworld mystery today.

Shot through the head and bound with baling wire, the body of John Rito was found floating in the north branch and taken to the county morgue to reveal a story of torture and slaying—gangland's answer to a "wrong guy." Early investigation indicated the victim was either a bootleg ring collector or a bookmaker.

FIVE PERSONS REPORTED INJURED IN EXPLOSION

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 16.—(AP) —Five persons were reported injured in an explosion in a vacant apartment building at 3829 Cedar avenue in the eastern section of the city tonight.

The building was badly damaged and a large hole was torn in the wall of the Telling Belle-Vernon Milk company plant next door.

A mang was dug out of the debris, his condition was reported serious. The cause of the blast is unknown.

GIRL INJURED WHEN BICYCLE RUNS WILD AND CRASHES TREE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 16—Losing control of her bicycle when the brake failed to catch while descending the steep grade on Prospect street, shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon, Cecile Phaneuf, 14, daughter of Mrs. Rose Phaneuf of 34 Park street, flashed across Jackson street at dizzy speed and crashed headlong into a large tree in front of the home of Mrs. James Tighe. The girl collapsed in the wreckage of the bicycle and was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where Dr. J. A. Girouard found her suffering from a severe fracture of the left wrist, double dislocation of the index finger of the right hand, lacerations on both legs and contusions on the right side of the face near the eye. There was no evidence of internal injuries at the time but X-ray pictures were being made tonight by Dr. K. K. Kinney to determine possible further injuries.

In the mad dash of the bicycle out of Prospect and across Jackson street, the girl narrowly escaped being struck by an automobile. The driver of this car, whose name has not yet been secured and George Timmins of this city, took the young girl to the hospital. The girl had been riding during the afternoon with Miss Noreen Haggerty of this city. The girls, who are freshmen at Windham high school, had secured the loan of bicycles from North Windham youths, the one manned by Miss Phaneuf being the property of Baron Von Brae of that place. As they started the descent of the Prospect street grade the Phaneuf girl cried out in alarm that she could not get the brake to catch. While advising her companion to work the brake gradually, Miss Haggerty attempted to cut into the path of the other "bike" but was unsuccessful and the vehicle bearing Miss Phaneuf went speeding down the incline, the girl apparently fearing to ditch the bicycle because of the speed at which it was traveling. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Leo Piche.

The application for the release of Miss Isabelle Doucette, 18, from the Home of the Good Shepherd at Hartford, to which she was committed by the police court January 22, 1928, for incorrigibility, was heard by Police Court Judge Frank H. Foss Saturday morning. On recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, who stated that the authorities at the Hartford institution were opposed to the girl's release at this time, no action was taken upon the application.

The request for the release of the girl was made by her family, now residing in Waterbury and said to be in financial straits. The girl was committed from here on complaint of her father who said that she would not obey him and persisted in staying out late nights. She had been paroled from the institution for over seven months on an illegal order, which the home officials believed had been issued by the local police court. Later the girl was returned to the Hartford home. Her conduct there has been commendable but an investigation disclosed that home conditions were not favorable to her welfare. Miss Doucette took the witness stand at the hearing and said that she would like to be released so that she might join her family in Waterbury.

William E. McNesser of Southington and Joseph Dalton of Hampton were arraigned in the Columbia town court Saturday afternoon on charges of operating cars without a license. Both pleaded guilty and each was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $15.18. The cases were heard by Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch with Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke prosecuting. The arrests were the result of a campaign being conducted in this locality by the state police department.

OBITUARY

Christopher C. Case

Christopher C. Case, 54, who died suddenly of a heart ailment in Taunton, Mass., Friday afternoon, was a son of Fred L. and Katherine Sumner Case. He was stricken while seated in his automobile with Mrs. Case. Besides his wife, his son and daughter, he leaves one sister, Mrs. Albert N. Colgrove of Waterbury. His daughter, Miss Elizabeth Case was married to Dudley Wall Smith of Honolulu March 1, the couple arriving in Hawaii to reside during the past week. The deceased had made reservations for a vacation in Atlantic City, N. J.

Mr. Case had resided in this city since 1902 and has established wide and important connections throughout the community. He was chairman of the board of trustees of the First Congregational church and member of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association as well as chairman of the membership committee of that organization. He was a member of the chamber of commerce and past president of the Exchange club. Politically he was a republican and he had been a member of the town school committee for about 17 years, also having served as alderman from the first ward in the city government for one term.

Mr. Case became associated with his father in the paper manufacturing business at an early age. A plant was operated in Chaplin under the name of the Bosson Paper company. This building was destroyed by fire and later the business was transferred to Hop River, town of Columbia. This plant was also destroyed by fire. At the time of his death the deceased was president and general manager of the Case Fibre company of Andover. He had been affiliated with the Andover business for some 15 years.

General plans for a four class-room school building have been approved by the Mansfield town school committee and a sub-committee composed of Chairman T. Arthur Barrows, Secretary W. F. Kirkpatrick and Henry T. Covell will meet with the special building committee of the town to advocate this type of structure. Consideration had been given a six-room building with an auditorium but taxpayers residing in outlying districts of the town opposed this because of the apparent high cost.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Adeline Locrasto

Leaving from the home, 80 Lebanon avenue, the funeral of Mrs. Adeline Locrasto was held Saturday morning with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Michael J. Thompson was the celebrant and Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance presided at the organ. Miss L. Monica McKean was heard in effective solos. Burial was in the Locrasto plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Thompson conducted a committal service and a ritual in Italian was read by Peter Domiani. The bearers were, Tony Cascio, Joseph Piscitello, Peter Ferrigno, Arthur Bazinet, Tony Ferrigno and Guy Antelli. Arrangements were by The Hurteau Corp.

Despite the lack of a regular scout-master, good progress is being made in the work of the Boy Scout troop of St. Paul's Episcopal church with Rev. F. C. Williams as acting instructor. Three patrols the Tigers, Flying Eagles and Bears have been formed and drilled by Carter P. William.

One bell and two telephone alarms were received by Engine company No. 1 Saturday. About 3 o'clock in the morning the night platoon in charge of Deputy Chief Michael J. English was called out by an alarm from Box 14, for a fire in a small frame building owned by Mrs. Emma Mastin and confined to one room. The damage was estimated at several hundred dollars, partially covered by insurance. A line of hose 350 feet long was laid to fight the fire.

The day platoon of company No. 1, under Lieutenant Amos E. Barber was called to 230 South Park street at 9:20 o'clock Saturday forenoon for a grass fire on property of Charles Edwards. The forestry pump and brooms were used.

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon the fire department received a call for another grass fire in the rear of 242 Windham road. The firemen were engaged some 20 minutes in extinguishing this blaze.

The case of Samuel Weingrad of Pine street, Columbia, charged with violation of the liquor laws following a raid on his place, was continued Saturday by Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, until next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Weingrad was released under bonds of $200.

In honor of her seventeenth birth-day, Miss Helen Morrison of 337 High street, was tendered a surprise party Friday evening. Present were the Misses Pauline Nolan, Alma Dube, Beatrice Andrews, Helen, Marion and Dorothy Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marquardt and three sons, Earl, John and Edward Marquardt of Meriden, Leonard Vertefeuille, Walter Wojick, Clarence Lemieux and William Klapik.

State Commander James Haggerty of the Grand Army of the Republic stated today that there was no possibility of postponing the date of the annual state encampment to be held in this city from the first week in May until the week of June 15, as suggested by the general committee in charge of Community week to be held on the latter date. Commander Haggerty indicated that many had long since made definite plans to attend the convention in May and a change in date would probably mean a considerable loss in attendance. In addition to the veterans, daughters and sons of veterans are expected to attend in numbers. The veterans of whom an attendance of from 45 to 50 is expected, will be entertained at banquets by the Rotary and Exchange clubs and will be furnished sight-seeing automobiles by the Lions club. The chamber of commerce will co-operate with other organizations in making the encampment a success.

Frank Morin, 40, arrested here last week on behalf of the Berlin, N. H., police on a charge of desertion of his family, was turned over to Berlin officers early this morning. The officers were traveling by automobile.

COLCHESTER

TWENTY MEN FIGHT FIRE WHICH SWEEPS 500 ACRES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

COLCHESTER, March 16.—An Associated Press dispatch from Colchester in Saturday's Bulletin was considerably exaggerated when it stated that a force of over 100 men was needed to fight the forest fire in the Mill Hill section of the town, Friday evening. According to a statement made today by District Fire Warden John M. Riley, about 20 men worked throughout the evening fighting the fire which burned over about 500 acres of brush land. It is understood the blaze started about 10 o'clock Friday morning in the brush pastures near the north side of Mill Hill, and worked its way steadily southeastward. Warden Riley was not notified of the fire until after 6 o'clock that evening and due to the start the fire had gained the volunteers were obliged to work frantically. A heavy wind swept the fire through the underbrush so rapidly that many of the large trees were not damaged.

Being afraid that the flames might spread to a farm house about a quarter of a mile distant, Warden Riley telephoned to Lebanon for the state pumper which is equipped especially for fighting forest fires. When the apparatus arrived, a line of hose was laid several hundred feet from Elgart's pond to the burning brushland. Meantime the volunteers had been busy with hand pumps, brooms and sticks, beating out the spreading flames. The fire fighters first set out to extinguish the blaze at points where it was apt to jump the back-roads and spread to more thickly wooded sections. Then their attention was turned to putting out the fire in sections where there was not as much danger of damage from the spread of the flames.

District Warden Riley was ably assisted in directing the fire fighting operations by Deputy Warden Marshall Dean. The men stayed on the hill until the early hours of Saturday to make sure of no fresh outbreak. Early in the evening the flames were burning in a circle around the big hill. Many motorists on the Hartford turnpike stopped to witness the blazing hillside which was a striking spectacle.

The tract burned over has been the location of brush fires several different times in past few years. In 1924, the section was the site of more serious fires when nearly a thousand acres of woodland, including cordwood and underbrush was destroyed.

District Fire Warden Riley states that many of these fires are the result of poor judgment exercised by farmers in the outlying sections who are apt to build a small brush fire on a windy, dry day, the blaze frequently getting beyond control so that the state fire wardens have to be called. The warden is of the opinion that the Friday night fire will mean an expense to the state of about $150, covering compensation to the volunteer workers.

Fire Without Permit.

Stanley Schmiel, of the Unionville section of the town was brought before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown and Grand Juror and District Fire Warden J. M. Riley in a session of local justice court held Saturday evening. He pleaded guilty to the charge of building a brush fire on his land, Saturday, without a permit from the fire warden. As the accused claimed ignorance of the law, it being the first offense, Judge Brown was lenient and imposed a fine of one dollar and costs. Deputy Fire Warden Elmer H. Foote made the arrest.

Permits Revoked.

Warden Riley states that in view of the present dry weather and poor judgment exercised by farmers in building fires on windy days, he has now revoked all permits issued by him during the past few weeks.

For the information of people in the outlying sections who may happen to discover forest fires during the coming weeks, the men assisting Warden Riley in the Colchester district are Deputy Wardens Elmer H. Foote, Marshall Dean, J. Hollis Pease and C. A. and E. F. Kramer.

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Louis Mintz.

Mrs. Anna Mintz, widow of Louis Mintz, died Friday after a lengthy illness. She is survived by three sons, Benjamin, Solomon and Samuel, of Colchester, and a daughter, Mrs. Rose Kemmler of Hartford. Her husband died several months ago. Funeral services were held here Sunday afternoon with burial in the Jewish cemetery on the old Middletown turnpike. A large gathering of relatives and friends was in attendance.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

Tourtellotte basketball team defeated the Woodstock academy quintet in the school gymnasium Friday night 24-18, in an overtime period. At the end of the first quarter the score was 9-1 in Woodstock's favor. Tourtellotte, star player of the Woodstock academy team, scored two baskets while Wetherell, his teammate, made two baskets and a foul shot. At the beginning of the second quartet Coach Colby, of Tourtellotte, put in his first team men and the play was entirely reversed. At the end of the half the score was 13-11, Woodstock being on the long end. The third quarter of the game was a see-saw affair, the ball being brought from one basket to the other without much effect. The fourth quarter was a little more exciting. Tourtellotte came from behind in the last minute of play to tie the score, 17-17. In the overtime period O'Brien made three points while Lehtinen and Demetry accounted for the two other baskets. Woodstock scored but one point in the overtime period. Summary: Tourtellotte—Eddy, rg; Seney, rg; Tefft, lg; Demetry, lg; Chubbuck, c; Morse, c; Lehtinen, c; Johnson, rf; Blanchette, rf; Sherry, lf; O'Brien, lf. Woodstock academy— French, rg; Morse, lg; Gifford, lg; Childs, c; Wetherell, lf; Tourtellotte, rf. Referee, Ryan, Storrs. Scorers Demeter, Tourtellotte; Wetherell, Woodstock. Timers, Conlon, Tourtellotte; Wetherell, Woodstock.

The Tourtellotte girls' team defeated the Woodstock girls in the preliminary game 31-26. Eurania Perkins starred for the local team by scoring 11 points. Sara Rhodes came next with 16 points to her credit. Summary: Tourtellotte — Perkins, lf; Johnson, rf; Rhodes, c; Canty, rg; Corttiss, lg; Dartt, cg. Woodstock — Childs, lf; Cady, rf; Foskett, c; Johnson, rg; Hibbard, lg; Johnson, A., cg.

MOOSUP

The Plainfield volley ball team took a terrible beating at the hands of the Moosup boys Friday evening, losing 4 out of 5 games. Judge Bernier was imported from Danielson to reinforce the Plainfield team. Captain Fournier of the Moosup team was in splendid condition and played a whale of a game thereby encouraging the rest of his teammates who gave him brilliant support. The Moosup boys were in fine condition and gave one of the finest exhibition of volley ball ever witnessed on the Plainfield floor. All credit for good playing is due to Lamothe. Had Lamothe been out of this game it is doubtful if Plainfield would have scored at all; as for the Moosup boys Labonte certainly can roll the old volley ball as he proved it Friday night; as for MacKenzie there is no more doubt as to his return to the bush league. Chartier might have played a better game than he did but attributes his poor playing to the fact that Robitaille was so fast that he was always in his way.

The Moosup boys give a good deal of credit to their trainer, James Moor, who has constantly kept them in the pink of condition. A little dispute over the number of games played caused the playing of an extra game.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Alexander Bonnin

Mrs. Alexander Bonnin passed away Friday morning at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, having undergone an operation the previous Saturday. The family was called at four a. m., but arrived too late. They had spent the previous eevning with Mrs. Alexander. She was born in Trois Rivieres, Quebec, and at the age of thirteen came to the states. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Poisson. Thirty years ago she was married to Alexander Bonnin, living in Taftville, Jewett City and for the larger part of her life in Moosup. There are eight children, Raymond, of Charlottsville, Va., Henry, at present in St. Joseph's hospital; Dolores, Charlottsville; Dolor, at home; Irene, a student nurse in the New York Post-Graduate hospital; Lucien, Therese and Leonie at home. Mrs. Bonnin has been a devout member of All Hallows' church, of Saint Anne's society and of the Society of St. Jean Baptiste. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Alphonse Baril, of Baltic, and Sister Francis Therese, of Sudbury, Canada, also four brothers, Joe Poisson, Stafford Springs; David, of Pawtucket; Albert, Lowell, Mass., and Lewis Fish, of Boston. The two sons, Raymond and Dolor were sent for Wednesday.

MYSTIC

Williams Woman's Relief corps held a whist in G. A. R. hall, Friday evening, with 14 tables of straight and bridge whist in play. First prizes in straight were won by Mrs. William Soresen, of Old Mystic, and Moses Wilcox. Consolations went to Violet Meyer and Carl LeBlanc. High scores in bridge were made by Isadore Fiedler and Mrs. William Bendett. Second prizes went to T. A. Henderson, of Westerly, and Miss Beatrice Packer. The refreshment committee, Mrs. George Barden, chairman, Mrs. Henry Inderfurth and Mrs. Walter Swan served sandwiches and coffee.

When the World Wide Guild of the Union Baptist church met in the vestry Friday evening, following the business session, a social time was enjoyed. Those attending were Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt, Mrs. Harriet Neff, Misses Winifred Wheeler, Gladys Crandall, Ella Ladd, Marian Holt, Elizabeth Staplins, Beryl McDonald and Bertha Anderson.

At the annual fire district meeting March 31, the question of having the fire district collect the garbage around the village, and an additional tax to cover the expense of doing so, will be the questions to be discussed. In this, as in most everything else, there will be many persons, having to pay the tax, who will get no benefit from it, as these same people have hens, dogs, cats, etc., or garbage so little garbage that they burn it.

In Friday evening's play in the fourth annual bridge elimination contest held in the Mystic Hook and Ladder rooms, on Gravel street, the last surviving Mystic team was defeated. They, Burrows and McGregor with Jayne and Phillips, were, however, presented prizes for staying in the tournament so long. The two tables and the scores were: Table 1, McLaren and Hyde, of Westerly and Stonington, respectively, 2548 and Burrows and McGregor of Mystic, 2292, margin 256. Table 2, Dexter and Finch, of Poquonoc Bridge, 2426, and Jayne and Phillips, of New London, 1300, margin 1126. There was a very large crowd of spectators present.

Mrs. L. E. Tift and daughter Dolo-res, and Mrs. E. W. Holmes, of Old Mystic, were in Westerly, Friday afternoon. Dolores Tift, who underwent an operation on her throat, a week ago, is improving rapidly.

Bernard Lamb and family are to move from Mrs. Gertrude Smith's house on High street, to the Holdredge house, on the New London road.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Clift are confined to their West Mystic avenue home, ill with grip colds.

George E. Tingley has returned to his home in the village, after a three weeks' trip to the Virgin Islands. He made the trip with Odell D. Tompkins of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a summer resident in the village.

Miss Margaret Smith, of Norwich, is visiting at the home of Daniel Whipple.

A delegation from Mystic encamp-ment, I. O. O. F., went to Norwich during the week and attended a district meeting. Friday evening, they held their meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, and at this time the patriarchal degree was conferred upon a class. Saturday afternoon a large delegation went to South Manchester by bus, chartered from the G. & S. Traction Co., and attended a district meeting of several encampments. Members of Canton Aram went in uniform, in order to participate in the parade which preceded the meeting. During the meeting a degree team from Worcester conferred all three degrees upon a class of over 100 candidates. This was very impressive.

The bus, which was so badly dam-aged in the three-car accident several weeks ago, near Trail's Corners, Groton, and which was sent back to the factory at Kent, Ohio, to be repaired, overhauled and repainted, has been brought back to Mystic by Louis Ravenelle and his brother, Leo. Melvin Gilleney, the driver of this bus, who was injured so badly that his life was despaired of for some time, is still a patient in the Lawrence Memorial hospital, in New London. His leg, which was broken in several places, is in a cast, with a 90 pound weight on it. He is in great pain.

ARREST OF DRUNKEN DRIVER LEADS TO LIQUOR RAID

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 16.—The arrest of James Sweeney of Dudley, Mass., near Attawaugan about one o'clock this morning by State Officer Royal Scranton, because Sweeney was operating a car while intoxicated led to a liquor raid this afternoon at the home of Joseph Mrzur, who lives on the upper end of Maple street near Dayville. State officers seized a small quantity of liquor and Mrzur was arrested charged with selling and keeping with intent to sell and tonight was being held at the barracks in default of bail of $200. Sweeney was held in the same amount. Both cases will come up in the Killingly town court Monday morning.

John Krous, 19, of South Douglass, Mass., was also arrested by a state officer this afternoon for operating a car while intoxicated. He was held in default of bonds of $200. John Zels of Putnam, riding with Krous, was held in bonds of $25, charged with being intoxicated and Raymond Beauregard of South Douglass, another passenger in the car, was held for breach of the peace in default of $25 bail.

STATE POLICE ARREST TWO BOYS WITH STOLEN CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 16.—Detectives Pasquale Raffa and Raymond Egan of New Haven left the state police barracks here tonight with two 17 year old boys in their custody, and also with a stolen car which was recovered last night by State Officers Carmody and Martin of the Danielson barracks. The boys charged with having stolen the machine are Edward Brehm of South Ozone court, Queens, N. Y., and Gerad Coop, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The machine was stolen in New Haven yesterday and is the property of George Kebabian of 682 Prospect street, New Haven.

Allen Moffitt, a special deputy sheriff of Wauregan, had his attention attracted to the car last night after the boys, who are alleged to have stolen it, had driven it into a private driveway off the state highway between Moosup and Sterling, apparently to sleep in the car for the night. When the state officers arrived there the boys denied knowing anything about the ownership of the car and said they had gotten into it to spend the night. The ignition key was missing, but a search of the boys revealed that it was hidden in the lining of Brehm's cap. The boys will be arraigned in New Haven Monday morning, charged with theft.

C. D. ARNOLD FOUND DEAD IN BATHROOM AT HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, March 16.—Cortland D. Arnold, well known Putnam business man, was found dead in the bathroom of his home on South Main street late this afternoon, apparently a victim of suicide, caused by gas asphyxiation. The cause of death was announced by Dr. F. A. Morrell, medical examiner, who viewed the body and gave permission for its removal to a local undertaking parlor.

Mr. Arnold appeared to be in good health when last seen early this afternoon and no motive for his action could be given tonight. The body was discovered by his wife, Mrs. Edith Arnold, at about 5.15 o'clock. Mr. Arnold had been shaving and toilet articles were on the wash-basin and he was lying on the floor. It is believed that he had been dead about an hour. The room was filled with gas fumes which were escaping from an open jet.

Mrs. Arnold called Dr. Morrell, who examined the body and declared death due to suicidal gas asphyxiation.

Mr. Arnold was born in Woodstock 53 years ago, the son of Calvin and Elizabeth Allen Arnold. His mother died when he was a child and he made his home with Henry Penniman, a Putnam fish merchant, whose business Mr. Arnold later took over. For about 20 years Mr. Arnold conducted the market on Front street but in recent years has been proprietor of Arnold's Sea Grill. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edith Leavitt Arnold, a son, Harold, and a daughter, Mrs. Anna McCabe Smith, of Ohio. Mr. Arnold was a member of Quinebaug lodge, A. F. and A. M., Putnam lodge of Elks, B. P. O. E., and the Masonic club.

BOY FALLS FROM COUCH BREAKING LEFT LEG

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 16.—Painful injuries were sustained by George Gincarelli, while at play with other children in the family, when he fell from a couch in the kitchen. The 4-year-old son of William Gincarelli, of 88 Oak street, fell on the floor in such a manner as to cramp his left leg and fracture the bone. Dr. M. H. Scanlon found that the leg was broken between the hip and knee. The child was removed to the Westerly hospital where the fracture was reduced.

A special meeting of the members of Westerly town council will be held today (Monday). Council President Horace E. Burdick has returned from a visit of several weeks to Florida and Councilman Joseph Fraser has returned from a honeymoon trip to Washington, D. C.

Some few days ago the council weeded out the list of taxpayers to leave those eligible for jury duty and now those who are to hold themselves in readiness for a year's service are to be selected from the first list.

PAWCATUCK YOUNG WOMAN ACCUSES STONINGTON MAN

Officer George L. Seidel of Pawcatuck, Saturday placed under arrest Elton W. Powers of Stonington on a warrant charging a statutory offense against a Pawcatuck young woman. The case will be heard before Judge William A. Wilcox in a regular session of Stonington town court Tuesday morning. Powers was released in $500 bonds following his arrest, Maurice Powers furnishing the bail.

GROTON STATE POLICE TRAP 51 OPERATORS

In two and a half hours' work in Pawcatuck Saturday afternoon, Connecticut state police officers from Groton barracks found 51 operators of automobiles who were not complying with Connecticut state laws relative to automobiles. Members of the state police were stationed on West Broad street between the Pawcatuck river bridge and the railroad bridge and stopped all cars passing. The men were directly in front of the office of Judge William A. Wilcox, and as rapidly as a driver was found to be operating his car in violation of the law, he was invited upstairs to the judge's office where he was requested to appear in Stonington town court Tuesday morning.

31 Out Of State

Thirty-one of the violators were drivers of New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island cars and each gave either cash or real estate bonds for his appearance in court. Twenty of the violators were Connecticut drivers and were given court summonses. Among those stopped was a man said to be a notorious bootlegger of New London who has served a sentence. He was found driving with a 1929 driver's license. He furnished $50 bond for his appearance Tuesday. Many of the drivers summoned were operators of trucks which did not display rear end reflectors as required by law. Other cases involved defective equipment and operating cars without licenses.

The check-up was made in connection with a state wide campaign conducted by Robert P. Hurley, superintendent of the Connecticut state police department.

Town Councilman Joseph Fraser and bride returned to Westerly Saturday night after a honeymoon motor trip to Washington.

Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, and his wife have returned to their Westerly home from a several weeks' motor trip south.

Col. Arthur N. Nash and wife have returned from a week end motor trip to Boston and a short visit with Mrs. Nash's brother on Commonwealth avenue, who is convalescing following several weeks hospital treatment and a surgical operation.

Miss Elizabeth L. Bonner was a soprano soloist Sunday at the Central Congregational church, Providence.

Charles E. Redford from New London was a visitor Sunday with Westerly friends.

Judge Oliver H. Williams was in Westerly Sunday on a motor trip to Bristol.

Miss Hilda K. Young returned Sunday night to Hartford.

Charles Ruisi was a motor visitor in Warren, Sunday.

William Mitchell was in Boston the past week.

Fred S. Binns, of White Rock, re-turning from a several weeks business visit in England, is due to arrive in America when his boat is scheduled to dock in New York today, (Monday).

Thomas P. Nichols and family were motor visitors in Providence Saturday.

L. Ward Alger, oldest letter carrier at Westerly post office, took a force of mail handlers from the Westerly post office Saturday night to Pawtucket, R. I., where they attended a meeting of the R. I. Letter Carriers' association.

Mrs. Gretchen Hiscox, wife of Raymond H. Hiscox, has returned to Westerly after several weeks' visit at Del Ray, Fla., having received a heavy coat of tan from exposure to the southern sun.

A west-bound freight train on the New Haven railroad Saturday night was made up of 168 cars.

Robert Brundrett returned Sunday after visiting with Providence friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Green have returned to their home in Newport, after visiting Westerly and Pawcatuck relatives.

Mrs. J. Watson, of Willimantic, and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Simmons and daughter of New London, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Briscoe.

DANIELSON

TRUCK SLIPS OFF EMBANKMENT AT P.-A. PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 16. — Armand Trahan, resident of the White Row, figured in what might be rated a circus stunt Saturday morning about 10:30. Operating a ton Chevrolet truck, one of the fleet owned by Powtrell and Alexander, he dropped backwards with the machine off an embankment in the yard of the Main street plant, a distance of about 20 feet, into the rocky river bed just north of the bridge over the Assawaga river in Main street, near the filling station of the Gulf Refining company.

Trahan emerged a bit pale and considerably shaken, but unhurt, from the cab of the machine, and was among those who later labored to right the heavy vehicle and get it into position to be hauled out of the course of the river and up another bank on the east side of the stream and back into Water street.

The truck that Trahan was operating was an old one, just about to be traded in for another machine, it was stated after the accident, which drew a large number of spectators. He was turning it about in the mill yard, backing, when the rear wheels went over the edge of the embankment. Trahan used every bit of skill of which he is possessed in operating cars to hold it in check, but the brakes were inadequate to stand the unusual test of holding the machine on an almost perpendicular incline and it gradually slid down the dirt embankment and then off the wall and into the river bed. It so happened that the river at that point was practically dry, water in the stream being diverted by a dam about 100 feet above into a canal. The truck struck the rocky bottom of the stream with a terrific crash, and surprised indeed were those who were eye-witnesses of the accident to see Trahan crawl out of the truck, escaping without a scratch. The accident was one of the most unusual that has happened here in years.

Saturday, the fire department did considerable running around. Morning and afternoon alarms had them hopping out. It so happened that the fires did not amount to much. In the morning they chased out because a gas pipe, leaking, ignited woodwork at the shop of the Danielson Plumbing and Heating company in Center street. Some woodwork was set ablaze, but the fire was extinguished before the alarm had stopped sounding. At the same time a grass fire started sweeping over territory in the rear of what old-timers here know as the Olive Branch building, near the Main street crossing. This fire was put out by men that happened to be about. The services of the fire department were not required. During the afternoon the fire department again came out on an alarm for a fire in a rubbish dump north of Hutchins street. Again there was no damage.

Monday, March 17, bids are to be opened for the contract of constructing approximately three miles of concrete state highway between Danielson and Wauregan. At this time this appears to be the most important state highway product planned for this section this year. When the work is completed in the late summer or early fall there will be a splendid road the greater part of the way between Danielson and Wauregan. The contract is incident to the plans of the state highway department, announced several years ago, to eventually have an all-concrete trunk line from Putnam, via Danielson, Jewett City, Norwich and New London to New Haven. Many miles of the road are already built.

This afternoon members of units of the Girls' Friendly society from the territory of the New London Archdeaconry of the Episcopal church were entertained by the members of the society in St. Alban's parish.

By order of C. L. Johnson, commissioner of domestic animals, all dogs in the town of Plainfield and Sterling are to be quarantined for an indefinite period from next Thursday at noon. This order issues because of a rabid dog having roamed through sections of these towns the past week, biting a number of dogs, and possibly biting others relative to which there is no definite information.

Danielson's sidewalk building plan will be resumed within a few weeks. In addition to the fund of $15,000 that the borough had available for the work when it was started last year, an appropriation of $1500 has been made by the town to pay its share of the curbing installation cost. It has been explained by Warden Harry E. Back that the town shares equally with the borough in the cost of installing sidewalk curbing, and in cases where walks are being built along trunk line highways the state also takes a share of the cost. Most of the curbing put in and to be put in by the borough in building sidewalks is of concrete. The cost of the sidewalks is shared equally between the town and the abutting property owners.

So many rumors are current about what different groups purpose to do to control the annual borough caucus next Tuesday evening that it would appear to behoove the average citizen to be on hand at the Orpheum theatre and see what it is all about.

Miss Gertrude Reynolds, student at the college of Mt. St. Vincent-on-the-Hudson, was with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reynolds, of North Main street, over the week end.

Turning frigid, March produced a temperature of 18 degrees above Saturday morning and 22 above zero this morning.

George A. Morrison, of Springfield, was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

Signs warning against carelessness that may cause forest fires have been put in place along dirt roads and brooks throughout outlying sections of the town.

Observance of St. Patrick's day in Danielson will consist of a few social events that will include musical and other entertainment.

Alfred Dragon, Railroad street, run over by a car a week ago when he roller-skated off a sidewalk near the Westfield Congregational church into Main street, has fully recovered from the minor injuries he received.

Miss Marion Belleville, of New Bedford, was a week end visitor with friends in Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, South Killingly, married 57 years, enjoy the distinction of being numbered among the very few couples of this town who have been married over 55 years.

PUTNAM

SIMPLE SERVICES AT FUNERAL OF A. S. HARDY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 16—The funeral of Arthur Sherburn Hardy, widely known soldier, professor, author and diplomat, was held privately this afternoon at three o'clock at the Hardy mansion on Woodstock Hill. Mr. Hardy succombed to a heart attack Friday morning which followed an illness of many months.

Only immediate family members were present at the service at which Rev. F. H. Bigelow, headmaster of the Rectory school in Pomfret and former rector of the Christ church, Pomfret officiated.

The ceremony was marked with simplicity in accordance with the wish of Mr. Hardy, who lived a simple life. Floral tributes appeared in profusion and were beautiful. Many of the pieces were tokens of sympathy sent by high officials of state and nation, who were associated with Mr. Hardy during his years of service in the diplomatic corps.

The burial took place in the Hardy plot in the little cemetery on Woodstock hill. A committal service at the grave was conducted by Rev. Mr. Bigelow.

A decision handed down by Judge Christopher L. Avery in superior court, in New London Friday, in the hearing in the case of Mrs. Daisey P. Bosworth vs. Burton L. Bosworth of East Woodstock, effected a temporary settlement when custody of Robert L. Bosworth, minor son of the estranged couple was awarded temporarily to Mrs. Bosworth. Judge Avery ruled that the father of the child shall be permitted to visit his son at any time reasonable and that the mother shall not interfere. Judge Avery also granted that Bosworth may at any time reasonable, take his son to his home in East Woodstock.

A general alarm from box 25, at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon was for a brush fire that raged over a tract of land off North School street in the rear of the home of Mrs. Anna C. Jarvis. The flames fanned by a brisk south wind gained considerable headway before the firemen were called and the battle was a stubborn one, the fire being put out only after a thousand feet of hose lines had been laid.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Evelina Dumas

A death in Hartford Saturday morning was that of Mrs. Evelina Dumas, who died following a prolonged illness at her home at 168 Putnam street. She was in her 67th year. Mrs. Dumas was a former resident of Putnam and was well known to the older French-Canadian residents of the city. She was a native of Canada and lived in Hartford for about 20 years. Besides her husband, Joseph Dumas, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Paul St. Martin and Mrs. Joseph Picard of Hartford and one son Alfred Dumas of this city, a sister Mrs. Valearie Laparle of Canada and two grand-children.

Lieutenant Ross V. Urquhart, commandant at the state police barracks at Danielson, said this afternoon that no action against Leo Labby, of Taftville, driver of the Cadillac sedan involved in an accident on the night of February 14, at Lisbon, in which Raymond Bernard, 16, of North Grosvenordale, passenger in a truck which collided with the Taftville car was killed, will be taken until after the inquest of Coroner Edward G. JEWETT CITY

BIG PUMPER SAVES PROPERTY AT F. C. WHITING FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, March 16.—Saturday afternoon engine No. 1, the fire company's big new pumper, paid for itself in saving the barn, greenhouses, big chicken coops and brooders, owned by F. C. Whiting, a half mile north of the borough line, on the East Main stret extension. On the Whiting property and adjoining lots, an area of more than 50 acres was burned over by a bad grass and brush fire. The blaze started off to the west of the place where the most damage was threatened and, driven by a stiff gale, the flames roared across the lots, as they skirted the south edge of the big cedar swamp. Mr. Whiting, seeing that his buildings were in direct line of the oncoming flames, telephoned for help from the borough. When the firemen arrived the need for assistance was seen to be urgent. After fruitless efforts to stay the flames with the chemical streams and the booster tank, the big pumper proved its value in such emergencies. Pulling up to the ice house cove, two lengths of six-inch feed pipe were dropped into the Dorrville pond, then the men laid 1,000 feet of hose. Engineer Theodore Boule unlimbered the drive connection and threw in the gears for pumping. The big machine operated perfectly, and close to one-fifth of a mile away the powerful streams saved several thousands of dollars' worth of property from certain destruction. While the buildings were occupying the attention of the firemen, it was necessary to wet the hose, as in several places the fire burned up to and over the line. Miss Margaret Jorden, on duty at the local telephone exchange, realizing that the requests for help were urgent, performed very efficient service in relaying the calls for aid. The residents all along Crooked hill, both men and women, fought the flames on the north side of the blazing area, thus saving their homes and outbuildings.

An hour preceding the fire at Mr. Whiting's home, between six and seven acres were burned over on Taylor hill. Town Fire Warden Frank Burton was on duty there with several men. They, with shovels, were able to keep the flames so well controlled in that quarter that but little damage is reported. At the North Main street fire, hundreds attracted by the spectacular blaze, saw the big pumper make good on just the sort of job it was intended to accomplish. At fires within the borough limits, where the hydrant pressure of 115 pounds is available, the engine is not often needed.

SKIN-GRAFTING HELPS SAVE INJURED HAND

Representative Lionel E. Boucher called on Michael Reynolds during the week end at the Backus hospital, Norwich. Many local friends were pleased to hear the report from the assemblyman that his friends was doing so well. Mr. Reynolds, 30, was an employe of the Fisk Rubber company in Jewett City. His hand was severely lacerated in a card Jan. 13. As a result of the determination of the surgeons to save all of the member that is possible, 94 skin grafts have been made from other parts of the body. Full disability is allowed and the Jewett City man is receiving $8.92 weekly compensation.

Burial was in Jewett City cemetery, the bearers being Adam Medick, Jr., David Bothwell, Hugh Davis, John Potts, Merton Bugbee and Thomas Gray, members of Reliance lodge No. 29, I. O. O. F. The lodge committal service was conducted at the cemetery by the noble grand, Adam Medick, Jr., and the chaplain, Walter Hyde. There were beautiful flowers. Relatives were present from Cromwell Providence, Moosup, Greene and New Haven. Undertaker E. E. Gilbert was in charge of the arrangements.

LISBON DOES NOTHING ABOUT BRIDGE LIGHTING

At a town meeting of the legal voters of the town of Lisbon, held Saturday afternoon, a 30-mill tax was laid on the grand list of 1929. No action was taken relative to the appropriating of $1,200, Lisbon's share in providing the lighting system for the new Quinebaug viaduct. Griswold has made good in the sum of $3,000. The borough has appropriated $1,000. As the result of no appropriation by Lisbon, it now appears that half the big state bridge is to be illuminated, with the other half in eclipse.

The Jewett City Juniors held a meeting at Miss Alice Papinski's home Friday evening. Among those present were Misses Blanche Grobofski Julia Nowakowski and Irene Mowsaha. Following the meeting there were several tables of whist. Prizes were taken by Misses Grobofski and Mowsaha. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Papinski.

ALFRED LEVITSKY'S MISSING CAR FOUND ABANDONED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16.—Alfred Levitsky, 25 Margerie street, Norwich, drove to New London Saturday night and while he enjoyed himself Levitsky parked his Maxwell touring car, Connecticut registration, 66691. Joyriders stole the auto, for Levitsky discovered the car missing at 11:30 o'clock. He notified police headquarters and a request was made of police throughout the state to be on the lookout for the machine. Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey, at 1:15 o'clock, found the car abandoned on Shapley street, where the thieves had left it after their ride. Levitsky was notified of the recovery of the auto, came to New London this forenoon and took charge of it.

George A. Gormley, driver of one of the buses of the Groton & Stonington Traction company, was arrested Friday night by State Police Officer William MacKenzie, Groton barracks, charged with reckless driving, and will be tried in the Groton town court Monday. It is claimed that the bus Gormley was driving crowded an automobile off the highway at Doyle's corner, on the Boston Post road.

Andrew Fallon, Montville laborer, who is runner-up for the record of the greatest number of times presented in the police court, will be there again Monday on the customary charge of intoxication, for he was arrested on Main street Saturday by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty. Fallon's arrest Saturday marks his 32nd time being taken into custody.

Entrance to Alling Store Unlocked

Patrolman Henry Hick, in making his rounds on Green street late Saturday night, discovered the entrance of the cellar of the store of the Alling Rubber company open. The officer had suspicion that a thief had gained entrance to the store by this means, and entered. He made his way to the store proper but there was no evidence of robbery. To make sure that a thief had not operated, an employe of the store was summoned there and his investigation revealed that no robbery had been committed.

Mrs. Arthur T. Keefe of Hillside road; Mrs. George Banks and infant son, Noank; Miss Bernice McNicol, Jewett City; Miss Edith Gruberg, Connecticut College for Women, and Kenneth Sizer, 202 Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Franklin M. Homan, 65, died Saturday at Odd Fellows home, Groton. He was born on Long Island and was a painter. Mr. Homan, who had resided in Norwalk many years and who was a member of Somerset lodge, that city, had been a resident at the home for about three years.

Result of Negligence

The boiler of the heating plant of Jennings school, corner of Williams and Mercer streets, was discovered cracked Saturday, the accident crippling the heating device. What caused the disablement of the boiler is not known, but it is believed it was due to the water being allowed to get too low.

Patrolman Louis Pine was unable to perform duty Friday and Saturday, having a severe cold.

Lawrence McEwen, 722 Ocean avenue, was arrested by Patrolman Michael Dorsey Friday night, charged with blocking traffic. McEwen was ordered to present himself in the police court Saturday, but he was not prosecuted, as the case was not called.

The police of New London and the state police have been keeping a lookout for the past two days for a Dodge taxicab, stolen in Saybrook Friday night. The cab carries Connecticut registration, 651.

Carmella Santangelo of Waterford has sold a building lot on Lewis street to Francesco Piccerrello, also of Waterford.

The Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, Hartford, has brought suit on a common count against Henry R. Liepman, also of Hartford, in the sum of $12,000 and property owned by the defendant on Park street has been attached. The case is returnable before the next term of the superior court.

Carlo Eposito, proprietor of the Belleview restaurant, has caused a deed to be filed for record at the office of the city clerk, transferring title in the business and ownership of the fixtures to Consiglia Eposito.

John M. Mallon, Sr., of Brooks street, clerk in the office of the assessor, municipal building, was operated on at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday. The operation was not of a serious nature, but will keep the patient at the hospital several weeks.

G. L. Bilderbeck, Inc., has brought suit on a common count against C. E. Schall, Inc., of New York, and eight building lots owned by the defendant in Shirley park, corner of Ocean avenue and Shirley lane, have been attached. The suit is for $1,250 damages and is returnable before the next term of the superior court. Plaintiff claims that services representing the amount sued for have been rendered defendant and that payment cannot be collected.

A. Morano, 10 Terrace avenue, has made complaint to the police because boys in playing baseball in the street run across his property and have damaged his hedge. Morano claims the acts of the youths are a nuisance almost daily.

Charles Glassenberg, Bank street merchant, reported to the police Saturday that a spare tire and wheel was lost from his truck Saturday afternoon while the vehicle was being driven from Hartford to New London.

James Moran, Lawrence, Mass., a laborer, was arrested on Main street Saturday night by Patrolmen Michael Dorsey and Anthony Turello, charged with begging and intoxication. He was locked up and will be in the police court Monday.

Louis Elionsky, 763 Ocean avenue, was arrested Saturday by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in passing an automatic danger signal. Elionsky will explain in court Monday. The driver was on Howard street and when the car approached Bank street, the traffic signal was against Elionsky's approach. Instead of stopping, Elionsky continued into Bank street at a fast rate of speed. The auto nearly crashed with two other cars, one of them being the police car driven by Officer Corcoran.

STAMATIN IS FINED ON ONE COUNT $200

The continued case of Nicholas Stamatin, proprietor of a pool room, 324 Bank street, was disposed of in the police court Saturday. Stamatin was charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, possession and keeping with intent to sell. The former charge was nolled and on the latter count a fine of $200 and costs was imposed. Stamatin, who had been previously convicted of selling liquor, was arrested several nights ago when a raiding force went to the pool room as a result of evidence obtained that Stamatin was again dispensing strong drink. If the evidence was positive, the searchers were not rewarded in the finding of liquor in large quantity, for less than a half pint of whiskey and but a half dozen bottles of liquor were seized.

Mrs. Allord's Case Continued

Mrs. Tillie Allord, 53, a hairdresser, residing at 73 Belden street, was also charged with violation of the liquor law. Her case was continued to May 15. Mrs. Allord was not compelled to provide a surety on a bond, for she was relased in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Mrs. Allord was arrested Wednesday night by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty on a search warrant, after obtaining evidence that the woman was serving liquor to a choice few customers. A search of the house, however, resulted in only a pint of alcohol being found. This was seized as evidence against the woman.

A threatening grass fire caused alarm to property owners at Groton Park, Groton, Saturday afternoon, and as a brisk wind fanned the flames an alarm was sent in. Pioneer Hose company responded and attacked the fire with chemicals, quickly subduing it. The fire was in the rear of Rincicotti's store.

ELTON ROLFE IS CAUGHT TRYING TO STEAL A CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 16.—Due to the fact that four automobiles were stolen in this city last Sunday, although each car was recovered, it was decided tonight to attempt to capture one or more of the thieves, one arrest was made. The offender is Elton Rolfe, 159 Howard street, and he is locked up on a charge of tempering with an automobile with intent to steal. He will be in the police court tomorrow. Tonight, Patrolman Clarence Wells was assigned to duty in plain clothes in the vicinity of Broad and Huntington streets where many cars are parked nightly while their owners attended motion pictures. The officer had reached Broad street on his tour of scrutiny when he observed Rolfe go to a car which was parked near Cottage street. Rolfe entered the auto and made repeated attempts to start the engine. Wells went to the auto and quickly determined that Rolfe was not the owner and arrested the would-be thief. When questioned at police headquarters, Rolfe admitted that he intended to steal the auto, saying that he was doing his best to start he engine.

NORWICH MAN IGNORES AUTOMATIC DANGER SIGNAL

Raymond M. Kenfield, 45 Scott street, Norwich, was arrested by Patrolman Ernest Opperman this afternoon, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in passing an automatic danger signal at the corner of Main street and Crystal avenue. He provided a bond of $15 to assure his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

TAX COLLECTOR OUT TO ROUND UP DELINQUENT

Tuesday, March 18, Tax Collector Hull Manwaring has promised to hand numerous warrants for the collection of personal tax to city sheriffs with instructions to collect the tax, together with additional costs of $7.50 or commit the delinquent to jail, where he or she will remain until such time as the tax and costs are paid. The time limit for the collection of the tax will have expired Monday and as the delinquents have been given ample opportunity to make payment Tax Collector Manwaring has decided to use the law to make the collections.

Continued improvement is reported today in the condition of J. Nicholas Danz, Ocean avenue, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Lawrence Memorial hospital recently, and who for several days was threatened with pneumonia. He is only permitted to see members of his family.

SUSPICIOUS CELLAR FIRE IN A WEST ST. CELLAR

The fire department has been kept busy the past 24 hours, most of the fires being the result of boys setting decayed grass ablaze, in lots adjacent to residences. But one of the alarms today was for a fire in a residence and was of a suspicious character and is being investigated by Deputy Fire Chief Calvin Edmunds. The fire occurred at 8:10 o'clock and was in the cellar of the two and one-half tenement house, 62 West street. The house is occupied by the owner, named Muscarella and by J. A. Johnson. An alarm was sent in from Box 17, corner of Vauxhall street and Summit avenue, causing Deputy Chief Edmunds and four apparatus to respond. The fire was among a quantity of wood and beneath a veranda. It was extinguished with chemicals and before damage to the building resulted.

This afternoon a threatening grass fire was discovered in a lot off Jefferson avenue and an alarm was rung in from Box 363, corner of Jefferson avenue and Colman street. Chief Thomas Shipman and four companies responded, but a tank of chemicals sufficed to subdue the fire, before residences were endangered.

Danger From Blazing Grass

Shortly after noon Saturday a still alarm was received at fire headquarters for a grass fire in the rear of 156 Crystal avenue. Thomas Hose company responded and when the firemen arrived there the blazing grass was becoming dangerously near a series of tenements on Eastern avenue. The firemen were aided in extinguishing the blaze by Boy Scouts.

At 12:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon another grass fire at the corner of Chappell street and Connecticut avenue was discovered and Northwest Hose company responded to a still alarm. The burning grass was extinguished by the use of fire brooms.

LOSING WEIGHT? MAYBE IT'S WORMS

MYSTERIOUS loss of weight may mean that your little one is harboring worms which are robbing her of nourishment. Worms are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

SPRING FIRES

From various points in this and other states there are coming reports concerning woodland fires, fires from burning brush and rubbish, and in most instances they are of the preventable nature.

It is characteristic of the spring of the year, when so many are getting out into the fields and woods, when there is a general effort underway in cleaning up property and when anything in the way of a fire is fanned into serious possibilities by the March winds.

Destruction by means of fire is a quick and efficient method, provided it is surrounded by the proper safeguards. There must be consideration for harm that may come from starting a fire when there is a strong wind. There must be thought as to the reckless dropping of firebrands into material which is ready to be ignited. There must be care taken to keep fires a safe distance from buildings and, in any instance, there must be thought of the consequences if fires started for good purposes cannot be controlled.

During the spring and the fall there are many fires which result directly from that combination which is provided when someone drops a match into the carpet of leaves and underbrush. Nothing would matter if only the leaves were burned, but they simply serve to kindle those fires which sweep over acres of woodland, which rush toward buildings and which pile up a heavy loss to the owners. Wiping out a home, barn, farm buildings or standing timber means a serious loss to those who have paid hard-earned dollars for such property. It means much hard work for those who are called to aid in the checking of fires, whether in the city or the country, and it means a waste and much privation for many of those involved.

Even though all fires are not preventable, there is a large percentage of them which is, provided those who are responsible will but give the proper amount of thought to what they are doing. It is a matter of judgment. Many fires are prevented of which we know nothing, but from the list of those which occur it is apparent that many more would not have been responsible for losses if measures which involve chiefly the use of common sense had been employed. Before deliberately starting a fire it is well to think what the consequences may be and see that they are guarded against.

HEEDING THE SIGNS

Do signs mean anything? Signs in this particular query have to do with those which are erected in cities and smaller communities for the purpose of governing the movement of motor vehicle traffic. There are those who will answer in the affirmative and those who will express a negative view. Both answers may be based upon actual experience.

It is an old story that there are many signs which mean nothing. They were erected so long ago that they represent conditions which have entirely changed. They haven't been removed so that they are more observed in the breach than in obedience.

Other signs, warning against driving in excess of a certain speed, may get no more attention in most instances, while there are those highway users in a thickly or thinly settled part of the country who never pay any attention to any sign. To them signs are a waste of money.

To the average driver, however, it is probable that signs get more or less attention and are the means of furnishing much safer driving and more general respect for conditions than would otherwise be the case.

Evidently the driver who is not in the habit of paying attention to any sign is going to encounter plenty of trouble in Milford, where a new system of motor vehicle operation has been worked out in accordance with conditions prevailing there, and where warning signs have been erected for the guidance of drivers. These signs have been erected with the expectation that they will be respected and if they are not prosecution can be anticipated.

This should, therefore, be borne in mind as one place where signs mean something. That is, they are going to mean something while the paint is fresh. Whether they will continue to be enforced as faithfully after the paint begins to fade as they are now can be told better later. Needless to say, drivers who are in the habit of paying no attention to signs should look well to their conduct while going through Milford.

For those who obey all signs there will be no trouble, while the unfortunate thing for the others will be that they will have to discriminate carefully between those signs which have come to mean nothing and those which mean everything they say.

HEADED RIGHT WAY

It is an old saying that discretion is the better part of valor. It would seem that this had made its impression upon President Borno of Haiti in view of the announcement which has been made that he has given his consent to the plan of the American commissioners for the adjustment of the situation in his country.

Faced with the difficulty of avoiding the threatened trouble in the island republic election day if former methods were followed, the commission cast about for a means of preventing it. This was not the purpose for which the members were sent to Haiti, but it was closely allied therewith, time was short and something needed to be done without further delay. The commission understood the temper of the people from the hearings that had been held and came to the conclusion that the sensible plan was to get the opposing factions to agree upon a temporary head of the government until a constitutional election could be held at which it would be insured that President Borno would not succeed himself.

Following the preliminary agreement President Borno was reported as less certain about his attitude. It was indicated that he might back out of the agreement, but the information that he has concluded to stick indicates that his afterthought is the wiser one. He has agreed to lend his cooperation to a settlement of the difficulties which have grown up as the result of his administration of the presidency. Whether the opposition is well grounded may be a matter of opinion. There was, however, a situation existing which called for as early an adjustment as possible. The commission met it face on and proposed a solution that was logical and that met the approval of President Hoover. Now that President Borno has consented to carry on and do his part there should be a quick and efficient solution of the situation. It should mean the avoidance of any outbreak and bloodshed and it should mean the establishment, through an election, of a government which will command greater confidence from the islanders. Whether it will properly tackle the governmental problems of the Haitian republic and hasten the withdrawal of American forces from the island remains to be seen. No happier solution and outcome could be wanted. In indicating his desire to reach such an end President Borno adopts the right course.

A MASSACHUSETTS CONTEST

Massachusetts is more than a bit interested just at present in the announcement by ex-Senator William M. Butler that he will be a candidate on the republican ticket for United States senator from that state on a dry platform. He had previously declared his candidacy. He had previously stood as a dry and been beaten by a wet democrat and there was a question whether he would attempt to depart from his previous attitude or to try to straddle the question. He has done neither. He is as dry as ever and will go into the primary on that plank.

This removes any question in regard to his policy. He hasn't departed from previously declared views to seek support. He stands by his convictions and with an avowed wet candidate, Eben Draper, also in the field it is going to be possible for the voters to draw their line on prohibition as sharply as they desire. Among the republicans it will be possible to learn through primary results what the republican voters of the state want. That is, it will be possible provided the voters are all ready to select a senatorial candidate on such a basis. It seems not improbable that many will disregard that entirely and make their choice on other grounds, knowing that a man of the calibre of Mr. Butler in the senate would come much nearer to giving the state the laws it wants than would a wet who would be casting his lot with the insurgent-democratic coalition to the utter disregard of the Massachusetts requirements. And yet, should Mr. Draper be nominated and elected there could be no doubt about his stand for the interests of Massachusetts.

Massachusetts, however, is involved in an interesting contest over the wet and dry question. It is seeking the rescinding of its own enforcement act and there have been evidences, especially in one congressional district, that a strong wet sentiment prevails in that state. The clear-cut contest between the wet and dry candidates should therefore serve to throw much additional light on the situation there.

THE OVERTAXED MOTORIST

Gas tax levies are not uniform. They run from two to five cents and there are those who are constantly advocating increases in the tax for all kinds of purposes. While such revenue is used chiefly for highway purposes, there are those who would tax the motorist for outlays which belong under the general expenses of the state. It is considered that it is an easy matter to extract the gas tax in any amount from the motorists, so they quickly suggest that when more funds are needed for most any purposes.

Pennsylvania is a state which is paying a four cent gas tax. When it was laid it was agreed that it should continue for a year, which will expire with June of this year, and then be followed by a three cent tax. Already there are those who are urging the continuance of the four cent tax, but when it is pointed out that the state will derive a revenue of $65,000,000 from a three cent tax and that amount is considered sufficient for its road work, it would seem to be time to give the much taxed motorist a reduction. Cutting a cent a gallon in the cost of his gasoline isn't much but there is reason enough for giving the motorist the benefit of such reductions as he deserves.

Those who own automobiles are appreciative of good roads. They realize that they are making contributions, according to their use of them, which keep them in good shape and make possible the construction of more of them. They know the need of new roads but they also know the folly of paying a bigger tax than is needed and having the proceeds go for general expenses or other purposes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Baseball players put up a good bluff but they usually come to terms before the opening game.

Every cold spell affords a chance to twit winter about sticking around in the lap of spring.

With St. Patrick's day there is always the wearing of the green and thoughts of Ireland.

The man on the corner says: If we are to be admired for the enemies we make, who's going to love those who never make enemies?

MARCH 17, BIRTHDAY OF THE SUBMARINE

Today, March 17, is the 52nd anniversary of the first submerged trial of the submarine torpedo boat Holland, which was the first successful submarine built in the United States. The inventor was an Irishman, hence St. Patrick's day was selected for the maiden voyage.

This little boat was only 51 feet long, with a displacement of 74 tons. (Submarine boats of today are more than 300 feet long and displace 3000 tons.) The first submerged run of the Holland lasted only a few minutes and ended in a mud bank on the shore of Staten Island, where the boat and crew were held for more than an hour before they were able to extricate themselves from the sticky mud of Prince's bay.

As none of the men had ever been submerged in a submarine, this first thrill can better be imagined than described. In the years that followed these same men had many hairbreadth escapes and harrowing tales to tell. Most of them are living today in various parts of the country, and if you were to interview them they would tell you they had not forgotten their first trip in a submarine.

Experimental Period

The experimental work on the Holland lasted for several years and during that period we made more than five thousand submerged runs, and we never knew which would be the last.

In the early part of 1900 the boat was pronounced satisfactory by Admiral Dewey and his staff after they had witnessed a set of trials in the Potomac river. She was purchased by the United States government and was the first submarine to become a part of the United States navy.

During all the years of experimental work on this little boat I was her commander and she never left the dock for a run without me. She had become a part of my daily life. I had many narrow escapes, but in more than 30 years of submarine operation in nearly every country of the world I have never lost a life or seriously injured a man, and am on record as the first submarine boat commander in the United States.

In the late summer of 1900 we had finished the training of a navy crew and with a feeling of deepest regret we said good-bye to our little craft. We had had many ups and downs in her and had expended untold efforts for more than three years in making her justify our confidence in her. For a number of years she was used in the training of officers and men of the navy for submarine duty.

After using her for a number of years as a training ship, she was donated to a museum in Bronx Park, New York city, where she can be found at the present time.

Came From Ireland

The father of the modern submarine sprang from the Irish peasantry, a stock which has produced many noteworthy men of the Emerald Isle. His early days were passed in the obscure town of Liscannor, in County Clare, on Munster's western shores, where he was born on Feb. 24, 1842. His name was John P. Holland.

Holland's first submarine plans were drafted in 1859, when he was a youth of seventeen, and a school teacher in Cork, Ireland. One sketch showed a boat with a gunpowder engine for motive power. Later he discarded this as worthless. An engine suitable for submarines early arose among other problems. He was of the opinion that previous experiments with submarines had failed chiefly because of the want of proper motive power which had not been realized. An undersea boat inadequately powered was as useful as a water-logged ship.

After making complete plans for an undersea boat, the subject was dropped for a number of years. In 1870, while taking a vacation, he gave renewed study to this problem and encountered many physical difficulties. He was, however, undaunted by the task he had set for himself, namely, devising a practical trustworthy submersible. But he decided that the idea was worthy of cold investigation before finally rejecting it as unworkable. He had a long road to travel beyond that followed by Bushnell and Fulton. He decided that going underwater need not be a hazardous undertaking, and remaining on the sea bed would be safe.

Power for propulsion was the most serious problem. Up to that date the only propulsion used for this kind of work had been man power. Other means must be procured. Storage of energy and equally important storage of air must be provided for. There must also be proper ballast and buoyancy and a consequent retention of specific gravity. Torpedoes must be self-propelled. At the outset of these renewed studies came the difficulty of carrying sufficient air to support the lives of those within a submerged boat. Years afterwards it was proved by practical experiments that the normal amount of air carried in modern submarines would sustain the lives of the crew for a period of three months.

Started in 1877

Holland came to the United States in 1872 and after arriving took up the question of a submarine design which had lain dormant for several years. The year 1873 brought him to Paterson, N. J., where he resumed teaching at a public school. There he marked time for two years, laying up mental and financial ammunition for continuing his submarine work. In 1875 he procured private funds for developing his invention. The outcome was the careful preparation of a free-hand drawing of a small boat to be operated by one man. This design, however, was held up for more than two years owing to lack of sufficient funds. In 1877 work of actually constructing a boat was started. An oil motor adaptable to a submarine appeared on the scene about this time. It was a petroleum engine patented by George Brayton. This engine, however, proved a false alarm and was never used for the purpose it was designed.

The first boat built was ten feet long and pointed at both ends. The room for the operator was so small that no man bigger than Holland could enter and occupy the boat with the turret closed. This boat was launched in the Passaic river in 1877. The day of its launching was a memorable one. The little craft was towed up the river and the inventor went down in her. He then discovered that the motor apparatus installed would not operate on oil and he decided that it could be operated as a steam engine. A steam launch was chartered and a hose run from the boiler on the launch to the engine in the submarine, and in this way the inventor was able to navigate his boat both on the surface and submerged. This was the first submarine experiment to be conducted in the United States where power was used other than man power. After several short runs Mr. Holland sank the boat to the bottom of the river and remained submerged for twenty-four hours. The inventor's friends were so gratified with the outcome of these trials that they readily agreed to building a larger boat, but this project was not undertaken until two years later.

Second Was Junked

The result was the Fenian Ram. This boat took two years to build, at a cost of $13,000. It was completed but never operated and later was consigned to the junk pile.

The next attempt at submarine building by Mr. Holland started in 1886, when Lieutenant Edward Zalinski of the Fifth United States artillery became interested in Mr. Holland, organized a company and built a submarine known as the Zalinski. This boat was about 50 feet in length and eight feet in diameter. Navy interest was more than attracted by the Zalinski enterprise but the boat proved a misadventure from the start. She was completed and launched, but in the launching she was injured to such an extent that she was never used as a submarine. The next submarine built by Holland was the old Plunger, which was completed in Baltimore about 1896. This boat was completed, had dock trials, but was never used as a submarine.

John P. Holland died in 1914, after having spent about 55 years in developing the submarine which now bears his name.—Frank T. Cable in Boston Transcript.

"Belief in Ourselves"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Having accomplished the work which thou hast given me to do" (John 17:4).

Read: John 17:1-8.

MEDITATION: Accepting ourselves does not mean a sad resignation to the limitations of our life, but a happy and joyous belief in ourselves. It is faith that we can make out of ourselves something that is eminently worth while. It ought to be a matter of pride that there is only one of our kind. A plumber who was working for a philosopher remarked: "You must be some particular about your jobs, for when you called they sent me." This degree of self valuation is, of course, naive, but a high regard for one's self is a part of the Christian point of view. For the Christian believes that there is some work to do, some place to fill for which God sends him or can use him. Great, happy souls feel that life is a divine appointment. This was Jesus' experience.

PRAYER: We rejoice, our Father, in Thy summons to become fellow workers with thee. Help us with clear eye to see the tasks that Thou hast set before us, and with a sincere heart to pursue them. Forbid that we should miss our opportunity through unwillingness to do our own work. Amen.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 16—Some years ago, when a democrat and an ex-butcher's boy galloped into the governorship of Oregon on the strength of a lone-handed horseback campaign over the state, many tales of his doings were told.

For one thing, he reversed the accepted order of things at the governor's office, opening the door into a public corridor of the capitol building and blocking it open so that all who wandered by might see the governor at his desk.

That precedent was not generally followed by governors, so far as the Bystander ever heard. It must have been a bit difficult even for Governor West, who started it.

But stroll through the corridors of the house office building in Washington any day and you will reach the conclusion that house members generally are for open political covenants, openly arrived at. Or, possibly, that they do their covenanting elsewhere than in their offices.

Housing Problem

It's a much congested building, that which houses the representatives, their clerks and secretaries and many of their committee rooms. Some day it is planned to add at least one additional building so that the 435 house members can have at least some of the elbow room and privacy that senators enjoy in their spacious office suites over in the palatial marble structure flanking the senate wing of the capitol.

Whether the lowly representatives, with their once-every-two-years necessity of rubbing elbows with the folks back home in search of votes will ever get up the political nerve to vote themselves an underground railway conecting the capitol and their office building, similar to the senate monorail service, is another question.

In the senate office palace corridors are lined with handsome, hard wood doors, all closed. Over in the house building, where each of the 435 except the chairmen of important committees have only a single none too large room for office purposes, it's entirely different. The doors are almost always wide open and you can stroll along and see what's going on inside.

Office furnishings supplied by Uncle Sam are standardized. Also, they are quite simple. Desks, chairs, bookcases and tables make up the ensemble. Arrangement of furniture is according to the whim of the office occupants.

Escape

Quite a number of members like both the open door policy, to encourage better ventilation perhaps, and yet a degree of privacy. So they have worked out a method of setting up tall bookcases in such a way as to pen off a corner up near the windows where their own desks stand. That is their only escape from public observation so long as doors remain open.

What a difference for senators. They have three or four doors to a suite, any one of which affords escape from an unwelcome caller at need. No wonder the house is envious.

YOUR HEALTH

Hibernating Mosquitoes.

By Major Edwin M. Skinner, Director of Mosquito Control Division, Washington, D. C.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

In temperate zone localities wherever mosquitoes were prevalent last season there will be found early this spring many hibernating mosquitoes that have survived the winter in basements, attics, stables, or other warm places. These are all females, each burdened with an average of 300 eggs. They only await the return of warm temperatures to issue forth to favorable breeding places to complete their cycle, which ends shortly after they lay these last eggs.

It is of course a good idea not to admit these hibernators to your homes when they seek entrance in the fall. They should be kept outside to freeze to death with the considerable number of others that fail to reach favorable places to hibernate. This can best be done by leaving your screens in place until after the arrival of a good hard frost or two. They are very clever at obtaining entrance, however, a favorite plan being to congregate in basement area ways until the door within is opened or propped open on wash day. They enter noiselessly, attacking no one. They seek dark corners or crevices where they cling in much the same manner as a fly, but very much less noticeable. Upwards of 2000 hibernators can be found in the more favorable places in mosquito infested area. Almost any home will harbor a thousand.

But since you have probably been unfortunate enough to admit them, do not let them out this spring. They are readily exterminated without chemicals or other offensive methods. Trap them by placing your screens early in the season. Then the warm days arrive and no more frost is likely fully darken every opening but one looking east or north. Make sure that that opening is perfectly screened. At sunrise or just before on a warm day you will find all the hibernating female mosquitoes that have survived the winter clinging to this lighted screen seeking egress. They are not very much alive yet and it will take but a moment to crush them with a cloth or brush. You should remember that in doing so you are disposing of three hundred of the coming brood for each female you slaughter.

In addition to the hibernators' contribution to the first broods of the season many of the eggs that were deposited late last season have also hibernated throughout the winter and will develop as soon as the temerature is warm enough. This breeding as well as that caused by the adult hibernating females is best exterminated fully and permanently by following the Gorgas plan of mosquito control, as evolved and employed by General Gorgas in Cuba and Panama and by many followers since these wonderful accomplishments. Fully carried out it is uniformly successful. The Gorgas Memorial Institute will gladly furnish details of this plan to all who are interested.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Expected

Bobby, on his fourth birthday, was sitting by the window with his mother watching for the postman. Bobby turned to his mother and said: "Why, mother, the postman will not come today because this is my birthday."

"But what of that?" asked mother.

"Well, you said he wouldn't come the other day when it was Washington's birthday," replied Bobby.

Playing Church

The three children of a church-going family were "playing church," when K., the eldest child, called: "Mother please make Charles play right."

"Why? What is wrong with Charles?" asked mother from the next room.

"He slumps down in his seat and acts as he's asleep," wailed K.

"Well, I'm daddy, and our daddy always sleeps durin' the preachin'," Charles piped up rather indignantly.

1,785,229 Join MUSIC DEFENSE LEAGUE In Sixty Days

THE public wants real music in the theatre.

Within sixty days after formation of the Music Defense League was announced in newspaper advertisements (January 13), 1,785,229 citizens of the United States and Canada had joined it in protest against the substitution of mechanical music for Living Orchestras and Organists in the Theatre.

The cultural consciousness of America has been aroused.

BUT THE STRUGGLE HAS ONLY BEGUN. For every person who has voluntarily signed and mailed a Music Defense League coupon, there must be ten who feel the same way, but have neglected to act.

If you, as a person of taste, value the art of music and would shield it from debasement . . . if you feel that the price you pay for screen entertainment entitles you also to living music, exercise YOUR right to a voice. Sign and mail the coupon below.

Scores 100%

"My little daughter scored 100% in a health contest recently," says Mrs. J. A. Kelly, 2144 Seventh Ave, Astoria, L. I. "And I want to give credit where it is due.

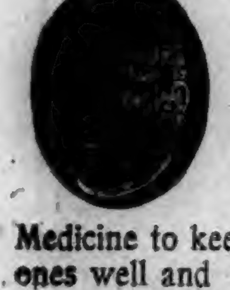
"Nancy was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, billousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive does help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.

IMPORTANT FOR MOTHERS TO KNOW



Thousands of mothers all over the country depend on Father John's Medicine to keep their little ones well and strong during the Spring months.

They know that it is pure and wholesome, free from alcohol and dangerous drugs and very effective in the treatment of coughs, colds and as a tonic and strength builder.

75 YEARS IN USE

DON'T GO TO EXTREMES TO END CONSTIPATION

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent pugatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

Remarkably Active for a Man His Age

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says Warren Cook of 595 W. 207th Street, New York. "I found out that by taking ACIDINE three or four nights a week, I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to sit right, or make me miserable from the indigestion and gas I used to have so regularly."

Sick, sour stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in the throat and gassy belching usually come from too much acid when your stomach doesn't digest the starchy food you eat. Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect it will do it without help. That's why more than two million people are now using ACIDINE regularly, to enjoy good appetite and freedom from distress and pain after eating. You can get ACIDINE at any drug store.

FOUR DIVORCES GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT

At a short calendar session of the superior court Friday at New London Judge Christopher L. Avery granted four uncontested divorces.

Mae Power Eckhart of Waterford was given her freedom from William J. Eckhart of parts unknown on the grounds of desertion. She was also given the custody of two minor children.

Charlotte J. Tuite of Stonington was given a decree from Thomas P. Tuite of Stonington on grounds of a statutory offense. She was also given the custody of two minor children. They were married Jan. 31, 1920. Miss Elizabeht King of Hartford was named in the complaint.

Frank G. Hill of Norwich was granted a divorce from Mabel Williams Hill of Boston and was given the custody of two of their three minor children. They were married May 21, 1907, and desertion was alleged since October 1926.

Annie Fletcher Ducharme of Taftville was given her freedom from Frank Ducharme of Taftville on grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married in November, 1915. She was also given the custody of two minor children.

FUNERALS.

Miss Carmella Coschinano.

The funeral of Miss Carmella Coschinano was held Saturday morning, with services at her home, No. 223 Talman street, at 8.15 o'clock and a solemn high mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. The mass was celebrated by Rev Frederick M. Coholan, who was assisted by Rev. John J. Reilly, as deacon, and Rev. Albert Sullivan, as sub-deacon. Mrs. M. J. Farrell, the organist was in charge of the musical program. At the offertory Mrs. Farell sang Pie Pesu and as a waiting symn, Lead Kindly Light. At the recessional Chopin's Funeral March was played.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery and the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Coholan. The bearers were Giuseppe and Angelo Laudone, Natale and Giuseppe Vuono, all of Bradford, R. I., and John Laudone and John Geneso, both of Norwich. Included in the large attendance of relatives and friends were people from Bradford, Westerly, Worcester and other places and there were many beautiful floral pieces. Undertakers Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Thomas P. Sharvan.

At 8.15 o'clock Saturday morning funeral services for Thomas P. Sharvan were held at his residence, No. 18 Winchester street, followed by a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, celebrant. The music was in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, the organist, who played Chopin's Funeral March as the processional and Abide With Me, with chimes accompaniment, at the recessional. Roderick F. Sullivan and Mr. LaFontaine sang De Profundis at the offertory and as a waiting hymn Mr. Sullivan rendered What Shall I Render.

Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were Timothy Brewer, John Shugrue, Thomas Connell and George Driscoll. There were many relatives and friends in attendance including people from Webster, Mass., Boston, Worcester, Taunton, Providence, New York, Westerly and other places. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Corcoran and Lyons.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Patrick Clune

The death of Mrs. Patrick Clune occurred at her home, 129 Broad street, about 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The deceased was born in Ireland, but came to Norwich when only four years of age. She was married in old St. Mary's church to Patrick Clune, Nov. 21, 1876, and three years ago they quietly celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

Mrs. Clune's husband and their four children survive, Mary W., George A., Ellen G. and Grace F. The daughters are successful teachers in the Norwich public schools and for years the son has been in charge of a department for the Porteous & Mitchell company, Norwich.

Mrs. Clune was a devout member of St. Patrick's parish, Mr. and Mrs. Clune being numbered among the original pre-holders after the church was erected. While her interests were largely centered in her home and her devoted family, her sympathies were ever ready to go out to those in sorrow or affliction and she was ever generous and thoughtful and helpful. The announcement of her death from the pulpit of St. Patrick's church at the four masses Sunday caused sadness to many; and throughout the day and evening the family had numerous messages of sympathy and calls of condolence from those who had learned to value Mrs. Clune's fine qualities and who appreciated her friendship.

Mrs. Captain Day of the Salvation Army is to be the speaker for the meeting of the Woman's Crusade Tuesday afternoon in the women's room at the Central Baptist church. Her topic will be The Salvation Army and Prohibition.

OPENS SERIES OF SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The noblest Christian in the world is the person who can show the best Credentials of the living Christ in his life, said Rev. Charles H. Stull, Ph. D., in a stirring sermon at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening. It was the opening of a series of "new life" services which are to be continued each night this week at the Central church.

Sunday evening at 6.15 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Stull addressed a union meeting of young people of the three Baptist churches of Norwich at the First Baptist church. There was a large attendance at the enthusiastic service. A number of the young people afterwards went to the Central church for the evening service which was opened at 7.30 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., leading. The congregation included members of other churches throughout the city and vicinity.

Rev. Dr. Stull spoke on the topic, Christian in Vision. The noblest Christian in the world, he said, is the person who can show the best credentials of the living Christ in his life. The best credentials Jesus Christ has among men are the exemplary Christian men and women. Christ can not do much in the world unless His disciples truly represent Him.

The best epistle ever written is Christ's likeness written in your heart. No human life can be fully developed without a definite purpose. If we do not concentrate, our whole life is doomed to run into shallowness. The successful men are those men who concentrate. They hold to the quest and continue on to the end. Not all men who are failures lack ability. Many have ability but have not learned to concentrate. Business men are complaining today because they can't get men who concentrate.

The preacher referred to Thomas Edison and Col. Lindbergh as examples of men who concentrate. Edison concentrates, in his scientific researches, until he accomplishes his problems. Col. Lindbergh concentrates on flying. He is not interested in gaining millions of dollars.

We should do the same in religion, the preacher said, as we do in the business and scientific worlds. If there is anything we need in religion it is concentration. No man can serve two masters. We must concentrate on the great work Jesus Christ gave the church.

In speaking on the series of "new life" meetings, Rev. Dr. Pitt, pastor of the church, said: "We want this week to be a great blessing to Norwich." The pastor announced that no collections will be taken at the week night services and that any one is welcome to attend any of the services. Monday night, he said, is to be father and son night and Tuesday, mother and daughter night. However, fathers and daughters, mothers and sons, in fact anyone who wishes to attend, will be heartily welcome at the services. Rev. Dr. Pitt pronounced the benediction. Rev. Dr. Stull also occupied the pulpit at the morning service.

BRUSH AND GRASS FIRES KEEP DEPARTMENT BUSY

Four brush and grass fires kept the fire department somewhat busy during the early part of Sunday afternoon, no damage resulting.

The first call came in at 12.40 o'clock for a brush fire in the rear of Disco's store on Main street, Preston. Squad A, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan went to this fire, which was blamed on boys with matches.

A careless cigarette smoker was believed responsible for a brush and grass fire off St. Regis avenue at 12.52. The chief, deputy chief and Engine 2 responded.

At 2.06 the deputy chief and Squad A were called out for a grass fire in the rear of 181 Corning road on land owned by Daniel McAvoy. The blaze was said to have been started by a careless smoker.

The final call of the day came in at 2.54. This was for a rubbish fire in the rear of 109 Palmer street and was caused by sparks from a rubbish fire. The land is owned by Rosario Perrone and others, and occupied by George W. Dieter. All four fires were put out with pump cans.

A grass fire in the rear of 677 North Main street required the attention of the department at 3.43 o'clock, Engine No. 2 and the chief responding. The land is owned by William Somers and boys with matches were thought to have started the fire.

FORECLOSURE PASSED ON BLIND CANTERBURY FARMER

In the court of common pleas here Saturday morning Judge Charles B. Waller awarded Mrs. Ellen E. Wilber of this city judgment for $1,644.38 in foreclosure proceedings against James Maderosian of Canterbury. The first Monday in June was set by the court as the limitation of time for redemption. The foreclosed property is located at No. 64 North Main street, this city. Attorney Frank Gardner represented Mrs. Wilber, while Maderosian, who is partially blind, was represented by Jarvis C. Worden, assistant secretary of the state board of education for the blind.

UNION LENTEN SERVICE AT PARK CONGREGATIONAL CH.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, was the preacher at the second of a series of union lenten services held Sunday evening at the Hugh H. Osgood Memorial parish house by the United and Park Congregational churches under the general topic, Some Phases in the Life of Jesus Christ. Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, D.D., pastor of Park church, and Rev. Frederick C. Baker, retired clergyman, participated in the service, which had a large attendance. Rev. Mr. Shipherd made the announcement that the Women's Federation of Park church is to hold a meeting there Friday afternoon when a paper will be given by Miss Amy Cogswell.

In his most interesting sermon, Rev. Mr. Abbott, who took for his subject, "The Scope of Ministry," based his remarks upon the one sentence, "The only limits on the ministry of Jesus of Palestine were the limitations our own universe imposed upon him." The scope of His ministry is defined in that term, he said. The scope of your ministry and mine in the world, he said, is definable. I think we can measure it in these terms, in the extent of interest and in depths of godliness. The wider the extent of a man's interest is the greater that man is. Godliness is a precious thing in itself; it has great power. The man of great interests without godliness is great and the man of godliness without great interests is great, but the man who combines godliness with great interests is greatest. You get extended interests with godliness.

At the next service in the series to be held at the United Congregational church next Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Shipherd will be the preacher.

ILLITERACY ON INCREASE IN NUTMEG STATE

According to the census, illiterates increased in Connecticut from 1910 to 1920, both in number and in percentage. The increase in percentage was from 6 per cent to 6.2 per cent and the increase in number was 53,665 to 67,265, an increase of 13,600 in ten years.

In the states of the union Connecticut stands 32nd from the top in percentage of total illiteracy and ninth in percentage of white illiterates. All but 1,489 of the 67,265 illiterates in the state cast the ballot. It is largeyq a city problem in the state as there are 48,805 illiterates in the city and 18,460 in the rural sections.

Illiteracy figures given for some of the cities are as follows: Norwich 1,223, New London 1,093, Willimantic 511, Danielson 43, Groton 133, Jewett City 203, Putnam 502, Rockville 238, Stafford Springs 144.

The most illiterate county in the state is New Haven county with 6.6 per cent. There are 8,046 illiterates in New Haven—in the shadow of Yale university. The least illiterate county is Middlesex with five per cent.

There are 2,927 native white illiterates in the state, 63,131 foreign-born white illiterates, 1,078 Negro illiterates, 31,130 illiterate males of voting age and 34,586 illiterate females of voting age.

According to the 1920 census figures, five million adults in the United States were illiterate. One out of every 14 people of voting age cannot read the warning sign on a poisoned well; cannot read "Do Not Smoke; Explosives Near"; cannot read "Danger, Live Wire."

One out of every ten people over 21 cannot write. The percentage of illiteracy in our country is greater than in England, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark and Japan.

MRS. S. M. CATHCART DIES AT A PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 16. — At the Butler hospital, Providence, Sunday night at 7:30, Mrs. Harriett Hall Cathcart died in her 72nd year. She was the wife of Rev. Samuel M. Cathcart, at one time pastor of Pawcatuck Congregational church. Mrs. Cathcart's death followed an illness during which she was a patient at Westerly hospital and later she was taken to the Providence hospital.

She was born in Westerly, the daughter of Horace R. Hall and Sara L. Avery Hall in lower Pawcatuck. All her life was passed in Westerly where her marriage with Rev. Cathcart took place. She has no near relatives. Two sisters have died, Miss Evelyn C. Hall, formerly dean at Wellesley and Mary Hall, whose death occurred two years ago.

She took an active interest in the affairs of the Pawcatuck Congregational church, of which her family were founders. She was also a member of Phoebe Green Ward chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Monday, College, and Westerly Musical clubs.

APRIL IS TIME FOR SOIL ACIDITY TEST

In early April, when the ground is being prepared for vegetable planting, is also the best time to test the soil to make sure it is not too acid, advises M. F. Morgan, soil expert of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station, New Haven, says a statement issued by County Agent Walter T. Clark of the New London County Farm bureau. The most trustworthy information is obtained in April and October.

Soil acidity does not remain the same the year around. A three-years investigation recently completed by Mr. Morgan and T. R. Swanback, agronomist of the tobacco substation in Windsor, showed that it fluctuates from season to season. It is greatest in the summer and lowest in the winter and in April comes to intermediate values.

Testing the soil in these months gives the most nearly average figure and it is the best basis on which to apply lime, according to Mr. Morgan. Another test should also be made in the summer, because this is when an acid soil has its greatest effect on the crop. Nitrogenous fertilizers bring about a marked increase in acidity, which falls toward winter as they are leached out of the soil.

Sulfate of ammonia was found to produce an extremely acid condition, compared to the tendency of nitrate of soda, while urea and the organic fertilizers are intermediate in their effects. A dry season produces a more acid condition than a wet season, for in times of scarce rainfall, leaching from the soil is less.

Most Connecticut soils show a moderate acidity. It may be injurious, of no consequence, or beneficial, depending on what one wishes to grow, Mr. Morgan says. Lettuce, asparagus, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, spinach, beets and some sweet corn need considerable lime on an acid soil, sometimes several tons to the acre. Growers of these are safe in applying it heavily. Carrots and tomatoes are not quite so sensitive to soil acidity as these other vegetables.

Alfalfa is extremely acid-sensitive and crops in some sections of Connecticut have been greatly increased by the use of lime. Tobacco and tomatoes can be raised satisfactorily without liming on most soils; growers rarely use it because of disease troubles on fields that have been heavily limed.

Contrary to prevalent opinion, lime does not simply make other fertilizer available. It contains calcium and magnesium and acts as a plant food. Crops should not be limed by guesswork. Whether a soil "looks sour" is not an infallible guide. Many growers use a simple scientific test that registers the acidity in "pH" values. From this can be computed how much lime to apply. A neutral soil is 7 pH and numbers below this indicate increasing acidity. Most general crop land of Connecticut shows around 5 pH and requires two to three tons of lime to the acre for acid-sensitive vegetables and alfalfa. A table of recommendation has been published by the experiment station.

How rapidly the lime benefits the soil depends on its degree of fine-ness. For average conditions most commercial lime or limestone available in this state is satisfactory. Soil on the farms will be tested for lime requirement by applying to the New London County Farm bureau.

Mother of Four Babies

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings, 510 Johnson Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schoonmaker entertained the members of Chappell's orchestra at their home on the Haley farm during the week. Vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George McCausland of Mystic, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Schoonmaker, Harold Chappell and Edgar Schoonmaker.

The auxiliary to the Harrison Merton Ward post, American Legion, will meet this (Monday) evening.

There was an unusually low tide Friday afternoon and a number of men went clamming, returning with well-filled pails.

Y SENIORS CLOSE SEASON WITH LAST MINUTE VICTORY OVER TORRINGTON Y

The Y Seniors closed their season just as they played the greater portion of it.

Saturday night at the Y gym, playing against Torrington, which came here with a string of seven consecutive league victories, Coach Demarest's boys had to uncork one of their stirring last-minute spurts in the last five minutes to turn a 36 to 25 defeat into a brilliant 41-36 victory, after playing just mediocre basketball through a good part of the game. Only a small crowd of the faithful was on hand to take in the most brilliant tilt of the year.

The game was replete with snappy passwork but it also had plenty of errors, on both sides. The usual display of long-shots that has marked most of the state league games was missing. Aubrey Brown was the leading scorer for the locals with 13 points, while Germano, of the visitors, topped them all with 14 points.

The game's best player, however, was neither of these, but Capt. Roland Harris, of the Seniors, around whom the whole play of the winners centered. Les Pingree, Norwich guard, was out of action and was missed somewhat by the Seniors.

The first quarter, ending at 13-all, was the most evenly contested of the four. The score was tied twice and each team went at top speed through the entire ten minutes, taking little chances with long tosses, but being intent on working the ball right up under the basket. Torrington drew away a little bit in a defensive second quarter and led at the half, 21 to 17. The third quarter score was 33 to 25, and going into the final period, the Seniors lool ed like a beaten team.

The outlook didn't improve when Torrington surged three points further ahead. About half the period was gone when Tommy Lynch was fouled in the act of shooting a baskt. He made the two tries bringing the count to 29 and then the fusillade started until Brown, with the score against his team at 36-36, found himself free beneath the basket and dropped in the two points that put his team ahead. The Seniors continued with two more until the gun barked for the end of the game.

LOCAL BOYS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR DANIELSON BOUTS

The local boys who box at Danielson tomorrow evening are reported to be in the best of shape for their bouts. The four boys from the Rose City scheduled to appear on the Danielson card are Vic Darr, Sheik Leonard, Curley Reta and Al Koziol. All the boys are slated to meet tough opponents, Koziol going against Ero Peterson of Worcester, Vic Darr clashing with Alex Touraine of New Haven, Sheik Leonard taking on Art O'Day of Holyoke and Curley Reta renewing his feud with Benny Novak of New London.

All the boys with the exception of Koziol are working out at the state armory and all are in the pink of condition. Darr is hitting hard and expects to win by a mile. Koziol is always in good shape and he is confident that he can take the clever Peterson without trouble. Reta is waiting for a chance to get at Novak again who took a close four-round decision from him at the last show. Reta and Novak will fight for six rounds in tomorrow's battle. Sheik Leonard who is hitting the comeback trail once again is in much better condition than when he fought Joe Russo at the Shyma show several weeks ago. The Sheik has been training faithfully and is down to his regular fighting weight. His endurance is good and he is boxing six and eight rounds with lighter boys without showing any effect of the fast work.

ACADEMY TRACK PRACTICE WILL START THIS AFTERNOON

Spring sports start with a vengeance at the Academy today for, in addition to the first workout for the entire baseball squad, Coach Murphy of the Wildcat track team will also summon his charges, probably to the number of about 35, for their first practice. Expected to put in an appearance, besides those who have been on the school's indoor team, are several from the cross-country team of last fall, which did so well.

Several of the mainstays of the 1929 team, which won the first interscholastic title for the school, are missing but among the newcomers are those with enough ability to put the local coach in a happy frame of mind. Sam Berkman, captain of the indoor team, will also hold that honor as the squad takes to the cinders.

MISS MADISON SMASHES ANOTHER SWIMMING RECORD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Helene Madison Seattle, hung up her third world's record in three days when she cut 13 3-5 seconds from the former mark for the 500-yard free style swim here today.

Miss Madison's accomplishment with a world's record in the 100-yard back stroke, set by Eleanor Holm, Women's Swimming association, New York, featured the fourth day's program of the National A. A. U. women's indoor championships.

The 16-year old Seattle star was leading the field by more than 30 yards when she concluded her record-breaking swim in the 500-yard event. Her time was six minutes, 16 2-5 seconds. The former record was made by Martha Norelius New Yorw, in Buffalo, N. Y., February 25, 1927, and was six minutes, 32 seconds.

Josephine McKim, Los Angeles, placed second and Lisa Lindstrom, New Yorw, was third. Miss McKim's time was six minutes and 29 seconds, three seconds better than the former world's record.

Miss Holm, in the 100-yard back stroke clipped three-fifths of a second from the former record, her time was one minute, 12 seconds. The former world mark was one minute, 12 2-5 seconds, established by Joan McSheehey, Whitinsville Athletic club, in Boston, one year ago today.

Miss McSheehey placed second in the event today and was followed by Adelaide Lambert, Women's Swimming association, of New York, in third place.

Miss Madison's record-breaking swim today placed the Seattle club in second place in team standings for the carnival, while Miss Holm's victory firmly established the Women's Swimming association of New York, in the lead. The Illinois Women's Athletic club, by failing to place in either of the events, slipped to third place in the standing.

KACEYS TO SPONSOR BALL CLUB THIS SEASON

White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., will sponsor a baseball team during the coming season, it was announced Sunday and will start practice in another month or so. The team will be composed of local talent.

The Kaceys hope to enter the Industrial league and also play independent ball, probably on Sundays. Most of the games, however, will be on foreign soil, if present plans go through, no attempt being made to revive the strong nine that represented the local order about seven or eight years ago.

Plans, which are yet in the preliminary stage, are being made to obtain one of Norwich's former star players to coach the team. Already 16 members of the order have signed up for tryouts. Little is known of the probable makeup of the team as yet.

CANDIDATES FOR TEAM JOIN BATTERYMEN TODAY

Weather conditions holding good, Coach Brigham of the Academy baseball team will call out the infielders and outfielders for the first practice after school today to join battery candidates, who have been working out for a week. A large number is expected to answer the first summons as there seems to be much enthusiasm in the school this year as regards the 1930 nine.

Included in the list will be three of the 1929 regulars back after their old positions, Capt. Chubby Gibbs, at shortstop, Alec Arico, at first, and Harry Sherry, at second. However, there are many others who have much experience who are expected to be on hand.

BETHLEHEM AND FALL RIVER BATTLE TO TIE SCORE

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Bethlehem and Fall River battled to a 1 to 1 tie in the eastern finals of the National challenge cup soccer competition, at the Polo Grounds today. The match went two extra 15 minute periods but neither team could break the deadlock.

The first half of the match was scoreless but shortly after the start of the second half, Stark and Dick, of Bethlehem worked the ball down the field close to the Fall River goal. Here Dick tried for the goal. McAuley, of Fall River, in attempting to divert the ball, pushed it into his own goal for Bethlehem's only tally of the game. Ten minutes before the end of regular play, McNab, right wing for Fall River, tied the score on a well placed drive.

CARDS BUNCH HITS TO BEAT PHILLIES

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 16—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals bunched hits in the ninth inning today and scored four runs against the Phillies, winning the Sunday exhibition game, 7 to 3. Speece was in the box for the Phils when the Cards pounded out the winning runs. The Phillies flared up in the eighth and scored two runs off Sherdel and tied the score. The Cards came back with four in the ninth and held the Shottonmen scoreless in their half. Score:

St. Louis (N)	011 100 004—7	12	0
Phil. (N)	000 100 020—3	9	1

Hallahan, Johnson, Sherdel and Wilson; Koupal, Willoughby, Speece and Davis, McCurdy.

TOMMY M'CARTHY TO BOX AT NEWARK TONIGHT

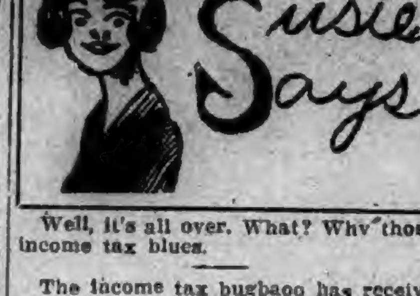
Tommy McCarthy, local boxer who is now in the stable of Al Freda of Newark, N. J., is slated for a six round bout at the Laurell Garden in Newark tonight. McCarthy is to go against Nick Scouricia, one of Vince Dundee's stablemates. Tommy has been training hard for this bout as a victory over Scouricia will establish McCarthy with the Garden matchmaker who has promised him plenty of work. The Laurell Garden is the largest sports arena in Newark. McCarthy is also slated for a bout at Lakewood, N. J., on Friday evening of this week.

ACADEMY RELAY TEAM AT NEW HAVEN WEDNESDAY

The Academy's mile relay team will be entered in an invitation run against Roxbury prep of Cheshire in the annual Firemen's meet at New Haven, Wednesday evening. This will give the locals one of the stiffest tests of the year.

Coach Murphy also expects to enter a few of his squad in the dash events.

The track at the school is being put into first-class shape for the first outdoor call which is scheduled this week.



Well, it's all over. What? Why those income tax blues.

The income tax bugbaoo has received more publicity this year than ever before. Amos and Andy have made it popular.

Their perplexity and struggles have awakened a note of sympathy in the hearts of all those who had to fill out the income tax returns. But they're over now.

The office of Collector of Internal Revenue George Charbonneau was a busy place during the past few weeks. Yet with all the hustle and bustle and woe there was many a laugh to be gotten by those who could laugh.

More lead pencils have been chewed up and fountain pens broken than in any one place in the city. It was really pitiful to see the mental anguish on some faces as they poured over their blanks.

The other afternoon a puzzled and very much troubled man sat pouring over his blank. He read and re-read the blank. Many papers about the desk were covered with figures. His brow was beaded with perspiration. In fact he was a total wreck.

It was pitiful to see his woebegone expression. He looked as though his last friend had deserted him. He looked appealing at all around but they had troubles of his own.

Bye and bye one of the tax office men came over when he had his blank nearly figured out. The man took one look at the blank and turned to the perplexed one, "Why man you don't have to make out any income tax return your income's not enough, you being married."

Well, it was like the rainbow after the thunder storm, that expression on the man's face. "I don't have to make one out? And me sweating over this thing for an hour. Wow." And out he goes and all was right with the world.

Another man took his place and got down to business. He was going strong when some one entered the office and thinking the man was one of the clerks, says, "My father wants an income blank." The man looked up with a most disgusted look on his face, "For Gawd's sake go away I've got troubles of my own." And he goes back to his figuring.

It has been a hectic few weeks and everybody's glad it's over and no one more glad than the tax office officials themselves.

HORWEEN EXPECTS 70 TO REPORT FOR SPRING PRACTICE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 16—(AP)—Arnold Horween, head coach of the Harvard football team, expects to have a squad of 70 candidates on hand tomorrow when he opens the Crimson's annual spring work.

Though such players as Captain Ben Ticknor, Barry Wood, Eddie Mays, Sam Batchelder, Charlie Devens and several other Crimson notables, will be absent because of baseball and track, Horween will have the most promising squad he has encountered during his four years at the head of Harvard's football affairs. Horween plans to spend much of his time experimenting with the players.

SHYMAS WILL PLAY DUDLEYS OR RADIOS TUESDAY

The Shymas basketball team of Taftville will play either the Dudley A. C., of Webster, or the Radio Five, of Danielson, in its Tuesday evening home contest at Parish hall this week. Definite announcement on the opposition will be made known today. The Shymas who claimed the eastern Connecticut championship after taking three games from the Plainfield Buddies will present their strongest lineup and hope to continue their winning string.

At the Elks alleys this evening the sports committee bowling team will clash with the Scotch Highlanders in a fast game. The sports committee will put the following players on the boards: Ernie Bean, capt., Saul Budnick, Henry Bamber and Dan Driscoll. The Scotchmen will have Alex Finlayson, Jackie Wilson, Jim Purdon and Henry Gee.

CARNERA AND CHOCOLATE WILL HOLD RING INTEREST FOR COMING WEEK

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Primo Carnera's tenth American appearance and return to the ring of Kid Chocolate, crack Cuban featherweight, furnish the outstanding features of this week's national fistic schedule.

Carnera clashes with the old heavyweight trial horse, Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis in the main ten round bout at St. Louis tomorrow night. Chocolate, back in the United States after a long vacation in Cuba, takes on Al Ridgeway, slugging featherweight from New Jersey, in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. In the semi-final of the Garden card, Black Bill of Cuba and Midget Wolgast of New York, finalists in the recent flyweight tournament here, clash over the 15-round championship route.

Philadelphia's weekly show tomorrow night is headed by a ten rounder between Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight title holder, and Jack Renault of Canada, once regarded as a leading contender for the heavyweight championship.

Mickey Walker middleweight titleholder, meets Jimmy Mahoney of Chicago in a ten round non-championship battle at Chicago tomorrow night.

A Detroit card of Thursday night will be featured by a ten rounder between Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., featherweight champion, and Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute.

CUBS POUND OUT EASY VICTORY OVER ANGELS

AVALON, Catalina Island, Cal., March 16—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs got the hitting range today, along with effective pitching and defeated the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league club, 10 to 5.

Eighteen hits, including a home run, double and single by Riggs Stephenson, were obtained by the Cubs off three Angel hurlers, while Malcolm Moss, recruit southpaw and Regulars Pat Malone and Guy Bush, stopped Mr. Wrigley's other team with eight hits. Moss permitted but one hit, Malone yielded four, and Bush the other three.

The victory evened up the series at 2 wins each. Score:

PUTNAM LOSES TO BRANFORD IN FINALS

In the finals of the Storrs Interscholastic basketball tournament on Saturday the Branford high quintet took an easy victory from the Putnam team 32 to 6.

Following the ball closely throughout the game, dribbling expertly through a completely befuddled Putnam defense, and pivoting and passing with a speed that left the Putnam backs helpless, Bobinski, 14 years old center, Williams, sophomore guard, and Captain Swirski, right forward, led a whirlwind attack until the final pistol shot. The three scored 27 of the Branford points, sinking long and short shots from difficult angles within the center line, while Pauk found the hoop from the middle of the floor and McDonald once dribbled under the basket to augment the total.

Unable to gain possession of the ball, Putnam got only two field goals, one by Leo who was high scorer in the first tournament round, and one by Weiss. A foul shot by the latter and one by DeBernardinis were the only other Putnam tallies.

TWO BANNER GAMES IN CHURCH LEAGUE TONIGHT

In the first game of the Church league tonight, the Trinity Methodist team will attempt to beat the league leading Gammas for the second time. The only defeat in two years in the Church league that the Gammas have received was from the Methodists. Tonight's game will either tell whether the Gammas win another league championship, or will place them in a bad position, thus providing an opportunity for other teams to lead.

In the second game of the evening the Central Baptists plan to upset the Brothers of Joseph. The Brothers will base a win on their pass work, while the Baptists, equally as good in pass work, will rely on Dickerman and Golembiski, players on the Academy team of last year, to help them. Both games bring some of the best teams in the circuit together, and the results will be important. Standing of the league:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"The darkest hour in the history of France," and at the same time the most romantic and glamorous, is wonderfully depicted in "Devil May Care," Ramon Novarro's first all-talking picture, which delighted capacity crowds at the Broadway Saturday and Sunday, and continues through today and tomorrow. Napoleon, at the height of his career is ordered by the Allies' Council to exile on the lonely Isle of Elba, and it is at the eve of his departure with France a seething hotbed of civil war, that the story of the picture takes place. Novarro is a lieutenant in the faithful guard of the "Little Corporal" and for his activities, is sentenced to the firing squad. Through a ruse he escapes, only to be betrayed by a dainty royalist maid, in whose bedroom he unwittingly sought refuge. Thrill follows thrill in rapid succession as the young officer and his sword carve a way out of his difficulties, finding happiness and peace at last in the arms of the lass who betrayed him only to find she loved him. Dorothy Jordan, a fragile newcomer, is the royalist maid, and John Miljan, her guardian, the crafty and treacherous de Grignon of history. Novarro's marvellous voice is displayed to great advantage in the many solo numbers of "Devil May Care," the most popular being "Charming" and "The Shepherd's Serenade." History students, as well as music pupils will find much to their interest in this production. On the same bill are shown Harry Langdon in "Hotter Than Hot," a Mickey Mouse cartoon, and the latest Paramount sound news with many timely topics.

Eastern Star Grotto Minstrels

Just back from the RKO circuit, Crawford Adams "The Wizard of the Violin" will be one of the features of the second part also of "The Minstrel Revue" at the Masonic Temple on Friday, March 21st. Other members in this section of the show will be Allyn Barnard, banjoist, in several numbers, Alex Finlayson assisted by John Manchant in "A Wee Bit of Scotch," and also Frank R. Murdy, well known local singer assisted by Henry LaFontaine in a group of song numbers. With the old time minstrel first part and fashion show, a crowded house will without doubt greet this show which should be the out-standing local talent show of the season.

Palace Theatre

Owing to the fact that St. Mary's church will hold its annual show at the Palace theatre tomorrow night, the Palace will present only a matinee showing tomorrow of its great all-color singing romance, "Song of the West." This picture, which has already won the acclaim of packed houses, will be continued through tomorrow afternoon, so that those who wish to see the great John Boles and to hear the lyric voice that lifted him to country-wide fame in "The Desert Song," should make their plans accordingly, and not lose this golden opportunity.

"Song of the West" is another great technicolor triumph for Warner Brothers, something that will be talked about and remembered after the lesser shows have long been forgotten. It combines many things to make a beautiful ensemble. It is rich in songs, and rich in singers. It has pathos, it has humor: it has a wide panoramic sweep, embracing all that vast terrain from the plains of Kansas to California and the Golden Gate. What a matchless expanse of prairie land and mountain is encompassed by this gigantic film! And how colorfully and powerfully the camera brings the vast raw west to our very door steps.

Joe E. Brown is a member of the cast. Those who saw him in "Sally" and other charming Warner Brothers productions, need not be told who Mr. Brown is. It is sufficient to say that wherever he is, one is sure to find many a hearty laugh. Other members of the cast of this tremendous romance are Vivienne Segal, who has the record of being the youngest girl ever to sing "Carmen," Marie Wells and Sam Hardy, the hard-boiled gent who has appeared in so many white-collar "tough" parts, and who has done them so successfully. Altogether, they are an inspiring cast, a worthy troupe for a great picture, and the action is on a par with the setting and the music and songs, which, by the way, is saying a great deal.

Starting Wednesday the Palace will present another of its increasingly fine double feature programs. The features billed this week from Wednesday through Friday are "The Racketeer" and "Loose Ankles," two corking fine pictures.

St. Mary's Players

Tomorrow night this organization presents its annual play. In this city it is an event looked forward to. This year's play is one which deals with the difficulties in which a young man finds himself when he learns that to obtain the fortune left him by his grandfather certain conditions must be fulfilled. He says he hasn't a chance. His buddy thinks otherwise, however, and to prove it he takes matters into his own hands and starts to fix things. No chance? His pal and friend finds seven for him. On this groundwork arises the comedy of the play, and there is plenty of it. There are some serious moments too. This play is one of the best St. Mary's has ever offered. A capable and well trained cast will uphold the splendid reputation of St. Mary's Players, and the public will see one of the best amateur performances ever given in this city. Some good seats still obtainable. Get yours today.

The St. Patrick's Night Dance

Tonight's the night of the big dance! Follow the crowd to the State Armory! Enjoy the concert of Irish airs! Young and old will have an opportunity to dance their favorite numbers. One of the best orchestras that could be secured will ensure a program of snappy and up-to-date dance music at a price within the reach of all. The United Hibernian St. Patrick's night dance comes but once a year and tonight's the night!

Well Child Conference

The well child conference at Wauregan will be held in the Men's club rooms, Monday, March 24, from 2 to 4 in the afternoon.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Flip Calls His Master

When meeting strangers have a care!
Of your approach I pray beware.
—Flip the Terrier.

Flip the Terrier had gone down on the Green Meadows. The ground was still frozen, but there was the feel of spring in the air and it made Flip uneasy. He wanted to go roaming around, so he had gone down on the Green Meadows just to see what was to be seen. He was trotting along halfway to the Smiling Pool, when ahead of him and a little off to one side he saw some thing move. Instantly he turned in that direction.

Almost at once a queer looking object began to flop along ahead of him as if trying to get away from him. Of course, Flip became very much interested at once. He knew it was a bird, for it kept spreading its wings as it flopped along. It would stand almost straight and waddle in the funniest way and then pitch forward.

Flip began to bark and prance around it. The bird stopped flopping along and squatted down. Flip danced around it, more excited than ever, all the time barking. Then he darted in to seize it. Instead of seizing it, he jumped back with a sharp yelp. That bird had struck him with a long, sharp, pointed bill. Flip thought he could move quickly, but that bird was quicker than he. Right then and there was born a new and very great respect for this curious feathered person.

Flip looked back up at Farmer Brown's house. He saw Farmer Brown's Boy walking toward the barn. Flip began to bark, as he does when he has cornered some one. Farmer Brown's Boy stopped to look over toward Flip. He could see the little dog dancing about as he barked.

"I wonder what he's found now," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I wonder if Johnny Chuck has come out and Flip has found him. I can see something down there, but I can't make out what it is. I guess I'll have to go down and find out."

So Farmer Brown's Boy started down across the Green Meadows. Flip redoubled his barking when he saw his master coming. He kept making little rushes at something, but Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that these rushes always stopped short of whatever or whoever it was he was rushing at. Flip grew a little bolder as his master approached. With his master there he felt braver. Once more he made a real attempt to seize that bird. Once more he jumped back with a sharp yelp.

Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled. "Flip is getting more than he bargained for," said he. "As I live, I believe that is Dipper the Grebe. What under the sun is he doing down here on the Green Meadows. Here, Flip, here! Leave that bird alone!"

Reluctantly, Flip obeyed. He stopped his rushing and barking. Farmer Brown's Boy stooped over and picked up that bird. It was Dipper the Grebe. Dipper, you know, is one of the water folk. He is in a way a sort of small cousin of Dippy the Loon.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut,

William L. Gilbert Clock Company, Winsted.

The Wm. L. Gilbert Clock company of Winsted, one of the oldest clock companies in the United States, was originally started in 1807 by Riley Whiting and Samuel and Luther Hoadley, and the first clocks made were those with wooden wheels and gears; yet these clocks were so skillfully and carefully made that instances are known where specimens of these clocks are still running and keeping time.

Later, Wm. L. Gilbert became the dominating influence in the firm and the name of the company was changed so as to bear his name. This continued until the year 1870 when the plant suffered a severe fire and was practically destroyed.

At that time the partners reorganized and incorporated the business, rebuilt the factory and named the new corporation the Wm. L. Gilbert Clock company which it has been down to the present time.

The Wm. L. Gilbert Clock company makes clocks for household purposes including the ordinary alarm clock, wall or hanging clocks and those designed for shelves or mantel. It has always maintained an excellent reputation for honesty and enjoys a high degree of confidence in the trade.

It is also of interest to note that the site of the present factory is located where the original factory of Whiting and Hoadley began operations and, so far as can be learned, it is the oldest company in the United States that is still operating on the site where it originated, where it enjoys exceptional shipping and distribution facilities.

The company maintains branch offices in Chicago and New York where displays of its clocks are on exhibition, and also does a considerable export business to practically every civilized country in the world.

Present officers of the company are: N. F. Thompson, Jr., president; R. E. Thompson, vice president; R. J. Leighton, treasurer and secretary; O. G. Williams, vice president in charge of production; N. L. Stevens, vice president in charge of sales.

LITTLE CHANGE IN RETAIL TRADE, ONLY SLIGHT GAINS IN WHOLESALE

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)— As the past week brought the first quarter near its close with few visible signs of the expected spring quickening of business activity, the federal reserve system administered what it is hoped may prove an effective spring tonic by reducing the New York rediscount rate from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent.

Opinion as to the probable effects of the lower rate are varied, but there is a dominant feeling that it will be widely helpful. It is scarcely expected that it will cause an immediate quickening of activity. Such was not the case when the rate was reduced to 3 1-2 per cent in August of 1927. One of the most conspicuous results at that time, however, was an increase in new security offerings.

The bond market responded to the lower rate with an immediate burst of strength. Floating of new issues has undoubtedly been facilitated, and insofar as railways, public utilities, and municipal governments will be able to take advantage of the better market to provide financing for new construction, industry will be aided.

There is a feeling, however, that improvement in building outside of heavy construction will be gradual.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported little change in retail trade, and only slight gains in wholesale trade. Freight car loadings as reported for the latest week held at comparatively low levels.

The decline in steel mill activity was more pronounced. Even U. S. Steel, which had maintained the high rate of operations reached early in February during recent weeks when other steel mills have been slowing up, finally cut its operations by about 3 per cent of capacity.

Automobile manufacturers are now turning out only about 80 per cent as many cars as they were a year ago, although it must be remembered that at this time a year ago the industry was working at an unparalleled rate.

In non-ferrous metals, attention was focused on copper, as the February statistics came to hand, showing further accumulation of stocks, despite reductions in output.

The grain markets remained unsettled, with wheat grain getting down close to the $1 a bushel level. Other commodity markets, however, showed a little better tone, with cotton rallying substantially.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At the regular meeting of the Backus Hospital Staff, held March 13th, 1930, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas an all wise Providence has seen fit to remove from this life our esteemed brother practitioner, Dr. Witter K. Tingley,

Resolved, That this staff is deeply cognizant of the fact that it has lost one who by his skill, ability and keen judgment has for years ranked among our foremost surgeons; who as a consultant was the ideal of professional courtesy and commanded the absolute confidence and utmost respect of his professional brethren, not only of Norwich but throughout eastern Connecticut; one who as a member of the original staff of the Wm. W. Backus Hospital has given faithful service for the welfare and upbuilding of the institution and whose loss to the same is severely felt.

Resolved, That by his genial, kindly disposition, his straight forward manner, his strong personality, his optimistic view of life, he attracted a wide and ever increasing circle of friends in all walks of life.

Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to the bereaved family and that we also have them inscribed on our records.

POETRY

The Preacher

He had prepared his sermon for the day
Brilliant with learning, gleaming with the play
Of word on word, each phrase a potent sound.
Then, as he rose to speak, he looked around
Upon the group, close-crowded, still, intense.
Who sat to hear his vaunted eloquence.
He saw a face whereon a woman's grief
Had drawn its agony, past all relief
Of human cheer. He saw where sin and care
Had plowed their lines, of anguish and despair.
Before him, too, he saw the face of youth,
Wistful and eager in its search for truth.

He laid aside his notes and bowed his head,
"Today I preach the love of God," he said.
—By Margaret Ashmun.

To St. Patrick

Good Saint Patrick, from thy place
In God's Paradise,
Look on us still dwelling here,
With thy loving eyes.

Pray that we may drive afar
Every evil thing
From our hearts and lives, that may
To us sorrow bring.

As the legend says that thou
Didst thy home-land free
From all noisome, creeping things,
Of the land or sea,

May we, like thee, pray that Christ
With us, everywhere
In our walks of life may be,
Shield us with His care.

Good Saint Patrick, pray for us
In God's Paradise;
As thou lookest on us here,
Aye, with loving eyes.
—ALPHA.

WOMEN TO COMMEMORATE TENTH YEAR OF SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair (left) of Missouri, Mrs. James Paige of Minnesota (lower) and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania are three of nine women to select names for suffrage memorial.

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—A national roll of honor, to include names of pioneer suffrage leaders, is to commemorate the tenth anniversary of federal suffrage for women.

A convention of the League of Women Voters in Louisville, April 28 to May 3, will celebrate 10 years of woman's right to vote and organization of the league itself.

Federal suffrage for women became a reality August 26, 1920. The league was organized the following February.

The exact form of the memorial to be placed in Washington, has not been decided. The honor roll will be announced in Louisville May 1.

Thus far the jury of awards has accorded places to Susan B. Anthony, Anna Howard Shaw and Carrie Chapman Catt.

Nine women have been named to the jury. Names of pioneer suffrage leaders, each accompanied by a $1,000 subscription from the nominating state, will be placed on the roll.

Income from a permanent memorial fund of $250,000, to be completed this year, will be used in work of the League of Women Voters, organized in 45 states.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Isolation.

The more wise and skillful we are in handling children the less frequtntly do we have recourse to punishment.

Unconsciously, of course, we all punish frequently merely by withholding our approval, by refusing to give our attention by a look or by a tone of voice.

There are, however, times when even the most well brought up child seems to require some definite checking of his behavior. The most frequent question of mothers is, "How shall I punish?"

The most effective punishment for the young child is that of being genuinely ignored.

Sometimes, however, when there are other people to be considered or when the youngster in question is particularly rambunctious this cannot be done.

On such occasions simply making him go to his room by himself until he is ready to be good quickly calms him and takes the pleasure out of being naughty.

Temporary ostracism more quickly than anything else puts him in a frame of mind where he is ready to pay the price of sociability.

A child should never be isolated for a definite period of time. If he is sent to his room for an hour or half an hour his punishment is not really a correction but a means of getting even with him for the annoyance he has caused. The child senses this and reciprocates with feelings of resentment which will tend only to build up a negative attitude toward parental authority. He should be sent to his room only until he is ready to behave.

Isolation either through being ignored or through being sent out of the room is the ideal punishment for most naughtinesses. It is almost the only one to use in correcting social offenses.

Quarrels, bad manners and noisiness are most effectively handled in this way.

CLUB WOMEN'S ELECTION PROMISES LITTLE CONTEST

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Election of officers of the coming biennial convention of women's clubs in Denver, June 5 to 14 is likely to be a quiet affair.

Under federation rules a woman who has served only one term of two years is eligible to re-election. Four of the principal officers are thus candidates again, leaving only the office of treasure to be filled. Home states of the four have unanimously endorsed their re-election.

Cards have been issued by the Maryland federation presenting the name of Mrs. John F. Sippel, the present president; Massachusetts favors Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole again as vice president; Oklahoma endorses Mrs. Eugene Lawson once more a second vice president and the Iowa federation presents again Mrs. Henry C. Taylor for recording secretary.

Mrs. Edward Hammett of Wisconsin is the only candidate thus far announced for terasurer.

ROLLER SKATING VOGUE FOR NAVY POST FOLK

GREAT LAKES, Ill., March 6—(AP)—Rolling waves of Lake Michigan seem to influence social circles of the Great Lakes naval training station—roller skating.

Roller skating parties were introduced last year by Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, wife of the commandant. They were so well received by the [illegible]ost that they have been continued [illegible]is year by Mrs. Walter S. Crosley, [illegible]fe of Admiral Craven's successor.

[illegible]OMEN DEBATERS THINK FASTER, COACH DECLARES

[illegible]ATE COLLEGE, March 16—(AP) [illegible]omen debaters think quicker than [illegible] in the opinion of Prof. John [illegible]zell of the Pennsyvania state col[illegible]e. He has coached both men's and [illegible]omen's debates teams for 20 years.

"Girls come to the fore in rebut[illegible]l where quick thinking is of paramount importance," he says. Among [illegible]ther points where girls excel he lists [illegible]actful approach and a tendency to consider the [illegible] more seriously.

TWO MOVIE HOUSE SINGERS WIN OPERA SCHOLARSHIP

CHICAGO, March 16—(AP)—The voices of Helen Ornstein and Lydia Milhm have won for them a year's vocal training in Italy and perhaps a career on the stage.

The young women, if they show promise, will receive a second year's training in France, and Germany. An audition then will determine whether they may join the Chicago civic opera company.

Miss Ornstein is from a Chicago home, while Miss Mihm is a product of a suburb, River Forest. The girls for a year have sung with a movie house chorus.

The yearly scholarships are in line with the opera company's policy of recruiting its singers among the ambitious youths of the United States.

WOMAN'S RULES TO GUIDE POLICE OF LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, March 16—(AP)—Rules laid down by a woman, Miss Olin, soon will be the law under which the Los Angeles police department will work.

She has compiled a new police manual, which is the culmination of her 15 years "on the force" as assistant secretary to a succession of police chiefs.

Miss Olin's manual is the result of her close observation of the inner workings of the department with rules compiled a score of years ago. Her name is on the book as author.

The sixty-page manual sets the police force in motion along the lises of a military organization. The outstanding change is the centralization of power, making each officer responsible for results. Reduction concentrates this responsiblity.

WOMAN FIRST EXHIBITOR AT LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—The first exhibit of pictures to be hung in the library of congress since the chair of fine arts was established by a gift of the Carnegie corporation is the work of a woman, Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston.

The exhibit includes pictures of historical homes and gardens of Fredericksburg. Falmouth and other Virginia towns. Miss Johnston is a pioneer photographer. Of late she has devoted most of her time to photographing interesting old gardens.

ENGLISH WOMEN BALLOT AGAINST WORKING WIVES

LONDON, March 16—(AP)—Nearly 7,000 women members of the Civil Service Clerical association believe women should not be allowed to keep their jobs after marriage.

Votes on an association ballot showed an overwhelming majority in favor of compulsory resignation along with the wedding bells.

WOMAN POLITICIAN LIKES DISH WASHING

MIAMI, March 16—(AP)—Found—a woman who likes to wash dishes.

She is Miss Dorothy Cunningham of Indianapolis, woman member from Indiana of the republican national committee.

"Washing dishes has become a lost art," she says. "I have done dishes since I was a child and never disliked it. Soft sudsy water and clean gleaming dishes—what could be nicer?"

Golden Wedding Family

JACKSON, March 16—(AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loranz celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Mrs. Loranz become the fourth bride of her direct line to have completed 50 years of married life.

Students Guard Sanitation

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Health scouts, organized by the hygiene department of the Hadassah medical organization, act as sanitary inspectors in the scools of Jerusalem. Their task is to safeguard health of teachers and pupils.

Berlin Discards Tuxedo

BERLIN, March 16—(AP)—Never before, say Berlin's fashion tailors, have they supplied as many evening dress suits as this year. The swallow tail outfit is supplanting the tuxedo for evening affairs.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

No modern kitchen is complete without a clock that keeps accurate time.

In cutting fresh bread, heat the knife and it will prevent crumbling.

To prevent the icing from running off the cake, dust a little flour over the top of the cake before it is iced.

Hot doughnuts rolled in powdered maple sugar and cinnamon have a delicious flavor.

Blueing added to soapy water in which glassware is washed will make it sparkle.

Test custard by putting a silver knife into the center. If knife comes out clean the custard is baked.

The kitchen table is generally the correct height for the worker if she can place her hands flat on the top without stooping.

Cake, which has become hard and stale, may be made soft again if first dipped in sweet milk, then set in the oven for a few minutes.

Potatoes that are intended for baking should be soaked in hot water about a half hour, wiped dry and rubbed with butter. They will bake more quickly and be mealier.

Do not try to hurry a paint-remover. Apply it with a brush and give it time to do its work. When the paint begins to loosen remove it with a putty-knife.

Buy a small quantity of putty powder, put it into a saucer and add enough olive oil to make a paste. Rub this on the silver with a soft flannel cloth. Polish with a chamois and the scratches will disappear.

GOOD FOR SEASONING

Save all celery tops, wash and dry them and place in the oven, turning them now and again. Store the leaves in an airtight tin. Use them for flavoring soups.

USE A BASKET FOR BOILING

Boil macaroni, rice, potatoes and the like in a wire frying basket set in a saucepan of boiling water, rather than directly in the water. When done, the basket and its contents may be lifted out. This is much easier than ordinary draining.

CLEANING COPPER

Dip a cloth or sponge in lemon juice, then rub it on a cake of soap and go over the articles vigorously, using generous quantities of the mixture. When it dries, polish the pieces with a clean, soft cloth, rinse in hot water and dry them carefully. Another excellent mixture for cleaning copper is made by adding a half pint of whiting and a teaspoonful of ammonia to about a pint of soap paste.

MEAT LOAF

If meat loaf is to be used sliced for Sunday night supper, use some tapioca along with the crumbs in mixing it. This keeps the slices from breaking so easily.

TWO EGG-BEATERS

Having two egg beaters is a small expense but a huge time saver. Cakes, pies and puddings that use both yolks and whites beaten can be made much more quickly with two beaters to use.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Hot water applied behind the ears will often relieve headaches.

If a cut will not stop bleeding, apply flour or ground rice. Either one will be effective.

To clean combs place them in a solution made of a teaspoon of soda dissolved in a pint of boiling water, then brush between the teeth of the comb.

Daylight is the best light to read by. If you read by artificial light, let it fall over your left shoulder and have it shaded so that the light falls on the book instead of in a glare across your eyes.

CHILDREN'S HAIR

Whether children have curly mops of hair or thin straight wisps, give their hair careful attention. Daily brushing is essential.

The old-fashioned kid curlers, the curling irons and other tortuous devices of the past are now definitely discarded for children as they are for grown-ups. If the hair is inclined to be straight, keep it fluffy by frequent shampoos. When the little girl is older, set her hair in waves, either with the fingers or with combs after the shampoo.

For boys as well as girls of school age, the shampoo should be a regular event. Once in ten days or two weeks in winter, and once a week in the summer-time is a good rule.

The proper way to shampoo a child's hair is to use lukewarm water and a soap of unquestioned quality, with particular attention to the rinsing. If soap is left in the hair it forms a white flake, like dandruff, which makes the child's head not only unsightly, but itchy and uncomfortable.

COFFEE TABLES

They are charming and colorful and may be used for a smoking-stand or tea-table as well. Painted in soft tones of red, green or creamy yellow, each has an old English hunting print set in the top. They are lacquered over so that heat or water will not injure them.

PICNIC SETS

Of course it's a bit early to talk of picnics, but nevertheless these would be a good thing to buy and put away for future needs. They consist of printed paper doilies for the picnic table. They are printed or blocked in very smart designs and have been treated so that they may easily be washed off. And it is said they may be used fairly constantly for at least two months.

IMPERVIOUS TO SUN

The new materials for draperies are said to withstand sun and changes of climate. They have on one side a satiny surface of natural tone, while the reverse shows a contrasting shade. It may be of dull rose, green, violet or blue, but in each case the quality of color tones in admirably with the decorative scheme of the room.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Eyelet embroidery is being revived.

Satin opera pumps are the smart choice for evening.

Gray is expected to replace beige as the neutral tone for spring.

Tulle, net and lace are conspicuous in evening fashions abroad.

The Empire silhouette seems to be casting its shadow as waist-lines creep higher and higher.

Terry cloth, which has been in wide usage for beach coats, is now used for beach pajama ensembles.

The white costume topped with a black hat and worn with black shoes is also reported, black gloves sometimes being added.

One-piece jersey and tweed dresses and one-piece lightweight woolen dresses of many kinds are second only in importance to the suit.

Everyone should be blue in the spring, to be really chic. Blue is the outstandiling favorite color predicted, ranging from baby blue to navy.

Striped shirting blouses step with jaunty swing into prime favorites. A green and white novelty striped on has its yoke and the top of its sleeves cut on the horizontal.

SKIRTED DIGNITY

A stunning black panne velvet gown with real lace yoke that points out over the shoulders and to a V in front has tremendous dignity in its long skirt that sweeps the ankles all around.

ROSE PINK IS AGAIN IN FAVOR

Rose pink in returning to favor along with other romantic fashions. It appears to be especially prominent in lending a bright touch to dark background prints.

There are prints combining pink with black, pink with navy, with brown. Yet most novel is the alliance of pink with dark red and dahlia, seen in some of the most important fabric showings for late winter and early spring.

TIERED WRAP

A three-quarters evening wrap of geranium taffeta is really a cape made of three circular tiers. Its neckline is Chinese.

CAPE ENSEMBLE

Printed crepe spring outfits feature the cape ensemble as new and diverting. The cape is jacket length and the frock sleeveless.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Hang woolens on the line dripping wet and they will not be so liable to shrink as those wrung out before drying.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water, as hot water will set them. Egg strains on silk can usually be removed by rubbing them with common table salt.

When pressing suits, fold a large piece of newspaper lengthwise, wet one side of it and fold the dry side over the wet side. Place the wet side against the suit and iron on the dry side. This also prevents shiny suits.

To avoid the difficulty of ironing baby pillow slips on an ordinary ironing board, cut a board a little smaller than the slips. Pad it the same as the ironing board. The pillow slips can be easily slipped over the board and ironed nicely.

LEMONS FOR CLEANING

Carafes, rose vases, slim-necked water pitchers and other articles of glass frequently become coated on the inside with a scale formed by hard water. One housekeeper discovered this fact after using a cut-glass carafe for lemonade. Leaving some of the lemonade in the carafe for an hour or two, she then turned it out, discovering at the same time that every trace of the stains on the glass had disappeared. The acid of the lemon had completely cut the scale.

BLANKETS AND QUILTS

If the blankets are soiled they should first be carefully laundered. Select a clear windy day if possible so that the drying will not take too long. Prepare a lather of warm soapsuds and dip the covers in and out, forcing the suds through the fabric by gentle pressure. When the water becomes dirty and the suds lose their sparkle, change to fresh suds and clear warm water as often as is necessary.

Rinse several times in clear warm water, then press out as much of the water as you can without wringing or twisting. Fasten the blankets securely to a wash line out of doors with the weight distributed evenly on either side so as to keep them from stretching out of shape.

Eiderdown quilts may be washed in the same way, but during the drying process they should be shaken frequently or beaten with a cane to prevent the down filling from becoming matted.

FOR TRAVEL

The most fastidious traveler will approve a smart traveling-case of a bright dark blue leather with fittings enameled in a brilliant tone of sapphire blue.

Cottage Fried Potatoes, Serving 6: 4 tablespoons bacon fat, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 3 cups sliced cooked potatoes, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons cream.

Heat fat and butter in frying pan. Add onions and potatoes and cook until well browned. Add rest of ingredients and cover with lid. Cook 3 minutes.

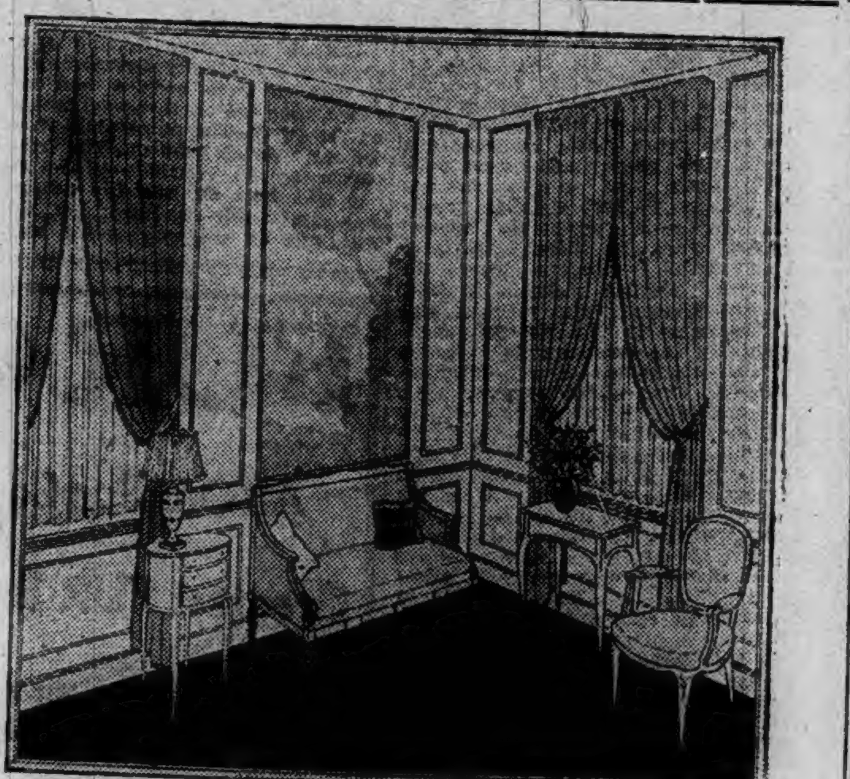
Fig Layer Cake: 4 tablespoons butter, melted, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons milk, 2 egg yolks, 1 1-4 cups flour, 1 1-4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs white, stiffly beaten.

Mix the melted butter and sugar. Add extracts, salt, milk, egg yolks, flour and baking powder. Beat 3 minutes. Fold in beaten egg whites and pour into 2 shallow layer cake pans fitted with waxed papers. Bake 20 minutes in moderately slow oven.

Fig Cream Filling: 1-2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 egg or 2 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2-3 cup water, 1-2 cup chopped figs, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons orange juice.

Blend sugar and flour. Add salt, egg, lemon juice, water and figs. Mix well. Add rest of ingredients. Cook in double boiler until thick and creamy. Stir frequently to prevent lumping. Cool and use as filling between baked layers of the cake. Cover top and sides with any white frosting or with whipped cream. Serve cut in wedge shaped pieces. This cake is suitable to serve for dessert at a luncheon party.

OLD FURNITURE BLENDS WITH MODERN SPIRIT



Period designs make drawing-room "different."

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

Although the influence of 18th century France is felt in the decoration of this drawing-room, it is interesting to see how it fuses with the modern spirit.

The color scheme is unusuel. Here the walls are a soft fuchsia and cool green, the moldings are all antiqued in gold and over the gold a soft lacquer in a light peach tone is rubbed on.

This produces the effect found in some rare old pieces of French furniture, those treasures which are reproduced in furnishings of the room. The drapes are a darker fuchsia and the glass curtains are a soft peach silk gauze.

The wall panel is painted in soft pastel shades of fuchsia and green, set in a molding of blended old gold. On the floor is a tete-denegre velvet carpet, proving that the modern can be intimately associated with the antique without aesthetic disturbance.

Graceful and delicate lines of the Louis XV arm chair, the gracious curves of the occasional tables, and the prim artifice of the love seat combine to produce that effect of suave elegance which characterized the 18th century. For the modern American home, these styles are adaptable to almost any room or any budget.

While authentic pieces of the period are too expensive for all and are often so rare that they have a place nowhere except in a fractured by hand in European or American factories have the distinction and the appeal of the original.

There is a wealth of bric-a-brac and objects d'art which harmonize with the 18th century furniture.

The porcelain lamp set on the oval cabinet is horizontally striped in antique gold and the shade is a combnation of pastel shades of fuchsia and green. It is set on a base of blended old gold. The vase on the table before the window is malachite green. A soft, deep green velvet is used to upholster the white and gold armchair and the love seat, and a black and a golden amber cushion are placed for accent on the latter.

Whether it is to be a small drawing-room in a modest apartment or a spacious room in a vast home, the charm of the 18th century French furniture finds a harmonious setting. After placing it and living with it awhile, we become convinced of its congruity with modern requirements of comfort and convenience.

The impression it gives is that the period idea has been quite submerged, and decorative effects created only with a view to harmonious form and color—a view distinctly modern.

'DAY'S JOB DONE WELL' LED WOMAN TO HIGH U. S. POST

ANNABEL MATHEWS

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—"I just did my job every day the best I knew how."

That is Annabel Mathews' summary of past performances which led to her appointment, at a salary of $10,000, as the only woman member of the United States tax appeals board.

The former Georgia school teacher who worked her way up in Uncle Sam's employ from a $900 a year job to one of the highest salaried women officials finds interest and romance in rows of figures and legal phrases which would baffle the average woman.

Miss Mathews is the type of woman who seems as much at home in a drawing room as behind an office desk. She likes to sew and to work in a garden.

She finds the feminine comfort she likes, after a day's hard work in the brick house in Georyetown which she shares with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

Here she has relaxation in music and conversation. Sometimes Miss Mathews and Mrs. Willebrandt forget law and weighty decisions, roll up sleeves, don aprons and bake cookies or make fudge.

Dr. Louise Stanley, head of the U. S. bureau of home economics, will soon join their household. The two women lawyers plan a surprise for this expert of cookery when she arrives.

Miss Mathews is an aviation enthusiast. She has circled above Washington in a plane, flown to Pittsburgh and from London to Paris.

COEDS ASK TO GOVERN SELVES IN STATE SCHOOL

RALEIGH, N. C., March 16—(AP)—Co-eds at North Carolina State college do not like student government if the boys have anything to say about the rules.

The Pioneer club, composed of 72 girl students, has been organized with the purpose of setting up a student government separate from the one which now controls both boy and girl students.

A plan of government for girls only has been drawn up and will be submitted to the student council for its decision.

COAT STYLES REFLECT IN DRESS SLEEVES

PARIS, March 16—(AP)—Three-quarter and elbow-length coat and jacket sleeves for spring and summer have brought fuller and more elaborate lower sleeves for dresses and blouses.

The old-fashioned bishop sleeve, gathered into a narrow cuff, is one popular form for spring.

Bell sleeves of three-quarter or seven-eighths length also are in favor.

Gold invariably loses its luster when obtained by guilt.

NEW DRESS STYLES BRING NARROWER STADIUM SEATS

ITHACA, N. Y., March 16—(AP)—Changes in women's dress styles have added space to college football grandstands, says Romeyn Berry, graduate manager of athletics at Cornell university.

Berry explained that in 1910 the correct width for a stadium seat was considered 19 inches. Styles in women's apparel began to change and kept changing. Within a few years the width of seats had been reduced to 17 1-2 inches. Now some colleges want to make the width 16 inches.

By changing from 19 to 17 1-2 inches, Berry said, Princeton was able to seat 6,000 more persons.

PALE PATTERNS MARK AFTERNOON CHIFFONS

PARIS, March 16—(AP)—Midsummer afternoon chiffons in their newest form have pale printed patterns in shadow shades on white grounds. Patterns may be formalized designs or flat color floral prints. Some printed taffeta is shown for afternoon and evening.

Vincent Brophy, a student at Fordham university, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Brophy, of Central avenue.

Miss Vernon Johnstone has resumed her duties as a student nurse at St. Francis hospital, Hartford, after spending a few days' recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnstone, of Prospect street.

Miss Eleanor Seward of Convent avenue has returned, after spending two weeks with relatives at New London.

TWO PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT MEN'S CLUB TONIGHT

Men of the city are invited this evening (Monday) to attend the last meeting of the Men's club of the St. Andrew's Episcopal church. The committee in charge has been very successful in obtaining two very prominent speakers. The first speaker will be Hon. Clarence A. Barnes of Boston, Mass., a distinguished member of the Massachusetts bar, who will address the members and their friends on the "Evils of the 18th Amendment," while John W. McKinley, president emeritus of the club, will speak on "History and Past Facts of Greeneville." A special musical programme has been arranged. After the meeting refreshments will be served.

Speak on St. Patrick

At St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan was celebrant of the 7:30 o'clock mass, while Rev. Albert Sullivan read the 9 and 10:30 masses. The sermons at the three masses dwelt upon St. Patrick and the hardships which he suffered to bring the seed of Catholicity to the Irish people. His success was well rewarded, for history itself tells of the thousands of souls that through his untiring efforts were converted to his fold. The Irish people received the faith of the Catholic religion so strongly that they suffered persecution rather than discard their religion. During the masses of the day, Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, church organist, played several Irish airs.

St. Andrew's Services

The regular Lenten services were observed at St. Andrew's Episcopal church Sunday evening with a large attendance present. Rev. E. J. Norris, rector, was in charge of the services and Mrs. Charles Erwin, the church organist, directed the musical program. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Robert H. Parkes of Yantic, who delivered an inspiring address on "For quiet confidence, O God of Peace, Who hast taught us that in returning and rest we shall be saved in quietness and in confidence shall be our strength. By the might of Thy spirit lift us, we pray Thee, to Thy presence where we may be still and know that Thou art God through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen."

TAFTVILLE

The members of St. Veronica's society gave a well attended lenten card party Friday evening at their rooms on Providence street. The first prize for ladies went to Miss Florina Arpin; and the second to Miss Mary Nolan. Rev. Donat Jette won the first prize for gentlemen, the second going to Edward Lambert of Baltic. The committee which had charge of the successful affair included Miss Agnes M. Dougherty, chairman; Miss Grace Phalen, Miss Viola Chappell, Miss Mary Murphy and Miss Helen Breault.

Mr. and Mrs. Amede Pion and their daughter, Miss Grace Pion, of Hunters avenue and Mrs. William J. Smith of Dion street, have been in Hartford during the past week where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon T. Parent, former Taftville residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree and son, Harold, Jr., of Goodyear spent the week end at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North C street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot B. Grover, who have been spending a few days in New York, have returned to their home on North Third avenue.

Miss Sherilda Pion of New London was a week end visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amede Pion and family of Hunters avenue.

The lenten devotions at Sacred Heart church Friday evening included Stations of the Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw and little daughter Inez and Miss Amy Haas of Mystic have been recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kinder and family of North Third avenue.

Charles Adams, Jr., of Danielson, was in town over the week end to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams and family of North Third avenue.

John Meyer of Hartford spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Meyer of Providence street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue entertained over the week end Philip Brugge of Providence, Mrs. Howard Gregory of East Providence and Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Crowell of Edgewood, R. I.

Fire Company No. 2, was called out Saturday morning, when a barn belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Polidor Brodeur of Hunters road caught fire from a grass fire, and spread to two poultry houses. All the buildings were completely destroyed, but the live stock was saved. It was with difficulty that the firemen kept the blaze from spreading to the property of Arthur Brodeur which adjoins that of his father. The loss is estimated at between $700 and $800.

IRISH MELODIES AND SERMON FOR ST. PATRICK'S SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Anticipating St. Patrick's day today, March 17th, the religious observance of the patronal feast of St. Patrick's parish took place Sunday. Of the regular four masses, the first at 7.30 was a high mass for the day, sung by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael Henry May. Grateful to God for another twelve-month of advancement in numbers, fervor, influence and wealth, there was a great outpouring of the parishioners, the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Auxiliary and the Rosary society receiving holy communion from the rector and his assistant, Rev. John J. Reilly. Nearly every person in the great congregation went to the altar for communion, following hundreds of confessions the previous afternoon and evening.

The members of the Altar society had adorned the three marble altars mostly in white blossoms and the lights were veiled with green. At the gospel side of the main altar stood the American flag which so many men in the assemblage had fought to defend in the country's modern wars, while at the epistle side was displayed the green banner of Ireland, with its golden harp and shamrocks.

Rev. Father Reilly read the day's gospel for the second Sunday in Lent, the Transfiguration, Matthew 17.1-9. Because of the formal celebration in the evening there was no sermon at this service. The choir sang with fine spirit, directed by the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, whose interludes were Moore's melodies and other Irish airs, ending with the parish Hymn to St. Patrick.

The soloists at the morning service were Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle, Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, Miss Blanche A. LaPre, Roderick F. Sullivan, Horace F. Corning and Henry J. LaFontaine.

In the evening at 7:30, the observance of the day was continued with a musical service in which the eloquent sermon upon St. Patrick was delivered by Rev. Bryan Murphy of the Passionist monastery at Union City, N. J.

It is a national virtue to honor the renowned, the preacher said. St. Patrick established the morality of a nation. His title rests in the loyalty of the people he converted; his fame in what he did. He converted a whole nation and it is for those who came after him to ask themselves "Does that faith he gave us still burn in our hearts; do we hold the heritage he left us?"

St. Patrick came to a people who were idolaters, the preacher said, but they were known for their manly virtues, for their learning and for the beauty of their work. He described the conversion of the Irish king by St. Patrick, which was followed by the conversion of the whole people, a matter of great moment to the people of the island and to the entire world. No national hero is held in greater esteem than is St. Patrick, the preacher declared, and he appealed to those in his audience to let it be their boast never to place a stain upon the pure escutcheon of their Irish Catholic faith, but to cherish the heritage handed down from their ancestors and let their faith and loyalty be shown as they sing the praises of St. Patrick who kindled and held before them the light of faith.

Preceding the evening service a 15-minute programme of Irish airs was given by Organist Fontaine, whose beautiful rendering of the music gave great pleasure to the large congregation.

The musical part of the service was further continued, before the sermon, by solo and chorus numbers by the choir which were given with excellent effect and included the following numbers:

Harp That Once, (Moore), chorus; Believe Me, (Moore), H. J. LaFontaine, accompanist, Mrs. B. Coyle; Oft in the Stilly Night, (Moore), Miss B. LaPre; Kathleen Mavourneen, (Crouch), R. F. Sullivan; Low Backed Car, male chorus; The Kerry Dance, Miss Sadie Driscoll; The Minstrel Boy, (Moore), H. F. Corning; Come Back to Erin, (Moore), chorus.

The service was concluded with benediction in which O Salutaris was sung by Mrs. Dominic Bailey. At the offertory the parish hymn to St. Patrick was sung and the recessional was "Hail Glorious Apostle."

DIRECTOR READ FROM BOOK WHILE CLUB GIRLS SEWED

The Girls' City club, under the auspices of the Woman's City club, held its weekly meeting last Friday evening at their clubrooms, 9 Washington street with a very large attendance. As announced previously, the meeting started at 8 o'clock and will continue to do so during the Lenten season. One girl applied for membership in the club and one girl, Lillian DiCarlo, was initiated as a full-fledged member.

The girls enjoyed a quiet hour of sewing while time Mrs. W. C. McKean, the director of the club, read to them from a book, which will be continued next week. This was followed by a short recreational period, during which games were played and light refreshments were served.

AHEPA BALL REALIZED $521 FOR GREEK CHURCH

The sum of $521 was realized for the benefit of Hellenic Orthodox church by the ball that was recently given by Norwich chapter, No. 110, The Ahepa. The money has been turned over to the trustees of the church by the ball committee which numbered Theodore Phillips, Chr. Stamos, George Gianacopoulos, U. Sakellarides, Thomas Arvan and J. John. Co-operation on the part of the public in various ways, which helped in the successful result of the ball included the generosity of the Elks in contributing their hall for the ball.

County Agent Spoke At Meetings.

An illustrated lecture on home gardens was given by County Farm Agent Walter T Clarke Friday evening at Groton, under the auspices of the Groton grange, and on Thursday evening was in charge of a dairy crops meeting at North Stonington. At the North Stonington meeting Mr Clarke spoke on the dairy program for the next five years, illustrating his talk with movies. The subject of the growing of alfalfa was handled by J. S. Owens of the Connecticut Agricultural college and Albert Beckwith.

George Kaplan Over Radio.

George Kaplan, brother of Mrs. Samuel Taylor of 219 Broadway, was heard over the radio, station WMCA, on Saturday afternoon at 4.15. Mr. Kaplan is a tenor for whom critics are predicting a successful future. He sings under the name of Joseff Michelle and his selections for the program Saturday were, "I Know A Lovely Garden" and "My Message," by D'Ardelot.

Judgment For $3,985.33

Abner Schwartz of this city has been awarded a judgment for $3,985.33 with interest against Max Silberman of this city by Judge Christopher L. Avery in superior court at New London. According to the allegations Schwartz loaned Silberman $2,500 on Sept. 18, 1929, and $500 on Nov. 24, 1929, in addition to selling him household articles to the amount of $984.85.

OBSERVED HIS 94TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Charles E. Gale, a native of this city, and an uncle of the late Charles W. Gale, is the oldest citizen of Mineral Point, Wisconsin, where he observed his 94th birthday anniversary on Friday, Feb. 21.

Of the observance the Mineral Point newspaper says:

Mr. Gale, at this extreme age, is hale and hearty. Practically every day he can be seen on the streets down town. He takes a keen interest in the happenings of the day, reads a great deal without the help of glasses, and is an enthusiastic radio fan. He has a very good memory and can recall events that took place from 70 to 75 years ago.

He was born at Norwich, Connecticut, February 21, 1836, where he grew to young manhood. In 1857 he came west to Chicago where an older brother, John H. Gale, was in business. The older brother was a charter member of the Chicago board of trade. At that time he purchased his membership for $26. He conducted a retail general store in Chicago and Charles worked in this store for several years. Later he went out through the south and west purchasing grain and cotton for his older brother. In 1861 Mr. Gale located at Warren, Ill., where he opened a general store and three years later he moved to Darlington, where he conducted a similar business. In 1868, when the Mineral Point railroad was built, he came to this city as general agent of the company. In 1880 the road was sold to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company. Mr. Gale continued in the employ of the company until 1884 when he went into the retail grocery business in this city, opening up a store where the Evans restaurant is now located. After ten years at this stand he moved to the building where the Day Shoe store is located. He carried a very complete line of dishes and crockery in addition to groceries. After 25 years at this stand he retired from business in 1926.

He built his present home 60 years ago and has lived in the house ever since that time.

During his stay in Chicago he had an opportunity to hear the Lincoln-Douglas debate and he was one of the thousands who passed by the remains of the assassinated president at the court house in Chicago before they were taken to Springfield for burial.

At Galena he saw General Grant and recalls that he was in the leather business in that city.

His three children, Harry and Bert of Chicago, and Mrs. Anna Terrill, with whom the aged gentleman makes his home, will be home Friday to help celebrate the birthday anniversary.

FIREMEN HAD THREE CALLS ON SATURDAY

At 11.40 o'clock Saturday morning the fire department received a telephone call for a grass fire on property owned by Andrew Stevens on Laurel Hill. The blaze started by sparks from a rubbish fire was put out by Squad A under direction of Chief Henry Taft.

Children playing with matches were blamed for a grass and rubbish fire on land located in the rear of Nos. 58-64 Washington street. The department was notified of this blaze at 11.53, and Engines Nos. 1 and 5, Squad A, Chief Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, responded. The property is owned by Frank Pasqualini and the United Italian society. A chicken coop was somewhat damaged by the blaze, which was extinguished with 12 gallons chemical and water.

Another grass fire at No. 180 Palmer street called out Squad A and the chief at 12.22. The land is owned by Mrs. Jerry Hewitt. This blaze is also believed to have been started by children with matches.

MOTORCYCLE HIT POLE ON WEST THAMES STREET

Abrasions of the face and a possible fractured jaw were suffered by Clarence Redhead, 22, of 253 West Main street when the motorcycle he was riding struck a pole on West Thames street about 1:45 Sunday afternoon. He was riding towards the city line and had about reached the top of the so-called foundry hill when the machine shot across the highway to the left and hit a pole on that side of the street, moving the pole about two inches.

Redhead was thrown off and the front of the motorcycle was badly smashed. The motorcycle rider was taken to Backus hospital in the ambulance and the accident was investigated by Officers Crary and P. Murphy.

An x-ray is to be taken to determine whether there is a fracture of the jaw.

The motorcycle was taken by the police to Bailey's garage, from which it was recently purchased on a conditional bill of sale.

TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION TO CONSIDER SCHOOL PLAN

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Norwich Taxpayers' association to be held this week, the junior high school project, which has been endorsed by the town school board, is to be discussed along with other matters of interest to the tax payers. The matter of the junior high school will be investigated, it is understood, by a special committee to be appointed by the association to report back its findings to a general meeting of the association. At this meeting it is expected also that members of the school board will be asked to present certain information in connection with the project.

LISBON TOWN COURT CONTINUED LIQUOR CASES

In the Lisbon town court Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before Justice Walter Drew, John Gadue, 42, and Henry Therrien, 33, both of Versailles, charged with violations of the liquor laws, had their cases continued for two weeks. The accused, who were arrested Thursday evening by state police at their places at Rooster Hill in the town of Lisbon, were released under bonds of $500 pending their continuance. In the raids a small quantity of liquor was seized.

Suspect Had Good Alibi

A Willimantic man, suspected of the robbery at the Ideal Service station, West Town stret, was arrested at the Thread City shortly after the holdup and questioned by state police at the Groton barracks. He furnished an alibi that was found by the state police to be reliable and he was released. The investigation is being conducted by Sergeant George Webber and State Police Officer Elmer McKenzie of the Groton barracks.

Mrs. Rose Quinn, a member of Norwich grange auxiliary who is visiting her daughter in Indianapolis, had a gift made to her by the auxiliary before she left to visit in the middle west.

NORWICH CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONERSHIP

A meeting of the republican town committee has been called for Tuesday evening at which time it is expected a Norwich candidate will be endorsed for appointment as a member of the board of county commissioners, as successor to Sheriff George H. Bradford, of Montville, as it is understood that Sheriff Bradford is to resign as a member of the board, since he has been appointed sheriff. It is felt in political circles that the apointment of a commissioner to succeed Sheriff Bradford, upon his resignation, should come to Norwich.

It is believed that the new county institution will be ready for occupancy about Nov. 1 and if Mr. Bradford resigns as county commissioner at that time it will mean that his successor will serve only until January, 1931, when the legislature will make an appointment for the regular term.

To date F. A. Beckwith, first selectman of the town of East Lyme, is the only outspoken candidate to succeed Bradford on the board of county commissioners, but the names of many others about the county are being advanced by their friends. Mr. Beckwith is a veteran legislator and represented the town of East Lyme at the last legislative session and was in the senate from the 20th, or shoestring, district at the 1927 session.

At the present time the shoestring district has two of the county commissioners in Mr. Bradford and Elisha Waterman of Lebanon and this, the 18th district, has the third member of the board in Charles H. Smith of Noank.

It now appears as though the 19th district, which comprises the towns of Norwich, Preston and Ledyard, will make a strong bid for representation when, and if, Bradford resigns.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON NORTH MAIN STREET

While crossing North Main street near the fire station about 10 o'clock Saturday night, Antone Suilpa of 55 Seventh street was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Robert Globus of 758 Boswell avenue. The man was hit by the left mudguard of the machine. He was attended by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy and then taken to the Backus hospital, with contusions and abrasions on the hip and the side of the head. The accident was investigated by Officer Quinn.

AUTO DRIVER KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION WITH TROLLEY ON CURVE

One man was fatally injured and another seriously hurt as the result of a head-on collision Sunday night, shortly after 10:30 o'clock, between an automobile and a trolley car, on the North Main street curve, opposite the office building at the plant of the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co. The dead man is Charles Hulboj of No. 55 Lois street, Prospect Park, driver of the automobile, and the injured man is Joseph P. Carter, conductor, employed by the Connecticut Co., who was riding in the front vestibule of the trolley car on which Louis Beckwith was motorman. Carter is suffering from a possible punctured kidney.

Hulboj, who was driving a Dodge sedan in a southerly direction, at what is said to have been a fast rate of speed, met the north-bound trolley car on the curve. The automobile and trolley car crashed head-on. The left hand corner of the vestibule of the trolley car was torn off and the automobile was practically wrecked. Mr. Carter, who was on the way to his home at Prospect Park and who was riding in the front vestibule of the trolley car, was caught in the wreckage and badly injured. He was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital.

Hulboj was taken from the wrecked automobile in a dying condition by the police, who responded to an emergency call, and was rushed to the hospital in the police patrol. He died shortly after reaching the hospital. Photographs of the scene of the accident were taken shortly after midnight and later what remained of the automobile was removed by a wrecker. Motorman Louis Beckwith was in charge of the trolley car, which left Franklin square at 10:30 o'clock for Greeneville. Officers Howard Coburn, John Quinn and Patrick F. Shahan of the local police department responded to the emergency call. The city directory gives the dead man's name as Karol Hulboj. The machine he was driving had number plates N-9091 and was registered in the name of Charles Hulboy, Prospect Park, Norwich.

SEES STEADY IMPROVEMENT IN ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAW

Declaration Made By Chairman Wickersham of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission—Disposed of Proposal For 2.75 Per Cent. Beer By Asserting That It Would Fail to Meet the "Robust Tastes"—Unable to Confirm Reports of Corruption In the Prohibition Service—Promised Another Report Soon Giving a Comprehensive Picture of Prohibition Conditions — Will Require Another Year to Complete the Commission's Task.

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Speaking up after eight months study of the dry law and its workings, Chairman Wickersham, of the Hoover law enforcement commission, reported today a "steady improvement" in prohibition and belittled the proposal for 2.75 per cent beer as failing to meet the "robust tastes."

The commission chairman halted his wearisome examination into the problems of enforcing America's laws to speak freely to the senate judiciary committee in executive session and then to newspapermen.

His optimistic view of enforcement, was believed at the capitol to have darkened the prospects for a senate investigation fo the situation, as has been proposed by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska. The Nebraskan said after the session with Mr. Wickersham, however, that he still saw "plenty of room for improvement." He announced he would call up his resolution next Monday for a vote.

Smiling broadly, Mr. Wickersham expressed his opinions in response to questioning by newspapermen. Asked what he thought about bills for 2.75 beer, he said simply 'I don't think that beer will satisfy the robust tastes." He made no amplification and declined to go into any discussion of the merits of this legislation of the dry law.

Before the judiciary committee, he promised to have another report from the commission and he believed it would give a comprehensive picture of prohibition conditions. He said it was outside the province of the commission to pass judgment on a senate investigation but he advocated enactment of the prohibition transfer bill and proposed also legislation to tighten up the control over industrial alcohol. He advocated that users of this alcohol be required to submit reports on the ultimate consumption of the product.

Asked if the prohibition law is, or could be, enforced, Mr. Wickersham said it was not being enforced 100 per cent but he quickly added that one of his "most competent investigators" had told him the law is being enforced "better than any other federal law."

He emphasized before the committee the improvement which he believed had occured in prohibition conditions during the last year. This he attributed to the placing of dry agents under civil service, "to increasing vigil on the part of officers, greater attention on the part of the administration and to a general perfection in methods growing out of experience."

The commission has a great deal of work ahead and he believes it will require another year to complete its task. There are now 26 volumes of reports from investigators on prohibition before it and still to be digested.

Contrary to previous reports, Mr. Wickersham said that it was entirely up to the commission whether it would pass judgments on the merits of the dry law. Asked if there were disagreements within the commission, he said only "the natural, healthful disagreements" which would exist on such an organization.

As for corruption in the prohibition service, the chairman said he was not able to prove any. He added:

"I hear a lot of reports about corruption but when I go to put my hand on it, I usually find out it was something that happened last year when some one else was on the job."

Wickersham told the committee that the commission did not want to recommend either for or against a senate investigation. He said afterward that "what has been done by us seems sufficient to develop the line of improvement in prohibition enforcement and we have recommended the prohibition transfer bill to help carry that out."

"The pending legislation," he added, "deals with the subject so adequately that it seemed hardly necessary that an investigation be made.'

SAVED INSANE PATIENT AND NURSE FROM DROWNING

WALTHAM, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—Diving into the Charles river today, Earle Bagnell, saved Mrs. Catherine Whitney, 50, an insane patient, and Miss Marion E. Derry, a nurse, from death in the icy waters after the nurse, with equal heroism, had followed her patient in a leap into the river. Hundreds of awe-stricken onlookers witnessed the rescue of both women and a struggle between them which had preceded it.

Mrs. Whitney, a patient at the McLean hospital, Waverly, was en route to a hairdresser's with Miss Derry. As they crossed the Moody street bridge, Mrs. Whitney dashed down a stairway to a float and leaped into the river. Without a moment's hesitation, Miss Derry followed her.

A struggle ensued as the nurse braved the dangers of drowning and thwarted attemps of Mrs. Whitney to free herself and go to her death. Although a large crowd quickly gathered, no one went to the assistance of Miss Derry until Bagnell chanced along. Fully clothed he dived in and brought both women ashore.

Miss Derry and Mrs. Whitney were removed in an ambulance to the hospital and Bagnell was taken home.

MAE WEST ON TRIAL FOR PRODUCING "PLEASURE MAN"

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)— Mae West, whose best known contribution to the theatre was "Diamond Lil," in which she starred here and in Chicago finally after several delays went on trial today for putting on "Pleasure Man," a play that the police raided and closed a year and a half ago.

With her are 57 others—the producer, Carl Reed, and all the actors and actresses who appeared in the production—but only 11 of them showed up in court today.

Attorneys for the absent ones explained that they were for the most part with traveling productions. Several had joined the navy.

Four jurors had been selected by the time court adjourned for the day from a "blue ribbon" panel, to which Nathan Burkan, Miss West's attorney, objected on "the ground that it was likely to consist of persons "narrow minded, undemocratic, and recruited from the privileged class."

KANSAS SURRENDERS BANDITS TO COLORADO

JOHNSON, Kas., March 17.—(AP)—The state of Kansas, which bars capital punishment, today virtually waived over to Colorado, which retains the noose for murders, the three bank robbers held here after their deathdealing 26-hour motor car flight last Friday and Saturday. Their capture ended a man-hunt in the Arroya county along the Colorado-Kansas line in which hundreds of possemen took part.

First degree murder charges were filed against the trio at Eads, Colo. today, and preparations were being made for their early departure to Colorado from Kansas, where the most severe charge against them is bank robbery.

WOMAN REPORTER FREED ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

NEWCASTLE, Pa., March 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Kerber Resch, Youngstown, O., reporter, committed to jail in contempt of court Saturday when as a witness in the Irene Schroeder murder trial she declined to reveal the source of information contained in "A Life of Irene Schroeder" appearing in a number of newspapers, was released late today. Mrs. Resch was given her freedom after she told the court that members of Mrs. Schroeder's family supplied the material for the article.

TROUT FOR STREAMS IN N. L. AND WINDHAM COUNTIES

HARTFORD, March 17.—(AP)— Some changes have taken place in the fishing rights of the state in streams which the state has taken over for benefit of fishermen, Supt J. W. Titcomb, of the state fisheries and game departments announced today. The Saugatuck in Fairfield county and the West branch of Salmon brook in Granby had to be given up because new property owners of adjacent lands objected to having the waters open to the public. The state, however, has acquired rights on Willimantic river below Roaring Brook in Stafford to Willimantic, and this will be stocked with brown trout. Upon acquirement of rights on the Wepawaug in Orange and Milford a lot of adult trout were put in. The good trout stream, Mount Misery brook in Voluntown was stocked with trout last summer after the season closed. A rearing station for trout is being operated on this stream. In it are 9,000 yearling trout for the adjacent brook and other streams in New London and Windham counties.

The average size of trout being distributed is 7 1-2 inches. Nutrition experiments have made it possible to develop trout to nine inches in length from the time they began to feed, as compared with three years to produce a 6-inch fish from the egg.

20,000 IN ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 17. — (AP) — Thousands of people lined Fifth avenue for more than sixty blocks today, for the annual St. Patrick's day parade in which it was estimated 20,000 marchers took part. The parade was composed largely of Irish societies and many of the groups were in colorful attire, the predominant color being, of course, green.

As the marchers passed St. Patrick's cathedral they were reviewed by Cardinal Hayes and members of the clergy.

In the reviewing stand at 64th street and Fifth avenue, were representatives of the state and city. Grover Whalen, New York's sartorial police commissioner, was in the stand wearing a green necktie. Joseph V. McKee, president of the board of aldermen, and John F. Curry, Tammany leader, were among those who were in the stands.

Sheriff Thomas M. Farley was grand marshal.

ESTIMATES OF BRITISH NAVAL EXPENDITURES

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—In introducing the labor government's estimates of naval expenditures for the coming year today, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told the house of commons that on the basis of pre-war figures no other naval power had made such big reductions in her navy as had Great Britain.

He promised a saving of about $20,000,000 as against last year's figures and the suspension "for the present at any rate" of the 1929 submarine construction program.

SAILORS WARNED AGAINST RACE RIOTS IN MANILA

MANILA, March 17.—(AP) — Bluejackets of the United States navy today were ordered by their officers not to attempt reprisals for injuries to five sailors yesterday by a crowd of Filipinos at a baseball game. The navy men were told to be careful not to do anything that might lead to race riots.

Although police said the affair was only a brawl, a more serious view was taken by some persons. Meanwhile, an investigation was made.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

EDINBURGH, Scotland, March 17.—(AP)—Dr. J. W. L. Spence, well-known for his work in the x-ray field, died yesterday. He was associated with William Roentgen, famous German physicist, in the early investigations of x-rays.

DUNEDIN, N. Z., March 17.—(AP)—Although work of refitting his vessels, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, was being hurried, it became apparent today that Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his Antarctic expedition would be delayed further before starting home.

MILAN, Italy, March 17.—(AP)—At the request of the British authorities, John Gialdini, missing director of the Hatry group of companies, which failed in London last fall, involving $57,500,000, was suddenly arrested by Italian police. Gialdini had fled to Italy just before the crash of the Hatry shares.

ANAND, Bombay Presidency, India, March 17.—(AP)—A case of smallpox was discovered today in Mahatma Gandhi's group of volunteer marchers in the civil disobedience campaign. The dread disease had already broken out at Gandhi's "Ashram," or College of Devotees near Ahmadabad, before the marchers set out last week.

QUEEN OF FISHING FLEET LAUNCHED AT ESSEX, MASS.

ESSEX, Mass., March 17—(AP)—Gloucester received a new queen of her fishing fleet today, the Gertrude L. Thebaud, as smart a schooner as ever sailed out of this famous old port.

Whether she shall rule as queen of the North Atlantic fishing banks, will be determined when she meets the Bluenose of Lunenberg, N. S., probably late this summer. The Bluenose now holds the international fisherman's trophy.

The Thebaud was launched at the yard of Arthur D. Story at Essex shortly after noon. Hundreds lining the banks of the Essex river and crowding the old ship yard, cheered and automobile horns added a noisy chorus.

Elizabeth Hovey, of Brookline, sponsored the Thebaud, breaking a bottle of champagne across her bow.

Champagne used in the ceremony was 35 years old, having been given to Edward Story, the builder's brother, at a banquet at that pre-Volsteadian date.

BUILDINGS THREATENED BY BRUSH AND GRASS FIRE

WINSTED, March 17—(AP)—Braving smoke and leaping tongues of flame, ten women and a score of children today saved from destruction a group of farm buildings threatened by a brush and grass fire, which burned over an area of eighteen acres at Winchester Center.

Miss Luella Bolen Bowen, 65, a retired school teacher, was seriously burned before men who had seen the billows of smoke arrived on the scene and extinguished the fire.

She was burned on one leg and her hands. She received medical treatment and was taken to her home.

The buildings were owned by County Forest Fire Warden E. B. Bronson. The women and children, using sticks and brush, kept the circle of fire from a large barn.

PASSENGERS PERISHED IN FIRE ON RIVER STEAMER

BOGOTA, Columbia, March 17—(AP)—More than a score of passengers and many of the crew of the river steamer Bucaramanga lost their lives today when the boat's cargo of petroleum caught fire at the dock at La Dorado, on the Magdalena river. The ship was destroyed.

Only ten of a passenger list thought to number more than 30 were rescued. Most of the crew, including Captain Antonio Velez, perished.

Other steamers in La Dorada harbor stood helplessly by, unable to come to the rescue because of the explosive nature of the Bucaramanga's cargo.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY SLASHING HIS THROAT

HARTFORD, March 17—(AP)—Robert B. Goldsberry, 22, a graduate of the University of California last June, who has been employed in the field service division of the group department of the Travelers Insurance company, here, since last October, took his life shortly after 4:30 o'clock this afternoon by slashing his throat and wrists with a razor.

The youth came here from San Francisco, Cal., where his uncle is manager of the San Francisco office of the Travelers, taking a specialized course at the home office. Friends here were unable to advance a probable cause for suicide.

UNIDENTIFIED HEAD OF MAN ABOUT 50 YEARS FOUND

CRANFORD, N. J., March 17—(AP)—The unidentified head of a man about 50 years was found tonight. Physicians said the head had been severed from the trunk by a skilled knife wielder who had some knowledge of anatomy, about three months ago.

A checkup of all missing persons in the county will be made. The Cranford river will be drained to assist in the search for the missing torso.

"REVOLUTIONARY" INSTEAD OF RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS

KHARKOV, U. S. S. R., March 17.—(AP)—On the petition of thousands of workers throughout the Ukraine, the government today decided to replace six religious holidays of the year with six "revolutionary days of rest."

"Constitution day" on July 6, "Industrialization day" on Aug. 1, and "Harvest day" on Oct. 2, are among the six newly named holidays.

JAMAICA GINGER SAMPLES WERE FOUND TO BE PURE

PROVIDENCE, March 17—(AP)—Jamaica ginger samples submitted for analysis after discovery of several cases of paralysis here, have been found to be pure, although the ginger if drunk to excess, would produce toxic neuritis with paralysis symptoms, it was announced tonight by Franklin N. Strickland, chemist of the state food and drug commission.

SLAYER OF PARENTS WAS DECLARED INSANE

ST. LOUIS, March 17—(AP)—Alan R. Schumm, 17 year old University of Illinois student, who killed his father and wounded his mother here, January 5, was declared insane by a jury and committed to the city sanitarium by Circuit Judge Hamilton late today, after a perfunctory trial under an indictment charging first degree murder.

13 Persons Have Been Linked In Arson Ring

As Result of Arrest of Joseph Eisenstein, Confessed Professional Incendiary

NEW YORK, March 1[illegible] existence of an "arson ring[illegible] work has resulted in fraud[illegible]surance claims which may [illegible]1,000,000, was said by U. S. A[illegible] Charles H. Tuttle today to b[illegible] uncovered with the arrest [illegible] Eisenstein, confessed profe[illegible]ncendiary.

Thirteen p[illegible] have definitely been linked [illegible] ring, among whom are mer[illegible]nts who employed members of the ring to burn their establishments so they could collect fire insurance on goods which had been removed previous to the fire.

Eisenstein, arraigned today on two charges of second degree arson, was said by Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy to have admitted setting fire to a loft in West 27th street occupied by Louis Dachis, furrier, for which Dachis had paid him $750 and promised him $2250 more. Dachis is now under indictment on charges growing out of the burning of his establishment last December and it was through him that Eisenstein was arrested on a farm near Richmond, Va.

Hyman Lerner and Benjamin Greenberg, furriers, also employed Eisenstein to fire their shop, Eisenstein is said to have confessed, for which they paid him $750. Lerner and Greenberg were held under $2,000 bail.

Eisenstein admitted, according to Fire Marshal Brophy, that he had set fires in Philadelphia and other Pennsylvania cities. He also admitted that he set fire to a hotel in Atlantic City.

SENATE VOTES TO RETAIN LEATHER ON THE FREE LIST

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Advocates of tariff protection for the hide, leather, and shoe industries were given another jolt today, in the senate, which voted for the second time to retain all three commodities on the free list where they have been for 17 years.

The decision was reached without a record vote after two amendments providing for rates widely at variance with those in the house bill were rejected.

One of the proposals offered as a compromise by Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, was turned down, 42 to 37. The other, proposed by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, was defeated, 40 to 20.

The fight for a tariff will be continued when the bill goes to conference between the two houses but with the senate twice on record for retention of all three commodities on the free list in preference to the house rates and all others thus far offered it is conceded the conferees have a difficult if not impossible task ahead of them.

FRANCO-ITALIAN PARITY PROBLEM OF CONFERENCE

LONDON, March 17.— (AP) —The naval conference, undaunted by difficulties, today settled down to a new siege for a five-power disarmament treaty.

The British official spokesman announced tonight that the conference was not going to break down this week nor was it going to succeed this week. He said the delegates were still determined to arrive at a treaty satisfactory to all but that no definite development was likely to occur until next week end, when Premier Tardieu of France returns from Paris for another conference with Prime Minister MacDonald.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Briand will continue to head the French exploration party scouting over new routes toward solution of the Franco-Italian parity problem, which today more than ever became the crux of the conference.

328,639 REVOLUTIONISTS WERE KILLED IN LAST FIVE YEARS

MOSCOW, March 17—(AP)—During the last five years, 328,639 revolutionists were killed in demonstrations, uprisings and skirmishes aboard, according to the International Society for Aid of Political Prisoners Abroad.

In China, alone, the society today reports, 299,017 revolutionists fell victim to "the white terror," Chinese generals executing 138,141 in 1928. Nearly half a million revolutionists were arrested during this period in different countries, and 162,700 were injured. America imprisoned 18,603 and Germany 11,433.

In court trials, 38,108 revolutionists received death penalties and the total amount of fines imposed reached $1,225,000.

DROVE ACROSS CONTINENT IN AN UNPAID-FOR AUTO

HARTFORD, March 17—(AP)—After driving across the continent in an automobile which he hired, but is alleged to have neglected to pay for, Eugene Giovanelli, now under arrest in West Haven, will return to Los Angeles on the train at the expense of the state of California, and accompanied by a policeman from that state. A requisition from the governor of California was honored by Gov. Trumbull today, and a warrant for his arrest and delivery to Joseph J. Bernascoin, of Los Angeles, was issued. He is charged with grand theft in violation of section 146, California motor vehicle acts.

Doheny Takes Stand In His Bribery Trial

Described $100,000 Transaction With Albert B. Fall As a Loan.

WASHINGTON, March 17— (AP) — Facing the jury which will be called upon to decide whether he is a briber, Edward L. Doheny looked back over his 73 years of life today to recall adventurous episodes and to describe as a loan that $100,000 transaction between him and Albert B. Fall in 1921, through which the government charges, he corrupted the former secretary of the interior.

The wealthy oil man, whose hair has been whitened by the years, spoke directly to the nine men and three women in the jury box. He was still on the stand when the session ended.

The appearance climaxed a day of defense testimony intended to show that the navy department initiated the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage plant which resulted in a lease of the Elk Hills reserve to a Doheny company. The government maintains that Doheny bribed Fall for the Elk Hills lease. Tomorrow government counsel will attack his story of the $100,000 "loan" in cross examination.

Doheny's examination proceeded rapidly but he would interrupt his counsel to explain more fully some of the incidents of his early life. He recounted how he had been book agent, hotel waiter and mule skinner years ago in Kansas and New Mexico.

Saying he had known Fall since 1886, the multi-millionaire added that after Fall became a member of the Harding cabinet, the government officer told him he intended to resign after one year and try to recoup his fortune.

Doheny said Fall told him that long years of public service had depleted his fortune and he was planning to borrow $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, a Washington publisher, to purchase a ranch next to his New Mexico home to protect his water rights.

Questioned by his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, the oil man said that he told Fall he would be glad to let him have the money and that the cabinet officer had declined it. He said Fall later telephoned him for the money and that he sent it to him in cash on November 30, 1921.

Prior to Doheny's appearance on the witness stand, his wife told of the "loan". She said her husband tore the signature from the note to prevent Fall being embarrassed through the unexpected call to pay the demand note, in case of his (Doheny's) death.

EXTRADITION HEARING FOR NARCOTIC AGENT

GALVESTON, Tex., March 17—(AP)—An extradition hearing for Fred Mertz, federal narcotic agent, charged with slaying a Canadian citizen, kidnaping another and stealing an automobile, began here today before United States Commissioner Brantley Harris.

The Canadian government is seeking extradition of Mertz through F. W. Paris, British consul here Mertz was defended by United States District Attoney H. M. Holden.

After reading depositions of witnesses to the shooting, which took place on the Canadian border in May 1925 and which ended in the death of Amedee Bilodeau, of Sherbrooke, Canada, Charles J. Stubbs, attorney for the British government rested his case late today. A motion by Holden that the defendant be discharged was temporarily overruled by the commissioner, who announced he would hear more testimony tomorrow.

AN 18 INCH SNOWFALL IN NORTHERN ARIZONA

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 17—(AP)—Rain, snow and sleet continued to drench most of Arizona today as reports of disrupted telephone and telegraph communications, washed out roads and flooded streams sent repair crews scurrying over the state. The weather forecast indicated continued precipitation.

Heavy snows fell in northern Arizona with 18 inches reported at Flagstaff and five inches at Prescott.

At Nogales, on the Mexican border, 2.03 inches of rain had fallen since the storm started.

The heaviest rain in years deluged Phoenix, the gauge at noon showing 1.23 inches for 24 hours. Between Gila Bend and Phoenix several stages and many automobiles were mired.

NEWARK UNDERWORLD MAN FOUND DEAD IN PATERSON

PATERSON, N. J., March 17—(AP)—Milton Green, alias "Doll Green," alias "Joe Gordon," aged 26, of 397 Thirteenth avenue, Newark, alleged racketeer, silk thief, bootlegger, and "shake down artist" was found dead in a furnished room at 10 Smith street, this afternoon with a bullet wound just above and slightly to the rear of his right ear. A .32 calibre revolver was lying alongside his body. One bullet had been discharged.

A new coupe, licensed under the name of Green was found parked at the curb before the rooming house. Green had $100 in cash in his pocket and a bank book showing deposits of $1,700 in the name of his brother, Edward Green.

SOUGHT FOR CONTEMPT OF MISSISSIPPI HOUSE

JACKSON, Miss., March 17—(AP)—Unable to locate Carl Marshall, attorney, in his hotel room here tonight, three deputies of the Mississippi house of representatives continued to search in hopes of finding the former state senator and delivering him to the sheriff of Hinds county for contempt of the house.

Under a house order he would be held as a recalcitrant witness until he answers certain questions as to who shared in the distribution of $80,000 paid him by George B. Crafts, general counsel of Warren Brothers, road material firm of Boston, Mass.

KIDNAPERS RELEASE NEW YORK REAL ESTATE BROKER

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 17.—(AP)—The return today of Samuel Barron, New York real estate broker who was held prisoner for nearly five days by three kidnapers, will not close the police investigation of the case, it was announced tonight by John J. Quinn, Monmouth county prosecutor. Quinn said he had "definite clues" to several suspects and expected to make arrests within a few days.

INCOME TAX FIGURES ARE WITHHELD BY SEC'Y MELLON

It Is Reported That They Ran Under Receipts At the Same Offices Last Year—Will Be Three Or Four Days Before Totals Will Be Available—Treasury Officials Are More Hopeful Than They Have Been of the Returns Measuring Up to the Government's Requirements.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP) — On the basis of preliminary telegraphic returns received today from more important internal revenue offices, treasury officials were somewhat more hopeful than they have been as to the chances of the March 15 income tax installment measuring up to the government's requirements.

Secretary Mellon withheld the figures. It was said that they ran under receipts at the same offices last year, and were being withheld because of their incomplete character and because within three or four days definite totals will be available.

Last March personal and corporation incomes brought into the treasury $601,000,000. In spite of a cut in the tax rate and fears for the effect on incomes of the stock market collapse of 1929, the budget calls for collections of $550,000,000 from the March installment this year.

For the first 14 days of the month, the actual receipts have not been up to levels which would produce this sum, and there have been calculations that the total might run to $100,000,000 below estimates.

Up to the close of business on March 14 the treasury had collected $49,358,998, compared with $56,804,350 for the same period a year ago.

Secretary Mellon was of the opinion that the receipts totalled tomorrow and the next day might give a conclusive indication of collections to be expected, but that this was not certain. The figures wired in today were believed to contain estimates, as the extensive work of tabulating and adding the many returns could hardly have been completed in so short a time.

AN INCREASE IN INTERNAL REV. COLLECTIONS IN CONN.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 17.—(AP)—At least $45,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000 will be collected by the department of internal revenue in Connecticut alone, it was stated today by Colonel Robert O. Eaton, collector of internal revenue for the district. The figures, Colonel Eaton said, are of course not accurate but from every indication available at the moment it was a conservative estimate of what the results would actually show when all the figures were in. The total income, including sources other than income tax, he estimated would reach approximately $45,000,000.

These figures are considerably in excess of those of any previous years despite the fact that congress reduced the tax, effective as of this year.

At the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1929, income from all sources amounted to $42,215,116, of which $40,259,009 was from income alone. For the year 1928 total income amounted to $386,114,137 showing a similar amount of approximately $2,000,000 from other sources, such as tobacco, narcotics and the like.

FORCED TO LAND PLANE IN LONG ISLAND SOUND

FAIRFIELD, Conn., March 17.—(AP)—Fire, believed to have started from a broken gas line, forced Captain Boris Sergievsky to make an emergency landing in Long Island sound today, while attempting to set a new seaplane speed record over a 500-kilometer course. Damage to the plane, a Sikorksy amphibian valued at $56,800, was not estimated. It was covered by insurance.

Captain Sergievsky leaped from the blazing ship as it struck the water, 300 feet from shore, and he paddled about until rescued by motorboat. He was uninjured.

The plane caught fire as it was completing its third lap of the 500 kilometer course mapped out between Fairfield and Execution Rock lighthouse.

Captain Sergievsky used the craft recently in setting new altitude records for 2,000 and 1,000 loads and a new speed mark over a 100 kilometer course carrying a 2,000 kilogram load.

STATE DEMANDS LIVES OF MOULTHROPE AND LALONE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—The largest crowd ever assembled in the Duval county circuit court room today heard the state demand the lives of Watson Moulthrope and Roland Lalone for the murder of a city detective.

Closing arguments by the defense were not completed today and it was necessary to recess court until tomorrow, when Ion L. Farris, chief defense counsel, will sum up the case of his clients, asking acquittal.

Moulthrope and Lalone have based their plea on self-defense, asserting that they did not know the two plain clothesmen with whom they fought were officers.

"No four walls can hold these two men," declared the state's counsel. "The state of Florida wants a verdict of murder in the first degree or an acquittal. There can be no halfway mark."

FUNERAL HONORS TO BE ACCORDED PRIMO DE RIVERA

MADRID, March 17.—(AP)—Funeral honors surpassed only by those rendered a Spanish sovereign, will be accorded former Premier Primo De Rivera, who dominated Spain for six years but died an exile in Paris.

The cabinet decided today that Primo should be buried with the same ceremonials he would have had if he had been premier when he died, or as a captain-general dying in active command of forces.

Premier Damaso Berenguer and his ministers officially resolved that their predecessor deserved this honor and paid tribute to his patriotic services, emphasizing particularly his ending of the Moroccan trouble.

11 HEALTH SERVICE EMPLOYES STRICKEN WITH PARROT FEVER

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Affliction of eleven public health service employes with psittacosis, has necessitated temporary abandonment of the laboratory where efforts were being made to discover the cause of the strange malady contracted from parrots.

Dr. Ludvik Hekoen, of the University of Chicago, was said to be sick of parrot's fever, in a Washington hospital.

Dr. Hekoen who holds the medical research fellowship of the National Research council, had been working in the hygienic laboratory, where experiments were conducted with parrots which had died of the disease.

GORED BULL FIGHTER IS RESTING EASIER

MADRID, March 17.—(AP)—Sydney Franklin, Brooklyn bull fighter, who was seriously injured by a bull during a meet yesterday, was resting easier late today and his physicians were hopeful that his improvement would continue.

It was said that unless complications developed his recovery could be expected.

The Brooklyn bull fighter, who has made a name for himself in Spain because of his fearlessness and skill, received many messages of good wishes from other bull fighters and from Spanish bull fight fans.

DECISIONS RENDERED BY THE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Problems of prohibition, income tax and other controversies out of which American history is being written engaged supreme court attention today as it rendered decisions of far-reaching import.

The tribunal determined to hear oral arguments on the guilt of liquor purchasers on April 28. The two cases are government appeals contending that Alfred E. Norris of New York city was guilty of conspiracy when he ordered liquor from Philadelphia, and that James E. Farrar of Boston violated the Volstead act by buying from a bootlegger.

For federal taxing purposes, incomes of husband and wife must be separately reported without regard to any agreement between them for pooling sanctioned by state laws. The court so held in an opinion written by Justice Holmes in a case brought by the government.

The court finally approved the new boundary line between Oklahoma and Texas, along the 100th meridian running north from Red river, surveyed and marked on the ground by Samuel S. Gannett. This will give Texas approximately 28,800 acres of land heretofore considered as belonging to Oklahoma. The two states have been in long but fruitless negotiations begun by Oklahoma in the hope that it would be able to retain title to the land by purchase from Texas.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH AND VENTURES OF ENGLISHMAN

TAOS, N. M., March 17.—(AP)—Delving into the mysterious death of A. R. Manby, Englishman, and the equally mysterious ventures with which he was connected, investigators announced today they had uncovered an alleged trail of extortion and intimidation through the "United States Secret Service society," declared to be largely a mythical organization.

Manby, a recluse whose decapitated body was found in his home here last July 3, was one of the chiefs of the organization which dealt in fantastic enterprises, secret reports on crimes and staggering financial figures.

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Cheetam, investigating the case, said he had obtained evidence from members of the society that one family was buncoed out of $14,000 over a period of three years.

The society trafficked in weird reports of purported secret investigators and fantastic sums of money were mentioned in papers left by Manby.

"Severino Guiterrez," reputed head of a branch of the organization and a "great detective" known in the society's circles as "Craig Kenneth," were fictitious characters, Cheetam said.

YOUTH CONFESSED THE KILLING OF WEALTHY WIDOW

EL PASO, Texas, March 17.—(AP)—An 18-year-old youth, Melvin W. Payette, confessed to police here today that he killed Mrs. Christina Wilson, 82, wealthy widow, in her home at Butte, Mont., March 11.

"I had to have money to live on," Payette said. He admitted that after striking Mrs. Wilson over the head several times with an iron pipe and tying her to a bed, he robbed her apartment of about $300 in gold and gold nuggets and stole a pistol.

"I didn't mean to kill her," he said. "I just wanted to knock her out." After tying Mrs. Wilson to the bed, Payette said he pulled a pillow slip over her head and tied a bath towel over her mouth. The woman's body was found the next day.

"SCARFACE AL" CAPONE RELEASED FROM PRISON

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—(AP)—Alphonse "Scarface Al" Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, walked to freedom today from the new prison at Graterford, Pa., while hundreds of morbidly curious men, women and children, newspaper men and photographers awaited their release in front of the Eastern State penitentiary in this city, 30 miles away.

The notorious Chicago racketeer and his bodyguard had served ten months of a year's sentence for carrying loaded pistols. Two months were cut from their terms on account of good behavior, making them eligible for release last midnight.

LARGE NUMBERS ATTEND K-C BOYS BAND MINSTRELS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 17—A St. Patrick's day crowd turned out in numbers tonight for the minstrel-concert performance given by the Knights of Columbus Boys' band in St. Mary's hall tonight and pronounces it as one of the best presentations of its kind ever witnessed here, many of the features being entirely novel and original. Cognizance of the holiday was taken by Bandmaster Charles N. C. Wheeler, director of the concert as noted in the selection of Old Ireland as the overture. The minstrel has long been under rehearsal, a premiere having been given in South Willington some weeks ago. The result of this intensive work was a highly finished production tonight. Bandsmen Haggerty, Costello, Tormey and Mattie were the soloists and the end men were, Brown, Sypher, Costello, Ballon, Peters and Rabinowitz. Eddie Brown and Manny Rabinowitz being the premiers.

Among the many delightful features was a marimba duo by Costello and Kelraps and a saxophone quartet composed of Mangano, Wright, Rabinowitz and Lavigne. Incidental and concert music was by a 12 piece orchestra selected from the membership of the band.

The second part of the program was a concert with the following numbers by the band: March, Bennett's Triumphal; overture of Irish airs, Old Ireland; clarinet solo, Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, with variations, by William Lennon; selection, Tannhauser from Wagner's opera; trombone solo, Pals by Edward Brown; march, Sempre Fideles, Sousa.

GRANDONE BOUND OVER FOR THEFT OF TIMBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 17—Business on the big scale is not entirely confined to the legitimate as indicated in the case of Frank Grandone, 29, of Oxford, Mass., who was charged in the Ashford town court this noon with the theft of 89,000 feet of pine lumber valued at $2,000. Grandone, who had signed a statement at the state police barracks in Stafford Springs, pleaded guilty and was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $5,000 when Justice of the Peace Clarence H. Barlow found probable cause. In default of bonds Grandone was taken to the county jail at Brooklyn.

The stolen lumber had been cut and stacked in piles on the estate of G. H. Meyers in Ashford, the estate having recently been made part of the Yale Forestry school preserves. Grandone, a lumber hauler by occupation for several years, took the lumber from the estate between the dates of March 28, 1928 and May 1, 1929 and stated that he had disposed of most of it to a box concern in Worcester, Mass. Wallace Goodhall, caretaker of the estate, testified to the amount of lumber that had been cut and was missing.

Grandone was arrested in Thompson Saturday while engaged in a lumber hauling contract to Rhode Island. The arrest was made by State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks and County Detective Rowe H. Wheeler of this city.

MANSFIELD CENTER MAN FINED $100 FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 17—Ernest J. Whitehouse, 34, of Mansfield Center, was found guilty of driving a car while under the influence of liquor at the session of police court this morning and fined $100 and costs with a 10-day jail sentence which was suspended for six months by Judge Frank H. Foss. Whitehouse was arrested on Union street here Sunday night by Officer Arthur Hurley after his Ford sedan had crashed through one of the New Haven railroad gates at the Jackson street crossing. Dr. Nathan Spector and another physician declared the man under the influence of an intoxicant. This testimony was supplemented in court today by that of Officers Hurley and John Killourey, Thomas Kelley and Michael E. Monohan, gate tender at the crossing. Whitehouse pleaded not guilty and told Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher that he had not partaken of any intoxicant at any time Sunday and that he did not see that the gate was down until it was too late to stop his car.

There is much interest among anglers of this section in the action of the state board of fisheries in acquiring the rights on the Willimantic river from below the mouth of Roaring Brook in Stafford to Willimantic. According to Superintendent Titcomb this stream will be stacked with brown trout. It is not expected that large catches will be the rule here during the first season, he says, but the stream should prove admirable for anglers who seek real trial of skill with the use of the dry fly.

FUNERAL

Christopher C. Case

With many business and political leaders of the town present, the funeral services for Christopher C. Case were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Congregational church. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock officiated and also conducted a prayer at the home at 1:45 o'clock. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery with the following as bearers, George S. Elliott, Roland B. Jordan, Herbert D. Pollard, Egbert A. Case, Walter Abbe and Henry T. Burr. The Exchange club members and the directors of the Y. M. C. A. attended in a body. Arrangements were by Avery and VanZandt.

At the weekly meeting of the Woman's club to be held in the Model school auditorium Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Florence L. C. Kitchelt, executive director of the Connecticut branch of the League of Nations association, will speak on The Story of the World Court. In the forenoon Mrs. Kitchelt will address the Hartford Public high school assembly on The Congress of the World.

The annual Purim program and play was given by students of the Hebrew school of the Congregation Sons of Israel at the synagogue Sunday evening. There were recitations in both Yiddish and English. Leonard Davis, talented boy violinist was heard in several selections, Howard Ogushetiwz sang and David Scheinman presented a humorous sketch, The Dentist. The play, The Bell of Shushan was presented. The evening was in charge of Benjamin Eisenberg with Rabbi M. E. Danziger and A. Beller as directors of the program and play.

How They Grew Thin

You will be surprised, if you look around, at how many people have grown thin in late years. It is evident that some new method has come into very wide use.

It has been found that a weak gland is a great cause of obesity. So modern physicians have been fighting that cause, without starvation diets.

This right method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now in almost every circle the delightful results are apparent.

A book in each box of Marmola tells you how and why it acts. The formula is given. Go by this remarkable, this natural means. Ask your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola. You owe that to yourself.

COLCHESTER

CAPT. C. H. MAYNARD ENTERS HOSPITAL IN HARTFORD

Clarence H. Maynard, well-known local radio enthusiast, was taken Sunday to Hartford hospital for treatment. He had been ill for several days and Sunday it was thought wise to remove him to the hospital as it was feared that pneumonia would set in. Mr. Maynard, familiarly known about the village as the "Captain," has a wide circle of friends here who hope for his early recovery. Mr. Maynard can doubtless boast of having seen more years service in the U. S. Army and Marine corps than anyone else in this vicinity. He enlisted as a private April 29, 1918 at Rockville, Conn., in Co. D, 301st Engineers, U. S. Army and was promoted to corporal August 11, 1918, taking active part in the St. Mihiel offensive and in the Toul sector from Sept. to November 1918. From Nov. 1918 to May 1919 he was with the Army of Occupation. Honorable discharge was granted him in June 1919. Prior to the World war, Mr. Maynard saw four years' service in the U. S. Marine corps, being stationed at different times in the Philippines, China and Central America. Local friends take much pleasure in listening to the unusual experiences of his travels about different parts of the world. During the past few years he has made his home here, he having taken a course of training recently with the National Radio Institute and has made various radio experiments of interest to local fans.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Webster and daughter Miss Phyllis of Hartford, former borough residents, visited Sunday with relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Clara M. Gillette entertained relatives from Fitchburg, Mass., over Sunday.

Joseph Weinstein was a Hartford caller Monday.

BRUSH-LAND BLAZE PROVES VERY HARD TO SUBDUE

Sunday afternoon, about twenty acres of brush-land was burned over on the former Joseph Hall farm, now owned by Berman & Falk, located on the old Colchester-Lebanon road. The fire was discovered about 1 p. m. Sunday by the Storrs Agricultural college observatory watchman who at once notified Asst. State Forest Fire Warden C. H. Lathrop of Lebanon, who in turn got in touch with District Warden J. M. Riley of Colchester. Warden Lathrop soon arrived with the state pumper and eight volunteer fire-fighters and Warden Riley responded with hand pumps and three volunteers from Colchester. The fire had gained considerable headway when discovered but by quickly laying a line of hose to a nearby brook the flames were finally gotten under control, only minor damage being done.

Fire on Sigal Farm

In the meantime, Warden Riley sent a squad of six men to extinquish a bad brush fire which swept over a two-acre tract on the Sigal farm, near the town woods in the northern part of town. Hand pumps were used so effectively that the flames were checked from spreading to more thickly wooded areas nearby.

JEWETT CITY

IRELAND'S APOSTLE HONORED BY ELOQUENCE AND MELODY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 17.—A St. Patrick's day observation was held at St. Mary's church Monday evening. The musical program was given by a choir of 60 voices, comprising members of the Junior choir trained by Sister Cecelia, and the Senior choir, James Olson, organist and director. Mr. Olson opened the service with a medley of Irish airs splendidly rendered. The music by the choirs included Veni, Sancti Spiritus, Hail, Glorious Apostle, Panis Angelicus, with solo by Mrs. George Sarazin; Tantum Ergo. The closing organ number was the beautiful melody of Killarney. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Father James Travis, one of the assistant priests at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford. He is one of the most eloquent young priests in the diocese, and delivered a fine eulogy on St. Patrick, which held the closest attention of the large congregation. Rev. J. J. McCabe and Rev. Nicholas Caron assisted in giving benediction.

A surprise party was given Miss Bertha Cyr at her home on Hill street Saturday evening. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Francis Cyr. The guests included: Loglina Marinella, Eddie Hanson, Eva Shorey, Morris Asselin, Evelyn L'Herault, Billy Beaudy, Irene Mawoka, Stanley Halsatwa, Blanche Garboski, Alex Kowalski, Aldea March, Raymond Lamott, Joseph Wellemski.

"Marie, How Do You Keep Your Skin so Lovely?"

"THAT'S easy. I just use Resinol Soap as my regular toilet soap every day, and if I have a pimple or any suggestion of a rash or roughness, I put on a little Resinol Ointment and it clears it right up."

Many women whose complexions you admire are using just this treatment. They find that Resinol Soap not only helps to overcome pimples, blackheads, oiliness, etc., but its daily use tends to prevent those conditions. Its clean tonic odor is delightful and its action is so gentle it is agreeable to the most sensitive skins.

They use Resinol Ointment too because it so quickly heals those minor skin irritations which everyone has sometimes, and they find it a soothing dressing for burns, sore corns, chafing, blisters, etc. At all druggists.

DANIELSON

PLAINFIELD MAN GETS 90-DAY SENTENCE; APPEALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 17.—After having brutally kicked State Officer H. Theodore Strand in the abdomen while resisting arrest this morning about 2 o'clock, Walter Leopa of Plainfield was beaten into submission by the sturdy and gritty officer.

This forenoon Leopa was presented before Judge George Torrey of the Plainfield town court and on charges of intoxication and resisting an officer was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail. He appealed and was released under bonds of $300 for appearance at the next term of the superior court having criminal jurisdiction.

An automobile accident near the state highway scales at Hopkins hill on Plainfield street marked the beginning of the affair. Earl Leino of Plainfield operating a car, the state will claim, that was north-bound, crashed into another machine driven by John Anthony Barry of Norwich. With Leino were Walter Leopa and the latter's wife, Mary Leopa, and Ivar Saari, all of Plainfield.

State Officer George Martin, who went out to check up on the accident, arrested Leino and Saari. Leopa was averse to being taken into custody, and as the lone state officer could not handle all of the prisoners he had word telephoned to the barracks for assistance, and State Officer Strand went down to help him.

Officer Strand managed to get Leopa into a state police car, but when he started to get in himself Leopa viciously kicked him and the battle was on. Emptying the cartridges from his service revolver, Officer Strand engaged Leopa in a rough and tumble battle on the highway, using the revolver as a club to beat his man into submission. Leopa, a tough hombre, withstood several blows on the head from the weapon before he was finally subdued and brought here, Officer Martin contributing to the general process of taming him properly. Mary Leopa, who must have been close by, emerged from the affair with a black eye. The state officers brought their prisoners to Danielson and locked them up for the night. Charged with resisting an officer, she pleaded not guilty this morning and her case was continued, as was that of Leino, operator of the car. Saari was fined $10 for having been intoxicated.

Two Brothers Jailed

Unable to pay fines imposed upon them in the town court this morning by Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis, two brothers, Raymond and Howard Kelliher, both of Meriden, went to jail. They were arrested by Night Officer Laird Winchell, Raymond for operating a car while he was intoxicated, Howard for intoxication.

The brawling that Howard was doing attracted the attention of Officer Winchell, down in the business section, and developed the fact that Raymond was attempting to drive the car while grossly unfit to do so. They were each held in $100 bail, refusal of their old Ford coupe as surety resulting in their being locked up. This morning Judge Francis fined Raymond $100 and costs and Howard $20 and costs. Chief John McFarland took them over to Brooklyn to work out the fines.

John Krous, 19, of South Douglas, Mass., was fined $100 and costs for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and $1 for operating without having a license. John Zela, who was riding with him at the time he was arrested by a state officer, was fined $2 and actual costs, a total of $4.40. Zela's home is in Putnam.

The case against James Sweeney of Dudley, Mass., the third man picked up over the week end for driving while intoxicated, was continued one week.

Another continuance was in the case of Joseph Mrzur of Dayville, charged with selling and keeping with intent to sell, this going over for a week.

The case against E. Fitch Johnson of Plainfield, charged with obtaining a horse from John Flood of this town under false pretenses, was nolled upon payment of costs.

An unusual case—the first of its kind in the local town court—was that in which Ernest Gendreau, resident in the Christian Hill section of the borough, was presented to answer to a charge of failing to have the chimney of a house he owns properly cleaned. He was fined $1 and costs. Repeated trips of the fire department to fight chimney fires resulted in Fire Marshal A. P. Woodward taking action to have Gendreau brought into court.

Excepting for a musicale and some whists, St. Patrick's day was unobserved in Danielson. This community's dwindling population of people of Irish birth or descent did contemplate today, however, the days of yore and the more than a full century since the first emigrants from Ireland came into this section of eastern Connecticut, the first of their faith to cast their lot in this part of southern New England. These were the Catholic pioneers who formed the early missions, built from their meagre earnings the first of the Roman Catholic churches to be erected in this territory and, with the abundant spirituality that was so universal among them, supported them religiously. Many of them lived to see the growth of parishes hereabouts that number many thousand souls, and the modern churches, schools and convents of these properties.

Very few of these early emigrants ever returned to the land of St. Patrick, choosing to die, as they had lived, in the loved land of their adoption. Their graves now dot the cemeteries of the countryside as they rest in eternal sleep.

The body of Mrs. Pearl Green, 28, who died in New York Friday arrived here this afternoon from New London and was taken to L. E. Kennedy's funeral home on Furnace street. Mrs. Green, a native of this town, was the wife of Cleon Green. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Green is survived by her mother, Mrs. Claude Adams, of East Killingly, and by a sister, Mrs. Olive Henries, of Putnam. Before her marriage Mrs. Green was Miss Pearl Barry.

This week the Lenten service under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches will be held at the Baptist church on Thursday. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church will preach.

It became apparent today that some here failed to file their income tax returns prior to Saturday midnight, and are now liable to penalty by the government.

Under the auspices of the Wesleyan circle a clinic for color blindness is to be held Tuesday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Herbert Bowen and Miss Dorothy Smith will be hostesses.

The Misses Blanche Reeves, Molly Reid and Yvonne Racine were visitors at Attawaugan Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Caffery.

County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield reports the arrest of Anthony Kaminsky of Lisbon for trapping without having a license, with unmarked traps and without permission of the owner of the land where the traps were set. The arrest was by Deputy Colburn. Fines and costs imposed on Kaminsky amounted to $40.60.

Tuesday evening the Missionary committee of the Westfield Congregational church will give a social for the Young People's Discussion class, following the meeting of that organization.

Up to late this afternoon there were no announcements as to candidates wishing nomination for election as borough officials at the caucus Tuesday evening, excepting those of the present incumbents who are willing to continue in office.

Newman Storer, student at a private school in Lenox, is spending a vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Storer, of North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Wood of New York have been visitors with Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood.

Additional grass fires were reported in the surrounding countryside today, but none of them proved to be of a serious nature. Some grass lands are being burned over by owners as a precaution against fires that may get started and go out of control.

Mrs. Lucien Lambert was hostess to the Entre Nous club. At bridge the winners were Mrs. L. E. Kennedy, Mrs. Earl Wood and Mrs. William McLaughlin.

An increase in the amount of outdoor work now underway in Danielson and vicinity is providing employment this week, and will for some time to come, for men who have been out of work.

This evening the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's church held a St. Patrick's social at the parish house.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM LAUNDRY IS RANSACKED BY THIEVES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 17—The Putnam steam laundry on Pomfret street was entered by thieves sometime during the late hours of Saturday evening and the early hours of Sunday morning, police learned late yesterday afternoon. The break was discovered by Charles Henry, fireman at the plant, while he was making his rounds. A check-up by the police revealed that entrance had been gained through a boiler room door in the rear of the Odd Fellows building. Glass panels in the door were broken and a sliding bar within removed. Foot-prints indicated that the thieves apparently in quest of money loot only, went directly to the office where they ransacked part of the equipment and disfigured the safe in an attempt to pry open its door. Not meeting with any degree of success they departed, going out through a side door facing Canal street, leaving a valuable assortment of ladies' pure silken under garments appraised at about three hundred dollars, untouched.

Further investigation revealed that an effort was made to jimmy the doors in the rear of the W. F. Rafferty plumbing shop and the office of the Kent Lumber company. The doors were secured with bolts and bars and resisted the thieves.

E. L. Kelley, proprietor of the laundry reported to police this morning that as far as he could learn nothing of any value had been taken from his establishment. Silver amounting to about four dollars, contained in a chest on the top of the safe escaped the looters. W. F. Rafferty and C. M. Kent, whose businesses are located in other stores in the building reported that thieves did not trespass on the premises.

Captain A. J. Dubreuil, with the aid of officers from the Danielson state police barracks, is conducting an investigation.

Cortland D. Arnold, Putnam business man who died Sunday at his home on South Main street of gas asphyxiation was a former chief of the Putnam Fire department, having served in this capacity for four years, 1916-1918 and 1920-1922, when he resigned to be succeeded by the present chief, Ralph E. Thurston. While head of the department Mr. Arnold proved to be an able and efficient officer and was popular among his men, who were deeply affected to learn of his untimely and tragic death yesterday.

H. L. HAMMOND DIES SUDDENLY AFTER HEART ATTACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 17—Henry L. Hammond of 268 School street, for many years a resident of this city, died suddenly this morning from the effects of a shock suffered a few minutes previous. Mr. Hammond was on School street in the vicinity of Bradway's store, when suddenly seized with a heart attack and he dropped to the sidewalk striking his face on the curbing.

Joseph Lemoine, a taxi driver, seeing the condition of the semi-conscious man, placed him in his automobile and rushed him to the Day Kimball hospital. Hammond died before reaching the institution. Dr. Seldon B. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball said after an examination, Dr. F. A. Morrell, medical examiner for the town, viewed the body and pronounced death due to a heart attack.

Mr. Hammond was 64 years of age. He was a native of Killingly, but had lived in this city for a number of years. He made his home with a brother on School street.

OBITUARY

Elisha E. Sanger

A death in this city today was that of Elisha E. Sanger, well known resident of Woodstock, who died this morning at the Day Kimball hospital following a brief illness of pneumonia. Mr. Sanger was in his 65th year.

His death occurred only five days after that of his brother Harris L. Sanger of Woodstock, who died last Wednesday, March 12, of the same illness. Mr. Sanger was stricken on the day of his brother's death. His condition developed to the critical state and he was removed to the local hospital. The two deaths proved a sad case and have deeply affected many friends of the brothers whose deaths were sudden and occurred within such a short space of time. Mr. Harris was born in Woodstock on December 8, 1864, and had lived the greater part of his life in that town.

Mrs. Lydia S. Bixby

Mrs. Lydia S. Bixby, a life long resident of Thompson, died Saturday at the home of her son, Ellsworth Bixby, in East Thompson, following a prolonged illness. Mrs. Bixby was 92 years of age and was one of the oldest residents of the town. She was born in Thompson the daughter of Moses and Caroline (Joslin) Hoyle, who were natives of that town. The greater part of her long life was spent in the town of her birth. She was widely known in this section of the county.

Mrs. Howard Bullard of Killingly avenue, who has kindled dangerous bonfires in the vicinity of her home without the permission of the town fire warden, must stop the practice at once or undergo the ordeal of a jail sentence. Such was the decree of Judge M. H. Geissler in city court this afternoon when Mrs. Bullard was arraigned on a complaint of C. H. Lathrop, assistant state forest fire warden of Hartford. Mrs. Bullard contended that she was innocent of the charges, despite the court's allegation that she had been warned of setting brush fires at forbidden times on several previous occasions and had deliberately ignored the warnings of the fire officials. Her persistence, Attorney E. H. Johnson said today, necessitated that she be arrested and brought before court in order that Judge Geissler might impress the seriousness of her offenses upon her.

Even though Mrs. Bullard admitted she violated the law and Judge Geissler made a diligent effort to point out her wrongs, he found it difficult to get a word in on the subject, once Mrs. Bullard took the floor. After Warden Lathrop and Town Fire Warden F. H. Whipple had testified, Judge Geissler secured a promise from the woman that she would cease her violations of the state fire act and obey the law. The case was ordered placed on file and Mrs. Bullard warned of an impending jail sentence if again arrested.

Friends of Mrs. William P. Warren, wife of eSlectman W. P. Warren, today were saddened to learn of her serious illness. Mrs. Warren is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital. She was removed to the hospital Saturday and immediately underwent an operation. At a late hour today her condition was reported as serious.

Mrs. Irving H. Miron of Florence street, entertained several members of the Bridge Widows club at her home this evening. The weekly meeting falling on the feast day of St. Patrick, Mrs. Miron favored her guests with novelties in keeping with the event. The home was also prettily decorated in green colors symbolic of the day.

There was a large attendance at St. Patrick's night turkey supper given this evening in St. Mary's hall on Marshall street. An address of welcome was given by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church. During the evening St. Mary's Boy Scout orchestra, under the direction of Rev. Joseph D. Casey, presented a musical programme which featured all of the Irish airs.

Other St. Patrick's night observances were held in Odd Fellows' hall and at Foresters' hall where an old fashioned Irish "shing-dig" was given by the combined chapters of A. O. H., of Pomfret and Putnam.

PLAINFIELD

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss' sermon was on "Courage for Today." The C. E. service subject was, "Peter, the Great Evangelist." Leader, John Lees. At the motion picture service in the church the picture was "Tricked," a drama of the Canadian northwest Royal Mounted police. Miss Adelaide Prentiss gave a talk on her work as dean of Damon hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Barstow and daughter, Margaret, of Windham were callers Sunday on William F. Barstow.

Communion Postponed

It was announced that corporate communion at the Episcopal church for members of the local G. F. S. branch has been postponed to Sunday morning, March 23, at 11 o'clock. Corporate communion for officers, teachers and all confirmed members of the Sunday school will be Palm Sunday, April 13, at 11 o'clock.

Benjamin Cornell broke his wrist while cranking his car. He was taken to Day Kimball hospital in Putnam and had the fracture set.

Mrs. Hattie M. Dean has returned home after several weeks' visit with friends in Wyoming, R. I.

D. M. Brown was the guest Friday of his sister, Mrs. Abbie J. Peck, in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allard and daughter and Mrs. Renie Allard were in Providence Saturday.

PRIZE WINNING ESSAY WRITTEN BY HARVEY HEBERT

Harvey Hebert, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hebert, submitted the following essay, winning first prize, to the judges of the American Legion Patriotism contest. He is a pupil of the sixth grade at St. Joseph's Parochial school.

Our Flag

Washington's and Lincoln's birthday make us think this year that we, too, must be defenders of our county and do so by being filled with a deep spirit of patriotism. These great heroes by their brave deeds, tell us that we, too, must fight for our country. They loved their country and obeyed the laws made by her. We, too, must keep up what we learn in American history about their brave deeds and how they were first with the sword and pen. If it was not for Washington, we might not be free today and enjoy the liberty we have.

Our flag tells us all we must do to keep our country great and beautiful. We must be brave, pure and truthful to all her laws.

A boy who salutes his flag daily in his classroom has patriotism. I feel I have, because it is one of the first acts performed in our classroom, after our daily prayer. I love to salute it because it is pretty, it speaks to me a long story of those who fought for our country.

Let us practice the civic virtues, punctuality, obedience, courtesy, kindness to playmates, kindness to animals, cooperation and service, honesty and truth.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

FORMER PLAYMATES DIE WITHIN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

Arthur Kilpatrick, son of the late Henry Kilpatrick, who died Saturday at Quaker Hill and Cortland Arnold, who probably committed suicide Sunday at his home in Putnam and who was the son of the late Calvin Arnold, were playmates and spent their boyhood days here in homes side by side. Their fathers were employed by the Torrey Bros.

A St. Patrick's day tea was held Monday at the tea room for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid society of the local church.

In the Sunday New York Times was a picture of Alfred Hopkins, son of Mrs. Abby Hopkins of this village. He is a student at Yale School of Music and was a member of the cast which gave a two-act specialty musical comedy for the benefit of Trinity Lutheran church in New Haven.

Mrs. Fred Redding of Jewett City has been a visitor here, where she formerly lived.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cutler, Misses Mary Loudenslager and Faith Loudenslager have been visitors in Holyoke, Mass.

John Weaver was off duty at the local A. & P. store Saturday on account of illness. Dona Despatie assisted at the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clarke of Norwich visited local relatives Saturday.

Mrs. Bertha Wilbur, who is in Putnam for an indefinite stay, spent Sunday with her sister, Miss Mary Tracy.

Miss Muriel Holdredge of Norwich spent the week end with Mrs. Edith Hatfield.

Miss Ruth Potvin has recovered from German measles.

Several local people attended the bean supper at Moosup Saturday evening, held by the Girls' club at their rooms.

Six-Church Conference

The six-church conference will be held April 8 at the local church.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Ellsworth and children, Priscilla and Stuart, Jr., and Mrs. Mary A. Tillinghast have been recent callers at the home of Miss Fredrica Roos, in Norwich.

The W. C. T. U. will meet this (Tuesday) afternoon with Miss Anna Wilcox. It is to be Union Signal day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Geer of Plainfield visited friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Peter Bourque has returned from a week's stay in Webster, Mass.

Joseph Raymond and nieces, Miss Mary and Eva Raymond, of Taftville, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Winsor.

Saturday evening, about 7:30, two automobiles collided near the boarding house corner, on the Plainfield road. One car occupied by two men from Wauregan, was going south and the other coming north, was occupied by one man. The south-bound car was overturned. Nobody was injured. The north-bound car was damaged but not as badly as the other. An officer from the Danielson barracks checked up the accident. Several accidents have happened at the corner but this one was south of the corner and not at the forks of the Central, Moosup and Plainfield roads.

Miss Priscilla Burgess, of Norwich, has been a visitor with Miss Margaret Weaver.

Warren and Leslie Burgess are visiting Master Aubrey Tillinghast.

Mrs. John Bennett was in South Woodstock Saturday to attend the funeral of Harris Leland Sanger at the South Woodstock church where his son Hobart Sanger was married three weeks ago Saturday. Mrs. Sanger is Mrs. Bennett's cousin.

William Harrell has finished work in the Baltic mill where he has been employed nights.

"If soap irritates your skin you are using the wrong kind"

says EMILE MASSÉ

whose beauty shop, in Paris, is known throughout the continent

"Every complexion needs soap and water. But some soaps are harmful. They injure the texture of the skin. They contain too much free alkali . . . caustic soda . . . similar irritants. That is why I advise all my clients: 'Never use any soap except Palmolive.'"

E. Massé
16 Rue Daunou, Paris

Here is the celebrated Massé, himself, superintending a facial treatment given by one of the assistants in his salon.

Palmolive is pure. It it made of palm and olive oils, known for generations as nature's greatest beautifiers. Since the days of the lovely Cleopatra, nothing has ever supplanted these beauty oils.

THE beauty specialist cannot work on an irritated skin," says Emile Massé, of Paris. "Every woman should aid her beauty expert by using Palmolive. Its vegetable oil content is safe, soothing, non-irritating." Monsieur Massé, famous Parisian beauty specialist, explains—in these words—why 19,800 of his celebrated colleagues recommend Palmolive Soap. They want their clients to use a soap that definitely helps the expert in keeping complexions lovely. And Palmolive is their universal choice.

Why the skin needs soap and water

The pores must be thoroughly yet gently cleansed twice every day, to keep the skin from looking drawn, muddy, coarse, uncared for.

Palm and olive oils, as combined in Palmolive Soap, provide a penetrating, healing cleanliness that is the very foundation of facial beauty. Since the days of Cleopatra, these two famous cosmetic oils have been used as beautifiers. Nothing has ever supplanted them. "This soap," says Massé, "combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils."

Palmolive's color is the natural color of olive and palm oils. The natural odor of these oils makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes. It contains no other fats . . . just nature's own cosmetic oils.

Consult your beauty expert

Visit your beauty expert regularly, to be well groomed in every beauty detail. And cooperate with your expert by using Palmolive Soap daily in this simple treatment advocated by more than 19,800 famous beauticians:

Massage a smooth lather of Palmolive gently into the skin for about 2 minutes. Then rinse it off with warm water, graduating to cold. That's all. But be sure you do it regularly night and morning — as Monsieur Massé and the other famous experts advise.

P. S.—And use Palmolive for the bath, too. It costs no more than ordinary soaps, you know.

19,813 of the world's best known experts specify Palmolive for all home facial treatments!

EASTERN CONN.'S TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

After having experienced the results of the efforts to furnish a substitute for the mail, express, baggage and passenger service along the Norwich & Worcester branch of the New Haven road in Connecticut, sentiment is not what can be said to be favorable. The removal of the trains has operated to the dissatisfaction of those who depended upon that service, who have for years relied upon it as if it were a permanent thing, whose business revolves about adequate transportation facilities.

Norwich is the largest community affected, but Putnam likewise recognizes the handicaps that have followed and it is only natural that the same detrimental experience should be voiced by Jewett City.

This end of the state has placed so much dependence upon the New Haven road for service in these particulars in the past that it is impossible to turn to something else and find it just as good. Furthermore, when it is deprived of what had long since become a fixture it was inevitable that a substitute would have to measure up to requirements or it would not be accepted. Having tried, against its wishes, the makeshift arrangement and found that it does not come up to requirements, it is only what should be expected when the various communities put forth a joint protest.

At the gathering of the representatives of the civic organizations here tonight the cold hard facts as to what has been taken away, the inability to obtain information concerning transportation service, the lack of proper facilities for getting to other points and the belief that the communities along this branch of the New Haven road have been sidetracked and placed under a serious handicap should be set forth. It is perfectly evident that if a protest is going to amount to anything this is the time it should be presented. We have submitted passively to the steady withdrawal of service, but when it comes to a complete removal, when it gets so that eastern Connecticut is told that it must take what is given it whether it is good, bad or indifferent, whether it likes it or not, it is time to make a fuss about it.

Communities along this branch of the New Haven road are being ignored so far as service is concerned, though the road itself reports a gratifyingly prosperous condition.

For a corporation that is supposed to be serving the public it doesn't appear to be very deeply concerned with the needs and convenience of the people in this end of the state.

THE PENALTY OF SPEED

How speed figures conspicuously in fatal automobile accidents was distressingly illustrated by the crash at the Tannery curve, where a number of other bad accidents have occurred. There is a wide street there with plenty of room for both the motor vehicles and the double trolley tracks if there is due regard for the rate of speed, but it is a serious place for the driver of any vehicle if the desire to get over the ground is given preference to the desire for safety.

According to the report, the auto was being driven at a fast rate of speed, so that when the electric car made its appearance around the corner there was not time enough in which to swing into the highway, clear of the trolley tracks, or get into the south-bound track on the extreme right of the road. Under such circumstances a collision is imminent when, with less speed, it could be avoided.

The crash was similar in many details to the head-on collision with a trolley in West Haven the night before. There the woman driving the car, who was speeding her brother to his home, turned out to pass the machine ahead of her. She did not notice that the trolley was coming and when she did it was too late to prevent a crash. The collision was so severe that it fractured the skulls of both occupants of the auto, split the gasoline tank and fire followed, the helpless people in the auto narrowly escaped being burned through the quick work of the car crew.

In each of these instances the fault seemed to lie in the fact that there was so much speed being maintained by the driver of the motor vehicles that proper protection could not be afforded. Both machines were being driven too fast for safety under the conditions existing at those particular points. On a straight stretch the speed might not have been such as to be considered excessive but there were unknown conditions in the highways against which proper safeguards were not taken.

Such fatalities all serve to swell the number of those which must of necessity figure in the list of needless deaths. The automobile is a great machine when it comes to overcoming distance and making time, but it needs to be used with due regard for the unknown factor in the highway which cannot be anticipated. There are times when the longest way around is the surest way home and by the same token there are times when less speed will mean getting to the desired destination sooner and safer. The unfortunate part of it all is that thought is not given to the hidden highway dangers until it is too late to shut off the speed.

There is a warning in those fatalities for every driver who is inclined to disregard his own safety at points where good fortune alone so often stands in the way of similar results. Such cases are characteristic of the many where death was needless if there had been a willingness to yield a few seconds in a breack-neck rush.

TAX COLLECTORS' CONFERENCE

Norwich will welcome the tax collectors of the county as they gather here today in the informal conference which has been arranged by Tax Commissioner Blodgett. Here is an opportunity which it is believed all tax collectors who can will improve, since it is believed that they can appreciate the benefit of any round table gathering where there can be expected to be an airing of certain of those problems that collectors have to face. It seems not improbable that from such a meeting there can be much enlightenment for the taxpayer as well as the tax collector.

At a recent conference of this character at Bridgeport for the benefit of the Fairfield county collectors, Commissioner Blodgett is quoted as saying that the people are becoming tax conscious and, as the result, can be expected to put "a stop to the joy riding expenditures." There are those who will be watching for confirmation of that statement and there are those who will point to the action which has been taken by certain town meetings in the eastern part of the state as proving it. While the actions of Groton and Windham have been based to a large extent upon the revaluation, it is apparent that there is a decided opposition to the increase in taxation. Taxpayers are tolerant to a surprising degree in many instances and yet when they become convinced that something is wrong they usually act promptly and effectively.

The joy ride expenditures to which the commissioner refers represents the action of those town meetings which vote anything and everything that is asked, whether conditions warrant the outlay and whether it means a substantial boost in an already high tax rate. Most towns have experienced such. Some have displayed a willingness to vote much in October which they are not ready to pay for in March. They have had an opportunity to see the folly of the previous action. They have reacted in leisure in spite of the appearance of the new grand list. Thus, while the tax collectors are not to blame for the tax rate, there are reasons for believing that the tax commissioner may have something to say here concerning tax conditions which will interest the public in general, as well as the collectors.

THE DIVIDED MINERS

This year the country doesn't appear to be threatened with a coal strike but it is witnessing a situation among the miners themselves which cannot escape attention. The miners' organization hasn't accomplished all that it has attempted. If the public were sounded the verdict would be that it ought not to, but because of the methods which have been employed there has grown up a dissatisfaction within the ranks which was bound to break forth sooner or later.

There has been a wheel within a wheel in connection with the coal mining situation. Demands have been made by the miners which if complied with would have put certain of the mines out of business. The strike conditions which deprived the public of coal, or threatened to, and forced up the price, resulted in the resort to substitutes and a consequent decrease in the demand for coal. There has been decreased work for the miners and it has been apparent that there was need for a readjustment of conditions within the industry.

As the result of this and the failure of the miners to get what they have sought, there has grown up a strong opposition within the union against President Lewis and his methods. The organization's powerfulness has experienced a blow. It was not able to meet the opposition from without and now it is engaged in a hard struggle against opposition from within. There is a determined effort to overthrow Lewis, so much so that while the national convention of miners is being held in one city, a rump convention of the opposition is assembled elsewhere. This doesn't necessarily mean that Lewis is going to be ousted, for those who would do the ousting are in the minority and have withdrawn, but it would appear that it could not fail to have a further detrimental effect upon the strength of the organization.

If this were a sudden development it might be expected that the breach could be healed, but it has been underway for a long time. Mr. Lewis promises to stick, the union will remain, but where there is not unity among the miners dwindling effectiveness is threatened.

THE LUCKY BREAK

"I never saw such beautiful dark eyes in my life!"

The broad shoulders of Tim Skillin were very straight as he crossed Le Claire avenue and started up the other side of the street. He breathed a long sigh, his keen blue eyes still casting side glances at the big Raybourn residence as he tramped his beat.

Tim hadn't been a policeman long, only a year, in fact. He was very proud of his job, of his fine blue uniform and everything that went with it. Generally he walked the streets of the exclusive suburb with a sharp eye for trouble and an honest satisfaction in his work. It was a man's job, as he told his mother. He envied no man.

But just last month, when he came back from his vacation, something had occurred to shake his satisfaction in the day's routine. The Raybourn house on the corner was one of the show places of River Dale, set in beautiful gardens, encircled with flower-trimmed paths.

Tim always loved to walk past the place, and he always walked very slowly down the block. He kept an interested eye on the going and coming of the four cars, on the visitors who constantly enjoyed the broad verandas and perfectly kept lawns. He always tipped his cap to the family if he met them, taking great pride in the size and style of the place.

The first time he saw the girl with the lovely dark eyes Tim almost stopped short.

As he rounded the corner that warm evening, his cap for a moment in his hand, his fair hair curling in damp waves over his honest blue eyes, the girl had been placing flowers on the veranda.

At the sound of his steps, she had turned quickly, her arms full of blue larkspur blossoms. Tim took one long look at her delicate face, at the great dark eyes behind long lashes . . . and he had never been the same man since!

He had watched her every day hoarding each glance at her as he tramped past. Sometimes she was in the gardens, gathering flowers. Often she sat on the side veranda reading. In the evenings she took walks by herself down the shaded streets. Poor Tim thought of her by day and night.

"Not for the likes of me . . . always dressed in white. So dainty and refined. I'll never even dare speak to a girl like that . . . when she looks at me as I go past . . . my heart turns over."

Weeks passed. Tim lived for the moments when he passed the Raybourn place. And he could not forget the girl.

One Sunday evening he passed, saw that the cars were all out, then walked past again. A slight noise on the side veranda made him pause. Springing lightly over the railing, Tim stood still in surprise.

For there, in the corner, her white frock torn and dusty, stood the pretty girl. She was gazing ruefully up at a window, just out of her reach. A box, splintered and broken, lay beside her, and her dark eyes were troubled. Instantly the young policeman spoke.

"Anything the matter, here? Can I help you?" She sighed at him in instant relief, her lips parting in a delighted smile.

"Oh, I'm so glad you came! I slipped out to mail a letter and the door blew shut! There's no one home. I thought I could reach the window and climb in. But the miserable old box broke the minute I stepped on it . . . so now I can't get in." Tim's eyes never left the lovely, troubled face.

"I take care of old Mrs. Raybourn," continued the girl. "I'm so worried for fear she'll wake up and want me." Tim's heart gave a leap at her anxious words. Why, she was a girl who worked, like himself! He needn't be afraid of her.

"And the box broke . . ." his laughter made the girl smile back at him. "Too bad." Then he gathered courage.

"A lucky break for me, maybe!" Her face flushed at his words. She dropped her lashes. Tim stepped forward, climbed with nimble feet up into the window. "I'll be out the front door in a jiffy," he said.

A moment later he softly opened the front door and the girl hurried into the house. With a quick gesture of caution, she went at once into the room off the veranda. When she returned a moment later her face was bright with relief.

"Everything's all right, thanks to you. I was so worried when you came along."

Holding her hands in his, the radiant Tim looked down at the lovely face.

"I've been trying to know you for weeks and today I had my first lucky break," he smiled—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 17—There is nothing of the poet in the look or manner of Guy Despard Goff, senior senator from West Virginia.

He's a plump, round-faced smooth-shaven little man with two tufts of white hair marking the limits of the inroads time has made on his once abundant locks. He's a lawyer by trade, as are most senators, and rather a hard-boiled, extremely practical minded one at that.

And he's a regular of republican regulars when it comes to politics. There is no doubt about that. He's also a good debater, quick in biting retort. But very rarely does he plunge into long prepared speeches.

Wherefore, it was something of a novelty when Senator Goff took the senate floor on a Saturday of the tariff debate otherwise earmarked for a rest.

He had a speech in his hands that counted up just 98 pages of typewritten matter.

Stinger

It was, by the senator's own statement, a defense of the protective tariff theory and, also by his own description, designed as a pitiless tongue lashing for all who stood aloof from that theory, particularly the senate democratic-insurgent republican tariff coalition.

That speech just about made up the senate record for the day. It took nearly three hours to embalm it in the Congressional Record.

Whether it was the senator's own idea and the opening gun of his campaign to succeed himself in the senate, or the product of an assignment to speak for the republican old guard in that body, deemed necessary for party reasons, the writer does not know. What he does know, however, is that the West Virginian waxed exceeding eloquent before he quit. He rose to poetical heights. Almost, in his per-oration, he gave a devotional quality to his words. He sang a psalm of the tariff.

Here are some exerpts:

"It (the protective tariff theory) has accomplished wonders and will achieve the marvelous.

"It has elevated our manhood, dignified and uplifted our labor, and educated our people.

"It as enabled us to perfect the grandest system of finance the world has ever yet enjoyed and it has caused our credit to shine with the sun of civilization."

Poet Laureate?

Now that is going some; but harken further:

"It has touched our barren, rugged hillsides and caused the waters of commercial prosperity to flow all over the land.

"It has illuminated our valleys with the leaping flames of our furnaces and caused them to kiss the mountain tops in their ascent to prosperity.

"It has made the hum of our factories sweet music to the ears of those who labor and toil."

Up to now, Reed Smoot of Utah has held unquestioned the post of high priest of protection. But what of Goff? Surely he rates the title of poet laureate of the tariff.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Memorial to the Living Dead—Bertha A. Metzger

Mr. Editor: A radiant spirit took flight to her place in the Heaven world when Bertha Metzger laid down her burdens. It seems a commonplace to say this, but it is far from the commonplace. Her life stood out in simplicity and beauty far above any appreciation here. She belonged to the cloisters of life and shrank from publicity.

Utterly alien to the law of consanguinity she grew into the hearts of a comparatively few people and found those ties so needful to her barren life in her close friendships. She was born to a life of sacrifice and service. Perhaps the greatest achievement of her moral and spiritual integrity lies in her simple directness of action. If the path of duty is the way to glory she reached part of her goal in the midst of much hardship and trouble. She took three of her brothers' motherless babes and helped the bereaved father nurture, care for and rear them to manhood and womanhood. She had the will to do such things, perform such offices. Nothing deterred her when her sense of duty called.

Shrinking from publicity, nevertheless she was brought into it by her vocation. Scores of fine women in this community reached her rare sensibilities through her genius as a designer and fitter of gowns. Herein was formed those friendships, those true moral and spiritual relationships, which she so needed.

An earnest conscientious sense of duty impelled her to associate herself with the Christian church and for many years she sacredly kept the bonds and covenants of her church. Perhaps little will be remembered of what is written here. The purpose of it is to speak a word by one who knows her to keep alive something more than a memory in her untimely passage. The purpose is to make of her as she is, a living presence among those she loved.

"She has outsoared the shadow of our night
Envy and calumny and hate and pain,
And that unrest which men miscall delight
Can touch her not, can torture not again.
From the contagion of the world's slow stain
She is secure, and ne'er can mourn
A heart grown cold, a head grown gray in vain."

Why Prosperity

Mr. Editor: Wonder what's struck Uncle Sam and his folks? Everybody seems to be dressed up in new clothes; they're saving money; they've got a lot of new houses and house furnishings; everyone seems to have an automobile. Uncle Sam has reduced taxes five times since 1920 and yet has a full treasury. Uncle Sam's factories pay the highest wages. There's more than good luck in all this.

Practical minded John Bull sent a commission over to see Uncle Sam and find out all about this new comfort and prosperity. The commission went back to England and one of the reasons they gave the British government for American supremacy in trade matters was prohibition. When prohibition stopped the American wage earner from patronizing the American saloon a stream of $2,500,000,000 was diverted from useless liquor toward the purchase of useful commodities and the expansion of valuable investments, both of which have put money to work in the fundamental industries of the country and created the present enormous wealth with which this country is blessed.

Prohibition has increased American purchasing power $5,000,000,000 a year, is the verdict of Professor Paul Nystrom of Columbia university of New York.

There is no doubt about prohibition being an economic success. All the well known economists testify to that fact. The reason is that most of the money once spent for liquor now goes for these four things: Homes, home furnishings, automobiles and savings.

As a contrast to the day when the drunkard stole his children's savings for liquor, today we have 53,000,000 individual savings accounts. Practically half the people in this country are saving money. Three times as many as in the saloon era. Home-owning is such a hobby that the building and loan association business is one of the financial giants of the new age, having increased its assets $2,000,000,000 since the saloons closed.

All these facts indicate that even if the bootlegger is taking a toll, homes and banks are getting even more. We have had 3,000,000 new homes built in the past eight years. In the same years which gave us 2,500,000 new families, we find 3,500,000 families purchasing houses.

Along with home-owning, many comforts have been added to lighten the burden of the housekeeper because the head of the house does not spend his money for liquor. Electrical appliances in the homes are increasing under prohibition. Ten years ago less than a million washing machines a year were manufactured. Last year, 6,000,000 were made and introduced into American homes. The increase in the laundry business is startling. These things are a part of the better living standards. Life is easier.

There are more children attending public schools than ever before; fewer of them are ill clad and under-nourished. More of them remain through high school. Three times as many enroll in college as in the saloon era.

Men who drank beer at noon time today drink a quart of milk; and the nation's dairy industries have increased four fold. American workmen go to work in automobiles. This country owns three out of every four automobiles in the world and spent $2,000,000,000 last year on new road surfaces.

These are not idle statements; they come from reliable sources; from the reports of building and loan associations, from the American Bankers' association, from government bureaus and departments.

The general opinion of the heads of industry as reported by Samuel Crowther in the Ladies' Home Journal is that people are spending less money for intoxicating liquor and more on homes.

Therefore, it follows that those who flout the law and deal with the bootlegger are not only conspiring with the criminal to violate the law, but are actually diverting money from the stream of prosperity to the stream of graft and corruption. No one could accuse the Encyclopedia Brittanica of being a prejudiced witness. This is what the world-famous book of reference says about the effect of prohibition in the United States:

When one nation, such as the United States, makes a definite advance in this form of economy, there is no reason to doubt that it will gain on all others year by year, decade by decade and century by century, and eventually dominate the civilized world. They who refuse to take this great forward step in the economy of human resources are definitely choosing to occupy a secondary position in the world.

In 1916, billions for rum; in 1930, billions for homes and better living. Now honestly we ask you, isn't it better for Americans to have: Bank accounts, not booze bills; home owned, not rent owed; chain groceries on the street corners, not saloons; radios in homes, not overcoats in pawn; evenings with the wife and children, not with booze companions; children in school, not in the factory; money in the 1929 model car, not in a 1918 model saloon? Since the 18th amendment went into effect the average family has these better things.

The High Cost of Fishing and Hunting

Mr. Editor: All over the state, the sportsmen are wondering why the cost of hunting and fishing licenses are so much higher than in the surrounding states. This year, the licenses have again been boosted. Is this price boosting to become an annual event? The effect of the increase in the cost of a license has, apparently, already made itself felt in the decrease in the number issued as against the same period last year, and it is an open question whether or no there will be any great increase in the revenue for this reason.

Most of the fishermen and hunters in our state come from the ranks of the factory employes, mill hands, or from various lines of business; men who have but a very few hours during the week end to devote to these sports. For these men, $3.35 for a single license, or $5.35 for a combination license is far too much to pay. One effect of these increased prices will be to deprive many of these men of the pleasure of indulging in these pastimes.

A fee of 35 cents is charged for making out the license, the work of a minute; and we not only pay it, but seem to like it.

What is wrong? Are the fish and game commission handling the propagation and stocking of fish and game in an economical efficient manner? If not, it is high time that something be done about it. Is there any reason why the state should not set aside a reasonable appropriation each year for this work? We all contribute more or less to the revenue of the state. The cry has gone out that fishing and hunting must be self-sustaining; why any more so than state parks?

A comparison of the stocking program with the neighboring states shows nothing to justify the great differences in the license charges.

Following is a table showing the license charges in neighboring states:

	Fish.	Hunt.	Comb.
Connecticut	$3.35	$3.35	$5.35
Pennsylvania ..	1.60	2.00	—
N. H.	—	—	1.15
Maine	.65	.65	1.15
Vermont	1.00	1.00	1.50
Mass.	—	—	2.25
New York	—	—	1.25
New Jersey ...	—	—	1.65
Delaware	—	—	1.10

Condensed Labor

Mr. Editor: As I stand upon the outlying hills that are to be seen in the approach to the city of Norwich, I cannot help but think of the wonderful adaptation that is to be seen for the carrying on of business, and of the accessibility of the city to the markets of the world, of the fine transportation facilities that are to be had through the waterways, and the railroads that enter the city on both sides of the river. The intelligent workers who can be found to carry on the various industries the close proximity to the many watering places where the people can secure relaxation after their work is finished, make the place ideal. And as I look it over I can see that the living expenses are not as great as are found in many other places. The rents in very select sections do not suffer in comparison with other places. Fuel is much cheaper than it is in the cities that are almost next door to the mines, for I note by the advertisements that some of your local dealers are sending out your coal at $12 the ton, while we here are paying $15 for the same grade and still we are 200 miles nearer the mines. This is only one item that we have to meet and in looking into the various store windows I can see many things that are at a less cost than is to be found in many other places. Yet the Rose of New England still holds a place in the sun. And it ought to advance and not stand still, for it has everything in its favor.

At one time it was a leader in the manufacture of small arms. When the Hopkins & Allen company, Bacon Arms company and before that time, we recall, the Eagle Arms company and many others were busy places during times of strife. But on the advent of lasting peace they faded from the picture of yesterday. Many industries are all the time looking for a site, for some place where they can locate, and inducements are offered through the elimination of taxes to such a point that they can receive a certain return on their investments and that is the right of every investor who puts his money into a business venture with the expectation of getting a fair return. Here, I repeat, Norwich can reach the markets quickly and safely, over the Norwich & Worcester, either east or west, and over the New London Northern which reaches the northern country, as it is one of the stems of the Grand Trunk that covers a great part of Canada and the great northwestern country which covers thousands of miles and is reaching out to the markets of the world for the many things that are needed to carry on the world's work and to meet the every-day needs of the consumer. To get all these, or any part, those who are vitally concerned must be ever on the alert to note and get busy and try to induce those who are looking for a location to come and look the ground over. Many years ago, within the nine miles square, there were to be found many woolen mills, notably Hooper's in Occum and another, the name of which has slipped my memory. And in those places they made real "woolen" cloth without any substitute of any kind. Also in the Greeneville section there was a paper mill, the Chelsea, where the finest kind of paper was made for some of the leading magazines and newspapers of this country. Along the same stream was located the greatest wood type factory in this country, the William H. Page Wood Type company. And I might mention the Shetucket Cotton mills. No question, some of these places have moved on elsewhere, and the operatives perforce have gone with them. I am not writing a diatribe upon this subject but I am only recalling what memory gives back to me of the many industries that were in existence in the long ago and furnished work with good pay as of those early days.

No community can afford to stand still in this age of competition but must move along with that force that carries on to prosperity and the increased valuation of property. One great factor in the manufacturing life of Norwich, and this in itself is a great recommendation, is the fact that labor troubles do not seem to affect the civil or industrial life of the people. At least that is as it appears to me. And there must be a reason for this, for every loyal and efficient employer looks upon his employes not as pieces of a great machine but as good and faithful men like themselves, both working together for success, for capital is of not much use without labor, and likewise labor would not profit much without capital. David Swing has said capital is condensed labor, it is nothing until labor takes hold of it. The living laborer sets free the condensed labor and makes it assume some form of utility or beauty. Capital and labor are one, and they will draw nearer to each other as the world advances in intellect and goodness.

As we move along through the many New England villages we see here and there many little factories where someone is working, contented and happy, and I recall many years ago in Newent in a little place called Blissville, where there was a little factory that made, if my memory recalls it, lamp wicks and cotton twine. This place was just a family affair and was operated by the members of a family who owned it; is this correct? Just a little place, but it seemed to suffice and answer for the simple wants of those who lived, worked and passed on.

This letter may not be interesting but reading between the lines we can see the answer. If so, it will have served its purpose, and nothing else matters.

"Our Unpublished Selves"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart" (I. Samuel 16:7).

Read: I. John 3:1-6.

MEDITATION: By looking on the heart God sees what men do not see. Every man, likewise, sees within himself what no other man can see. For he sees his unpublished self that eludes the public eye. Down under our commonplace, conventional selves, are selves that are not commonplace. There are hidden glories in a man that he has not yet revealed. He walks among men a prince in disguise. He is better than any man knows. This knowledge of what he is and strives to be gives him courage and self-respect and satisfaction. The final basis for self-acceptance is unshaken confidence in one's own integrity and endeavors.

PRAYER: O Lord, we thank Thee for the ideals and purposes that Thou hast implanted in our hearts and that make us better than we appear to be. Make us loyal to the inner voices, give us the joy of a good conscience and the comfort which belongs to those who have striven to be true. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

The Kidney

By WALTER G. SCHUTE, M. D.,
Salt Lake City, Utah
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

We must think of ourselves as large cell colonies, or groups of living units which have arranged themselves in such a manner that there is a division of labor and the assumption of certain definite functions by each cell group, in order to visualize the dependence of these cell groups upon one another for their existence.

Such a group of cells, devoted to a single function, is called an organ. Where several groups are connected, or inter-related in function, a system is created. Some systems are vital to the human economy. Without them the body must perish.

The urinary system is one of these. Its function is the elimination of waste. This system consists of four groups: (1) the kidneys, which remove the waste, urine, from the blood stream; (2) the ureters, two tubes which conduct the urine to (3) the bladder, a reservoid where it collects till such a time as it is convenient for the body to discharge it. This it does through (4) the urethra, a tube leading to the exterior.

The kidneys are often attacked by disease germs or microbes. These parasites may come into the body suddenly, as in an attack of scarlet fever. Or they may have lived there a long time, being harbored by the tonsils, around the edges of the gums or the roots of a treated or devitalized tooth, and suddenly gain access to the blood stream and lodge in the kidneys. There they may give rise to an acute infection with fever and prostration. They may act less violently, and lead to the formation of a stone, or gradually destroy the substance of the kidney. Some of these processes go on so stealthily that they are hardly noticed by the individual afflicted.

The kidneys are also exposed to direct injury from a fall or a blow over the loins, or they may be poisoned by certain chemical substances circulating in the blood stream.

The early signs of kidney disease are found in the urine. This will contain abnormal constituents which can be detected chemically and microscopically by the physician—if you give him a chance to examine you. It is the business of the dentist to be sure that the teeth and gums are not the hiding place of dangerous bacteria. He must see that the teeth are kept in a healthy condition.

Periodically our bodies should be carefully inspected to assure ourselves that all is well. This is the best health insurance.

A YANKEE ABROAD

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Religious Fervor in Arabia

LONDON—From Moscow comes word that the soviet government is turning churches throughout Russia into museums; that the bells which formerly called the humble peasants to prayer are being melted down.

From a distinguished Arabian acquaintance of mine in Hedjaz comes a communication, in the course of which he speaks of that picturesque personality Ibn Saud, sultan of Nedj and king of Hedjaz. My friend tells of the religious fervor of the people of Arabia headed by this Napoleon of the Desert who rules his empire, oftimes from a bedouin tent, with an iron hand. The letter says:

Fervor

"Nowhere in the world of islam is the teaching of Mohamet so strictly observed as in the dominions of the king of Hedjaz. And no Moslem is more punctual in obeying the call than the king himself.

"You can picture him in his tent, sitting in Bedouin fashion on his rugs. He is surrounded by his advisers and ministers, while an ever shifting stream of visitors pass in and out.

"Suddenly the Muezzin's voice rings out. There is an immediate stoppage of official business. The king, in his capacity as Imam, that is, religious leader, utters the invocation: 'There is no power and strength save in Almighty God.' The phrase is reverently repeated by all those present. It is a signal as well as an invocation. The tent flaps are flung open and the king with all his entourage pass into the open.

Toward Mecca

"The tall figure of Ibn Saud—a magnificent figure more than six feet in height—dominates the groupe. He advances a short distance across the shifting sands and then stops and turns his face toward Mecca.

"The congregation arrange themselves in a single row behind their king and religious leader. They stand abreast of each other, for all of them are equal before God.

"The only exception is the desert emperor himself and his personal attendant who stands behind him with a drawn sword.

"The custom of stationing an armed attendant behind the king at prayer dates back to the year 1832, when the great Turki Ibn Saud, great-grandfather of the present king, was treacherously stabbed to death as he prostrated himself in prayer."

A real skeptic is a man who has lost faith in himself.

SHE'S GETTING THINNER EVERY DAY

Her Fat Is Melting Fast Away

All over the world Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free from fat figure that cannot fail to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

Get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts at Lee & Osgood Co or any drug store (lasts four weeks) with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

One Montana woman lost 19 pounds of fat in four weeks and feels better than she has for years.

Soft Corns

Moone's Emerald Oil Quickly Does Away With All Soreness and Pain

Get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and put an end to all the pain and soreness and do away with the corn itself.

Never mind the cause, how long you've had it or how many other preparations you have tried. This powerful penetrating oil is the one preparation that will make your painful aching feet so healthy and free from corn and bunion troubles that you'll be able to go anywhere and do anything in absolute foot comfort.

WEDDINGS

Segal-Blinderman

The wedding of Miss Freda Blinderman, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Blinderman of No. 37 Thames street, and Murray Segal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Segal of No. 50 Peck street, took place at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rabbi D. Traub, on Federal street, New London. The ceremony was performed in the presence of members of the immediate families. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cohan of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Segal gave the bridegroom away.

At a reception at the home of the bride's mother guests from New York, New London, Hartford and Boston, enjoyed dancing to music by Scott's orchestra. Master Leonard Safon of Boston presented a clog dance. Mr. and Mrs. Segal left in the evening on their wedding trip, which will take them to Washington, D. C., and New York. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends in a newly furnished apartment in the Pasnik block.

Mrs. Segal, who received many beautiful and useful gifts, has been employed as night operator at the local telephone exchange, while Mr. Segal is employed as a salesman by the United Music Co. Their many friends extend them best wishes for a successful married life.

Dunkel-Rau

Joseph Jerome Dunkel, an aviator of Los Angeles, Cal., and Miss Beatrice Rau of 7 Julian street, were united in marriage at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. C. H. Ricketts at the Greeneville Congregational church parsonage. They left immediately after the ceremony on their honeymoon trip which will conclude in Los Angeles, where they will reside.

The bride is the daughter of the late Robert and Nora Rau and of late has been residing with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn at Julian street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dunkel are enthusiasts of aviation, especially the former, who has been flying since 1913. Mr. Dunkel became interested in balloon work in 1913, learning the business at Chattanooga, Tenn. During the World war he was attached to the 137th division, observation squad, and served for 17 months in France, taking part in a number of important engagements. With his discharge from the army he returned to his home in California and has since been associated with a number of the prominent motion picture companies. As a movie actor he had done considerable stunt flying and executed many thrilling parachute jumps.

His bride, the only girl member of the Norwich Aero club, took instructions at the David School of Parachutes at Mendon, Mass., airport. With the conclusion of her course of instruction she went to a Worcester airport and went up in a plane with her instructor. Adverse weather conditions made it impossible on the day Miss Rau made her jump to reach a high altitude with the result that she dropped from the plane when up a distance of only 1200 feet. After going about half the distance to the ground she opened her chute and landed near the airport.

MAYOR ROBBINS IS TO RECEIVE TENDERFOOT RANK AT SCOUT COURT

At the second session of the Boy Scout Court of Honor to be held this year, at the town hall Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins will be made a tenderfoot Scout and will receive his badge at the hands of the court. This honor is accorded the mayor as a symbol of a Scout's desire to serve the city and its officials and to make them feel that the boyhood of the community is behind their efforts to preserve law and order.

An interesting feature of the program will be the showing of pictures from Camp Tippecan, reminiscent of other days; the showing also of the winter camp pictures which were taken during the last Christmas holiday season of Norwich Scouts at Camp Pioneer.

According to the local Scout headquarters large classes in second class, first class and merit badge-work are expected to appear before the court for their awards.

A board of review will be held at 7 p. m. All candidates for second class and first class are required to appear before this board. All second class candidates are asked to bring some article carved with a knife and all first class candidates are asked to bring their maps.

Efficiency streamers will be awarded to several of the troops. Announcements have ben withheld because it has been felt that the court is the proper place to announce standings of troops.

Among those receiving merit badges are Bernard Savage, leathercraft, firemanship; Lewis Sussman, leathercraft, firemanship; John P. Friswell, leathercraft, firemanship; Augustine Lerow, firemanship; C. Romanecoski, swimming; Bogus Zowislinski, woodcraft; Herbert Chapman, carpentry, painting; Raymond Hotchkis, firemanship; Francis Aubrey, leathercraft, firemanship.

AMERICAN LEGION NATIONAL CONVENTION FOR BOSTON

R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, has been notified by the Connecticut department headquarters of the Legion, of the appointment of Past Department Commander Harry C. Jackson of New Britain as department chairman in charge of the national convention arrangements. The national convention is to be held next fall at Boston. Arthur H. Petts of New Britain has been named vice chairman in charge of transportation.

The national convention of the American Legion will be held October 6, 7, 8 and 9. The city of Boston is so rich in historic traditions that almost every week has its anniversary of an event that is profoundly related to the nation's founding days. This year Boston is preparing to observe a new day that will stand forth on its calendar. That day is October 6th, the day of the parade of the American Legion's 12th national convention.

The day of a Legion national convention parade is always a day any city remembers. The whole country recalls the Legion's procession at Kansas City in 1921, reviewed by Marshal Foch and other great figures of the allied army. New Orleans, San Francisco and other convention cities also helped establish the tradition of the national convention parade as America's greatest national pageant. The parade at Louisville last autumn was a spectacle that surpassed in size and color and music all parades that went before it.

In Boston with the inspiration of Colonial history, the Legion will march in even greater glory. It is certain that closely populated New England will send into Boston the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a Legion parade. Ordinarily a convention parade is a sufficient event in itself for one convention day. But in Boston on October 6th, the big parade will scarcely have ended before a new convention feature begins. On the night of October 6th, there will be held a huge pageant, ball and athletic carnival. The first tickets for this event have been awarded to the ten departments which on January 1st had attained the highest percentages of their 1931 membership quotas.

Other tickets will be awarded later to departments of the Legion and the auxiliary in proportion to their membership standings. The department of Connecticut hopes to develop plans on an elaborate scale both for its own participation in Boston and for the entertainment of the visiting delegations from elsewhere in the country who will stop in the nutmeg state either on their way to Boston or on their way back.

SEED LAW AID TO CONNECTICUT FARMERS

Connecticut farmers can no longer justly say that they do not know the kind of seed they are buying, declared Leonard H. Healey, deputy commissioner of agriculture, upon his return from a preliminary inspection and sampling of seeds in the large wholesale houses throughout the state. This inspection work by the state department of agriculture marks the inauguration of the enforcement of the Connecticut seed law.

Connecticut is a large consumer of seeds and has some of the largest seed houses in the east located within her borders. In the past, however, no guarantee whatever has been required in regard to purity and germination on a large part of the seeds offered for sale. The last session of the legislature enacted a seed law requiring that all grass seeds and field seeds shall have a label or tag attached to each package, giving the common name of the seed, together with germination test, percent of purity and the name and address of the dealer (with certain requirements as to mixture and special mixtures). Farmers are urged by the state department in purchasing seed to buy only such seed as is labeled in accordance with the state law.

$10,000 FIRE LOSS ON LEDYARD CENTER FARM

With a loss of more than $10,000 a house, barn and contents on the old Norman farm in Ledyard Center, were destroyed by fire late Saturday night. The property is owned by a Mr. Cramp of New York city and was in charge of a caretaker. The farm was formerly owned by Hibberd Norman, uncle of County Health Officer Hibberd R. Norman, of this city.

SPACE IS ALLOTTED FOR MERCHANTS' BAZAAR

Monday afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms in the Thayer building, a meeting was held by the special merchants' committee, with John P. Morley, chairman, to allot space for the merchandise display and fashion bazaar which is to be held on the afternoon of March 27, at the Wauregan hotel, in co-operation with the home demonstration department of the county farm bureau.

It is estimated by the farm bureau department that over 200 women will attend the bazaar.

The following are to be the exhibitors: Smith's Shoe Store, Savard Bros., Reid & Hughes Co., Porteous & Mitchell Co., Cranston Co., J. B. Caron, Lincoln Stores, P. J. Morley, Barney's, Lee & Osgood Co., Diamond Shoe Store, Model Booterie, Hawkins The Florist, The Radio Salon and Schwartz Bros.

Spoke Before Contact Club.

With the usual large attendance the weekly meeting of the Contact club, was held Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President Ernest O. Rodier conducted the meeting and Frederick J. Maples was the song leader. The speaker was Herbert R. Branche and he had on display calendars and novelties. John Fitzgerald made a report on the membership and Francis T. Diggins reported as chairman of the program committee for April.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR HIS EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

The entertainment was concluded with a fancy dance by Arlene Caughey. Sandwiches, fruit and cake were served by Elsie Levander, Dorothy Emback and Annett Laraviere. Master Charles received many beautiful gifts among them a pretty birthday cake with eight lighted candles on it.

SHERIFF BRADFORD MAKES RE-APPOINTMENT OF DEPUTIES

Announcement of the re-appointment of all the deputy sheriffs for New London county, who served under the regime of the late High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown, of New London, was made Monday by new High Sheriff George H. Bradford, of Montville.

The deputy sheriffs renamed are: Oscar H. Main, Norwich; J. H. Tubbs, East Lyme; William H. Casey, Stonington; John J. McGuire, Sprague; Manuel J. Martin, New London; George H. Hoxie, 2nd, Lebanon; Thomas C. O'Connell, Stonington, and Nelson C. L. Brown, Groton. Mr. Bradford had previously appointed John R. Bowman, Jr., of this city, as a deputy sheriff for the county, to fill the vacancy caused through the death of George Stanton of this city.

Mr. Bradford and the reappointed deputy sheriffs were administered the oaths of office Monday noon by John H. Walker, clerk of the superior court, at his office in the court house. Oscar H. Main and George H. Hoxie, 2nd, had the honor of being the first deputy sheriffs to be sworn in, having taken the oath of office together.

Sheriff Bradford has reappointed Mr. Main as jailer of the county jail here and Winder Reed as jailer at the county jail at New London. Mr. Main was named chief deputy.

HAD MORTGAGE BURNING AT LUTHERAN CHURCH

The ceremony of the burning of a mortgage note was carried out Sunday evening at the First Evangelical church following a supper with an attendance of 126. After an interesting program had been given, the mortgage note burning was carried out by Mrs. E. Thumm, president of the Ladies' Aid, and Paul Winkel, treasurer of the church. The pastor, Rev. Carl Storek, spoke in an appropriate way, reffering to the fact that the church is now free from debt.

Before the program opened a candle lighted birthday cake and daffodils were placed on one of the tables as a birthday surprise for the pastor's wife from the Ladies' Aid. She was also given a beautiful floor lamp, all of which made the recipient, who was completely surprised, very happy. The program was followed by games and lunch was served once more. The whole affair was carried out in a happy and most appropriate way and will long be remembered by all that were present.

WILL GIVE DINNER FOR RED ARROW BOOSTERS

At a special meeting of the Red Arrow club of Norwich held Monday evening at the Hanover-Curland company store, with Herbert M. Lerou, presiding, it was unanimously voted to give a booster dinner and entertainment to the Red Arrow boosters who are actively participating in the Red Arrow booster contest. The dinner will be a turkey dinner and will be held at the Wauregan hotel, Tuesday night, Mar. 26, and the boosters, with their escorts, will be guests of the members of the Red Arrow club. Special invitations will be sent to the boosters who are active in the contest.

The committee in charge of the dinner are George S. Powers, Julian L. Williams, Charles B. Gilbert, Charles Sentler and Charles Jacobson.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGHORNS IN LEAD BY TWO EGGS

Rhode Island Reds have lost the lead! Harold G. Colt's birds from West Hartford, that religiously led the entire aggregation the last 18 weeks have been supplanted by a pen of Leghorns that hail from Pennsylvania. Tolvonen Leghorn farm at Girard is in front of the Connecticut pen by the tiny margin of two eggs.

In the 19th week of the Storrs laying contest, the total production for all pens was 5,074 eggs, or a yield of 72.5 per cent. When compared with the previous week one notes a loss of 22 eggs, but compared with the corresponding week a year ago there's a gain of 752 eggs.

During the past week Reds exercised less of a monopoly. George B. Treadwell's pen from Spencer, Mass., Tolvonen Leghorn farm at Girard, Pa., and James Dryden's pen of Barred Rocks from Modesta, Calif., all tied for first place with a score of 63 eggs. Second position was likewise hotly contested. F. H. Sampson of Springfield, Mass., and Bourndale farm at Millerton, New York, sponsoring Reds and Leghorns respectively, tied with 61 eggs each.

For third place Rhode Island Reds held full sway. Donald I. Goodenough at Torrington and W. Otis Day from Westford, Mass., tied with 60 eggs each. Tom Barron of Catforth, England, and J. A. Hanson of Corvallis, Oregon, both backing Leghorns, shared fourth place with Old Pickard farm of Littleton, Mass., that boosts Barred Rocks. These three pens did 58 eggs each.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, 1,052; Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, Ont., Canada, [illegible].

Barred Rocks—R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 984; R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 971; Spring Brook P. Farm, So. Wethersfield, 947.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 856; E. A. Hirt, So. Weymouth, Mass., 800; Harold F. Barber, Valecroft, Dover, Mass., 782.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 1,177; Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 1,098; Donald I. Goodenough Torrington, 1,081; Homer R. Rowell, Groveland, Mass., 1,078.

White Leghorns—Tolvonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., 1,179; Steelman Poultry Farms, Lansdale, Pa., 1,093; Hanson's Leghorn Farm, Corvallis Ore., 1,078; Meadowedge Farm, Sterling Jct., Mass., 1,058; Leighton Orchards, Kingston, R. I., 1,049.

STRATFORD TRAFFIC SIGNS SHOW SPEED ALLOWED

Traffic regulation plans similar to those now in effect in Stratford, where motorists are instructed by prominently displayed signs as to the speeds which town authorities regard as reasonable, are being considered in eight towns of the state, according to information received by the state motor vehicle department.

The Stratford system has been in operation since January. Warning signs are set up on every road at the town borders. These inform drivers that reasonable speed is required under normal conditions. Other signs along the highways indicate the speeds which are considerable reasonble for the sections in which the signs are posted. The proper speed is decided upon only after careful study by town and state authorities. There has been no serious accident on the roads where the regulations apply since the system became effective, police records show. No complaints have been received from motorists or others regarding the speeds established, or the manner in which the system is being operated. While the system has not experienced the heavy traffic of summer, the police believe it has already relieved congestion in the center of the town on busy days, mainly because of the steadier and smoother flow of traffic which is allowed under the plan. Only five arrests have been made thus far, each of these was for exceeding the rate of speed deamed by the authorities to be reasonable. All five violators were convicted in court and paid fines for speeding.

PREPARING TO OCCUPY COMMUNITY SYNAGOGUE

Announcement was made at a meeting of the campaign workers of the Norwich Community synagogue, held Sunday evening at the B'nai B'rith rooms, Shetucket street, that the synagogue will take over the Community house the latter part of this week and will hold its first services there at the week end. The services will be in charge of Rabbi Gordon, of the Jewish Theological seminary, of New York, who made a deep impression upon the congregation in previous appearances.

A reception to mark the official opening of their new edifice of worship will take place Sunday, April 6, in the form of a chanukas habayas. The committees which have been appointed by President Abner Schwartz to have charge of the affair include: Arrangements, Morris Sussman, chairman, Harry Libby, William Israelite, Samuel Rosoff, Barney Rubinstein, Louis Pollock, Philip Korr, A. Ableman, A. Kofman and H. J. Schwartz; entertainment, Alex Pasnik, chairman, Charles J. Sentler and Louis Goldblatt.

At the meeting Sunday evening reports of additional contributions were made by these captains: Harry Libby, Louis Pollock, Alex Pasnik, Charles M. Gordon, M. Sussman. The contributors reported are: H. M. Lerou, T. H. Buckley, Elmer I. Browning, M. E. Antokol, Charles J. Dyer, J. Weisman, John R. Bowman, William H. Callahan, John A. Cunningham, Mrs. A. Cramer, I. H. Mandel, P. R. Shapiro, C. M. Gordon and Ebenezer Learned.

Louis Pollock, and ardent worker, will have charge of the campaign activities while General Chairman Schwartz is out of town for a few days.

LECTURE WITH VIEWS ON "CANADIAN ROCKIES"

Under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club an illustrated lecture of great interest was given at Slater hall Monday evening before an audience of 300 by Dan Mc Gowan upon "The Canadian Rockies."

No one knows this section any better than Mr. McGowan and with the assistance of his rarely beautiful colored views he brings his audience to see what he saw through the eyes of a naturalist, a painter and poet, an explorer and a humorist. Bird, fish and animal life, flowers, glaciers, lakes and mountains passed swiftly across the screen in an absorbing stream of beauty and interest, which the lecturer enhanced by his animated comment to make an unusual and especially entertaining evening.

Miss Bernice E. Willey, president of the club, introduced the lecturer.

Assigned To Engine No. 1.

Elmore Leseman of No. 32 Geer avenue, a call man in the local fire department for the last four years, has been assigned to Engine Co., No. 1, as substitute for Fireman Thomas Kearney, who is ill at his home. Mr. Kearney is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

BACK SEAT DRIVERS HAVE THEIR RIGHTS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Back seat driving is not only legal, says the Chicago motor club, but it has been legally declared to be sometimes necessary.

For authority, the club's legal department points to a recent decision of the Missouri court of appeals.

"It is impossible," said the court, "to lay down fixed rules by which to determine just when an automobile should be driven from the rear seat.

"The courts all agree, however, that a passenger or guest in an automobile must use ordinary care for his own safety and when this requires that he call the attention of the driver to approaching danger, he must do it, or be open to the charge of contributory negligence.

FRENCH PRESUME DRIVER AT FAULT IN ACCIDENTS

PARIS—(AP)—Automobilists are presumed to be at fault in accidents under a final decision of the court of Cassation France's supreme tribunal.

Originally it was for the victim to prove his case in suing for damages. The increase in accidents caused courts to change their attitude on the assumption drivers were careless.

Divergence of opinion led the court of cassation to have a full sitting on a test case to settle what French jurisprudence should be. It was decided that the driver is presumed to be at fault and the burden of proof is on him.

The majority rules—when in accord with the boss.

AERIAL AID IS CALLED "EPIC" OF FLOOD RELIEF

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Aerial relief work in flooded Indiana has been entered as "epic achievement" in American Red Cross annals.

Of 5,000 persons affected in flood areas in January, the organization estimates several hundred were saved from death or lingering illness by food, clothing, and other supplies dropped from the skies.

A blanket that ensnared the tail of an army plane piloted by Lieut. Lawrence Genaro taught new methods of aerial relief that will be followed in the future.

Making his first aerial relief trip, the aviator carried supplies in a blanket for 50 stranded refugees. When the load was to be dropped, the wind whipped the cover into the tail and the ship was forced to land on a narrow strip of ice.

Supplies thereafter were packed in bags, more than 400 of which were dropped during the distress period.

Long Distance To Go

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—More than 156,000,000,000 miles will be traversed by automobiles in 1930, the California automobiles association estimates.

Push And Pull Train

PARIS—(AP)—A locomotive that pushes and pulls is an innovation on a French railroad line. Like a motorman of an electric train, the locomotive when at the rear is controlled from the front of the train by the engineer sitting at a special control station.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

No Relief So Quick! Stomach Gas Pains

Indigestion, Bloating

Don't wait another day—don't suffer another moment — eat everything you want now without a sign of indigestion, gas, bloating or dizziness. The right way—the time-proven way to get quick relief from weak ailing stomachs and get back health and strength is thru the use of Tanlac.

Just a tablespoon of this reliable medicine before meals is almost an absolute guarantee that you will have no after-eating misery. But Tanlac is not intended to give temporary relief only, its object is a banishment of those troubles which have kept you so miserable. These claims for Tanlac are based on a record of over 10 years' success. One man says he lived on milk and raw eggs for 3 months and had lost all his strength but after taking Tanlac for only 3 days he began to eat everything and gain strength. If you doubt that Tanlac will benefit you, you have the privilege of going to your druggist, purchasing a bottle and if, after using it you are not benefited greatly your money will be refunded. Accept no substitute.

YOUR CHILD'S COLD needs prompt attention. Children's Musterole applied every hour for 5 hours should bring relief. All druggists.

MUSTEROLE

FAST ACTION PROMISED IN BOUTS AT DANIELSON THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 17—Ero Peterson of Worcester, with a record of 29 bouts won out of 30 that he has fought since turning professional, will face about as tough opposition as he ever has encountered when he steps into the ring at the town hall here Tuesday night to face that slashing, tearing battler, Al Koziol of Norwich. These boys will weigh in at around 128 pounds, and are scheduled to go six rounds. This is the star bout of the vening and on records of the two boxers should buzz with action from the opening bell to the finish, no matter how that may come about. In this event the fans will get an eyeful of how a boxer and a fighter go after each other.

It will be the first meeting of this pair, who have in the past fought in the same ring, but not against each other. Various attempts have been made to match them in the past, but without success until Promoter Louis Peloquin turned the trick for the show here tomorrow night.

Norwich also will furnish one of the opponents for the semi-final of the evening in the person of Vic Darr, who made a very impressive showing in his appearance here last month, when he battered Baldy Frodyna out of the picture in jig time. Tuesday night Darr will hook up with Alex Touraine of New Haven, formerly of Putnam, and rated as one of the best men in the state in the 140 pound class. These boys are billed for a 6-round go. Darr especially seeks a decision over Touraine, because the latter beat Johnny Kop in Hartford, and anyone that can turn that trick must be good.

Shiek Leonard of Norwich and Art O'Day of Holyoke are on the card for still another six-rounder at 152 pounds. Leonard, who is making a come-back, is expected to make a fine showing against O'Day, who is a hard puncher. O'Day has wanted a match with Dynamite Lou Brouillard of Danielson for a considerable time, but has been a bit too heavy for the local boy. However, if he beats the Sheik here Tuesday night, he will get his match with Brouillard for the next show in Danielson.

Rene Peloquin, nifty Danielson boxer, is also on the card for Tuesday night. He is matched with Spike Menard of Holyoke, four rounds at 122 pounds. Peloquin has become one of the best boys in his class in the state and in his most recent battling has won seven straight victories, Pat James of Providence being the last one to lose to him in a recent bout at Taftville. Menard has been going along well recently, taking on with success a number of fast boys in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Benny Novak of New London and Curley Reta of Norwich are matched for six rounds at 140 pounds. There was fireworks in their last battle here, Novak getting the decision by a shade. There were those who watched the match that felt it should at least have been called a draw. Reta was disappointed and asked for another crack at the New Londoner. He will get it Tuesday night.

The show will open with a four round match between Al Rodman of Goodyear and Young Lizzio of Westerly, at 120 pounds.

OVER SIXTY FOOTBALL CANDIDATES AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, March 17—(AP)—Picked by Captain Fay Vincent, sixty-odd candidates for the Yale football team turned out today for the first day of spring practice.

For an hour and a half they were drilled in the fundamentals of kicking, passing and line-charging under weather conditions which Head Coach Mal Stevens called "great football weather."

Vincent, who is also first baseman on the baseball team, will divide his time between the two sports. Albie Booth, Eli's backfield star, Linehan, Walker and Taylor and Snead, all regulars, will not take part in the spring practice, but will stick exclusively to baseball.

Many other regulars who were absent today are expected to be on the field tomorrow.

Firpo Greene, 1929 captain and lineman, assisted Stevens and his corps of coaches.

INDOOR TRACK SEASON ENDS TODAY AT GARDEN

NEW YORK, March 17—Picked athletes from all parts of the United States invaded New York today in preparation for the grand climax of the winter track and field season, the National A. A. U. indoor championships at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Plenty of intersectional rivalry is anticipated, with the Illinois A. C. and the New York A. C., 1929 champion and runner-up respectively, waging a hot duel for team honors.

Rival standard-bearers of these two clubs clash in the 1,000 yard event when Ray Conger, the slender Iowan, who now teaches school in New York but wears the colors of the Illinois A. C., defends his title against a crack band led by Dr. Paul Martin, Swiss Olympic veteran runner for the New York A. C.

MICKEY FLYNN STAYING IN NORWICH FOR A FEW DAYS

Mickey Flynn, globe trotter, soldier of fortune and boxer, is stopping in Norwich for a few days as the guest of Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department. Mickey, who is an ex-soldier, is also something of a fire-fighter and has been to a fire department school where he learned the rudiments of subduing fires. He spent a month with the New Bedford department and is making himself generally useful. He can operate any of the big pumping engines and [illegible] with the local fire laddies on several calls and proved his efficiency. The lad is helping the department without compensation.

Flynn besides being a fire-fighter is a corking good box-fighter, scaling around 130 pounds. He is fast and clever and hits with straight punches. At the Central station Mickey went through his paces of training, shadow boxing, for three rounds, punching the [illegible] bag for the equivalent of three more rounds and ending with ten minutes of setting-up exercises. Flynn would be willing to box in this locality if promoters would put him on. He has fought Carl Tremaine and others.

COLUMBIA PLACES THREE MEN ON ALL STAR TEAM

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Columbia, whose brilliant basketball team ran away with the championship in the Eastern Intercollegiate league race just concluded, has almost a monopoly on all-star honors.

On the all-league team selected annually for the Associated Press by the coaches of the six teams in the circuit, Columbia placed three men outright and shares the other.

Lou Bender, sophomore forward, and George Gregory, veteran center, who finished one-two in the league scoring race, were named by unanimous vote.

Dan Magurk, chain lightning guard, is the third Columbian to crash the lineup, while a fourth, Sam Schoenfeld, ties with Lee Tanseer of Pennsylvania for a forward position.

Bob Lewis, Cornell's great scoring guard, completes the team with this [illegible] six men instead of five because of the deadlock on the one forward position.

Of the first team selection, Gregory is the only holdover from last year's array. The others have come up this season.

Bender, a sophomore who joined the Columbia team in February when he became eligible, proved one of the biggest sensations of the season. Lewis a senior, shone like a beacon light by his brilliant play with the Cornell five. Tanseer of Pennsylvania partially filled the shoes of the veteran, Joe Schaaf, standing out as the best sophomore in the league with the exception of the sharp-shooting Bender.

Magurk, who captained the Columbia team last year, reached the peak this year, dovetailing perfectly with Bender, Schoenfeld, Gregory and Co.

On the second team, still another Columbia man, the six foot four inch Dave Jones, wins a berth at guard.

The six coaches who contributed their selections for the composite team are Daniel Meenan, Jr., Columbia; Eddie McNichol, Pennsylvania; Albert Stark, Dartmouth; Elmer Ripley, Yale; Al Wittmer, Princeton; and Howard Ortner, Cornell.

MOTOR TROUBLE CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF SPEEDERS

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, Daytona, Fla., March 17—(AP)—A broken casing on the supercharger of his giant Silver Bullet race car today sent [illegible] Kay Don, bright race driver here to make an assault upon the world's speed record of 231 miles an hour.

With repairs made in time and weather and beach conditions favorable, Don expected to resume trials tomorrow.

The driver, who Saturday reached a speed of 198 miles an hour, had planned to make an official attack upon the record [illegible] today. Don had [illegible] about 3:30 p. m. and [illegible] before he reached the measured mile [illegible] motor trouble developed. When he reached the grand stand, at the south end of the mile, the motors stopped.

With mechanics unable to make the repairs before the tide covered the beach the car was towed back to its garage.

Although only a few hundred spectators were in the grandstand for the trial today, the beach about the course was lined with thousands of cars, [illegible] parking a highway back of the sand dunes that parallel the beach.

Don complained of a heavy mist along the course, which collected on his windshield and made driving difficult.

Intermittent showers fell all morning and up to mid-afternoon the [illegible] was not cleared sufficiently to make visibility good.

LUCE NAMED LEADER OF YALE HOCKEY TEAM

NEW HAVEN, March 17—(AP)—Frank L. Luce, 2d, of Boston, varsity center for two years, today was elected captain of the Yale hockey team. He is a junior and also a tennis star.

Harry Towne Jones, of Ridgewood, N. J., was appointed to the managerial competition. He will be assistant manager next year and automatically becomes manager the following year.

The team held its annual banquet tonight.

Hull City Loses

LONDON, March 17—(AP)—Carlton [illegible] tonight [illegible] football match today, and [illegible] to the second division of the English league.

We hear a lot about this thing called wasted energy and how if we harnessed it we'd never have to work again. Here's a few ways to waste energy:

Sit before the radio and applaud when the singer has finished his song.

Telling a traffic cop you didn't see his signal after you have nearly knocked him down and crashed another car.

Try to borrow a dollar from a Scotchman until tomorrow.

Making your black-haired wife believe that the red hair on your shoulder is one of her own.

Trying to convince a golfer that tennis is a better game than his beloved golf.

Telling your girl friend that gum drops are better for her than bonbons.

Trying to tell the boss that he's wrong and you're right.

Using a cocktail shaker to put a kick into a pink lemonade.

But the greatest waste of energy was witnessed in a local garage the other afternoon.

It seems that in the garage there is one of these new-fangled turn-tables where a car is driven on and the table is turned so that the machine may be driven into any place without having to back and fill.

A certain local man had driven his car onto the table to have a minor adjustment made. When it was complete the mechanic started to turn the table so that the man could drive out of the garage.

The owner of the car thinking to help the mechanic in turning the car hops onto the table itself and starts pushing on the car.

He pushes with all his might and main. He pushes until the perspiration starts running down his face.

There's a kind of tittering from those around him but he doesn't wise up to the fact that he's standing on the turntable with the car and all his pushing is availing nothing in turning the car around. But it was good exercise.

That's what I call wasting energy—And How.

MISS MADISON SETS HER FOURTH WORLD'S MARK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 17—(AP)—Helene Madison, 16, of Seattle, Wash., sprinted today for her fourth world record and her first appearance in a National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championships meet.

The meet was won by the Women's Swimming association of New York with 48 1-2 points. The club won five of ten new world marks.

The Pacific coast star cut one-tenth of a second from the mark set by Ethel Lackie, Chicago, in Philadelphia March 1, 1926, in the 100 yard free style swim against time.

The New York relay team today established a new world mark of 4:19 2-5 seconds in the 400 yard relay event, cutting 4 2-5 seconds from the former record. The New York team was composed of Lisa Lindstrom, Catherine Ames, Eleanor Holm and Adelaide Lambert and shattered a five year old record held by a team composed of Miss Lambert, Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin and Helen Wainwright.

Agnes Geraghty, breast stroke ace of the New York club, had little difficulty in winning the 100 yard breast stroke event, time one minute 21 2-5 seconds. The world record was one minute 19 2-5 seconds.

Team standings at the end of the carnival were:

Women's Swimming association, New York, 48 1-2; Illinois Women's Athletic club, Chicago, 20; Los Angeles Athletic club, 17; Crystal Swimming club, Seattle, 15; Whitinsville Athletic club, Boston, 3; Hollywood, Fla., Athletic club, 3; Gary, Ind., Athletic club, 3; Venetian Pools, Coral Gables, 2 1-2; Cleveland Athletic club, 1.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT PLAINFIELD

An All Southern New England Basketball tournament will be run off at the Plainfield Community house in Plainfield on Saturday, March 29th, with teams from all parts of Southern New England participating. Leroy Dissinger, director of the Plainfield Community association, is sponsoring the tournament.

About 35 invitations have been sent out to the various independent basketball teams in Connecticut and Rhode Island and the entries are coming in fairly well. Teams are entered from Bristol, Putnam, Meriden, New London, Willimantic, Danielson and Plainfield. It is hoped that the entry list will be large as it is the intention of establishing this as an annual event.

No entrance fee is being charged fo rthis tournament. The teams will be allowed ten men to a team and the playing rules will be strictly amateur. Officials from the Connecticut Aggie coaching school will handle the games. There will be prizes for the winner and runner-up in the tournament and if theer are mode divisions than one there will be prizes in each.

Teams wishing to enter this tournament should get in touch with Leroy Dissinger at the Plainfield Community house.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLOSE SEASON WITH L. I. PROS

The Plainfield Pros will close their playing season on Wednesday evening when they clash with the Long Island Pros in the third and deciding game between these two clubs. Each team holds a victory over the other and tomorrow night's game will be one for blood. The Long Island team will bring its strongest lineup, which includes Lopchick, Bowden, Carey, Peterson and Baldy Yerkes. Plainfield will use the regular lineup.

Jones to Defend S. E. Title

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 17—(AP)—Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., golfing Atlanta barrister and national open champion, will defend Georgia against a host of well known professionals in the 72 hole $5,000 Southeastern Open tournament here March 31 and April 1.

Sekyra Loses On Foul

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 17—(AP)—Joe Sekyra lost on an accidental foul in the first round of his bout with Rosy Rosales of Cleveland, here tonight. The men were in a furious mix when Rosales dropped in apparent great pain.

Sekyra was disqualified.

ACADEMY HAS SQUAD OF 75 WORKING FOR BERTHS ON BASEBALL TEAM

The drive to regain the state championship began in earnest at the Academy Monday afternoon when a squad of about 50 infielders and outfielders turned out to augment the batterymen, to the number of about 25, who had been working out for a week. It is one of the most enthusiastic squads in years as they try for their third Connecticut title in four years, and their sixth straight league championship.

Included in the turnout were the eight lettermen, in addition to several exceedingly bright prospects, who have either been subs on Academy teams or played much local amateur ball.

Those vets who are on hand are Capt. Chubby Gibbs, shortstop; Alec Arico, first baseman; Bud Fontaine, catcher; Les Crowell, catcher-outfielder; Hack Pepin, catcher-infielder; Harry Sherry, second baseman; Butsy Weisgraber, pitcher, and Chet Berghinzo, who is going after an outfield berth and who won a letter in 1928 but was out last year. There are also on hand Bob Geer and Ed Flather, outfielders; Jerry Fitzgerald, Harold Riordan, Mickey Breen and Walter Navick, infielders; Boots Greene and Pop Richards, pitchers, who have been strongly mentioned as very likely to see much service on the 1930 aggregation.

Monday's drill was of a light nature, Coach Brigham will devote much of the time for the next few days, as he did Monday, to the newcomers, after which he will cut the squad, when each candidate has had his chance to show what he can do. Yesterday there was a short practice game among the "rookies" and there was the usual throwing of the ball around and batting.

Practice sessions will be held daily, including Saturday, if the weatherman will give the Red and Whitesters any sort of a break. The pitchers and catchers made good progress last week and with the entire team now in action, the Wildcats should be in A-1 shape for their opening game two weeks from Saturday, with the Richmond Radiators.

A la big league style, the team this year has red jackets with a ferocious-looking Wildcat, which will be worn by the regulars.

The manager of the Norwich Fire Department team, which furnishes the second test of the season for the schoolboys on April 3, expects to call out his squad in a few days, it is said.

SPORTS COMMITTEE WINS TWO GAME THE HIGHLANDERS

Last night at the Elks club alleys the Sport Committee team won two games from the Scotch Highlanders in a feature bowling match. The loss of the Highlanders is attributed to the fact that their Scotch attire from Boston did not arrive and they were forced to bowl in the habiliments of their adopted land. Those Scotch kilties allow so much more freedom than other forms of dress that the Highlanders were somewhat handicapped. The scores:

ONLY ONE RECORD MADE IN N. B. C. BOWLING

WATERBURY, March 17—(AP)—Only one new record for the current National Duckpin Bowling congress was created today, the seventh day of the competition in the annual alley events. W. R. Steinberg of Providence collected a total of 1,132 to take the lead in the men's all-events class. Perce Wolfe of Bladensburg, Md., ranks second in this event as a result of today's rolling.

Sainsbury and Ross of Providence hit 725 to enter second place in the doubles and Steinberg of Providence rests in third place in singles with 391.

Jefferson Recreation of Roanoke, Va., led the contestants of the five-man event tonight, hitting 1,714.

NOBLE RESIGNS AS YALE HOCKEY COACH

NEW HAVEN, March 17—(AP)—Larry Noble, coach of Yale's hockey team for the last two seasons, announced his resignation at the team's annual banquet tonight.

Noble, whose teams have met with great success, winning 17 games, tieing one and losing one each year, is relinquishing his duties for business reasons. He will graduate from the Yale Law school next June, and plans to establish a practice in New York city.

He also has been an assistant football coach, instructing backfield candidates.

Graduating from Yale college in 1927 as Lawrence M. Noble, he was a three-letter man, winning his "Y" in football, hockey and baseball.

Playing a total of 19 games each season, the Elis under Noble hung up identical records except in respect to the Harvard series. A year ago Yale defeated the Crimson team in two out of three games, but this year each won a game with the third contest a tie.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years)

On Saturday, June 11, 1891, at the Greeneville grounds, before a large crowd, Norwich defeated Mystic, 9 to 4, in rather easy fashion. The story of that game mentions that it was understood that Cyclone Ryan was to pitch for the Mystic team and there was considerable disposition on the part of the betting men to put their money on Mystic.

However, as things turned out, Fred Doe, was on the mound, and pitched good ball against Kearney and Tuckerman for the visitors. Ryan did not go to the mound, but played first base the entire game. Billy Moore, in centerfield for Norwich contributed one of their hits. No individuals are given credit for the extra base hits in the box score, it will be noticed, and, also, bases on called balls is used instead of the just base on balls now in vogue.

Walker Kayoes Mahoney

CHICAGO, March 17—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, and Irish, tonight celebrated St. Patrick's day by knocking out Jimmy Mahoney, Irish in name only, in the second round of their 10-round final bout at the White City arena.

Walker was 167 3-4, for the non-title affray and Mahoney scaled 173 1-4.

Loughran Beats Renault

PHILADELPHIA, March 17—(AP)—Tommy Loughran's rapier-like left hand jabbed out a victory for him tonight over Jack Renault, former Canadian policeman, in the ten-round main event at the Arena.

Loughran, fighting as a heavyweight, since relinquishing his light-heavyweight title, scaled 190 pounds, Renault 210.

YESTERDAY IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

Cards

BRADENTON, Fla., March 17—(AP)—Jessie Haines, Al. Grabowski and Jim Lindsey have been selected by Manager Gabby Street to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals tomorrow in their exhibition game here with the Detroit Tigers. Garmen Hill, the veteran obtained from the Pirates last fall, also may get a chance to work. He has been showing marked improvement and Street believes he will be a valuable asset.

Street put the boys through two long workouts today. In the morning there was a session at running and fly chasing, after which the pitchers were drilled at fielding bunts and covering first base.

White Sox

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 17—(AP)—Rain spoiled the plans of the White Sox again today, washing out the scheduled exhibition game with the University of Texas.

Smead Jolley, the $50,000 outfielder, still remained among the missing, but a ray of hope was seen when it was learned he left California in an automobile.

Yankees Turn Back Reds

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 17—(AP)—The New York Yankees hung up their fourth victory in six starts as they defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 1, today.

The Yanks fell on Ray Kop, Si. Johnson and Archie Campbell for ten hits while Sherid and Rhodes kept the Reds' seven safeties well scattered. Sherid went five innings, being the first Yankee pitcher to work more than three rounds. Sukeforth made three of the National leaguers' hits and scored their lone run. Score:

Reds	001 000 000—1	7	2
Yankees	002 000 11x—4	10	1

Kolp, S. Johnson, Campbell and Sukeforth; Sherid, Rhodes and Hargrave, Dickey.

Robins

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 17—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins had just time enough to get in a short batting drill today before rain ended all activities, including an exhibition game with the St. Louis Browns. The Robins are due to clash with the Browns here tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dazzy Vance, who is rapidly recovering from the cold which has kept him out of action for a few days, was in uniform today and may pitch the Wednesday game.

McGraw Uses Knife

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 17—(AP)—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, wielded his pruning knife of the Giant squad today and lopped off two young limbs for delivery to Bridgeport, Conn., Len Shires, an infielder whom his brother, The Great Art, sent in for a trial, and Art Veltman, who is learning to become a catcher after spending some time in the outfield, departed today for the Bridgeport training camp. They may return eventually as the Bridgeport club is a Giant farm.

A heavy rain halted this morning's practice but the Giants got in a snappy workout on the muddy field this afternoon.

Indians

NEW ORLEANS, March 17—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians at their training camp here waited patiently today for the rain to stop and went through light practice between showers.

This was the fourth successive rainy day preventing scheduled games between the Indians and the New Orleans Pelicans. It was doubted whether the ground would be in condition for practice tomorrow.

Roger Peckinpaug, the manager, viewed with optimism the number of good substitutes the Indians have. There is not a position, in event of injury to a regular, which cannot be filled by a substitute. Some positions are protected by two or three.

Browns

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 17—(AP)—For the second successive day the St. Louis Browns were forced to cancel an exhibition game today. A half hour before the Browns and the Brooklyn Robins were scheduled to take the field a hard rain set in. They will meet here tomorrow, weather permitting.

Senators

BILOXI, Miss., March 17—(AP)—The Washington Senators will break camp here Thursday and will play an exhibition game with the Barons of the Southern association, at Birmingham, Friday. Their final exhibition game will be played Wednesday with Spring Hill college of Mobile. The players were put through a stiff batting practice today, being a little short in this end of the game.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 17—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates broke camp today to start on a long campaign of exhibition games that will end at New Orleans April 13. Before the Buccaneers said adieu to Paso Robles they went through a long and hard batting practice. A three-game exhibition series is scheduled to start with the Missions at San Francisco tomorrow.

Red Sox

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 17—(AP)—Manager Heinie Wagner sent his Boston Red Sox players through a long practice here today to punish them for their inability to hit minor league pitching. The Sox, though they defeated the Mobile club yesterday, were only able to collect but six hits from the Southern association hurlers. Most of the Boston club's nine runs were due to the miscues of its opponents.

The Boston and Mobile clubs will move up to the Alabama city tomorrow and renew their series.

Cubs

AVALON, Catalina Island, Cal., March 17—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today put in the first of their last three days on Catalina Island—going through a pair of strenuous drills that included a little of everything.

Two more days on the island estate of William Wrigley, Jr., and the National league champions will go to the mainland for a long schedule of exhibition games, with the Pittsburgh Pirates and several Pacific coast teams.

Klein Joins Phillies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 17.—(AP)—Chuck Klein, 1929 home run king of the National league, joined the Phillies today and signed his contract after a short conference with Manager Burt Shotton. No figures were announced. Klein's arrival leaves Fresco Thompson, star second baseman, as the only Phil not in camp.

ATHLETICS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE BEATING COLUMBUS

FORT MEYERS, Fla., March 17—(AP)—The champion Philadelphia Athletics today defeated the Columbus American association team 9 to 3.

Eric McNair furnished the thriller of the day when he knocked a home run into deep left with two on base in the seventh.

Columbus made five errors and players on both sides stole bases at will. Score:

Columbus	000 011 001—3	11	5
Athletics	200 004 30x—9	12	1

Batteries: R. Miller, F. Miller, Thrac and Devine and Shellfoot; Earnshaw, Dietrich, Walberg, Shores and Cochrane and Schang.

CARNERA KNOCKS OUT WIGGINS IN SECOND ROUND

RING SIDE, ARENA, St. Louis, March 17—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italian giant, scored a knockout over Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, in the second round of their scheduled ten-round bout here tonight.

Carnera knocked Wiggins out of the ring twice in the first minute of the second round. He was counted out as he lay beside the ropes outside the ring by Referee Walter Heisner, but a moment later was assisted back into his corner.

He complained his back was injured. It was Carnera's tenth consecutive knockout victory in America.

The fight was before a crowd estimated by Promoter Mique Malloy at 26,000, which paid approximately $70,000.

Wiggins, rated as the most experienced boxer and the most formidable foe Carnera had faced since his American invasion, was unable to land a telling blow during the brief period of the fight, and Carnera was unruffled when he left the ring.

The Indianapolis heavyweight, who had been in the boxing game sixteen years, appeared to be surprised by Carnera's speed and his defense. Wiggins rushed the Italian at the opening bell but was unable to get inside Carnera's defense. The first round was fast, but Carnera clearly was the master of his foe all the way and jarred him badly. Carnera weighed 271 pounds and Wiggins 207. In keeping with St. Patrick's day, Carnera wore a bright green cap and green jersey into the ring.

Tigers Get only Two Hits

SARASOTA, Fla., March 17—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers were held to two hits and lost an exhibition game to the Indianapolis American association team, 5 to 1, here today. Score:

Detroit	000 010 000—1	2	2
Indianapolis	020 030 00x—5	9	0

Nelson, Barnes and Shea, Rensa; Burwell, Cvengros, Payne and Crouse, Sprinz.

Singer Stops Wagner

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Al Singer, Bronx lightweight, stopped Eddie (Kid) Wagner, veteran Philadelphia boxer, in the third round of a ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight. Singer floored Wagner six times before the referee stepped in and halted the carnage.

Friedman Outpoints Rocco

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 17.—(AP)—Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, won a decision from Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, here tonight. Frankie Lands, New Castle, lost a decision in six rounds to Don Morse, Jamestown, N. Y.

Baker Loses

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 17.—(AP)—"Lucky" Lawless, of Auburn, won the judges decision over "Sergeant Sammy" Baker of New York, in ten fast rounds here tonight.

No Game at Taftville

There will be no basketball game at Parish hall this evening as the Shyma club was unable to secure an opponent, the Radio Five of Danielson being unable to play.

Swenson Signs

NEW HAVEN, March 17—(AP)—Walter Swenson, third baseman of the New Haven Eastern league team, today signed his contract for the coming season, the first member to prove himself ready for the season.

1500 GARMENT WORKERS IN BOSTON RETURN TO WORK

BOSTON, March 17—(AP)—More than 1500 striking garment workers returned to work today after the settlement of a two day strike called by the International Ladies Garment Workers' union and most of the others are due back at their shops tomorrow.

About 300 however, will remain on strike and engage in intensive picketing of non-union shops in order to persuade the owners to enter the agreement which was signed by the manufacturers' association.

SIGNED CONFESSION THAT HE KILLED HIS DAUGHTER

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 17—(AP)—John Francisco, 45, confessed in a signed statement late today that he killed his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Edgington, 19, to regain the affection of his estranged wife.

The daughter was the favorite child of the family, he said, and he thought that he and his wife would be brought back together by their common grief. They had been separated several months.

DAUGHTER TUNES SET FOR VON HINDENBURG

BERLIN—(AP)—President von Hindenburg, like most Germans, has a radio set at home, but he frankly admitted that he doesn't know how it works.

"My daughter generally sets it going," he said to a visitor. "I don't quite know how to do it. I think it's a wonderful invention."

Moving over to the instrument, he turned a knob or two. An earsplitting din resulted.

The old field marshal stood listening for a few moments.

"A wonderful invention," he repeated, pensively.

PASTOR BEGINS TENTH YEAR OF BROADCASTING

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(AP)—Rev. Dr. Luther Little, one of the first pastors in America to broadcast church services, has begun his tenth year. He speaks twice each Sunday to a raido church club which has 3,000 listeners as members.

Through WBT, Dr. Little's sermons are carried to invalids and residents of remote communities who otherwise never would hear a religious address.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Grandma Allus Does

I wants to mend my wagon,
And has to have some nails;
Jus' two—free—will be plenty;
We's goin' to haul our rails.
The splendidest cob fences
We's makin', ever was—
I wish you'd let us have 'em,
Grandma allus does.

My horse's name is Betsy;
She jumped an' broked her head:
We put her in the stable
An' fed her milk an' bread;
The stable's in the parlor—
We didn't make no muss.
I wish you'd let it stay there,
Grandma allus does.

I'm goin' to the meadow
To ride on Charlie's plow;
I 'spect he wants to have me,
I want to go right now;
Oh, won't I "Gee up," awful;
And "Whoa," like Charlie "Whoas!"
I wish you wouldn't bozzer,
Grandma never does.

I want some bread and butter;
I's hungry—worstest kind;
But Taddie mustn't have none
'Cause she wouldn't mind;
Put plenty sugar on it;
I tell you what, I knows
It's right to put on sugar,
Grandma allus does.

Sonny

I love him 'cause his face is never clean,
His finger-nails are always filled with grime,
He thinks that it's not boylike to be seen
Around the house, except at dinner time.

He scoffs at girls and thinks they're just a bore,
He blushes tearfully when one's called a "beau."
He lets me kiss his ear—just once—no more,
Then rushes off. But Oh! I love him so!

The neighbors think his presence is a curse
And hope into a gallery he'll be hurled.
I know that to all others he's uncouth;
To me he's like an oak leaf yet unfurled.

When on a Sunday, dressed in suit of blue,
He struts off manfully to the church with dad.
He knows I watch him till he's lost to view,
So stumbles. Dear, self-conscious little lad!

But when at night I tuck him into bed,
So sweet and clean, tired out from all his fun,
If no one's 'round he let's me stroke his head,
And I thank Heaven for such a perfect son.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Did you know that the countryman was a better judge of the weather than the townsman? Well, he is. The countryman can constantly foretell coming changes by a close observation of nature's signs and tokens. The townsman is not so fortunately placed, the smokeladen sky usually preventing him from reading the clouds, and he, therefore, has to fall back on the barometer.

There are two kinds of clouds—wind clouds and rain clouds, the former in summer being as black as night. Clouds banked together in the west mean coming rain. The walls of houses are usually damp before rain. Cows and sheep instinctively lie down when it is going to rain, in order to keep a dry spot for themselves. Swallows are good weather prophets. If when flying low, they suddenly congregate and fly very high, it is a sure sign of a coming storm. When geese clamour and peacocks scream, rain is pretty sure to be near.

The crocus forecasts rain by shutting up its leaves in a most determined way; so also do the dandelion. The beads of wild oats curl up in dry weather, and contract in damp. In some parts of the country they are used to detect dampness in beds and cupboards. Fir-cones are good weather indicators, closing for wet weather and open for fine. They retain this power even after they are gathered, so long as they have any seeds in them to protect. In villages round the coast seaweed is the homely weather-glass, becoming moist and clammy when rain is near.

They have a curious method of forecasting the weather in some parts of Germany and Switzerland. A small green frog is kept in a bottle half full of water, with a flight of wooden steps leading down from the top of the bottle into the water. If the frog stays down below they say the weather will be fine, but if it comes up and sits down on the steps it will be dull, and rain and cold may be expected.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Only A Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: As all children do things they should not do, Marcia and I thought we were clever to sneak out of the house with our skates, after our parents had warned us not to go skating.

At first we skated only near the edge of the lake, but Marcia soon became brave, and challenged me to go to the center. When I declined, she called me "fraid cat." Now no one was going to call me that, so off we started. Marcia was ahead of me when I heard a loud crash! Then, crack! crack! crack!—went the ice under Marcia's fearless feet and she disappeared in the icy water.

My only fear was that Marcia would drown, but she soon came to the surface, grinned at me and went down. I was as near to the hole as I dared go, and lying on my stomach awaited her reappearance. When she came up again I grasped her hands and soon had her on the ice beside me.

I was in the act of taking off my sweater to put around her, and was thinking of how I was to get her home, unconscious as she was, when to my surprise, Marcia was not lying unconscious, but was on her feet skating, and calling to me to hurry-up, and race her to the other side of the lake.

I called to her to come back, saying she should go right home or she'd catch her death of cold, but she was off with me after her, calling "Marcia, come back! Come back!"

I was awakened by my sister who was calling to me to hurry-up, or I would be late for school.

Stays At Lumber Camp

Dear Uncle Jed: It was in the fall when father and I made preparations to go to the lumber camp in the Maine woods. Father was appointed overseer and therefore he had to go before the rest of the men.

When the time came we started and the train swiftly flew by the wooded country. The scenery was remarkable, as it was something new to me. We arrived there in a day and the lumber men speedily set to work to build the log house in which we were to live. When everything was complete we made ourselves comfortable and at home. When bedtime came what peculiar sleeping quarters there were! They were built in the wall and called bunks.

In the morning I watched the men cut down the trees, drag them along a cleared road and ship them down a stream nearby. I begged father to let me go on one of the rafts, but, he said it was dangerous. After much pleading he consented and I joyfully seated myself on one of the big rafts. Everything went smoothly as we sailed down the stream. I thought I was gliding through the air when suddenly there was a loud noise and crash after crash followed. It was what the lumbermen called a jam. Of course I did not know what this was but upon inquiring I soon found out. The log that holds all the others back is the keylog. It was loosened by one of the bravest men. No more jams took place that day.

I stayed in the camp until spring and had a very good time, not only in watching the lumber men, but going into the woods, staying with the jolly cook to listen to his stories, and being entertained by the workmen after work. I now have a very clear idea of camp life.

Rabbits Make Trouble

Dear Uncle Jed: I have two pet rabbits. They are always escaping from their pen and running around with the chickens. At meal time I have to watch them carefully or else the chickens will eat the food. The other night I gave one pet its food, then turned to the other. No sooner had I turned my back than I heard a queer noise. Looking over my shoulder I saw the rabbit chasing a chicken. I, too, joined the jolly chase. After a long run I caught the chicken and rescued the food.

Just now I spend most of my time planning ways to feed my rabbits in peace. Perhaps some of your readers can help me out.

LESTER FRYE, age 11.

Saw Two Foxes

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was sitting beside the window yesterday I was surprised to see two foxes, one big one and one little one, in our lot. The big one had a Rhode Island red hen in its mouth and gave part of the fowl to the little fox while I watched them, and then turned and ran like a streak toward our woods. Right beside me was a book which I picked up to look at and what do you think was the first picture that I turned to? It was a picture of a fox like the one I had seen outdoors.

Some of His Pets

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about some of my pets. The pet that I am going to tell you about first is a dog. His name is Prince and he is brown and white. Prince is very fond of playing. He likes to have fun with my cat. Prince starts barking at my cat and my cat runs away.

My cat's name is Dotty. She is a great hunter for rats and mice. She is fond of playing just like Prince. Dotty is a great friend of the goats and so is Prince.

I have two goats, a big goat and a small goat. The big goat is black, brown and white and is named Nanny. The small goat is all white and is named Girlie. When Girlie goes to sleep Dotty comes by her and they both sleep together. Girlie stands on her hind feet when she sees Prince. When Prince comes nearer to her she dances on her hind feet. When I let the goats out of the barn they both stand on their hind feet, put their heads together and slowly put their front feet down.

Calf With Two Heads

Dear Uncle Jed: I live on a farm, so I will tell you about a calf we had. Last year one of our cows had a calf which had two heads. The heads were joined together right behind the ears. It lived only three days. People from many places came to see the calf. Some were from Norwich and even from Massachusetts. Some of the people took pictures of it. After it died a man bought it to have it stuffed. I guess people had never seen a calf with two heads. We tried hard to keep it alive. We even fed it with a bottle because it couldn't nurse from the cow. When the milk went in one mouth it came out of the other, so he didn't get much to eat.

An Outing

Dear Uncle Jed: This is just a short story on how I enjoyed a holiday last week. I have read stories of other children and thought that I might as well try. One bright afternoon I went to a girl friend's house. She went to the store, returned with two lemons, about five cents worth of candy and two boxes of cookies. We brought up two quarts of water. I carried a little basket of candy and a knife. We went into the woods, and found a rock to use as our table. We each had our share of good things.

Little Jackie gave his lemonade to his dog. Billie threw half of his away and demanded more. Pretty soon the lemonade was gone. We had an orange, so we made orangeade. When we had finished we went home.

Learns A Lesson

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter. It was a very pleasant day in fall. Father, sister and I went to pick apples. My sister, boastingly said, "Watch me climb the tree." So she commenced to climb. Getting up was very easy and she was about to come down. She jumped and got caught on a limb. My father came to her rescue and took her down. Never did I hear her boast again.

Dog Rescues Boy

My Dear Uncle Jed: Here is a story I am sure you will enjoy reading. The name of my story is Tongo.

We were ready to start out on our hunt for my best friend, John, who had been missing for three days. Off we went with Tongo, the leader, and eight more dogs. It was snowing terribly and there was a strange wind against us, but Tongo never gave up.

We had been traveling about nine hours, when Tongo started to bark. I raised my head and saw John lying in the snow. I jumped off my sled and said to him "Speak John, Oh, please speak." I couldn't get a word from him when he barely said "I am starving." I gave him the last I had. We turned around with John so weak he could not talk.

We reached home in about seven and a half hours. John told me we came just in time. I told him don't give me the credit, but Tongo.

Kitten Was A Skunk

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written to you in a long time, and here is a story that I wrote. The name of it is The Black and White Kitten. One day as I was going to the barn I thought I saw a black and white kitten going under the barn. I quickly ran home and said, "I am going to catch that kitten and have it for a pet." When I reached the house I told mother that I was going to have a little kitten for a pet. "Where is it?" she asked. "Under the barn," I answered. We quickly ran to the barn and to our surprise there was a little baby skunk. Mother said "Is that what you call a pet kitten."

Visits Sister In Warwick, R. I.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide Awake circle and I will tell you about a visit I made last summer to my sister's home in Warwick, R. I. My sister, Kathleen, went with me. One day we spent at Rocky Point and another at Oakland beach. Just across the street from my sister's home is a large farm called the Locust farm. We went there for milk every day. We saw 150 cows. They were all black and white. There was a big collie dog that would bring them to the barn.

Our Sewing Club

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about our sewing club. The name of our club is the Busy Bees. The leader's name is Mrs. Esther McClimon. We have a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Our president is Dorothy Bulter; vice president, Leona Zundell; secretary, Janis Crary, and treasurer, Julia Wisneski.

We organized, November 23, 1929, and 15 members joined. We have made the pin wheel, the bag, and some have made the needle, thimble, and thread case. We will have to make the scissor case and then we will start on the Busy Handy Housekeeper.

December 14, 1929, we met with Miss McDonald and she talked on First Aid. She showed us how to fix bandages on the chin and the knee, also how to fix the arm in a sling.

My Pet Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my pet dog. I got him on Christmas. He is a little police dog. I named him Buddy. He does tricks; he barks and rolls over for his food. I send him for my gloves and other things. He brings them to me. He is very clever and gentle. I like him very much. I would feel very bad if anything would happen to him. I hope you will like my letter and I will write again.

A Birthday Party

Dear Uncle Jed: I think you and also the Wide Awakes would like to hear about my surprise birthday party. One day in the late afternoon, my girl friend called me on the telephone and said that she would like to see me right away because she had to tell me and show me something important. When I received permission from my mother to go I set out at once for her house. When I drew near the house, I heard many voices and wondered who they could be. My girl friend met me at the door. There I heard loud laughter. I was about to question her about the laughter, when I heard many voices saying "Happy Birthday," then I knew that it was a surprise birthday party on me.

We played many games soon after I arrived. Then we were all called to the dining room, which was decorated with red, white and blue crepe paper. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake with 12 lighted candles. After dinner was served we again went into the parlor to enjoy ourselves. It happened that two of the guests had each brought a violin so they played while I accompanied on the piano. We all had a very nice time. It seemed as if we had just arrived when we had to go home.

The Telephone

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I want to write about the telephone. A man named Alexander Bell thought there was some way to get messages to different places quickly. He tried it out many times. At last he succeeded. Now for many years we have had the telephone.

Bear Chases Girls

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a story of pioneer days. I hope you will like it for it is the first letter I have written to you.

One fine autumn day Marion and Alice were walking through the woods when they were startled by a furious growl. On looking back they saw a huge bear tramping after them. They ran as fast as their little legs could carry them. The bear gained on them steadily. Suddenly Alice gave a frantic cry, for there before them was a large black hole. Grasping Marion, Alice saved her from falling into the hole, and they ran on. The bear was so interested in the children that he didn't notice the hole and fell into it.

Meanwhile the children had reached home and told their father. He got a gun, rushed to the place with the children and shot the bear. On reaching home he told his family that the bear had fallen into a trap which some hunter had dug and covered with leaves and sticks which had been blown off. If it had not been for that hole the children would have been caught and perhaps injured by the bear.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. The title of my story is My Vacation.

I spent my vacation in a lovely country with my four cousins. The house in which they live overlooks the Connecticut river. We fished and swam in this river. When the weather was pleasant we took many hikes, every one of which I enjoyed.

The power house which gives East Hampton its lights is near here. My uncle works in it. When the power is turned on, the water comes down and makes a pretty sight.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

When Wings Gave Out

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Your limitations are defined,
So always keep the fact in mind.
—Dipper the Grebe.

Dipper the Grebe had spent the winter as far north as he could find open water all the time. Grebes are birds who spend their whole lives on and in the water. They are wonderful divers. In this respect they are like Dippy, the Loon. Their legs are very short and are at the very ends of their bodies, so that when they stand up they stand almost straight. Their feet are not webbed like the feet of the ducks and the geese and the swans. However, along the inside of each toe are lobes or flaps of skin which act as webs. So they are wonderful swimmers.

Now the wings of Dipper the Grebe are narrow. He can move them very swiftly, which means that he can fly very fast. But it takes him some time to get up in the air. That is, he has to get going before he can rise. So, of course, he cannot rise from the land. You see he cannot run with those little short legs. In order to get up in the air he must rise from the water and get up speed. It is like a fast aeroplane. You know the fastest aeroplanes have narrow wings and have to get going very fast indeed on the ground before they can rise. It is just so with Dipper the Grebe.

The approach of spring had made Dipper impatient to get going. So one day he took it into his head to fly north. He was heading for the Big River, where it flows near Farmer Brown's. To reach it from the place where he had started he must fly a very long distance. Now, he thought there would be one or two ponds of open water that he could drop down into for a rest if he felt tired. He was mistaken. It happened that the ice had not yet left those ponds. By the time he reached the last one he was getting very tired. However, there was nothing to do but to keep on.

With every swift stroke of those wings Dipper felt more and more tired. He began to worry. Would he be able to reach the Big River before his wings

You see, he cannot run with those little short legs gave out? If he didn't reach it, what would become of him? Anxiously he strained his eyes for a glimpse of the Big River. At last he saw it. It was just a silver line far away in the distance, but he knew what it was. The sight of it gave him new courage.

Dipper is not one to give up easily. His wings ached so that it seemed as if he could not take another stroke with them. Still he kept on. Now he could see the Big River clearly. With every stroke of his wings it drew nearer. At last he had reached the edge of the Green Meadows. If he could just get across the Green Meadows, it would be enough. But he couldn't. His wings refused to beat any longer. Down, down, down he came and landed with a thump on the Green Meadows. And never in all his life had Dipper felt quite so helpless as he felt then.

NORTH CAROLINA ACTS TO STIMULATE COTTON

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—A plan for the improvement of cotton by communities and counties has been agreed upon in North Carolina.

Briefly, it calls for use of varieties tested and found adapted, selection of a certain variety for a certain community and breeding of the variety through careful selection and care of seed.

The purpose is to eliminate the weakening influence of several varieties growing in proximity. It is hoped eventually to develop one or more local cotton breeders in each community.

Mail is an important factor in the maintenance of morale and contentment of the navy personnel. A young man first enlisting usually has a limited correspondence list, but as he travels from place to place making new acquaintances his list increases, but it never becomes burdensome. Nothing is surer or quicker to bring a smile to the face of a sailor than the cry "Mail-O."

HOW SHOULD I PREPARE "BAKED STEAK"?

To preserve meat juices in steak, bake it with a thick layer of Ivory Salt on both sides, remove from the oven and scrape off the encrusted salt. This assures full flavor without "saltiness."

GENERAL LIST MODERATELY HIGHER IN FAIRLY ACTIVE DAY IN MARKET

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—The bull crowd rallied to the support of pivotal shares in today's stock market and succeeded in lifting the general list moderately higher, after a period of mixed price trends during the early hours of trading. Trading was fairly active, particularly in some of the petroleum issues. Sales aggregated 3,639,640 shares.

Firmer commodity markets and sustained ease in credit helped the forward movement. The money market was aided by the release of credit through the expected government overdraft in connection with the treasury financing, and the surplus funds at the banks against income tax dividend checks not yet cleared. The money market may show a somewhat firmer tone during the remainder of the week, as the overdraft is paid off, and the tax payment checks are cleared. Call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent, dropped to 3 during the afternoon, and was offered in the outside market as low as 2 1-2. Prime commercial paper was out 1-4 of one per cent to 4 per cent for best names, with some business reported as low as 3 3-4.

The speculative flare for the oils blazed up anew on publication of the California crude production statistics for last week, showing further progress in the curtailment program.

Pools sought a public following in some of the merchandise and motor shares in expectation of increasing spring trade, although sales reports to date have not been very impressive. Some of the Youngstown steel mills were reported to have cut production to as low as 65 per cent of rated ingot capacity, but the steel trade was inclined to predict that this would be the bottom, in view of the volume of business now appearing.

The oil group continued to record numerous new high levels for the recovery. Simms Petroleum was an active feature, rising more than 2 points to a new peak above 35, with a turnover of more than 100,000 shares. Standard of New Jersey rose about 2 points to duplicate the year's high, and Standards of California and New York moved up nearly as much, both reaching new highs for the year. Houston shot up nearly 6 points and closed with a gain of 4.

Such old time trading favorites as U. S. Steel, General Motors and Radio were given strong support. U. S. Steel rose 4 points. General Motors rose 2 1-4 to a new high for the recovery at 46 3-4. Radio rose 2 points. Among the higher priced issues, Eastman Kodak sold up 12 points to a new top and about 2 points to new 1930 highs. A. M. Byers was a strong feature, crossing 100 for the first time this year with a gain of nearly 5 points. Worthington Pump, a closely held issue, shot up nearly 11 points to a new 1930 high 122. The stock touched 43 in the November crash.

Bears found a few soft spots during the morning. Gillette was sent down more than 3 points to 85 3-4, a new 1930 low. U. S. Industrial Alcohol sold off about 2 points, then rallied moderately. American Locomotive ran into some selling as the annual report failed to come up to the more optimistic expectations. The shares touched 90 1-2, off 4 points, and within a fraction of the low level reached in November. Wheat futures were firmer, reflecting a decrease in the visible supply, crops damage reports from Kansas, and better export sales. The March position closed 1 1-8 cents higher. Corn gained about a cent, and cotton futures closed about unchanged to 35 cents a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, and fairly steady. Sterling cables were quoted 1-16 lower at $4.86 1-8. The Canadian dollar, on the other hand, reduced its discount to 1-8 cent, and was not plentiful even at that level. The Spanish peseta rallied substantially, reflecting firmer political conditions in Spain.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 17—(AP)—Wheat moved sharply upward in price today and held stubbornly to gains despite downpours over Kansas and other states where moisture has been needed. Advances were associated largely with reduction of Liverpool stocks of wheat and curtailment of arrivals at all British ports, as well as withdrawal of Argentine offerings abroad and cleaning up of distress holding at Winnipeg. Furthermore, the United States wheat visible supply total today showed 2,168,000 bushel decrease.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3-8-1 1-8c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 3-4-1 7-8c up; oats 1-2-1c advance, and provisions at a rise of 15-25 cents.

Jumps of 3 1-4 pence a hundredweight that were shown at the close in the Liverpool wheat market today did much to put backbone into wheat values here, and to stimulate commission house demand for Chicago future deliveries. Besides, reports were current that many wheat fields in southern Illinois and southern Indiana are showing extensive injury as a result of soil heaving and because of Hessian fly infestation. The combined strengthening effect of these market factors was so manifest that contrary to what has been the rule most of the time of late, government-sponsored agencies found it unnecessary today to put forth any special effort to support the price of Chicago May wheat contracts.

On the other hand, export purchases of North American wheat, 600,000 bushel today, were yet too small to be much effect, especially as practically all of the wheat taken for Europe was Canadian grown. A distinctly adverse influence, too, was announcement that Germany would raise wheat import duties to a prohibitive level. In addition, late indications pointed to further rains in Kansas. Neverheless, the market here, although reacting a good deal from the top prices reached, held more and more tenaciously as the day drew to an end.

Corn and oats advanced independently of wheat. Weather conditions unfavorable for corn movement were a feature, and there was evidence of increasing belief that receipts are to diminish.

Provisions reflected the upward swing of grain values, and virtually ignored downturns in the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat May 106 1-2-5-8; 110 1-4; July 103 5-8-3-4, 106 3-4-7-8; Sept. 105 5-8; 108 5-8. Corn May 81 3-8; 83 1-4-3-8; July 82 5-8, 84 1-2-5-8; September 82 3-4, 85 1-8.

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, is optimistic about business conditions in the territory served by that road. All things considering, he said, conditions in the Santa Fe territory are good. Wheat and grain crops are likely to be good this year, he added.

Orders for eight locomotives for the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern R. R., and for four for the Pennsylvania have been received by the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

More than 67 per cent of the outstanding common stock of the Engineers Public Service Co., public utility holding organization, has been deposited in connection with the plan for merger with Stone & Webster Inc.

American Portland Cement mills showed no improvement in the ratio of operations to capacity for the 12 months ending Feb. 28, according to statistics issued today. The ratio was 65.6 per cent, against 71 per cent for the preceding year.

Initial financing for the new natural gas holding company to be formed by the Electric Power & Light Corp., and the United Gas Co. is expected to take the form of a $25,000,000 bond issue to carry warrants to buy United Gas Co. stock. Official announcement of the formation of the new company and its financial plans is expected soon.

Treasury Balance.

WASHINGTON, March 17—(AP)—Treasury receipts for March 14 were $15,723,020.66; expenditures $6,017,105.23; balance $18,342,298.20.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Stock prices on the New York Curb exchange moved irregularly higher today, with the oils again in the forefront of the advance. Curb bonds also continued to respond to the general relaxation in credit conditions, gains of 1 to 2 points in that group being quite common.

Brokers reported increasing public participation in curb securities, particularly in the oils which are responding to improved trade developments and the natural gas stocks, which have been under heavy accumulation as a result of merger rumors. At least a score specialties which show prospects of increased earnings or higher dividends were lifted to new high levels for the year.

Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania led the petroleum group soaring 3 points to a new high at 134, and closing within a fraction of the top. The stock sold as low as 131 1-4 this year. Humble closed 5 1-2 points higher at 105 1-2, after having established a new peak at 105 7-8. Most of the Standard Oil issues sold at or near their high prices of the year.

Electric Bond & Share, which has been included in the published portfolios of several investment trusts, closed a point higher at 98 1-4. American & Foreign Power warrants, American Gas & Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and several others climbed 1 to 2 1-2 points. Heavy trading developed in the natural gas stocks, American and Dixie Gas Utilities moving into new high ground, while the Arkansas and United Gas issues sold close to the year's peaks.

Ford of France and Ford Motor Limited moved to new high ground on reports of steadily increasing sales of foreign subsidiaries. Nathan Straus crossed 15 to a new high on reports of expanding earnings. Among the many other issues to reach new high ground were Atlas Plywood, Bahia corporation common and preferred, Ohio Bell Telephone preferred, Silica Gel and Winton Engine. Aluminum Co. of America soared 14 1-2 points in odd lot trading and Pacific Coast Biscuit preferred, which was heavy last week on reports of a hitch in merger negotiations with National Biscuit, ran up more than 4 points.

Hiram Walker and Great Atlantic & Pacific sank to new lows for the year.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Although the demand for listed bonds slackened considerably today, the market retained a strong undertone and investment issues ruled firm. Advances in the averages for the industrials and rails sent the composite price of thirty bonds across par to the highest in more than a year.

Large liquidation of frozen loans held by the so-called country banks has released substantial sums for investment in this market during the past fortnight. In addition to the inquiry from the commercial banks there has been a steadily increasing demand from individuals, dealers report, and both listed and unlisted securities have been prompt to respond.

Buying of foreign bonds, which made another spurt today, is coming largely from foreign sources and has lifted this group to its highest point in some time. Little gossip is heard concerning the expected reparations issue, although it is pointed out that the current rally in prices is preparing an excellent foundation on which to float the big loan.

Money sagged again. Time loans were available at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent for the shorter maturities, the lowest in a long interval. Commercial paper also eased. Call loans, after renewing at 3 1-2 dropped to 3, but funds were offered in the outside market at 2 1-2 per cent. The New York Federal Reserve bank disclosed a slight reduction in its buying rate on bankers' acceptances of longer dates. Easier interest rates are also appearing in other cities, a development that favors bonds.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Capital Stock

The current rate of $4.00 per share on Pennsylvania Railroad, while yielding about 5%, represents distribution of only 45% of the available net income of 1929. This is an ultra conservative rate of payment in view of the Company's strong financial position. Practically all other railroad systems are distributing a larger percentage of their net income.

PERMITS GRANTED FOR TWO NEW COTTAGE HOUSES IN THE CITY

Permits for two new dwelling houses to be built in the city were granted to George Lambert, Jr., by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft during the past week. These houses to be built are of the cottage type and are to be finished in clapboards and composition shingles. One house will be built on Fanning avenue and the other on Lambert parkway.

Besides the permits for the dwelling houses are four other permits for the week, one for a garage and the remainder for alterations to present buildings. These permits bring the number of permits up to 13 for the week. The expense of the new building as placed by the owners is $8,150.

The permits were as follows:

To George Lambert, to erect a six-room frame cottage on Fanning avenue for himself. The house will be 24x24 feet with a sunporch 8x12 feet. The foundation will be of stone and the superstructure of frame. The exterior will be finished in clapboards with non-combustible shingles on the roof. The interior will be finished in hardwood and hard plaster. The cottage will be heated by a pipeless furnace. The estimated cost is $3,500.

To George Lambert, Jr., to erect a frame cottage house on Lambert parkway for himself. The cottage will be 16x26 feet with a porch, 24x8 feet. The foundation will be of stone with the superstructure of frame construction. The exterior finish of the house will be in clapboards and composition shingles. The interior will be in hardwood, floors and trim, and hard finish plaster walls. There will be six rooms and bath. The house will be heated with a pipeless furnace. The estimated cost is $3,500.

To Miss Helen B. Moore to erect a frame two-car garage on Spruce street. The garage will be 18x19 feet with cement foundation and floor. The estimated cost is $400. D. Hanna has the contract.

To Frank Falcone to build an addition to the present house at 192 Cliff street. The addition will be of frame construction and will be 6x11 feet increasing the size of one room and another addition 5 1-2x14 feet on another side to increase the size of the kitchen. The estimated cost is $200.

To Louis Nelkin to make alterations to the present house at 298 Central avenue. The floors of the house will all be relaid with two new colonades. The floors will all be of hardwood. Two porches, one in the front and the other in the rear of the house, will be built. The front porch will be 6x26 feet while the rear will be 5x14 feet. The estimated cost of the construction will be $350.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to build for Mrs. Emma Welte a tunnel connecting 248 Main street with 11 Franklin street. The tunnel will be 4x16 feet with sidewalls of concrete and brick. There will be a rood roof covered with composition paper. The estimated cost is $200.

Contractors Peck-McWilliams Co. are making rapid progress on the Norwich Inn and if this speed is continued it is expected that the Inn will be finished about the middle of May. The rooms on the third floor are practically completed with the exception of the electrical fixtures. On the second floor the hardwood floors are all in. On the first floor the main dining room, grill room, lounging room and porticos are well along. The beamed ceiling in the main parlor is being put up. A large hand-hewn beam runs through the center of the room with smaller beams running across the room. The heating plant is all in and one of the furnaces is in operation.

Work is well advanced on the parish house in Yantic for Grace Episcopal church. The new building is of the same general type of architecture as the church and is two stories high and 35x70 feet. Peck-McWilliams Co. have the contract.

Good progress has been made on buildings now in the process of construction. Several of the buildings have been brought to the completion stage and with continued good building weather a marked increase in building activity is expected.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were seven sales of real estate in Norwich, two less than during the same week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $41,362 and $23,100.

In New London the sales of real estate during the past week numbered three as compared to nine sales for the corresponding week in a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $56,400 and $123,878.

NEW LONDON

Building activities in the city went forward with renewed vigor during the past week as contractors were favored with excellent weather conditions and the danger of losses from freezing was minimized.

In several instances contractors took advantage of the weather to finish up plastering jobs and active work on masonry jobs was noted in several instances where delay has been experienced because of poor weather conditions.

Peter Fournier has aplied to Building Inspector Gunn for permission to erect an addition to his house at 23 Fitch avenue. Plans for the proposed enlargement show it to be for a pantry in the rear of the property and that the work will include the installation of one electrical socket and one plug receptacle and a new sink. The addition will be of frame construction, one story high.

The Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. has begun work on the job of reconstructing the rest of the lighthouse department wharf in the rear of the customs house in Bank street. Work was completed several weeks ago by the Scott company on the reconstruction of a large part of the old wharf, the outer part being left until now. The work provides that new piles be driven all the way through and the top finished with a concrete covering six inches thick laid over heavy timbers.

Favorable progress is being made by the Oliver Woodworth Co. on an extensive contract by which one house is to be remodeled, another moved about 400 feet to a new location and another which has been moved piece by piece from Woodstock and set up again on the old Rogers estate in Waterford for Nathaniel Holmes, 2nd, of Washington, D. C. At present the house to undergo alterations has been extensively altered already and many of the ugly architectural lines removed and work started refinishing the house. The contract also provides for the installation of new roadways for which the foundation has already been laid in several places on the estate.

BUILDING PERMITS

Ricardo Canestrari, frame dwelling, Lewis street, $4,200.

Henry Appleton, frame dwelling, Park avenue, $3,500.

H. A. Young et ux, frame dwelling, 70 Friendship street, $6,000; garage, $600.

Joseph Piscitello, addition, 13 Jefferson avenue, $2,000.

Luciano Lombardi et ux, alterations, 33 Elm street, $300.

Frank O'Connor et al, frame garage, rear of Parkway, $250.

Mrs. Mary E. Dorsey, frame alterations, 109 Truman street, $200.

NOANK

Work has been started on the construction of a bungalow being built for Sidney A. Wood on Prospect hill, Noank. The structure is to be designed after the California bungalow type and will contain in addition to the living quarters an office for the owner and a drug store on the lower floor.

WILLIMANTIC

Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Case will receive bids until April 15, at 7 p. m., for alterations to the Windham high school building. The work will consist of second floor changes which will provide additional study room space. William B. Sweeney is chairman of the sub-committee on properties of the town school committee.

ROCKVILLE

Plans are being completed for the development of the former Prescott farm at Snipsic Lake. The property, which is now owned by Edward Helm, will be divided into 250 building lots.

ADVICE GIVEN ON USE OF LUMBER FOR MOLD

Forms or molds are the receptacles in which concrete is placed so that it will have the desired shape or outlines when hardened. Forms are usually built of wood. Where a very regular and even surface finish is required, planed lumber should be used. Well seasoned, air dried lumber is best, as green lumber will shrink if not kept wet, thus opening cracks in the forms through which water carrying cement will leak when the concrete is placed.

It is best to use lumber that has been dressed at least on one side and on the edges, because the boards will fit closely together and the planed surface next to the concrete will reduce the labor of removing and cleaning forms. Tongued and grooved lumber is often used for form sheathing, and is recommended for tight forms. Form lumber should be uniform in thickness, as any inequalities of thickness cause unevenness on the concrete surface.

COLOR IN THE HOME MUCH IN DEMAND

In the last twenty years the American public has changed completely its attitude toward color in the home. Twenty years ago one of the largest manufacturers of plumbing equipment put some colored plumbing fixtures on the market. They wouldn't sell. The public wasn't ready for color. Today this company and other companies making colored enameled ware and vitreous china pottery report an increase of 200 per cent. in the sales of colored fixtures in 1929 over 1928.

The most popular colors for bathroom fixtures and kitchen sinks are green, lavender, orchid, ivory, and rown. Artists explain the popularity of green by pointing to the fact that it is a cool color.

Color is vitreous china and enamel is obtained by the use of metallic pigments. It has required centuries and endless experiments to find pigments that would withstand the heat of 2,200 degrees in the firing of vitreous china and the somewhat lesser heat necessary for the baking of porcelain enamel on cast iron.

These pigments change color completely in the firing. Furthermore, the firing of the china and the fusing of the enamel on iron are accomplished by different processes. This makes it difficult, but not impossible for manufacturers to obtain the same shade of color in the bath, which is enameled, as in the water-closet which must be vitreous china, or in the lavatory, which may be either vitreous china or enamel.

Because of this difficulty in matchin colors in fixtures made by different processes, most plumbing contractors will advise the home-owner that all of the colored fixtures he selects for his home should be made by the same manufacturer. It is now possible to buy a complete bathroom ensemble, consisting of a built-in tub, a vitreous china lavatory, a dressing table, a syphon jet closet, a dental lavatory, towel bars, and recessed soap dishes—all with perfectly matching colors.

While a large bathroom may permit the use of contrasting colors, in a small bathroom, good taste would dictate that all fixtures be of the same color. Sometimes lights will create the effect of unmatched fixtures. For instance, there is usually a strong light over the lavatory and a weak light near the tub. While discrepancies in lighting may cause an apparent difference in color values, an ideal lighting system would show a perfect matching of colors.

SLATE FLAGGINGS FOR OUTSIDE USE

What is more natural than to have a floor of stone for that outdoor terrace or porch? Nature's own handiwork has produced a material which will blend into your architectural scheme, whatever its nature, and at the same time will give you a floor which will endure the burning heat of the summer sun as well as the ravages of the winter storms without disappointing failure.

Slate flagging may be incorporated into outdoor floors which embody color, design, texture and good taste in every installation. By a careful selection of slate and correct combination of beautiful colors in contrast with the rich background of Pennsylvania blue-gray many home owners have secured a result far exceeding their dreams. The floor may be irregular in design, with slate of miscellaneous shape and size to give a pleasing texture and a rich combination of colors in terrace or walk adjoining the house in the English mode. For the formal colonial or Georgian styles the terrace may extend across the front or at the side with rectangular slates of random sizes embodying every characteristic of dignity and good taste.

Slate for flagging of this nature should be from one to three inches in thickness with one smooth surface which may be laid up as part of the floor area. Irregularities in thickness are taken up in the mortar bed in which the flagging is always laid, if over a concrete base. In certain instances, as in the case of stepping stone walks, where grass joints may be desirable, the slate flagging if large enough in size may be laid directly in the earth. Such an installation is less satisfactory and not so permanent when the action of frost ets to heaving from underneath, as the concrete base.

BASEMENT SPACE NO LONGER WASTE

The man who is handy with tools and enjoys working about the house will perhaps find the basement of his home an ideal place to satisfy this desire and at the same time increase the livable portion of his home greatly. There are so many things that can be done with little expense on the part of the home owner that to try to enumerate them here would be quite impossible.

Providing play space for children will undoubtedly be appreciated by all the older members of the family for in a play room of their own, children can have their toys spread all about and make as much noise as the game requires without being threatened by sisters and brothers who want to read or listen to the radio.

Prospects of having a den will most certainly please the male member of the family for it means a place where they can install a billiard table and during exciting moments of play drop cigarette and cigar ashes on the cement or tile floor without fear of the consequences.

Of course provisions must be made for adequate lighting and ventilation. If the basement is damp and wet the walls and floors should be treated with a waterproofing compound. Should one wish to do so the walls and ceiling might be covered with a wallboard of asbestos-cement composition that has a colored tile-like surface.

Part of this space might be partitioned off and made into a workshop. Here a work bench with fitted compartments below for the storage of tools might well be installed. An electrically driven band saw might be placed in this room and used for making small pieces of furniture or children's toys. Indeed the home owner who desires to add to the value of his home and its comforts will do well to extend his thinking to the basement.

USE WAX SPARINGLY

Do not use too much wax when polishing floors; a little goes a long way. Too much wax makes the floor slippery and collects dust.

BOND MARKET

little but hold their recent gains, although buying orders for issues that had been quiet in the last few sessions found a much stronger market. Several of the high grade rails moved up a point or more, among them Illinois Central first 4s, Nickel Plate 4 1-2s, Union Pacific 4 1-2s and first 4s, and New York Central (Lake Shore) collateral 3 1-2s. Other strong carrier liens included Atchison adjustment 4s, Illinois Central collateral 4s, New Orleans Texas & Mexico "C" 5s, Pennsylvania 4 3-4s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1-2s, and Southern Railway general 4s.

Oil company bonds were prominent in the day's dealings. The Sinclair listings, Skelly 5 1-2s, Shell Union 5s, Transcontinental 6 1-2s, Warner Quinlan 6s and Pan-American Petroleum convertible 6s of 1934 reflected the strength of the oil stocks by scoring a general advance. Pure oil 5 1-2s sagged on reports of new bond financing.

Chile Copper, 5s, International Mercantile Marine 6s, Lorillard 5 1-2s, United States Rubber 5s, Wilson Co. first 6s and the International Paper issues were among the firmer industrials. Bonds of the latter company were strong, the 5s soaring 4 points and the 6s advancing 1 1-2, both to new highs. Most of the amusement company bonds closed higher.

Utilities held up well. American Telephone 5s of 1965, Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s, International Telephone 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and North American Edison 5s attracted most of the attention.

Convertibles made a strong finish after early heaviness. American Telephone 4 1-2s gained 1 1-2 net, Atchison 4 1-2s rose 1 1-4 and American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s closed at 105 1-2, up 1.

A few of the United States governments went to new tops. Buying centered in the Fourth Liberties, the Treasury 4s and the Treasury 3 3-8s.

German and South American bonds were again strong, and many gains of 1 to 3 points developed, especially in the issues offering liberal yields. New highs were too numerous to mention.

New bond offerings appearing tomorrow include a $14,000,000 issue of Pere Marquette railway first mortgage 50-year 4 1-2s at 97. There are reports that the new natural gas holding company to be formed by United Gas and Electric Power and Light is to finance through a $85,000,000 bond issue.

Today's $15,000,000 offering of Wabash General Mortgage 5s at 100 1-2 was promptly oversubscribed.

NEW DUPLEX HOUSE ON ASYLUM STREET

The above is a picture of the large duplex house built by Homer J. Monty, contractor, at the corner of Newton and Asylum streets. The house is of frame construction with stone foundation and cellar. There are two large porches on the front of the house with two porches in the rear. The first story is finished in clapboards and the second story in stained shingles. The roof is covered with composition shingles.

The interior is very attractively and conveniently arranged with plenty of space for closets and built-in features. The finish is in hardwood, the floors being of oak and the trim of hardwood. The walls are finished in hard plaster. The baths are in tile with white fixtures. The house is one of the most attractive in a number of houses built by Mr. Monty and is erected by him for an investment.

ARRANGE KITCHEN FOR EFFICIENCY

Food should move in only one direction from the time it enters the kitchen until it is ready to serve, Miss Myra Jane Robinson of the New York State College of Home Economics contends. The most satisfactory direction is from left to right. Since the stove probably is the most permanent and important part of the equipment, it is most convenient to place it near the dining room door. Then food may be removed from the stove and taken to the dining room with the minimum of steps.

Studies made of work in kitchens show that more trips are made between the sink and the stove than between any other pieces of equipment in the kitchen so these should be placed near together. A suggested arrangement is to have the sink at the left of the stove with a drainboard and perhaps a small table between. More work is done at the sink than any other place, and if it is done effectively, the commonly-used utensils should be placed within easy reaching distance of the worker.

The working space should be a part of this group since foods that have been mixed usually go to the stove to be coked and the utensils and equipment to the sink to be washed. The materials to be mixed and the equipment to be used should be stored above and below the working space. Since many supplies are stored in the refrigerator, it should be placed to the left of the mixing surface.

COPPER RANGE HOOD CARRIES OFF HEAT, ODORS

Housewifes often complain of having little desire to eat the food they prepare, not realizing perhaps that an elusive appetite is easily dulled by constant inhaling of the odors of food while the meals are being prepared at the kitchen range. A copper hood over the range connecting with a vent to carry off odors can do much toward restoring to the one who cooks the food the pleasure of satisfying a lively hunger.

A flue usually three or four inches in diameter at the top of the hood pierces the wall. Through this pass the heat and odors arising from the stove. They are drawn up inside the partition and escape through the roof. Being of copper, the hood is proof against corrosion by steam, and it also protects the wall and ceiling from discoloration. In color like a bright new penny, it lends an unusual note of brightness to the domain of woman.

MODERN AIR CONDITIONING

Buildings of the future, houses and apartments as well as office buildings, schools and theaters, will be made comfortable in winter and summer alike, irrespective of outdoor weather conditions, was the prediction made by speakers at the First International Heating and Ventilating exposition at Philadelphia. The same grills which now conceal the radiators will also be used to conceal the air-cooling units, it was said by speakers.

The average farm woman lives seven miles from a doctor and eighteen miles from a hospital, according to a recent investigation.

COMMON BRICK IS STILL POPULAR

Nowadays most home builders are all the prouder if they can have their new homes give an appearance of age. Fashions in homes are veering around to the old fashioned types of architecture where the possibilities are greatest for the humoring of this fancy. Some common brick manufacturers, especially those of New England district, have built up tremendous and widespread demands for their product largely because of its peculiar aptness for producing just that effect.

The Harvard water struck brick is a favorite throughout all New England. It has been used for years. Many of the most beautiful of the Harvard university group of buildings are built of this particular brick. The cities of the East are dotted with scores of semi-public and commercial structures built of it. And for residence construction it stands second to none other in public favor. Properly handled this brick after a few months in the wall can be made to look as if it has been there a half century. It is a so-called common brick.

Nearly every section of the country has its distinctive type of common brick. Seldom two sections produce anything even approaching each other in general character. Chicago, for instance, makes by the millions a common brick which is fast taking predominance over any other bricks in the market for home building. It is distinctive in color and character. Hundreds of fine homes have been built of them in the suburban developments about the city.

Clay is plentiful throughout the United States. There will never be a clay shortage uniformity in quality however, so prevalent nor is that same uniformity of quality in the brick produced a ruling condition. Bricks vary with the clays but for the most part they are all sufficiently good to make a house of which any man may be proud. And folks are coming more and more to using common sense and building with common brick.

BASEMENT LAUNDRY MAY BE WELL LIGHTED

Basement laundries, once such dank, dark workshops for the housewife, are made bright and airy by the installation of steel basement windows. This equipment adds to the architectural beauty of the exterior as well as improving sanitary conditions on the interior. In consequence they have become real necessities in the modern home.

Made of a single, continuous piece of rust-resisting steel, these basement windows may be installed in any type wall, whether it be brick, masonry or frame. Double contact weathering between ventilator and frame members assures weather-tightness. Swinging into the room from hinges at the top, the ventilator may be hooked to the ceiling or removed altogether when opened to a 90 degree angle, making for ease in cleaning. Safe locking and tight contact is insured by a cam acting latch.

An especially designed hinge welded solidly to the frame holds glass firmly and, when closed, prevents rattling. Steel basement windows are procurable in four standard sizes, glass measurements ranging from 10 by 12 inches to 13 by 18 inches. These will fit any wall and may be used throughout the basement—in recreation room, boiler room, fuel room or workshop. Through their installation the cellar becomes a livable, attractive part of the home.

GOOD LIGHTING ESSENTIAL TO HOME CONVENIENCE

Good lighting in the home is especially important during winter months as it aids the comfort and health of the family and adds to the household decoration, acording to the New York State College of Home Economics. The test of good lighting is the degree of eye comfort obtained.

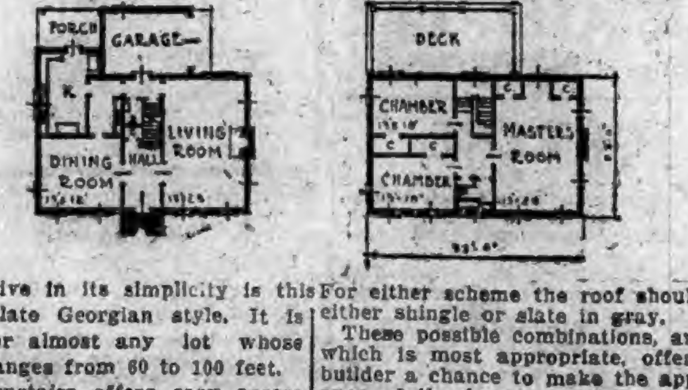
Artificial lights in the home should be arranged to conceal the source of light. This may be accomplished by indirect light shades large enough to cover the bulb and protect the eye fro mthe glare. In the selection of lighting fixtures the first consideration is the efficiency of the fixture as a lighting unit. But the design of the fixtures should also be considered. Very often they are too elaborate for the rest of the furnishings. As a rule simplicity is the keynote of good fixture design.

The best lighting arrangements are planned to suit the purposes they are to serve. For special work, such as cooking, white light generally diffused about the room to prevent shadows is recommended. To use only bright light for reading or sewing, may strain the eyes by the contrast between the bright spot and the surrounding darkness. Two lights, one concentrated and one for general illumination, are best.

Lights should be suited to the different parts of the house. In the entrance hall an overhead fixture or a portable lamp by a mirror is most suitable. Because the living room is used for varied activities requiring both bright and restful light, overhead and low lights are useful. In the dining room where the table is the center of interest, a center light directed on the table, but adjusted to protect the eyes of persons seated, is most important.

Useful lights for the bedroom may be bedside lamps, convenient to reach from the bed and easy to read by, and lamps in dressing tables or wall lamps beside mirrors. To give the clearest reflection the arrangement should be such that the light falls on the user rather than on the mirror.

SIMPLICITY RULES IN THIS SMALL HOUSE



Distinctive in its simplicity is this house of late Georgian style. It is suitable for almost any lot whose frontage ranges from 60 to 100 feet.

The downstairs offers easy access to all three rooms, with a spacious living room occupying all of the one side. A porch is located conveniently just off the kitchen, while the garage is entered from the rear hall.

Cross-ventilation is arranged for each of the three upstairs rooms, which include a large master's room. There is abundant closet space for a small family.

The exterior design is best carried out in cement blocks painted white, or in common brick painted white. For either scheme the roof should be either shingle or slate in gray.

These possible combinations, any of which is most appropriate, offer the builder a chance to make the appearance of the house conform to his tastes.

A monotonous roof is avoided by a chimney at each end. There is an exceptionally large amount of window space throughout, making for a light, cheery interior.

In communities of average size this house may be built for $10,000 or $12,000, depending largely on materials selected and labor costs. In smaller communities, however, it possibly could be constructed for a maximum of $10,000.

POETRY

I Knew By The Smoke That So Gracefully Curled

I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled
Above the green elms that cottage was near,
And I said, "If there's peace to be found in the world,
A heart that is humble might hope for it here!"

It was noon, and on flowers that languished around
In silence reposed the voluptuous bee;
Every leaf was at rest, and I heard not a sound
But the woodpecker tapping the hollow beech tree.

And, "Here in this lone little wood," I exclaimed,
"With a maid who was lovely to soul and to eye,
Who would blush when I praised her and weep if I blamed,
How blest could I live, and how calm could I die!

"By the shade of yon sumach, whose red berry dips
In the gush of the fountain, how sweet to recline,
And to know that I sigh upon innocent lips
Which had never been sighed on by any but mine."

—Thomas Moore (1779-1852).

Hankerin'

I'm hankerin'—
Hankerin' 'about this time o' year—
Hankerin' when all outside is drear—
Hankerin' t' git out my old hoe—
Hankerin' for beanvines in a row—
Hankerin' ter drop them onion seeds—
Hankerin's to dig them ugly weeds—
Hankerin' that garden plot to scrape—
Hankerin' ter get it into shape.

I'm hankerin'—
Hankerin's ter hitch my horse and plow—
Hankerin' — always hanker so 'bout now—
Hankerin' t' get my harrer out—
Hankerin'—job ain't done jest right without,
Hankerin' t' plant my early peas—
Hankerin'—chance it, they won't freeze—
Hankerin' t' git my cabbage in—
Hankerin' them early beets ter thin.

I'm hankerin'—
Hankerin' t' see them blackbirds fly—
Hankerin' every time the plow goes by—
Hankerin' t' see how they perform—
Hankerin' t' see one catch a worm.
Hankerin' t' feel that April breeze—
Hankerin' fer all your feelings tease—
Hankerin' fer bugs that fly and sing—
Hankerin' fer gardenin' and Spring.

I'm hankerin'—
Hankerin' t' see them p'taters sprout—
Hankerin' t' see them all come out—
Hankerin' t' see them stalks o' corn—
Hankerin' have sence I was born.
Hankerin' f' that first mess o' beans—
Hankerin' — you know what hankerin' means—
Hankeirn's—every other kind can pass—
Hankerin' — I'm hankerin' for garden sass.

A little Portland girl was taken to Sunday school for the first time and when she got home her parents asked here what she did there.

"Well," she said, "we all folded our hands and we said 'Our father who art in Heaven, Harold Lloyd be thy name.'"—Portland Express.

There is a story that while Mr. Taft as chief justice was walking to his office he was passed by a mother and her little daughter. The mother whispered to the child:

"That's Chief Justice Taft. Once he was the president."

Not long afterward the two chanced to meet the chief justice again. The little girl dropped her glove and Mr. Taft gallantly picked it up and handed it to her.

"Do you remember who that is?" the mother asked the child.

"Yes," she said after looking him over; "you used to be Mr. Coolidge."—I. F.

Schoolboys and their books were added to the perils of city transportation when a home work notebook caused a thirty-minute tieup during a Brooklyn (N. Y.) rush hour. Harold Saunders, on his way to school, was on the back platform of a car. Three of his books slipped from him. His home work notebook fell behind the control box. When he tried to get it, his arm wedged in and it was thirty minutes before axle grease, applied by the police rescue squad, got him free.

Baker by trade and practice, but also somewhat of an artist is Louis Dotta, of Providence, R. I. He completed a wedding cake weighing 175 pounds, covered with white frosting with all sorts of goodies underneath. It stands fifty-eight inches high. Electric lights inside the little patio at the bottom of he cake, together with miniature bride and bridegroom, enhance its attractiveness. The entire cake, with the exception of the electric lights and the small figures, is edible.
